BASE WARS. IT GIVES NEW MEANING TO SLUG FEST.

In the 24th Century, baseball legends are made, not born. Because this is Ultra's® Cyber Stadium Series—Base Wars™ for your NES™. And baseball's high priced heroes have been replaced with hulking mechanical he-men resembling humans, half-ton tanks and unidentified fielding objects. And they're programmed to pound, punch and blast it out for base possession.

Fortunately, you can cash in your Cyber League winnings for parts, repairs and a wild assortment of metal shearing weapons. And if the battles get too brutal, just save the teams and stats for another day.

So choose your bionic ball clubs, set the robot rosters, and go circuit to circuit in single games or a tortuous 10 game pennant chase. See if you can survive America's favorite bashtime.

"HE'S GOT A CANNON FOR AN ARM"

- Control the speed, direction and path of every pitch, including the flashy Ultra-Fastball.

- Strategically adjust the pitcher's and batter's position.

ALL THE SIGHTS, SOUNDS AND STRATEGY OF BASEBALL

- It's all here — pitching, hitting, fielding, running, and catching. Just be sure to duck when the shrapnel flies.
- Awesome selection of music and super sound effects. You'll feel like you're right inside Cyber Stadium.

TAKE ME OUT AT THE BRAWL GAME

- Getting around the bases is brutal because if you want one you'll have to fight for it. No force outs!
- Beat, cut, thrust, kick, jump and spin to attack.
- Engage the special combination fight sequence.
- If your all important Hit Points reaches zero your cyborg will explode in a cloud of nuts and bolts. Three blown cyborgs and you're out.

SHOP TILL YOU DROP A BUNDLE

- Rexy the Riveter will wait on you in the Parts Shop.
- Use your Cyber League cash winnings to buy parts, repairs and weapons.
- Choose from 22 different protective and offensive items including iron gloves, hyper engines, laser swords and more.

UP-TO-DATE DATA AT YOUR FINGER TIPS

- Review any robot's current equipment.
- Four different models of mechanical maulers, each with specialized circuitry for playing a specific position.

YOUR TEAMS ARE AT YOUR COMMAND

- Name your own teams and robots, set the line-up, assign field positions, even determine which robots are right handers and southpaws.

- Challenge a friend or take on the NES itself.
- Battery back-up lets you save all the teams and key stats.

We're Only Two Years Old!

By the GamePros

Welcome to GamePro's Second Anniversary issue! That's right, the big 0-2! We first started pounding on our keyboards and our control pads to bring you GamePro magazine in 1989. It's been fun so far, but now it's time for a change. So, flip through this issue of GamePro and scope out our new look!

We're revamping GamePro in direct response to your requests for more product coverage. And we all know there are more games and game systems on the way!

That's right. Despite the current doldrums in the industry caused in part by the economic times and the impending introduction of the Nintendo 16-bit system, video games aren't disappearing into the sunset, they're just getting better!

Are 8-bit systems becoming obsolete? No way, Jose. You saw how Battletoads pushed the boundaries of 8-bit programming and game design in our last issue, now take a look at three rock-solid games: Konami's Lone Ranger, American Sammy's V.I.C.E., and Bandai's The Rocketeer this issue. Is the NES merely an outstanding game system? We aren't so sure any more since we took a drawing lesson with Videomation by T.H.Q. in The Cutting Edge. Carts like those will keep NES owners pumped up, and now Master System die-hards have Strider (the "real" Strider, Nintendo-ites) hot from the arcades for their 8-bit hardware.

What's up for handhelds, Doc? Bugs Bunny Crazy Castle II (Kemco-Seika) for the Game Boy looks good. And, if you plan to add some color to your life, the Atari Lynx has some excellent games soon-to-be-released. See our reviews of Warbirds and Crystal Mines II. And we've got our first Game Gear Pro Review, an intricate sword and sorcery game, Dragon Crystal, from Sega.

The 16-bit battle is heating up and Nintendo hasn't even made its play yet. Even as the Big N prepares to stake a claim on the Genesis turf, Sega's leaping to new heights with the eye-popping Sonic the Hedgehog, and Accolade's producing excellent Genesis games such as Star Control under its new Ballistic label. Since these two great carts aren't all the Genesis has up its sleeve, we've got an end-of-the-year preview guide in this issue, which should make every Genesis jockey's thumbs twitch.

You TurboGrafx-16 Faithful wondering where all the new TurboChips have gone? NEC scores big with TV Sports Basketball, a great hoops simulation game!

We're hyped about the future of video gaming, GamePro; there's more stuff out there than we have pages in the mag. We're trying different ways to fit it all in over the next few issues, so let us know what you think. As always, your feedback is important to GamePro.

Well, how do you like us so far? (Okay, sharp-eyed Pros, did you notice we refer to our game reviews as "Pro Reviews" and not "ProViews" as we normally do? There's a reason. More about that next issue!)

Graphics: Judges the cart's pix, animation, and artistic design; Sound: Hot = Turn up the volume! Poor = Noise pollution; Gameplay: Rates how smoothly the game's command interface and controller functions translate into onscreen action and fun; FunFactor: Here's the bottom line: Is it fun? Challenge: Rates the computer's smarts and game skills, but remember a low rating here isn't necessarily bad and vice versa. See Graphics, Sound, Gameplay, and especially FunFactor.

Waiting for the 16-bit NES

A while back GamePro asked for comments on the new 16-bit Nintendo, so here's my two-cents worth. I think Nintendo is very smart in bringing a 16-bit system to the U.S. With the advanced graphics, sound, and playability, it's sure to be fantastic. I've already saved $200 for the system, and I'll buy one the second it gets here.

I'm sure that Nintendo and its licensees will continue to make an abundance of 8-bit games to please people that own a regular NES. But at the same time, people that want the advanced technology from Nintendo can have it. The only thing that worries me are the prices of 16-bit Nintendo games. I hope they aren't outrageously high. Once games get past the $60 mark, I'm more reluctant to buy them unless they're very, very good. Frankly, I can't wait for the system to arrive!

Craig Majaski, Royalton, MN

When the "Super NES" arrives will you add it to your ProView sections? I want to keep up with the new releases for what will be the biggest-selling video game system ever – at least that's what I think. Also, will you continue to show us games for the Super Famicom in Japan in Overseas ProSpects?

Ray Smith, Livermore, KY

(Absolutely! We plan to give the new 16-bit Nintendo plenty of coverage when it makes its American debut next Fall. As for the Super Famicom, yes, we will definitely continue tapping into the Japanese scene to bring you info on the latest and greatest titles from overseas – Ed.)

Four-player Turtles for the Genesis?

In the April issue of GamePro you mentioned that Nintendo dropped their exclusivity clause. Would this make it possible for Konami to make Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles: The Arcade Game for the Genesis using a four player, simultaneous thing-a-ma-bob like the Nintendo Satellite?

Mike Aparicio, Evanston, IL

(That's an exciting idea! Our Konami connections won't confirm that this may happen, but they're not denying it either. We'll keep you posted when we get the final word. – Ed.)

A ProChallenge Proponent

I'm writing about the ProChallenge Board. It hasn't been in the past three or four issues. Are you putting it back in? I enjoy trying to beat the scores.

Shaun Reynolds, Columbus Junction, IA

(You're not alone, Shaun. Many of our readers are wondering why the ProChallenge Board keeps disappearing. Here's the scoop. There are lots of hot titles and systems on the market and because we want to cover as much as we can about all of them, sometimes we borrow the ProChallenge pages and use them for additional coverage on something else. To save you any further concern and confusion, we've decided to give the ProChallenge Board a permanent home in our special S.W.A.T. issues which will appear several times each year. Keep your eyes peeled for S.W.A.T. specials and, more importantly, keep those high scores coming! – Ed.)

Who Made the Team?

In your January '91 issue you invited the GamePro readers to write in and join the GamePro Team. Well, what happened?! I wrote to you guys over two months ago and I haven't seen or heard a thing since! Did you choose the team yet? Did I make the cut? What's going on, I'm dying to know!

Garrett Kenna, San Francisco, CA

(Hang in there, Garrett. We received so many awesome applications to join the GamePro team, it took us several months to go through them all – Whew! It's been rough, but we've finally managed to make our team selection, and we're going to share the results with our readers in our upcoming July '91 issue. Good luck! – Ed.)

Game Genie and Super Famicom S.W.A.T.

I think your mag is the best in the market. You have everything from tons of ProViews to Hot at the Arcades. Just one suggestion, how about an extra S.W.A.T. page in every (or every other) issue for the few people who own the Game Genie and the Super Famicom. I know there must be tricks and codes for Super Mario Bros. 2 and 3. So, how about it?

Jason Wong, Lynbrook, NY

(By the time this issue hits the shelves, the folks at Nintendo and Galoob Toys, the makers of the Game Genie, will have completed their court battle. Though we can't say for sure, should Galoob emerge victorious, GamePro will definitely consider publishing Genie codes. (After all, we use ours whenever we can.) As for the Super Famicom, well, it's simply a matter of time. Once the system hits the market and we get our hands on some Famicom codes, rest assured, they'll start cropping up in the S.W.A.T. section. – Ed.)

Multi-game Carts?

I have heard rumors from my friends about NES cartridges that let you play 32, 52, and 92 games. Is there such a thing, and if there is, where can I get one?

Eric Lopez, The Bronx, NY

(Yes, these multi-game carts do exist, though the ones that are here are all illegal imports from overseas. The first legal multi-game cart, the "Gold Plus/Quattro," with four 512K games will be produced by Camerica (see ProNews Report May '91) and will be released within the next 12 months. – Ed.)

An Overseas Pro Reports

On Veneto Street, near the U.S. embassy, there's a shop that specializes in foreign magazines; they usually have American computer mags but nothing about video games! Two weeks ago, to my great surprise, I found the January issue of GamePro. I really think your mag is amazing, every page is colorful and the rating system is a good idea. Thanks!

Magdy Reda, Rome, Italy

(Grazie (thanks) – It's nice to hear that GamePro's pleasing gamers all over the world! – Ed.)

Videomation for Nintendo Artists

Tired of destroying, pillaging, and wasting vast video vistas? Videomation is a cart, fresh from THQ, that enables you to create beautiful art and graphics with the NES. What a concept! Just plug in the Videomation cart and use the regular control pad to draw, design, sketch, shape, color, and even animate.

NES art!

Cool Tools

Videomation provides you with 8 simple drawing tools – Arrow, Pencil, Line, Square, Circle, Eraser, Paint Bucket. The Arrow Tool enables you to draw anything, lines or curves, freehand. The Pencil draws straight lines. The Line Tool automatically draws lines between two points on the the screen. With the Square Tool you can create squares and rectangles and pull them out to any size you want. For circles and ellipses use the Circle Tool. Like the Square Tool, the Circle enables you to “stretch” images to make them larger. The Eraser is just that, and you’ll probably use it alot. If you haven’t already figured out that you can use all these great tools together to create just about any image you want, you aren’t an artist – yet.

When your picture is ready for a splash of color pull out the Paint Bucket. There are 13 color palettes to choose from, with 10 colors in every palette. Each palette consists of 4 solid colors and 6 patterns. Some have colors that cycle, that is, they produce special visual effects by automatically flowing through a range of colors or blinking on and off.

Want more? There are 36 stamps, predrawn images that include the letters of the alphabet and numbers. That way you can make a holiday greeting card or sign your name and a date to a drawing.

If you really want to make your pix move, there are 8 animated objects including a bird, a plane, a kid in a car, and a girl with a jump rope. You can make them move in preset patterns such as an oval or back and forth across the screen. You can also trace a path with the cursor and they’ll follow it.

How do you save your art work for posterity? Video tape and a VCR!

It's a Masterpiece

It will take time to master Videomation’s controller-based drawing technique and the paint palettes seem a little odd at first, but once you start drawing pictures on-screen you may become an art lover in no time. Can a 16-bit paint program be far behind? Not too, says THQ!

Have a seat with the Simulator 1.

Have Seat, Will Travel

Are your arms getting a little muscle bound, fellow gamers? Here are a couple of controllers that give your whole body a work out.

Power 10 Hot Seat

If not for the game controller on one of the armrests, the Hot Seat from Power 10 could pass for just another piece of high-tech, mod furniture. This cushy controller seat for the NES pivots around on a solid circular base. The game controls are located in a slick-looking, one-handed controller, which is anchored to the chair’s armrest on the right side. You get thumb and finger triggers, which both have turbo fire. A dual LED trigger indicator jazzes up the action a little.

The Simulator 1

The folks at Simulator Technology say using the Simulator 1 is “like sitting on a joystick,” and that’s not as funny as it sounds. This one suspends you totally off the ground! You hang on to two control handles, which house all the fire buttons, on either side of the seat, and slide your feet onto a special footrest. There are four heavy-duty snap-action microswitches built into the base connected to a solid rubber suspension system. The NES version retails for $189 and Genesis and TurboGrafx-16 versions are due out this summer. A Simulator 1 for the 16-bit NES? You bet.

Acemore Pads Its Future

The Look-Ma-No-Wires Crew at Acemore is at it again. They were the first to put together wireless controllers for the Sega Genesis and the TurboGrafx-16 (see "You're in Control," GamePro, December 1990). Now they're poised to jump out there for the 16-bit NES. The Acemore Freedom Joypad package includes one wireless controller and an infrared receiving unit. The control pad packs the same set of controls as the standard 16-bit NES control pad, but has rapid fire, too. It looks something like a regular Genesis controller, and in fact Acemore has Genesis and TurboGrafx-16 versions coming too. Okay, that's the basics. Now get this. On the drawing boards is another Freedom Joypad that can be used with 8-bit AND 16-bit NES systems! Stay tuned.

THE ADVENTURES OF GAMEPRO

Chapter 20: EARTHBOUND! Part 1

Alex West, an extraordinary videogamer, has been suddenly transported off Earth and into the Video Dimension by the wizard Zardoth. Although existing on a separate plane of existence, the Video Dimension shares an electromagnetic bond with Earth, for in this dimension all the worlds and creatures of video games are a reality! Zardoth seeks Alex's exceptional video gaming skills to defeat the menace of the Evil Darklings – a cruel shape-changing race that has overwhelmed the Video Dimension, and is intent upon finding a way to launch a full-scale invasion of Earth! Alex's only hope of returning to Earth is to enter various video game worlds and seek out and destroy the Evil Darklings influence within. To aid Alex's mission, Zardoth has magically bestowed upon him the uniform and powers of GAMEPRO – the ultimate video gaming champion!

Writer/Artist: Francis Mao Art Director/Co-plotter: Michael Kavish

PREVIOUSLY: GamePro was searching for Evil Darklings in the world of Bonk's Adventure when Zardoth alerted him to a terrible turn of events! In another part of the Video Dimension, the Evil Darklings had located an "interdimensional hole" which was created when Zardoth first snatched Alex into the Video Dimension! At the other end of the hole, was the TV set in Alex's apartment through which he was transported. The Evil Darklings had constructed their own interdimensional transporter and successfully teleported on Earth. Stalker will initiate the Evil Darklings sinister plans to conquer Earth! Helpless, GamePro could only stand and stare at the alien moon on which Zardoth projected what was occurring that moment on Earth!

"Look out! The last thing you remember before blacking out is a shadowy figure appearing in the road in front of you. You heard your sister cry out as you swerved your car into this tree. You realize that you're alone. Your sister must have gone for help..."

Welcome to Uninvited, Kemco-Seika's latest mind-bending adventure in the tradition of its other hit games, Shadowgate and Déjà Vu.

Uninvited "invites" you to search for your missing sister throughout a spooky, haunted mansion complete with ghosts and other ghoulish mysteries. This adventure role play title uses the same "point and click" interface as Shadowgate and Déjà Vu. Solving the phantom puzzle takes brain power as opposed to quick reflexes. However, aficionados of this video game genre may find that Uninvited doesn't quite live up to the standards set by Shadowgate and Déjà Vu, but, hey, if you like this kind of game you're still gonna' enjoy solving this mystery! To get you started here are a few clues...

GamePro Game Rating

Uninvited by Kemco-Seika

2. This pesky ghost is easy to eliminate if you've got a handy dandy bottle of "No Ghost" in your pocket. P.S. Don't forget to open the bottle or it won't work!

3. You may catch more flies with honey than vinegar, but you'll need Spider Cider to catch spiders.

4. There's something hidden under the upholstery on the couch in the Foyer. Better find something sharp to use to slice the couch open and find out what it is.

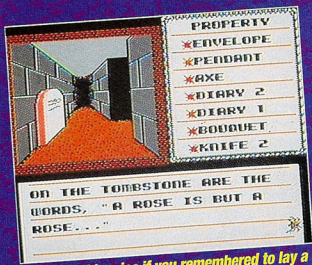

5. Every ghost or ghoul you meet requires a different plan of attack. This ghost looks like he might be afraid of spiders!

6. If you don't know what else to do with the Box, you might as well burn it in the Fireplace. Of course you'll need Matches to light a fire.

7. If you've got a dry looking potted plant, you'd better water it...and water it until it looks better. If you run out of water, you'll just have to search for more.

8. It would be nice if you remembered to lay a Bouquet of flowers by this Tombstone.

1. It may not be polite, but read every Diary you find. You'll learn important clues to the mystery.

9. Feed this little Red Dinosaur a Cookie and he just might have a surprise for you.

10. Don't just stand there looking silly in the Backyard. Jump right into the middle of things.

11. You never know when a Cage might come in handy, say to trap a Bird or some other animal.

12. Grab this Goblet! You're gonna need it later on!

Ever wondered what it would be like to be Donald Trump? Well, in Monopoly by Parker Brothers, Trump Plaza isn't on the auction block, but you and up to seven other financial wizards can wheel and deal real estate properties such as Boardwalk and Marvin Gardens.

The Monopoly board covers familiar territory.

Monopoly Rules!

All of the features that made Monopoly a world-renowned, classic board game are packed into this cart. Just in case you've been living in a cave for the last 50 years, the object of Monopoly is to make a lot of money and drive your opponents into bankruptcy court. You do this by buying, selling, and trading property, developing it by building houses and hotels, and then charging outrageous rents that your opponents can't afford. The NES version follows standard Monopoly rules (contained in a humongous manual) with a few special tournament rules thrown in for added challenge.

PROTIP: Take advantage of Auctions. You can often purchase property cheaply if other players are short of cash. Even if your funds are low, bid the limit to push the price of auctioned properties as high as possible – after all you don't want your opponents picking up Boardwalk for $50!

Monopoly regulars will recognize the board, the playing pieces, and, of course, rich Uncle Pennybags, who appears beautifully animated on Chance and Community Chest cards as well as in Jail!

MONOPOLY

Ride the Reading Railroad

So why play this video version instead of the board game? Well, for starters how about animated playing pieces that hop (the Hat), walk (the Dog), and zoom (the Car) around the playing board? You also get eight different computer competitors.

Take a ride on the Reading Railroad!

PROTIP: The computer players play pretty much the same. Human players are a lot more fun and unpredictable!

NES Monopoly also features some slick enhancements. A special Wheel and Deal mode enables advanced entrepreneurs to step right into the middle of one of eight different advanced four-player game scenarios. Use the Game Editor to return to an unfinished game or design your own game scenario. You can even set time limits on a game and dole out property in advance. Of course, the computer manages all the banking, leaving your brain free to ponder ways to put your opponents out of business.

PROTIP: You can't customize the game or the rules. For example, you can't make landing on Free Parking net you all the money in the bank.

Big bucks make big winners.

Take a Walk on Boardwalk

Great graphics and authentic gameplay make this an excellent cart, but the real thing has perks that can't be reproduced. Monopoly purists will miss the feel of a crisp role of bills in the palm of their hand and the sight of those gorgeous red hotels piling up on Park Place.

If you're into video board games by all means take a walk on the video Boardwalk. But just remember...one bad roll can still mean "go directly to Jail, do not pass Go, and do not collect $200!"

My name is John Reid. I am the last of the Texas Rangers. Butch Cavendish and his gang murdered all the others, but I survived. I won't rest until Butch and his cohorts are ten feet under. They call me "The Lone Ranger."

Have Zapper, Will Travel

That's right, fellow gunslingers, thanks to Konami the Lone Ranger rides again on an NES near you. In this episode, Butch has kidnapped the President!

Shoot straight, Kemosabhee!

For authentic Old West action use the Zapper or go high-tech with Konami's own LaserScope, but an ordinary control pad is an acceptable substitute.

PROTIP: It's the oldest trick in the book, but it works: hold the Zapper right up to the screen. You (almost) can't miss!

A Radical Roundup

Like another famous Konami shoot-to-thrill cart, Bayou Billy, The Lone Ranger features several different viewpoints. The bulk of the game takes place in an angled overhead perspective similar to Snake's Revenge. Inside caves, hideouts, and other important areas, the screen mimics Rolling Thunder's side-view, horizontally-scrolling display. Finally, you get 3-D Zapper mazes like Operation Wolf. Individually none of these scenes stands out, but together they form a fairly entertaining contest.

First person gunfighting occurs in mazes and at the shooting gallery.

PROTIP: In the first-person labyrinths, you can shoot stuff out of the air.

PROTIP: If you run into gangs in an open field, sprint down the left side and you'll escape without a scuffle.

PROTIP: How can a six-shooter be a machine gun? Rapid-fire! Use it against the boss dudes in the side-view sections.

A Good Deed a Day...

Your journey takes you through eight areas, each with a deed to be done or a mystery to be solved. Other than your sidekick, Tonto, who just offers advice and passwords, and of course Silver, you're on your own against a relentless force of villains. You combat these renegades with a standard six-shooter, TNT, and of course your bare knuckles. Rifles and extra ammo (including silver bullets) are on sale at gun shops.

Fortunately, Tonto imparts a password after every area.

PROTIP: Don't waste your scratch on a train ticket from Tucson to Carson City - take a hike.

PROTIP: If a civilian asks, "Do you want to hear what I have to say?" but then babbles on about nothing special, it means you have to do something.

Side view shootouts means the boss is near!

The Mild, Wild West

Taken for what it is, an adventure cart with some nifty diversions and options, The Lone Ranger offers up enough run 'n gun action to keep Cowboy-wannabees satisfied. However, there's nothing overwhelming about the game's visuals, and while the occasional "Hiyo Silver" voice-over accompanied by the theme song (the "William Tell Overture," of course) are enough to make anyone's pulse pound, some of the tunes are downright cheesy. Still, maybe you're just the 'Pro to bring law and order to the video frontier. Saddle up, Masked Man!

By Riff Raff

VICE: Project Doom from American Sammy is sort of "Ghostbusters II" meets "Aliens." Earthbound extraterrestrials are secretly synthesizing a potent neon green gel for nourishment. After discovering its intoxicating effect, humans go ga-ga over the goo even though long-term abuse proves fatal. The aliens have decided to cash in big-time, and now the world has a massive "Green Gel" problem.

Vice, Vice Baby

Enter Officer Hart, top vice cop assigned to squish the gel. You've got some allies, but since this is a single-player action/adventure game, you (as Hart) do all the dirty work. Then, as if things weren't already grim, you discover you're an alien clone...and that isn't the worst of it.

Ninja Gaiden III?

No, but this game sure comes close. From the inter-stage cinema sequences to a lightning-filled train ride, VICE looks and feels like the NES ninja king itself. In fact, Ninja Gaiden isn't the only game that VICE recalls. There's a Spy Hunter-type vertically-scrolling, overhead view, automobile shoot-em-up and a first person gunfight à la Operation Wolf and Golgo 13.

Close-up gunfights get personal!

PROTIP: You can't do this in Ninja Gaiden. Hold down Lower Left or Lower Right to run and duck under enemy fire.

This is all good, but on its own VICE matches those action/adventure carts. The hard-boiled storyline has more twists than Chubby Checker and leads to a truly surprising conclusion. The sounds are passable, and the music's almost catchy.

Tough-talk from a tough cart.

The slick side-view, multi-scrolling graphics including the sharp between-stage story sequences are as good as they come, even though you invade the usual video hideouts including rooftop construction sights, a research lab, a jungle, and sewers.

VICE's multi-scrolling graphics are great!

But you're here for action not sight-seeing anyway. The fighting's steady, and tossing in the bosses and the obstacles makes this cart downright painful. You run, jump, slash, and shoot your way through 11 dangerous stages and 15 sub-stages.

PROTIP: To send Rat Man back into the Stage Two sewers, move in close and attack with the whip or the gun. Then dodge the steel girders he throws and toss a grenade at him.

PROTIP: Beat the Stage 5 Vardkin robot by whipping its missiles and striking him before he flies away.

PROTIP: To avoid Hawke's gunshots on Stage 10, duck down and rush him as you shoot. Duck before he fires or he'll duck, too. Don't get too close or he'll slash you.

Fight the Power

Your main weapon is a wicked Electro-whip, and you also pack a Magnum Pistol and some Handgrenades. And you'd better learn when to use them. The alien gang features innumerable mutant animals, robots, and misguided martial artists, but every time you waste a bad guy you get supplies such as bullets, grenades, or coins for extra lives.

Be aggressive as you "whip" the aliens.

PROTIP: This oldie works. Load up with stuff by beating a "thing," grabbing its valuables, backing up, and beating it again.

VICE Is Nice

Actually VICE is more than nice – it's superb! The intriguing story sequences keep you interested, and the excellent action keeps you on your toes. If it seems easy a first, hang in there – there are enough challenges to make VICE a good habit.

Ace pilot Cliff Secord is blasting his way into theaters all across America this summer as the "Rocketeer," a 1930's hero devoted to the destruction of the enemy war movement (we're talking WWII here). Cliff was just a regular joe (actually a regular "Cliff") until he found a super rocket pack. With the pack and a rad costume and helmet, he becomes the Rocketeer, defender of justice and everything wholesome.

Cliff's girlfriend, Jenny (who qualifies as wholesome), has been kidnapped by the European movie star Neville Sinclair, an ally of the enemy war movement. Sinclair leads a gang of thugs and enemy military forces as they try to capture Cliff and his wonder pack. Sinclair wants to give the pack to enemy forces in Europe for use against U.S. allies there. What a maroon!

Armed with his fists, a pistol, a rifle, a spray gun, hand grenades, and a bazooka, the Rocketeer must traverse several enemy infested levels. Movie sequences run in between levels to keep you up-to-date on what's going down.

Rocketeer is coming from Bandai this month – just in time for the movie! It's airborne action for gamers into superhero roleplaying carts – and that's just about everyone!

Thugs surround Cliff Secord (a.k.a. The Rocketeer) and his pal, Peevy.

Bombs away! The Rocketeer gets mission from above.

The Rocketeer doing what he does best – rocketing.

Can the Rocketeer get out of the hangar alive?

The Bull Dog Cafe has more bark than bite... just don't eat the chili.

Rest in peace, Rocketeer.

GENESIS PRO REVIEW

By Boogie Man

Life is a groove for Sonic the Hedgehog, until an evil scientist turns all of his animal buddies into weird mechanical monsters. Now, he's out to prove that although he may just be a little forest dweller, he's got a big heart. And he's about to put it on the line to save his pals.

Hedgehog Heaven

Sonic the Hedgehog is Sega's latest for the Genesis and it could well be the greatest. This is a gorgeous cart with lightning-fast action. You'll need quick reflexes and quick thinking because Sonic is a quick little dude.

Even the brink of disaster looks good.

He's got to race across six humongous Zones each with three stages, all packed with thumb-blistering action and eye-popping graphics. Sonic the Hedgehog's multi-scrolling graphics are a knockout, easily the most impressive pix and animation in a Genesis cart yet. The backgrounds in particular are fantastic. For example, the Marble Zone is filled with ancient stone ruins and the Star-Light Zone is an ultra-modern high rise structure. Although the misguided evil creatures are sharp-looking but standard visual stuff, Sonic is a cute little guy, who sports a treasure trove of facial expressions and body poses.

A Perilous Journey

You'll want to cross Sonic's world anyway you can, of course, but along the way you'll notice that some stages feature different levels of action. You can work your way straight across the land from wherever you begin. But you can also take high roads or low roads. Blaze a trail across the sky or drop down into the depths onto mountain ledges or underwater passages.

Build up speed to make the loops.

The evil scientist has strewn all sorts of obstacles across Sonic's path. He must make death-defying leaps across spike-laden chasms, race across crumbling land bridges, and hop onto moving platforms. Dead ends and deadly things are everywhere.

PRO TIP: At the very beginning of the Labyrinth Zone, Stage 1 you can skip some obstacles by jumping up out of the screen into the hidden level. You can't see Sonic but the screen will scroll by.

Sonic takes on an army of bionic creatures including motorized bugs, me chanical wasps, metallic crabs, and scaly scorpions. Of course, these bionic beasts are really Sonic's transformed friends, but they're hedgehog headhunters until you jump on them. Beat a boss and you might release a bunch of buddies.

PRO TIP: Take out the hovercraft dude in the Green Hill Zone, Stage 3 by standing under the floating hunk of land on the left side and then jumping onto to him after his pendulum passes by you.

Speed Bumps

No Genesis cart squeezes more fun out of just running and jumping than Sonic. The hedgehog's weapons are his body spikes, which he uses by rolling into a ball and slamming into his adversaries. Of course, they don't die; they just turn into cute little bunny rabbits and things that hop away happily once they're freed.

PROTIP: You can't jump on top of the spiked crabs in the Marble Zone. Try to jump up into them from below.

PROTIP: If you run into mountain walls with enough speed, you can blast them apart.

You, however, really take your lumps, but there's protection all around you. There's a king's ransom in Gold Rings floating in the air just waiting for you to grab them. They protect you, and they build up towards extra lives. However, even though your rings prevent you from losing a life when you get hit, you lose all your rings. The evil dude has also carelessly left behind computer terminals that hold special powerups. Break them open to find 1-Ups, temporary shields, Gold Rings, and super speed.

Get hit and you lose all your Rings!

PROTIP: You can take hits as long as you have at least one ring in your possession.

PROTIP: When a creature forces you to drop rings, try to grab at least one while they bounce around. You need the protection.

PROTIP: To get the 1-Up from the computer at the very beginning of the Star Light Zone, Stage 1, that's blocked by the split platforms. Run down the ramps and jump across the drop off. Now, turn around and run back up the ramps to find the computer unblocked.

Even without a power-up, Sonic's the fastest creature on two legs that the Genesis has ever seen. In fact, sometimes he's just a blur, and you may find yourself in a hidden level or another section of the game without ever knowing how you got there.

Sometimes a boost helps.

PROTIP: Sonic's so fast he can run past death-dealing blasts such as fireballs or bug blasts, but they hurt him if he stops and they catch up to him.

That's another fun aspect of the game. Sonic's world is full of unseen surprises including secret doors, invisible levels, and hidden powerups. You'll replay levels or the entire game just to find all the things you missed.

Sonic goes high-tech, too!

You also get a special bonus stage that must be seen to be believed! Sonic's caught in a huge floating maze that rotates around the screen. The psychedelic backgrounds here are awesome!

Super Sonic

Sonic the Hedgehog is a class act all the way. It shows what determined programmers, artists, and game designers can do when they really set out to produce a winner. Don't hedge your bets on Sonic the Hedgehog!

PRO REVIEW

By The Unknown Gamer

The Time:
The distant future.

The Place:
A multi-dimensional, rotating starfield.

Captain's Log:
2056.45 A.D.

It's been 23 days since word came from the Alliance of the impending attack on Savor-5, a mining colony. None of the typical Ur-Quan Hierarchy tip-toeing around this time – this was going to be a full frontal assault! Five Ur-Quan Dreadnoughts – the monsters of the Hierarchy fleet – were moving towards our Star Base at light speed.

I just hope our attack force made up of Earthlings, Shofixits, Syreens, and Arilous is enough to deter the Ur-Q's, so we have time to build a few Cherjesu Broodhomes. We'd really kick some Ur-Quan butt (or whatever that is they sit on) with a few of those in our squadron!

Space – The Final Frontier

If Star Control sounds like something out of "Star Trek – The Next Generation" or "Star Wars," it's because this new Genesis cart owes a bit to both these science fiction works. However, this interstellar epic features plenty of original concepts to make it a space ace in its own right.

Star Control from Ballistic (Accolade's new video game brand name) is the first 12 meg cart for the Genesis. Yes, you read that right – 12 megs! After playing it non-stop for an entire weekend, it's easy to understand why so much memory was required. This game is fantastic!

StarSearch

Star Control is a one or two-player battle of good versus evil. Yeah...almost every video game is a battle of good versus evil, but in Star Control it's different. Since you can play either side, who's good and who's evil all depends on your point of view.

Fifteen unique scenarios pit the Ur-Quan Hierarchy against the Alliance of Free Stars. Each scenario features a different battle in the Alliance/Hierarchy War. Every battle has a different objective and in most the odds of victory are weighted in favor of one side or the other. Three difficulty settings enable you to make the game as hard or as easy as you want.

Top ships from the Alliance and Hierarchy battle to the death.

There are two phases to Star Control – the star field movement segment and the head-to-head battle phase. Onscreen movement takes place on a multi-scrolling, multi-dimensional star field that constantly rotates around a vertical axis.

The star field movement phase challenges your strategic planning abilities. You can maneuver any ship, one ship at a time, from one star to another. You can also build new ships (if you have the cash), set up a mining installation (to get the cash), establish a colony, or fortify a location. You get three moves per turn, although some actions (such as moving a Star Base) require more than one move.

An Androsyn dumps a bunch of bubble bath into his warp drive and causes problems for an Arilou.

The Stars Your Destination

Red stars can be mined for precious minerals. Life-supporting green stars are where you can set up colonies and recruit new crew members.

Some stars hold Precursor Relics. The Precursors were a race that lived approximately 300,000 years ago. They've left behind various technological relics that will soup up any ship that finds them. The right relic can make a dangerous ship unstoppable.

STAR CONTROL

PROTIP: Here's a trick that loads all the stars with Precursor relics before you start a game. When you reach the screen describing the scenario you're about to play, hold down Lower Left and press Button B. This stocks the stars and enables you to swap up one of your ships each time you land on an unexplored star.

PROTIP: A key to crippling the enemy is to make a beeline for his Star Base and to try to destroy it early on. Once you destroy the base, you won't have to worry about your enemy building new ships.

The trickiest part of moving is figuring out which stars you can reach from your current position. Stars appear in rows or chains, and it takes a keen eye to plot the correct path to your destination. Every time you play, the computer generates a new starfield – there's no chance of memorizing a travel pattern.

PROTIP: To help navigate the star field, pay close attention to stars which seem to orbit at the same speed. Stars orbiting together are usually connected at some point.

My Ship Captain Is an Alien

When you occupy a star where there's an enemy ship, you enter a head-to-head battle sequence. Because there are 14 different alien races in Star Control and each race has its own unique ship, every battle is a learning experience. As in real space flight you have to take into account gravitational pull and inertia, so your ships slide around the screen. Naturally, some ships match up real well against others, while some others don't stand a chance in certain battles. As commander of your fleet, it's your job to attack ships you think you can beat, or at least damage the powerful ships you can't beat so someone else in your fleet can take them out.

Victory!

If you'd rather just fight space battles than play a full scenario, Star Control has an option called "Melee" – an all out war between the two fleets. This is a great way to learn your enemy's weaknesses before taking him on in a full-scale scenario.

PROTIP: Defeat slow-moving ships which fire homing weapons (such as the Mycon Podship or the Earthling Cruiser) by using their own weapons against them. When one of these ships fires at you, circle around him and hang out on his tail. But this is key – this move only works if your ship is faster and more maneuverable than the enemy's.

PROTIP: Use the gravitational "pull" of planets to increase your speed to escape enemies.

Shooting for the Stars

Star Control is a great mix of outer space battle and strategy. It has an extremely high replay factor – you won't get bored with it anytime soon – and unlike your typical shoot-em-up, the game never ends. Accolade, I mean, Ballistic really has reached the stars with this cart!

Dragonica, the castle of doom, has returned to life, and the Holy Goblet, source of all that's good, has vanished. Sounds suspicious, but someone must check out the castle and retrieve the Goblet or the world will be trapped in darkness forever. Any volunteers?

impressive. The awesome weaponry includes Spears, Lances, Shurikens, Battle Axes, and Elf Bows!

For video wizards, there are Spell-casting Canes, Magic Scrolls, Rings, and Potions. As with the levels, the powers of the magic items change each time you play. For example, the first time around a Black Potion may blind you; the next time it may increase your strength! A word to the wise: test magic before you use it in combat.

PROTIP: To avoid the Magicians' magic, keep your distance. They rarely hit you unless you're close to them.

FATAL LABYRINTH

Land O' Labyrinths

If there's one thing for the Genesis that's missing, it's a good maze game. Now it has one - Fatal Labyrinth. In this combination role-play game and action/ adventure cart, you play the warrior, Trykaar, as you tackle the 30 danger-filled mazes that make up Castle Dragonica.

The mazes change; the challenge remains the same.

Fatal Labyrinth sports a unique random replay feature: each time you start up the cart, the levels appear in a different order. Unfortunately, almost all of the mazes look the same, so sometimes the changing levels are barely noticeable.

PROTIP: Watch out for the Red Squares! When you step on them, they set off an alarm, drawing all the creatures on the level to your location.

It Slices, It Dices

No maze adventure game is complete without a hefty selection of weapons and magic, and Fatal Labyrinth's arsenal is

PROTIP: Use the Chaos Scroll to nullify Red Squares after they've been activated.

With such awesome power at your command, you want to fight a formidable array of bloodthirsty monsters. Fatal Labyrinth has plenty, from the chilling Ice Bars to the sneaky Shinobi. Each monster has a unique style of attack. Some will even melt your armor or steal your food. Watch out!

PROTIP: On the later levels, creatures called Mimics disguise themselves as weapons and money. Be careful!

Lost in a Maze

The weapons are great and the beasts are fierce, but at some points Fatal Labyrinth gets a little weak.

Actual combat is so laid back, it chills the thrills. You equip your weapon, run up to a creature, and just keep pushing into it until one of you bites the dust.

Although this game has many features found in "true" role playing games, such as character traits which improve with experience, it's missing a password system. You can continue after every five levels, but you're still into this game for the long haul.

Fatal Labyrinth's graphics and sounds are just average, fairly lackluster at some points. The theme music is dull and repetitious. At least the sound effects are somewhat realistic.

Fatal's Attraction

Fatal Labyrinth isn't the most complex, intense adventure game ever made, but despite some shortcomings it's a nice diversion for a Saturday afternoon.

The farout beasts and the variety of weapons will definitely hold your interest. At least, the game fills the maze-adventure hole in the Genesis library. If you're looking for hack 'n slash fun that won't give you a migraine, Fatal Labyrinth might be your cure for 'sword and sorcery fever.'

GENESIS PRO REVIEW

By The Missing Link

The name's Pond, James Pond, Underwater Agent. Just call him, er, bubble-O-seven (a little fish humor). This mod cod's been commissioned to save the seas. Land-lubbing humans are puttin' the squeeze on Mother Nature and have caused some grisly ecological damage to her lands and seas. Oil tankers are sliming the ocean, glacier goons are threatening arctic seals, construction gangs are laying siege to rainforests, and more, much more. Pond must put a stop to this eco-nightmare, fast!

Hooked on Ecology

Pond faces 12 vertically and horizontally scrolling missions, each with kitschy James Bond-esque titles, such as "A View to a Spill," "Fish Fingers," and "For Your Fins Only." "Seek, save, and destroy" is the theme du jour, and Pond's tasks include leading helpless fish out of polluted waters, recovering stolen treasure, and plugging holes in leaky oil tankers.

All the oil and chemical seepage has done little to improve the personalities of the sea creatures. Fish, crabs, snails, starfish, and even the ghost of Bluebeard the Pirate have jumped onto the anti-Pond bandwagon. None of the enemies are powerful enough to filet Pond with one blow, but they tend to attack in droves from every direction. And don't wait for "big bosses" — there aren't any.

PROTIP: In Mission Four, "The Fish With The Golden Bar," use the Mushroom Transporter, located just to the right of Home Pipe, to quickly warp to the boat where you store the gold bars.

PROTIP: Bonus caves are tempting, but they're harder on your Fishometer (health bar) than they're worth.

A "reel" Mermaid's Man.

Bubble Trouble

You could say Pond is full of hot air. A flick of the control button and his fish lips blast out huge bubbles, which trap enemies upon contact. In addition to these nasty blasts of breath, Pond finds items a-plenty; good and bad. Some good items equip Pond with extra bubble power and temporary invincibility. Bad items might make him tipsy or render him temporarily immobile. A fish for all occasions, Pond's can also use his tail like a pogo stick to hop around on land to retrieve needed items.

PROTIP: A fishbowl over the head can prove to be very handy for those out of water excursions. Look for it on the beach, somewhere between the first and fifth mission.

The action, doesn't make any major waves, but it will keep your mind off your chores for a while. Exploring the graphically gorgeous caves, sunken ships, and beaches is fun, but if it's heated combat you're after, well, this cart's a bit of a cold fish.

PROTIP: Uncover invisible bonus blocks by jumping in and out of the water.

Filet O' Fun

In a clamshell, James Pond Underwater Agent is just plain cute. If you're a beginning gamer or a tired gamer who just wants something fun and not too frantic to relax with, this game's a fresh catch. The graphics are pretty, the music's easy on the ears, and it even offers a mellow ecological message. Cast a line for James Pond.

SEGA MASTER PRO REVIEW

By Toxic Tommy

The Grand Master arrived from a far away galaxy with a not-so-grand plan for Earth. Now, the world is his slave. The planet's only hope for salvation is a super, high-tech brotherhood of space-age samurai – the Striders.

Strider Rides Again

We know what you're thinking, SMS gamers – Strider! Awesome! You stuffed quarters into the coin-op, and you drooled over the Genesis version. Now you can have a Strider of your very own. However, don't let your expectations get the better of you.

This 8-bit incarnation is a noticeably scaled-down version of the classic, futuristic hack and slash adventure with its own strengths and weaknesses. You get six levels of average fighting action. The side view, multi-scrolling graphics feature many of the great Strider characters and much of the scenery, but they aren't going to make your eyes pop out. The sounds are low key.

All in the Family

As in the other versions, you play ace Strider Hiryu, and you wield an awesome Plasma Sword that rips through the opposition. Eight-bit Hiryu has all the classic Strider moves such as the outrageous somersault and the neat, one-handed grabs. He also has the same weird slouching walk as he tiptoes up inclines. What he doesn't have is speed, but the other Hiryus aren't the quickest video heroes around, either.

The Plasma Sword is all the firepower you need.

Fortunately, you don't have to be quick to plaster the Master's army. The main alien force is full of soldiers, robots, and animals, but you rarely face two standard enemies onscreen at the same time. Your toughest fights are against mid-level and end bosses, which include a robo-gorilla, a bionic centipede, and a huge, mechanical dinosaur. Master SMS swordsmen ought to plough right through the first four levels, but average fighters will get a work out.

The Master's army is strange.

PROTIP: Defeat the robo-gorilla without eating up precious time, by standing toe-to-toe with it. You'll lose two lives but it's much faster.

PROTIP: To take minimum damage versus the little Tyrannosaurus, time a jump as it charges you so that you land right behind it. Now chase it and slash it before it turns to charge again.

PROTIP: When clones of a bad guy reappear continuously, just jump over one of them to make them stop.

PROTIP: After you beat the Level One music man, quickly duck under the platform to avoid the napalm.

The battleground is pretty much the same as in the larger versions. Your one-man invasion begins in the Soviet Union, cuts through a tropical rainforest, and ends up at the Master's outer space moonbase. Each level has several time limit zones that force you to keep moving. Running out of time gets you as often as the enemies do.

PROTIP: Somersault down the snowy slopes to avoid mines and save time, but stop when you reach the ledge, you can't make the cliff jump that way.

Not even space is safe!

Strider Strolls Along

Strider is an average action game that features steady if unspectacular combat. If this is your first Strider experience, you won't be disappointed, but you ought to hunt down the arcade version or tackle a friend's Genesis cart to really find out what all the excitement's about.

There you have it. The critics agree that Gaiares is one of the hottest games around. In fact, once Dr. Dave of GAMEPRO Magazine got his hands on the 8 meg fighting power of Gaiares, he gave it a perfect  score, and stated, "Novice space jockey's need not apply". Then came Electronic gaming Monthly magazine.

They were so impressed with Gaiares, they couldn't put it down. They said "Games just don't get any better than this. Gaiares is Phenomenal! 8 Meg of incredible graphics put it in a league all its own. If you thought the lava in the TF-3 was intense, wait till you see the hyperspace scene!"

TURBOGRAFX-16 PRO REVIEW

By Fanatic Fan

Turbo-Hoopsters rejoice! Finally, thanks to the folks at NEC and Cinemaware, there's a REAL basketball game for the TurboGrafx-16 (I never considered "Takin It to the Hoop" a real basketball game).

Hoop it Up!

TV Sports Basketball lets you play an exhibition game or compete in an eight-team league. In Exhibition mode, you can play with as many as five people using the TurboTap. All five of you can challenge the computer, or you can pick up computer players to form two mixed teams. League mode is a one-player-only, 10-game schedule, complete with a best-of-three play-off and a championship series.

Good Looks at the Basket

TV Sports B-ball features both vertical and horizontal scrolling. Most of the time you play via a great-looking, vertically-scrolling, 45-degree, half-court view. The screen shifts briefly to a horizontal perspective when a team brings the ball out of its backcourt.

The ball may not be stolen or passed in the mid-court screen, which effectively limits fast breaks or half-court traps. However, that doesn't mean the hoop action's wimped out. During this view both teams can call a defensive or an offensive set. The team with the ball can set up a screen play, a clear out, a post play, or a pick. The defense can counter by calling a trap, setting up a regular defense, or crashing the boards. TV Sports Basketball allows you to run your offense and defense more realistically than any basketball video game to date!

And if the on-court graphics are very good, the sounds are definitely out-tasight. Swish shots actually "swish," bricks really "clang" off the rims.

TV Sports Basketball has everything...even cheerleaders.

A Shadow uses his body to block a shot.

PROTIP: Watch those fouls; you want your superstars available for the fourth quarter. It's a good idea to bench any starter who's picked up two fouls in the first quarter, three fouls by the second quarter, or four fouls by the third quarter.

Dream Team Supreme

You get eight teams each with a 12-man roster - just like in the NBA. One of the best features of this game is that every player is rated from 1 to 8 in six skill categories: Shooting, Rebounding, Passing, Quickness, Defense, and Jumping. Superstars? You bet! And they have their own hot dog moves.

NINJAS		S	P	Q	D	J

SHOOTING: 1 PASSING: 2 DEFENSE: 3
REBOUNDING: 4 QUICKNESS: 5 JUMPING: 6

PUSH BUTTON TO EXIT

Every player is rated in six skill categories.

Turnover!

TV Sports Basketball isn't as flashy as Lakers Versus Celtics for the Genesis, but it has plenty of exciting action. The only major critique we have is that the middle of the court has essentially been removed from game play.

PROTIP: A team with quick guards (such as the Shadows) can easily drive to the hoop for an easy slam dunk.

PROTIP: Deny your opponent's superstar the ball. Teams with only one major scorer panic if you cover him - this creates turnovers.

TEAM	PLAYER	F1	F2	F3	F4	TO
SHADOWS	JOHNNY B. BONE	0	0	0	0	0
SHADOWS	SAITH KUNITO	0	0	0	0	0
SHADOWS	JOHN KAWANO	0	0	0	0	0
SHADOWS	DAVID KAWANO	0	0	0	0	0

Keep tabs on players' condition whenever you call "time out!"

That Championship Season

There's never been a "perfect" basketball video game, but TV Sports is pretty darn close. Who says you need NBA superstars to make a good basketball game? The hoops here is excellent, and five-player games are great fun. TV Sports Basketball is a slam dunk!

GAME BOY PRO REVIEW

By Riff Raff

Once again, Bugs Bunny hops from Looney Tunes to the Crazy Castle on the Game Boy. In Bugs Bunny Crazy Castle II, Bugs is out to save Honey Bunny, his long time love, who's been kidnapped by the Wicked Witch and whisked away to her castle.

Just like a Bugs Bunny cartoon, there's nothing complex about this action puzzler. The Witch's castle is full of mazes, which are full of obstacles and "wasically" toon enemies. While evading or fighting these guys, you must find eight keys hidden on each level and then find the door they open to move on to another level.

Bugs finds keys everywhere.

It sounds easy and for the most part it is, except that there are 28 levels! At least you get a simple four-letter password after completing a level.

Looney Tune All-Stars

The graphics are nothing special although all of your Warner Bros. favorites make an appearance. You see the entire level onscreen in a side view. Even on the small Game Boy screen you'll recognize Daffy Duck, Wile E. Coyote, Yosemite Sam, and Sylvester the Cat instantly. Don't let these familiar faces fool you, though. They're all out to get you!

This game's not as easy as it sounds.

The simple sounds should have "taken a left a Albuquerque." They aren't up to par with the rest of the cart.

PROTIP: If you're having trouble with a level, try punching in simple household-type words such as "GAME" or "SHIP."

PROTIP: If a certain villain consistently bugs Bugs, use this trick to evade him. Wait until he enters a staircase or a pipe, and then enter that staircase or pipe from the opposite end. You'll pass right by him without being harmed.

Rabbit Aids

Nobody can get himself out of a jam like Bugs, but this time he needs a few tools to save the day. The handiest item is the Bopper which shatters blocks. Other items include bombs, an invincible potion, a pickaxe to help you climb over unbreakable blocks, safes, crates, and 10-ton weights to shove onto your adversaries. Though they're sometimes out in plain view, these items are usually stashed behind doors.

'Thuffing' 'Thuccotash! Your Looney Tunes buddies are baddies.

PROTIP: Some rooms are empty. To turn nothing into something, use the doorway as a way to freeze enemies for a few seconds. Simply enter a room, turn around, walk back out again, and the enemies will be frozen.

What's Up, Doc

We all know no one can out fox the Wasically Wabbit. Maybe that's why you don't have to strain many of your own strategy and action skills to rescue Honey Bunny. Although it may be a bit on the easy side for experts, it's a great game for youngsters at beginning to intermediate skill levels, especially considering the characters involved. With smooth animation, good fun, and lively action, Bugs Bunny on the Game Boy is actually better than the NES version. And th...th...th...that's all, folks!

The answer is: A Game Boy cart from GameTek based on the hit television game show where contestants formulate questions to fit trivia answers.

The question is - all together now - "What is Jeopardy?!"

TV or not TV

If you don't know what Jeopardy's all about, get the details by checking your local television listings and tuning it in. Basically this three-player trivia game centers around a big board listing six subject categories, each with five squares which hide related "answers." The contestants try to formulate the "questions."

Succeed and you win big bucks; guess wrong and you lose money. First, you play regular Jeopardy where squares are worth $100, $200, up to $500. Then

DAVE GOES NOW.
A	B	C	D	E	F
	$200	$200	$200	$200
$400	$400	$400	$400	$400	$400
$600	$600	$600	$600	$600	$600
$800	$800	$800	$800	$800	$800
$1000	$1000	$1000	$1000	$1000	$1000

Double Jeopardy!

you play Double Jeopardy, where the dollar amounts, uh, double. Finally, you play...that's right, Final Jeopardy, where you go for the win with one big bet on one answer.

Alex Doesn't Live Here

The Game Boy version closely resembles the TV show, minus host Alex Trebek. For example, you pick "Rock and Roll" and the $500 square, which reads "The two left-handed Beatles." If you query "Who are Paul and Ringo?" you win five big ones. Now if you're wondering "Who are the Beatles?" this cart probably isn't for you.

In fact, GameTek targets this cart for players 14 and older, but high school aged players will find very few questions tuned to their generation. For instance, the Rolling Stones are the only musicians mentioned in the Rock and Roll category who are still rocking. However, pondering Jeopardy's "facts and useless information" should give players 21 and older a good work out.

JEOPARDY

Use your name, but it's always man vs. woman.

Trivial Pursuits

Jeopardy has 260 categories, which resemble those on the TV show: "Famous Quotes," "Starts with a Z," "The Presidents," etc. However, the questions here, while thought-provoking, are easier on the whole than those in either Trivial Pursuit or TV Jeopardy.

In the Game Boy version you can pit your brain against the computer or match wits with a friend. To its credit Jeopardy doesn't require a Game Link for two-player matches (although that option exists). One player can use the control pad while the other uses the buttons. It's intimate, but rubbing shoulders and trading trivia with a friend is fun and much more challenging than playing the computer.

The computer's a pushover; it rarely knows an answer. Plus since some categories repeat answers, later on you can memorize them.

PROTIP: When you memorize the answers to categories, play them first to build an awesome lead.

The interface takes time to master - and use. You spell out answers by selecting letters and/or numbers with the directional controls and the buttons, just like entering a password. Pay attention because spelling counts!

PROTIP: To save time, don't use spaces between words in your answers.

PROTIP: Sometimes when the answer is a person's name just the last name will do - sometimes.

Jeopardy tests your mind, not your eyes.

This is obviously a text heavy game so the minimalist graphics are okay. The sounds are a cutesy rendition of the Jeopardy theme, period. Meager, but then what else do you need?

Your Mind's in Jeopardy

If trivia turns you on, Jeopardy is entertaining until you've answered all 1,705 questions. If you already know what a cat's vibrissae are or what Hoelger-Nielsen is a method of, look elsewhere for a trivia challenge.

GAME GEAR PRO REVIEW

By Brother Buzz

You always wanted to gaze into a crystal ball, so when you get your chance, you go for it. Too bad there's an evil wizard looking back at you. Now, look deep into the Game Gear and prepare to embark on a fantastic adventure.

Enter the Dragon - Crystal

Dragon Crystal by Sega is a rousing action/adventure game with an easy-to-use role-play game (RPG) interface. You try to find your way back to reality as you know it by trailblazing through 30 maze-like levels, which require equal parts exploring, discovering, and fighting. The longer you last the higher your status becomes, from a lowly Apprentice to a mighty Warlord.

PROTIP: In general, concentrate your search towards the center of the level. Warps and other rewards are usually there.

Fighting to Make a Point

You fight using a classic RPG hit point technique that's much more exciting than it sounds. Jam on a button to thrust your weapon at your adversary and the Game Message Window pops up. It scores hits and misses as you fight the monster on-screen. Obviously, whoever reaches zero first is a goner. Know when to fight and run away and you'll do well.

PROTIP: If you're in a desperate situation versus monsters, buy time by hitting Button 1 to display the Status Screen. Then use everything you have!

PROTIP: If you run into a monster gang in a clearing, it's easier to waste them by drawing them out one at a time.

On the Level

Dragon Crystal's color graphics are, well, crystal clear. The level terrain is picturesque, and the monsters strut their stuff with slick styling and entertaining animation.

Warps get you to the next level.

The labyrinthine terrain includes ever-green forests, fields of giant sunflowers, and rows of Easter Island-style stone-heads. To start each level, you materialize in the midst of these things. The challenge is to open a path through them. Then during your explorations you uncover open fields where you'll find handy items - and/or grisly monsters.

This dragon's friendly, this ninja isn't.

For tiny color characters the monsters are cool. There's a horde of fierce fighters, and even on the small screen they look great. Fire orange, crystalline Flame Bars cast tiny shadows on the ground as they fly. Only the tip of the Sand Shark's fin shows until it snaps at you with a nasty "Jaws" move.

PROTIP: From Level 10 on, some creatures such as the Code 04863 killer satellites don't attack you unless you attack them.

Your potential equipment is standard fantasy game issue: Weapons, Armor, Scrolls, Rods, Pots, Rings, Food, and Gold. You need it all! Weapons and Armor are rated for hit points. Scrolls, Rods, Pots, and Rings come in a rainbow of colors (up to 11 different hues), each signifying a unique power. Sometimes, however, they're cursed!

There's lots of stuff just lying around.

PROTIP: If hit points are critical but you have Food, just walk around to build up points. But avoid monsters at all costs.

A Neverending Story

Dragon Crystal is great fun. It's a top quality game that sets high standards for Game Gear carts to come. Even the music's not bad. This adventure can go on forever (but six AA's last under three hours, so get an AC adaptor), there are no passwords, you must nab mucho gold to continue, and dying mixes up all the magic powers! But Dragon Crystal definitely doesn't drag-on.

Crystal Mines II

PRO REVIEW

Warbirds

By Gideon

Crystal Mines II is an appealing mix of fast, arcade-action gameplay and complex, brain-bending puzzles. Colorful graphics, a wide variety of obstacles, 360 degree scrolling action, and over 100 levels (including some hidden levels) make this game worth a peek!

Carvin' Out Crystals

On a distant planet, you run a mining station manned by diligent, remote-controlled robots. You guide the 'bots through the many treacherous levels beneath the planet in order to collect valuable crystals. However, this storyline is really just window-dressing since you can skip levels, and there's no ultimate goal, except to have a good time. Each level is a unique, multi-scrolling, side view maze game unto itself. Level areas vary in size from four screens to 11 screens.

Your robot must cautiously dig tunnels or create landslides to reach the gems, all the while keeping an eye out for robot-chomping rock monsters, robot-mashing boulders, and robot-melting mud, slime, and lava. As if that wasn't enough, beware the bottomless black holes, exploding radioactive rocks, mineral monsters hibernating inside boulders, and paralyzing pools of lava and tar!

Fortunately, your robot miner isn't completely helpless. You're armed with a rock-cutting laser gun and TNT bombs. Hidden power-ups enable you to enhance your laser's firepower and race through mud and lava.

PROTIP: Make sure you have an avenue of escape before you plant a bomb, it blows in five seconds!

PROTIP: Play it safe and try to take out a swarm of nasties by planting a bomb in their midst!

PROTIP: Stop to study the patterns of the rock monsters before you enter a new chamber. You can safely travel behind them without harm.

Let's Rock!

Crystal Mines II is a good-looking, fun game for all skill levels that will definitely give you your money's worth. It calls for intense concentration and pre-planning, but if you get stuck, you can always jump to a new challenge on another level. One thing's certain, you'll really "dig" this game!

By Rigor Mortis

Power to the Lynx! Air power, that is. The tiny Lynx accomplished a gargantuan task that neither the NES, the Genesis, nor the TurboGrafx-16 could successfully pull off — create an exciting, yet realistic air combat shoot-em-up! In Warbirds, you sit in the cockpit of a World War I biplane behind twin, front-mounted machine guns as you face hordes of death-dealing enemy aircraft!

An Arcade Aviator's Dream

Warbirds' extremely detailed graphics are astounding and realistic flight simulation will knock you out. As with most flight games, you look straight ahead from the cockpit, but Warbirds takes this perspective to another level by also allowing you to see behind, left, right, and above your cockpit.

PROTIP: Your plane can climb higher than any of your opponents; therefore, make the enemy siting ducks by flying high and attacking them in a circling power dive.

Zoom by your opponent on the right, and follow him as he passes by your right wing, your tail, and beyond! The Lynx's highly detailed scaling capabilities are maxed out here, creating a realistic sense of depth and field perception that extends to the enemy planes, clouds, mountain ranges, and the horizon.

Gameplay is extremely true-to-life, allowing you to perform barrel-rolls, corkscrews, and power dives at will! The laws of physics firmly apply so don't expect to pull out of outrageous nose dives, initiate impossibly quick turns, or bank at 90 degree angles without stalling.

Fly six different missions from the easy "Milk Run" to the challenging "Swarm," where three enemy aces attack you simultaneously! For real fun, you can Comlynx up to three friends, where each player views the action from his own flying perspective.

PROTIP: Dive into the clouds to lose your opponents

PROTIP: Always approach an enemy from the rear, since their guns are front-mounted.

A Super Fly!

Warbirds is one of the most impressive Lynx games to date, and it really allows the Lynx to strut its stuff. Gameplay is smooth and easy to learn, and the different game scenarios keep the challenge fresh. Warbirds is sure to get you flying high!

PROTIP: Turn off your engine to make the tightest turns possible.

PROTIP: Don't fire your lasers randomly when you encounter new territory or you might trigger hidden traps.

Wrath of the Black Manta

Dear ASK THE PROS,

In Wrath of the Black Manta how do you defeat the drug lord at the end of the game? He's at the end of Level Five: DRAT Headquarters. I have tried every possible combination of weapons, but he still has me puzzled. I don't know what to use. Thanks a lot!

Daniel Puzo, New York, NY

The Fire Bomb, Fire Ring, Spider and Missiles will do the trick against El Toro.

Dear Daniel,

To defeat El Toro, the drug lord at the end of Level Five, you will need to use four of the Ninpo Arts. Use the Arts of: Fire Bomb, Fire Ring, Spider, Fire Bomb again, and Missiles. Make sure to use the arts in that order.

The Adventures of Link (Zelda II)

Dear ASK THE PROS,

Where do you find the flute in Zelda II: The Adventures of Link?

Benjamin Hansen, Holland, MI

Dear Benjamin,

The flute you seek is in the fifth palace. I know, you've already been in the fifth palace and you didn't see a flute. That's because it's behind an illusionary wall. When you get to a blue knight that shoots swords at you (he'll be on your right side), defeat him or get by him. Just past him is the illusionary wall. It looks like a real wall, but you can jump right through it. Go through the wall and you'll find a key and the flute on the other side.

Snake's Revenge

Dear ASK THE PROS,

I've been stuck outside the room with Card Key 7 in Snake's Revenge for about two months. How do you get past the two pitfalls that are there?

Todd Dion, Boca Raton, FL

Snake can slip by the two pitfalls if he's willing to take a grenade blast.

Dear Todd,

No sweat! To get past the two pitfalls outside of the room with Card Key 7 just set off the alarm on the board. Then, go back along the left wall. The grenade-throwing soldiers will appear. Put on the body armor, get hit by one grenade, and then quickly run past the pitfalls while you're invincible.

Game Boy

Nemesis

Dear ASK THE PROS,

I'm baffled by Nemesis. How do I get to the bonus round to receive the 1-Up blocks? Is it on a specific stage?

Brian Margavage, Pottsville, PA

Dear Brian,

There are only two bonus stages that we know of in Nemesis. They're located on Stage Two and Stage Four. Just past the second large Starship in Stage Two there's a volcano at the top of the screen. Zap the volcano and fly to where it was. You'll end up in the first bonus stage. In Stage Four, destroy the Re-Bone in the third shaft, then fly to the bottom of the screen (straight down from where the Re-Bone appeared). The bonus round entrance is right there at the bottom of the screen.

Enter a bonus area in Stage Two here...

...and here in Stage Four.

Questions E and F Winners

Question E: Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles (NES)

Cathy Kuy, Harvey, LA

You'll find all the Kias you'll need against the Shredder.

When you're on the stage with the Party Wagon find a building that has the "kiai" weapon. Fill up all your turtles with this weapon (this takes a while but it's worth it). When you get to the "flying dudes with the lasers" keep jumping up to their height and shooting them with the kiais. It will take about three hits with this weapon but remember that one kiai will continue all the way across the screen.

Justin Henley, Tempe, AZ

Dear ASK THE PROS,
In Spellcaster for the Sega Master System, where do I find the robot hand to power the ship?

Billy-Joe Olson, B.C., Canada

This robot will give you a hand in powering the ship.

To get the robot hand that will power the ship you must pass Mt. Hinokami, beat the one-eyed flying lizard, and then defeat the robot which opens and closes his eyes. After you defeat the robot there will be a picture of the place where he blew up and in the middle of the picture is the robot hand. LOOK at it, then TAKE it and move to the ship. Here's a password which will start you off at Mt. Hinokami with 999. After you input this password, all you'll need to do is move to Mt. Hinokami. Here's the password:

Bill and Ted's Excellent Video Game Adventure (Acclaim)

Bill and Ted, stars of the box office smasharoo Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure, have teamed up with Acclaim to bring you an all new NES title called, naturally, Bill and Ted's Excellent Video Game Adventure. Yes, the awesome twosome's slipped into video-land to partake in some more turbulent time traveling, and you, in either the single or two player mode, get to go along for the ride. If the incredible 360 scrolling doesn't make you dizzy, the challenging combination of action and role-playing will. Via their handy time warping telephone booth, Bill and Ted travel through time to find misplaced historical figures, such as Abraham Lincoln, who've mysteriously landed in the wrong place and century, and return them to their proper time period. They must make pit stops in well known places and periods in history, both past and future, such as ancient Egypt and the Renaissance to quiz the locals for clues. Can Bill and Ted preserve the history of the world? Only time traveling will tell.

Moon Ranger (Bunch Games)

If you have trouble buying the man-on-the-moon theory, Bunch Games' new action adventure, Moon Ranger, might help make a believer out of you. Many years ago an alien civilization planted a space craft on the surface of the Moon and programmed it to harvest the life-sustaining elements of the Earth's solar system. (Ya' know, minor things like oxygen and water.) The ship lay dormant for many years, but now it's running full force, and if the aliens manage a plentiful harvest, Earth won't survive! It's going to take the skill of the one and only Moon Ranger to bust

Quick, turn the page!

this bogus harvest. In this combination air and land travel shooter, you have the aid of the Moon Ranger All Terrain Vehicle along with a specialized suit of armor. And, if those two devices let you down, simply kick in the ADAPTO enemy weaponry and then adapt it to your own. Battle your way through the Asteroid and the Moon Bases and across the Lunar Surface in search of the alien's power source – the Element Converter! Get those phonies off the farm!

Tecmo Super Bowl (Tecmo)

Tecmo's back in the ball game, the football game that is, with a sequel to its hard hittin' success, Tecmo Bowl. It's called Tecmo Super Bowl, and it's practically bursting with play options guaranteed to satisfy the most discriminating football card fan. A few of the hot ticket options are the Play Back and the Dive Play, selections which enable you to change the play pattern of the other teams as well as dive for passes and precious first down yardage. Heck, this game's so realistic, your team members even get tired as each game progresses! There are 16 weeks in the Tecmo Super Bowl Season, and the winning teams from each division, along with a wild card team, play against each other to decide who goes on to the ultimate football competition, the Super Bowl. It goes without saying, but we'll say it anyway, "Tecmo Super Bowl is a sure fire hit you won't want to miss."

The Hunt for Red October (Hi Tech Expressions)

Expression's new action-packed Game Boy adventure, The Hunt for Red October, and you can brag to your friends about how your submarine was pursued by the entire Russian navy! Submerge yourself in this challenging underwater action/shooter alone as Captain Mark Ramius or with a friend, where one of you plays Ramius and the other commands the pursuing Red Fleet. Like the big screen movie, the video version plunges you into a hide-and-seek mission where you must use the submarine Red October's top secret propulsion system, which renders you temporarily invisible to sonar, to successfully defect from Russia by escaping out of Soviet waters. Be prepared for some old-fashioned head-to-head combat. Batten down the hatches, the Red Fleet is coming for you!

Bill Elliott's NASCAR Fast Tracks (Konami)

How would you like to hit the tracks at speeds over 120 mph in your very own customized stock car? Bill Elliott does it all the time – and you could, too! In Bill Elliott's NASCAR Fast Tracks, a new two-player Game Boy cart from Konami, you can race with the best of 'em on some of the world's most challenging tracks. The fun begins as you choose your car and soup it up. Polish up your driving skills, such as passing, drafting, and following a line. Drive high-banked ovals, modeled after two famous raceways at Daytona and Atlanta, as well as the grueling road courses, representing Sears Point and Watkins Glen. And, to ensure that your car stays in tip top condition, there's a pit crew ready and waiting on the sidelines. Get on the fast track with Bill Elliott.

The Punisher (LJN)

Frank Castle, known to comic book fans as The Punisher, made his NES debut a few months ago, and now he's about to do it again on the Game Boy. The Game

Boy version of The Punisher packs the same hot gameplay and options as its NES cousin. The vile Kingpin and his ruthless bunch of lackeys are cluttering the streets of New York City; you've been assigned clean up duty! Packing your famous Automatic Machine Pistol you must blast your way through five levels of over-the-edge, first person perspective, shoot-em-up action. No evil doers get past The Punisher. Are you gonna' sit back and let 'em get past you?!

You just missed him!

Blockout (Atari)

Puzzle games are hotter than ever this year, and Atari's got a real wildfire on its hands called Blockout. In this Tetris-style game, the object is to match 3-dimensional shapes together. Each successful match earns you points and makes the shapes disappear, clearing a path for the next set of shapes. What makes Blockout's seemingly simple concept so difficult to master are its unique 3-dimensional features. The 3-D shapes can be rotated 360 degrees. And instead of looking at them from a head-on perspective, you look at them from a bird's-eye view – as if you're looking down the shaft of a deep well. Not only that, but you can also change the depth of the "well." Add all this together and matching shapes become one brain-busting task! You may or may not master it, but you definitely won't ever forget it – Blockout!

Game Gear

Psychic World (Sega)

Try your hand or, shall we say, brain at a round of psychic mind-games with one of Sega's premier Game Gear carts, Psychic World. Dr. Knavik's ESP research lab has been obliterated by an accidental explosion and all of his monstrous experiments have escaped into a strange and twisted psychic world. They've got a hostage, the doctor's assistant, Cecile, and you play her twin sister, Lucia, as you go head-to-head against 20 different types of creatures spread out over four stages of multi-scrolling action. How do you fight 'em?! With your four psychic skills, of course – nifty powers that enable you to do things such as whisk back to the beginning of a round and fly and leap. There are more traditional weapons, such as an Ice Gun, a Fire Gun, and a Stun Gun, at your disposal, too, but you have to figure out when and where to use each one! Psychic World's a real mind-blower!

Nintendo Zaps Tengen

The United States District Court of the Northern District of California has granted Nintendo of America a preliminary injunction against Atari Games Corporation and Tengen. That move prohibits Atari from marketing cartridges for the NES, which infringe upon the copyrighted Nintendo program "IONES." In their decision the Court stated that "Atari lied to the Copyright Office in order to obtain the copyrighted IONES program." As a result of this ruling, expect Atari and Tengen to concentrate on developing software for the Sega Genesis and the NEC TurboGrafx-16.

Batman Returns in Early '92

Just in time for the movie sequel, Sunsoft plans to release Batman II for the NES in early 1992. The cart will be based on the movie (which means the Penguin is the big baddie) and is rumored to have two-player simultaneous action. In other Bat-news, look for Sunsoft's 4 meg Genesis version of the Caped Crusader's game to be on sale early June. See page 36 for more info and pix of this rad conversion.

The Caped Crusader will be winging his way to your Genesis this summer.

Nintendo Game Guru Joins Lucasfilm Games

Howard Phillips, Nintendo's Director, Game Creative has joined Lucasfilm Games as Executive Producer for video games and learning products. Phillips, who has worked at Nintendo of America since 1981, was one of the key game cart evaluators at Nintendo, as well as a Senior Editor at Nintendo Power magazine.

Lucasfilm Games recently entered into a partnership with Nintendo licensee JVC Musical Industries to create carts for the NES. Lucasfilm's first title is the highly anticipated "Star Wars" (see April ProNews). Also in the works at Lucasfilm Games is "Defenders of Dynatron City," a wild adventure game starring a weird gang of superheroes who must stop the sinister Dr. Mayhem (Do you think this guy's any relation to Dr. Willy?). Look for Star Wars and Defenders of Dynatron City before Christmas.

Asmik Announces First Super NES Title

D-Force is its name, and hot shooting action is the game. D-Force is Asmik's first Super NES title and it's an action-shooter

You have to be faster than that!

with lots of 3-D graphics. Done entirely in Graphics Mode 7, the same mode used for Pilot Wings, D-Force puts you in a fighter plane flying through 10 stages of action that span time itself. For those of you who missed our coverage of Pilot Wings (April Overseas Prospects), Graphics Mode 7 enables the Super NES to enlarge, reduce, and/or rotate the graphics quickly. It looks like D-Force is going to be a real eye-pleaser!

Video Games Take to the Skies

In-flight video games have come to America! All Nippon Airlines now offers a choice of six video games for all passengers flying between New York and Tokyo. Passengers play the games on Sony monitors connected to armrests between their seats. The games, all created by Konami, run the gamut from sports to action. There's a color version of the Game Boy title, Quarth, a baseball game called Crashing Pennant Race 2 (looks sorta' like RBI Baseball), a racing-shooting cart called Road Fighter, a golf title, a mah-jongg game, and a jump n' dodge adventure featuring a penguin. Sounds more exciting than the in-flight music service!

Accolade Launches "Ballistic™" Software

Accolade announced its official entrance into the 16-bit game market with the launch of Ballistic, a new brand of entertainment software which company officials expect to dominate the high-end of the 16-bit market. The first salvo of Ballistic video games will cover the Sega Genesis and the TurboGrafx-16, later they'll target the Super NES.

The first four Ballistic brand releases are HardBall!, Star Control (see review on page 44), Onslaught, and Turrican. All four are Sega Genesis products.

Dare to wield the sword of Valis!

8 MEG POWER

Okay, so the real world isn't so bad. But Dreamland and the Dark World are absolutely killer! And you're part of it.

You become Yuko Ahso, and you get transported to the otherworld to defend Dreamland against attack from the Dark King Glames. Only by wielding the powerful Sword of Valis can Yuko and her twin sister, Valna, defeat Glames' evil hordes.

Characters like Queen Valna, Cham, and the evil Garther make this dramatic action game unlike any other.

Valis III. A game so realistic you'll have trouble separating fantasy from reality.
