Cover Story

Live: Doing It Their Way

Radioactive/MCA recording group Live has managed to pilot its second album, Throwing Copper into the rarified air at the top of pop album lists, doing it with a measure of self-conviction and a collection of lively lyrics that have sold the rock buying audience on their brand of drama. Cash Box writer Steve Baltin examines how the York, PA quartet came by its convictions, the effect success has had on the members' individual perspectives and what they are doing to prepare for the future.

Film Review: French Kiss

Tremendously talented actors Meg Ryan and Kevin Kline, director Lawrence Kasdan—all working from a marvelous Adam Brooks script. And against a backdrop of Paris, too!! It must be a winner. That's how Cash Box film critic John Goff raves in his review.

Virgin & Bowie Enter Recording, Distrib Pact

KEN BERRY, President of EMI Records International & Virgin Music Group Worldwide, announced last week the signing of a recording and distribution contract with David Bowie.

The "Thin White Duke's" first release for Virgin will be entitled Outside, a collaborative effort with famed producer Brian Eno, with whom Bowie worked in the late '70s on a trilogy of albums, including Low.

Bowie said of the deal, "I am delighted to be establishing this relationship with Virgin Records America. The company's long association with progressive left-field artists, combined with their independent background, makes me feel immediately at home. I am looking forward to working with Virgin in what I'm sure will be a long and fruitful relationship."

Financial details of the pact could not be obtained at press time. One report, however, says that Virgin is negotiating to obtain of Bowie's extensive back catalog, which most recently has been released through Rykodisc.

In recent years Virgin has scored major successes with Janet Jackson, as well as breaking Smashing Pumpkins to platinum status. In addition, they scored a surprising chart success with the Rolling Stones'

David Bowie

Voodoo Lounge, the first album delivered from the band as part of a lucrative long term contract.

The success of the Stones, as well as the recent prosperity seen by such artists as Tom Petty and Neil Young, bodes well for Bowie, who with the right album, could return to the upper echelon of the music scene, thanks to his undying influence on many of today's young acts. Bowie's last solo album was released in 1993 on Savage Records. Eno's presence, as well as name, will be a key factor in the advance hype of the new CD and may play a role in attracting twentysomething audience. A tour from Bowie, who is expected to support the record with live performances, will also likely spur album sales.

And what does the industry think about the chances for the new Bowie album. According to Mike Halloran, Program Director for 91X in San Diego, a leading Modern Rock station, "When you get to that stage, like an Iggy or someone, where you're one of the grandfathers of the scene, you have to be given to your props. There'll definitely be a place for (the new album) here. Especially with Eno involved." As for the audience response, Halloran said, "It depends. If Brian lets it rock out, the album will probably do pretty well."

As for the retail perspective, Terry Currier, owner of Portland-based Music Millennium commented: "It's gonna depend on the record, but Bowie has a real cult following that's been around for over 25 years. First week out of the box, those hard-core fans are gonna grab the record, after that though it depends on what kind of record he makes. Bowie's never really been predictable, and he should be commended for making those kind of changes, where other artists don't. But it's hard to say whether or not radio and retail will accept those changes." (By Steve Baltin)

REVIEWS by Steve Baltin

VARIOUS ARTISTS: The Basketball Diaries: Original Soundtrack (Island 524093-2)

Since it's publication in 1978, Jim Carroll's autobiographical memoirs have been a cult classic. As such, the soundtrack to the movie version features bands that were likely clued into Carroll's hip book; Pearl Jam, Flea and Soundgarden among them. Appropriately though, the star of the album is Carroll, who had some success with his own band in the early '80s. He appears on five of the CD's 15 tracks, including his nostalgic punk hit, "People Who Died," and a duet with Pearl Jam on the song, "Catholic Boy." However, his spoken word performances, particularly "I Am Alone," provide the record's soul. One can only hope that the kids who buy the record to hear PJ Harvey's hit, "Down By The Water," will be able to grasp the bittersweet beauty of Carroll's readings.

MORBID ANGEL: Domination (Giant 24612-2)

The most amazing thing about the new record from perpetual purveyors of doom, Morbid Angel, is that someone paid them to do this. If you listen to the record backwards, which sounds the same as it does forwards, you can hear them chanting over and over "sucker." The CD wouldn't be so bad if not for the way they bastardize children's nursery rhymes, using variables of "All the king's horses..." and "When the wind blows..." If you purchase, or know anyone who purchases a copy of this record, please alert the media, or hold a press conference.

P.O.L.: Parade Of Losers (Giant 7414-A)

This quartet are a cross between Cheap Trick, The Tubes, who they cover with "White Punks On Dope," and "Beavis & Butt-Head." And they're a #!#!@ blast. Straight forward '70s flavored pop melodies back such classic song titles as "Sux 2 B U," "Hemphhead," "People Suck" and "She's Dead." In addition, the liner notes for the record feature cartoons of the band members in various positions, including on the toilet, puking up a woman and one guy as a superhero. P.O.L. may be just that, but at least they have a sense of humor about it, and in the end, that may be what matters the most.

THE ORB: Orbus Terrarum (Island 314 524 099)

The mastermind behind The Orb, Paterson, has created a CD that takes the phrase "ambient" to new levels. Completely programmed, the seven-song over 70-minute record, is what will likely happen to music when computers take over the world. Surprisingly though, that thought seems almost comforting from the cool, yet soulful, sounds that The Orb produce throughout the record. This is late night background music at its finest. Be warned though, this is a CD that must be listened to all the way through for full impact, preferably with the lights down low.

YO LA TENGO: Electr-O-Puro (Matador 92550-2)

The seventh record from this trio, a duo for their first four albums, inspires hallucinations of rainbows on two levels. The first being its lovely Sunday morning sound, highlighted most notably on "Pablo And Andrea." The second being the surprisingly melodic notes that rift from the speakers. Yo La Tengo is not a band normally associated with such sweet dreams, but they carry off the lovely rifts superbly, and consistently throughout the CD. However, on the slightly tribal infused "False Alarm" they show themselves to be more than a one-note group. Fans of songs will thank Yo La Tengo for the gift that is Electr-O-Puro.

PICK OF THE WEEK

BEN LEE: Grandpaw Would (Grand Royal 0015-2)

In some circles, the 17 year-old Lee has been treated as the second coming. With the lineage associated with his debut solo effort—he's also in a Chicago band called Noise Addict—it's not surprising critics have been so quick to praise the singer/songwriter. The 18-song collection was produced by Liz Phair producer Brad Wood and Phair provides backing vocals on the tracks "Pop Queen" and "Away With The Pixies." Need I say more. Only that Lee's quick lyrics, acoustic-based Pixies' sounding hooks and his sweet voice make this an album worthy of the hype. Be it on the delightful "Away With The Pixies" or the lovely "Side View," Lee shows a knack for songwriting that gives credence to the argument, "you either have it or you don't," because at 17 he's light years ahead of people twice his age. Other highlights include the rocking "Song 4 You," "I'm With The Star" and "Love Song." An album that must be heard to be believed.

THE RHYTHM

EastWest/EEG recording artist Gerald Levert was recently presented with a platinum plaque for his current album Groove On. The award was presented backstage after the first of two sold-out shows with Gladys Knight at New York City's Paramount Theater. THE ESSENCE OF THE MATTER: In the spirit of a Silver Anniversary, Essence magazine, the successful publication that has given a voice to African-American women, has a phat menu of events planned for July 1-3 in New Orleans, including the "Essence Music Festival." This first time festival has attracted a billing that will rival some of the top artists on the charts and other artists that have a name in various facets of the African-American experience. Essence magazine, based in New York and wrangled by editor-in-chief Susan Taylor, celebrates 25 years of publishing with this music festival, a series of seminars featuring political, business and entertainment luminaries, and a number of other activities that will take place in advance of the July festival.

The festival is a joint venture with mega-promoter George Wein's Festival Productions, and the main stage will be the Louisiana Superdome. Guest hosts include Sinbad, Queen Latifah and Bill Cosby. Among the artists already confirmed for this event are Luther Vandross, Patti LaBelle, Gladys Knight (July 1), Boyz II Men, Mary J. Blige, Johnny Gill, Aaliyah, (July 2), Maze Featuring Frankie Beverly, Anita Baker, Barry White, Earth, Wind & Fire and Gerald Albright (July 3). In addition to the main stage, there will be several lounge shows featuring a cornucopia of music ranging from the Ohio Players, Dianne Reeves, the Jimmy Smith Quartet, Bahama Junkanoos and The Dirty Dozen Brass Band to the The Stanley Turrentine Quartet, Cassandra Wilson, Lorez Alexandria, Little Milton and Ramsey Lewis.

This ambitious offering is expected to draw some 150,000 people over the course of the three days. Wein says the festival is a demonstration of African-American music's singular influence on the nation and world's culture. He said the Essence Music Festival "is original in concept and scope, a celebration of unity and harmony in every sense." Special floor seating at the show will run $55, while other seating will range from $45-$20. The seminars, which will feature names such as the Rev. Jesse Jackson and Lewis Brown, in addition to a slate of Essence magazine editors and others, will be free to the public.

Virgin Records recording artist and legendary DJ Frankie Knuckles (right) poses with collaborator Adeva and video director Paris Barclay, who shot the video for "Too Many Fish," the single from Knuckles' sophomore effort Welcome To The World set for May 23 release.

SOUND NIBBLES: Ice Cube did say: "This movie should make a big money grip." Well, in its first five days of release, Friday, the screenwriting and film executive production debut for Ice Cube, opened with $6.6 million for a per screen average of $7,618.

For a film that was made on a budget of $2.3 million, even if releasing company New Line Cinema spent that same amount driving the film (it's almost certain they didn't), then this movie has made money. The Priority Records soundtrack to the film was #1 atop the Cash Box pop albums list and just missed the same calling on the magazine's R&B albums list, ultimately registering at #2. We incorrectly listed it #1 on the R&B list in last week's cover story (sorry). New Line could add screens, it could hold fast; but even a 30% drop off in box office would give this film a solid hold on a big grip for all involved. The "old school" soundtrack to this film, featuring artists like Rose Royce and The Ohio Players, dropped last week into the marketplace and is expected to attract a different demographic of listeners...Mercury Records vp of black music promotion Michael Johnson says that they will be driving hard to bring New York-based rapper Jemini The Gifted One's debut album for the label, Scars And Pain home. A student of the old school, Jemini has made noise with the track "Funk Soul Sensation"...Look here next week for a peek at P-Street Records, the Perspective Records street label that could rise up out of the concrete jungle like a street lamp and illuminate the company's path to fortunes in the edgy hip-hop market. To be continued...."Hard Hittin'" Harry, who holds forth at Double XXposure's rap publicity division, worked the recent Seventh Sign Prods. hip-hop reggae showcase that featured Dreaded Blunts and Poppa Levi. Held at the St. John's Masonic Auditorium in East Orange, NJ, Eric B., formerly of Eric B & Rakim, Dante Beze of the NBC-TV show Cosby Mysteris and Asondra Hunter, a writer with the Aquarian Weekly judged the set.

Elektra Entertainment Group's Ol' Dirty Bastard recently treated the Los Angeles retail, press and radio to a listening party for his Wu-Tang offshoot, debut album Return to the 36 Chambers: The Dirty Version. Ol' Dirty and the Brooklyn Zoo kicked flavor from the first single "Brooklyn Zoo." # ARCHERS OF LOAF: Alias Rock Superstars?

By Steve Baltin

IT'S EARLY TO CALL CHAPEL HILL'S Archers Of Loaf rock superstars, but the "p-word" is there for this burgeoning quartet. Their 1993 release, Icky Mettle was praised by critics as being brilliant pop, leaving them with a growing following in the college scene and setting the stage for a mini buzz to accompany their new Alias Records album, Vee Vee. Since the record's release in March, the North Carolina band has opened for hot Geffen act Weezer and is now joining up with seminal college rockers The Flaming Lips for a brief tour.

Archers Of Loaf

How have things changed for the band since they have become a "buzz" act? According to bassist Matt Gentling, "It's weird. We can totally separate the buzz band things we're doing from reality. Those aren't our reality. I'd much rather just being traveling around, playing music. I think we'd all like to expand and do well. But as far as being buzz bands or wowing young audiences, we pretty much just wanna play our music. And if things don't happen because of that, then they don't happen."

Life on the road necessitates events happening, though. Like the incident with the Ryder truck. "The Ryder truck got towed in New York, even though it was rightfully parked. Ryder had like over $500 in outstanding parking tickets and their (the state of New York) policy is they'll tow any of that company's (Ryder) units."

The reason for the Ryder truck in the first place was the tragedy involving the group's former van. Gentling said, "Our van died for good and we had to leave it behind in Seattle. It was the saddest day. We wanna give it like a viking burial or blow it up, something like that. We're gonna go back and see it when we're through Seattle with the Lips."

However, being an up and coming act on major tours is not all bad. For example, the band got to hang out with their "favorite" super model—Paulina Porzikova, who did happen to be with her husband, The Cars' Ric Ocasek. They also found that Billy Gibbons, of ZZ Top, "is a Loaf fan," which Gentling described as "about as cool as you can get."

How does the band follow up that kind of excitement, given that at the time of this interview they had yet to even hook up with the Lips? Gentling responded, "We'll be touring with the Lips so things are just gonna happen by themselves. We're gonna entrust it to fate. Traveling with the Lips you just don't get away with a mundane, or conventional, tour."

On the more serious side, one of the things that comes with success, especially for an indie band, is attention from the major labels. Gentling said of the new attention, "It's kind of confusing, because here we finally kind of forged a relationship with Alias and things are kind of settling down to a regular discourse and now these people are like 'Hey, how's it going? Great to meet you. When are you guys playing?' And we just to have say, 'We're fairly happily signed.' But, we're all pretty much opposed to going to a major label at this point. Not on moral grounds or idealistic grounds, it just seems like an impractical move for us at this point. We're enjoying having our freedom now. We don't wanna have to step into the promotional machine."

■ THE VOLUPTUOUS HORROR OF KAREN BLACK: The Anti-Naturalists (Triple X Records 51199-2)

Hearing TVHKB for the first time on record is kind of like having your virgin viewing experience of Wings Of Desire come on a small screen TV. You can tell there's something there, but you just ain't getting it. Having built their reputation as a live act in their hometown of NY, the group's performance art antics have taken them to the national stage of cultdom. Some of the humor comes through on "There's So Many Things That I Can Do" and "Water Coffin," while not exactly funny, has something great to it, though it's hard to figure out if it's comedic or tragic. Perhaps seeing the band live will answer the question.

■ CHALLENGE: Challenge (00-102)

In music classes throughout the world the new number one priority should be packaging. Forget about the music. There is far too much false advertising going on in music these days. This duo's name, and colorful CD artwork, lead one to the impression they might be indoctrinated into yet another alternative band's world, or perhaps one of a heavy metal act, but not a female disco Michael Bolton. And a female disco Michael Bolton pretty much says it all.

■ VAMPIRE RODENTS: Clockseed (Cargo 40422)

The fourth CD from the inappropriately named techno band, who say in the liner notes, "All VR compositions are Sample Based Compositions (SBC). So wake up and smell it folks!" is a Golden Palmonios type record of alternative/college acts, featuring 16 different guest vocalists. Among those included are performers from Killing Floor, Chemlab and Beatmistress. A couple of songs, particularly "Low Orbit," get a strong Depeche Mode feeling going on. For fans of the genre, the record is a must have.

Beyond that though, it's not likely to convert any non-believers.

■ STEVE MORSE BAND: Structural Damage (High Street Records 10332-2)

The Steve Morse Band might be considered rock by most, but they defy categorization, as this is simply music. Morse's virtuoso technique on the guitar leads them through countless different arrangements on this 11-song collection. Be it on the opening "Sacred Grounds" or "Native Dance," Morse shows why fans of Guitar Player have named him best overall guitarist five years in a row. Listening to Morse, and his band, which consists of Dave LaRue on electric bass and Van Romaine on drums and percussion, should simply be enjoyed as what it is. Superior playing.

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: Livin' Lounge (Continuum 19506)

Subtitled "The fabulous sounds of now," this compilation of the leaders of the blend between alternative and lounge is a delightful CD that teeters beautifully between parody and tribute of the genre Vegas made us all know and love. Starting off with The Wonderful World Of Joey's "Get Outta My Gal," which includes a well executed scat middle, the 14 artists here show a genuine knowledge of lounge music. While Buster Poindexter and Andy Priebow, formerly of Wall of Voodoo, are the best known contributors it's Love Jones, a happening L.A. act who steal the show with the Caribbean flavored "Whiskey, The Moon And Me." Other choice cuts include Donkey's "Private Dick" and "The Hanging," courtesy of the Lounge Lizards. This is a record that anyone who considers themselves hip must own.

News From The Commonwealth & Europe

By David Courtney

EMI TO SELL?: The speculation regarding the sale of the EMI Music Group to a U.S. media giant has increased in the past week. Thorn EMI's share value soared on Friday following reports in the U.S. financial press that Walt Disney is about to acquire EMI Music Group for $5 billion (£3.1 billion). Whether the speculation is true or not, it has been suggested that this could flush out other interested buyers. Shares rose 27 points to end the day on an all-year high of 1136 points, increasing the company's stock value to £4.8 billion. It has often been suggested that EMI was for sale, but like many others here in the UK, I have always maintained that it will never happen, or at least hope it doesn't. (I guess we do live in a world where anything can happen, and it does.)

MICHAEL RUMOURS DENIED: Last week I reported that rumours were flying around that George Michael was to sign a deal with Virgin Records and that he was on the verge of settling his long standing battle with Sony Music. Well, Dick Leahy, Michael's publisher and close advisor is playing this down. "There is no strength in any of these reports," insists Leahy. "Nothing has happened to change George's case and we still intend to take it to the Court of Appeal." Leahy denied that Michael has been in negotiations with any record companies and rejected the claim that he was about to sign with Virgin Records in the UK, backed by an international deal with David Geffen. (Watch this space.)

POLYGRAM SET FOR BIG SCORE AT IVORS: PolyGram/Island Music Publishing has led the way in nominations for this year's 40th Ivor Novello Awards. PolyGram have eight nominations across the eight categories. The achievement is said to be largely due to the success of the four times nominated Reg Presley's "Love Is All Around" and East 17's "Stay Another Day," which received two nominations. This follows the consolidation of the PolyGram and Island operations which took place last spring.

TROUBLE AT MILL: The first meeting of the newly formed performers body, the Association of United Recording Artists (AURA) which took place last Tuesday, was met by great criticism from Musicians Union music business advisor Horace Trubridge, who accused the body of splitting the performers community over new rights contained in the European Union rental directive. Apparently Trubridge had to disguise his identity to get into the meeting. Trubridge was quoted as saying, "The split threatened to undermine the performers battle for rights to royalties for public performance of sound recordings."

FLOYD'S UNIQUE PACKAGING: Pink Floyd's double live set, Pulse, is due for release on June 5 in unique packaging incorporating a flashing light on its spine. The album was recorded on the European leg of the band's 1994 tour. The CD will be packaged in a cardboard sleeve containing a battery and a LED located about two-thirds up the spine. The battery's power will allow it to continue flashing for around six months.

UK MUSIC MARKET IN GOOD SHAPE: UK consumers are still among the biggest music buyers in the world according to latest figures from the IFPI. With each consumer buying an average of 3.4 albums a year, the UK moves up one place in the rankings from fifth last year, overtaking Singapore's per capita spend which fell to 2.5 units. This is how they shaped up in 1994: (Figures in units, based on 1993 population figures) Source: IFPI.

U.S.	1,043.4 million	4.1

THE LATIN LOWDOWN

News From U.S. & Latin America

By Héctor Reséndez

SONY DISCOS' GEORGE ZAMORA SPEAKS OUT: George Zamora, Vice-President and General Manager of Sony Discos, was recently interviewed by Cash Box via telephone at his headquarters in Miami. At the division's helm for the past eight years, Zamora has been widely acknowledged as the "godfather" of the Latin music industry due to his background and expertise. Beginning in the American music industry in 1968 at age 17, Zamora worked 7 years for Henry Stone who was then president-owner of TK Productions in Miami. "I started at the bottom of the ladder to sales rep and then onto promotions as a sales rep for RCA in the southeast," Zamora recalls. He moved to Orlando in 1982 for a position with New York-based A International. Zamora left there as director of sales when he came to Sony Discos as its director of sales and marketing.

Zamora was asked about his label's present role in the Latin music market. "We are very content with our overall success in the market," he remarks. "Sony Discos is the number one label in the market. We have 32 to 38% of total market share. It's been this way for the past 6 years. As long as you have a balance of roster and aggressiveness in your A&R, you will be successful. We also thrive on competition." One true measure of this statement is the fact that Sony Discos has experienced a steady increase in sales with every year of Zamora's tenure. "But one needs to understand that Fonovisa has also done very well," he adds emphatically. "Our sister label, RMM Records has done very well too. The present condition of the Latin music industry is at an all-time high. And it will continue to grow in an upward fashion. Why? It's because of many factors such as the stability of the dollar, the increase in population, the growth in distribution which equals greater sales."

George Zamora.

What about the obstacles? Zamora expressed his frustration as to how new hits, specifically tropical and pop, are hard to break on the charts due to the conservative attitude by radio stations. Zamora was referring to the 142 Latin radio stations being monitored by BDS (Broadcast Data System) out of which 94 affect the charts. Out of those 94, there are 68-75 stations which have primarily Mexican regional and Tejano formats. This leaves about 18 tropical and 28 pop stations (with six as dual reporters). As a result, tropical artists receive less detections and opportunities to "crash" Billboard charts. Consequently, it also signifies a tremendous limitation of international exposure for these artists. Foreign markets like Colombia, Venezuela, Mexico, and Argentina look at these charts as the bible of the industry.

Soundscan is another area of controversy with Sony Discos. This system affects record sales in the sense that it reflects how a record is being sold. Because of the tremendous proliferation of Soundscan west of the Mississippi, the number one genre is Mexican regional. Zamora describes how markets like Puerto Rico are terribly neglected. "If you are selling 400,000 units of Jerry Rivera or 263,000 units of India and Soundscan either doesn't register it or barely makes it a hit, you can understand our frustration," Zamora says. "For a company like ours, who is involved in so many things like pop, tropical, tejano, and regional, it doesn't affect us as much as it does indies like RMM, MP, Rodven, or Karen. Are you going to say that Juan Luis Guerra is less popular than the Gipsy Kings? BDS charts don't reflect the true weight of Soundscan. As a result, it doesn't show the credibility or reality of the marketplace. Before committing to a chart, you must show a true balance of the marketplace."

How is Sony dealing with such obstacles like the Mexican economy? "The last four months have been horrendous," Zamora states. "We need to increase parallel imports. Nobody wins, neither America nor Mexico. Piracy is another heavy burden for Latin businesses, especially on the East Coast and Puerto Rico. The RIAA (Recording Industry Association of America) is working very strong against piracy," Zamora says.

What will be Sony's main focus for this coming year? "Being well balanced is the key to success," Zamora says. "Keeping aggressive in the areas of promotions, sales, marketing, and A&R. We have new artists like Rey Ruiz whose new album, En Cuerpo y Alma, had 150,000 units shipped the first week. Its #1 on the charts today," proudly beams Zamora. "We expect big things for this young man." On the Mexican regional front, Sony Discos plans to blitz the market with such artists as La Mafia, Fama, Vicente Fernandez, Alejandro Fernandez, Ramon Ayala, Jr., and Grupo Conspiración. Zamora will continue to break new artists while maintaining established artists.

REVIEWS By Hector Resendez

ANTONIO JOBIM: Brasileiro (Sony Latin Jazz, 81514) Producers: Paulo Jobim & Daniel Jobim. LATIN JAZZ.

Brazilian. What a simple, yet elegant homage to one of the great musical minds of that wonderful, mysterious city known as Rio de Janeiro. The word itself evokes images of a tropical oasis unmatched by no other. The late Antonio Carlos Jobim's music is embodied in this eclectic collection of songs produced by a host of the incredibly talented Jobim clan. The participation of Sting, Ron Carter, Marcio Montarroyos, and Raul de Souza is delightfully pleasing. Latin jazz buffs as well as lovers of authentic Brazilian music will find this album truly enchanting as well as mystically haunting.

RAMON AYALA, JR.: El Principe (Sony Discos, 81441) Producers: Ramon Ayala Garza & Ramon Ayala, Jr. REGIONAL MEXICAN.

While princes may come and go, this royal member of the regional Mexican generation holds on steadily to his crown. Ramon Ayala, Jr.'s brand of music is certain to hold a stronghold in a genre fraught with the stiffest of competition. Ayala evokes a real affiliation with his fans primarily because of the sincerity of his musical style. It's a real hometown feel which Ayala certainly reflects in this chartbustin' bound album.

LA MAFIA: Éxitos en Vivo (Sony Discos, 81520) Producer: Hermes. REGIONAL MEXICAN.

One of the mainstays of contemporary regional Mexican music, La Mafia's live concert album is certainly hip and slick. The foldout album jacket (or CD in this case) was definitely intended for in-home display. Undisputedly, an ingenious marketing tool. The one notable lacking virtue missing was a characteristic called spontaneity. La Mafia, in spite of its immense popularity, should infuse more effective abandon on the stage. Nevertheless, a very pleasing performance for hard-core fans everywhere.

PICK OF THE WEEK

RICK TREVINO: De Luz (Sony Discos, 81522) Producers: Steve Buckingham, Blake Chancey & Manny Benito. TEJANO.

The true magic about Rick Trevino is that he inspires the same emotional response in either Spanish or English. That is the true acid test of any performer. Just ask Julio Iglesias. Rick Trevino is the premiere country star of bilingual America. He is already a celebrity on the American scene. His first foray into the Spanish language market is just a small sampling of much bigger things to come.

Universal's Village Of The Damned Is The Original Enhanced

By John Goff

The bright-eyed new kids on the block.

AND THE RE-MAKES JUST KEEP ON A'COMIN'. First TV remakes, last month the Forties, now we skip the Fifties—somebody got something against The Girl Can't Help It?—and into the Sixties. 1960. Top of the decade, Ma!...No, that's the 30s?...Getting my decades mixed up. That's what happens when you re-view history too often.

At any rate this Village Of The Damned is John Carpenter's take on those nobody-knows-where-they-came-from kids, and it's a colorful one, voiding humanity and emotion for FX and DIGITAL SOUND!!!. And, in truth, it's not so much a "relevant" re-tooling (as some of these other pretentious re-makes purport to be) of a classic sci-fi than it is an enhanced homage. The screenplay, credited to David Himmelstein (auteur Carpenter incognito?), brings the setting from Midwich village in merry olde England's countryside to Midwich village on the much more scenic coastline of kookie California, gives a visiting UFO shadow for 90s sensibilities to run with and then alters a few of the central characters' relationships to one another. But it's basically the 1960 Stirling Silliphant and Wolf Rilla (original director) and George Barclay credited script—all based on the book The Midwich Cuckoos by John Wyndham—overlaid with color and FX. Curiously, however, the Carpenter version has less emotional connection between the humans than the original while giving the alien children an emotional benefit of doubt through one surviving child and therefore, hope or foreshadowing, at fade out.

The color, FX and visual scope Carpenter and DP Gary B. Kibbe open this Damned version up with is fun and unpretentious. A few continuity problems—how can a woman burn to a charred crisp (man in the original) but her purse, containing keys for another character's escape, be not even singed?—only momentarily distract. Carpenter adds a few special touches aimed at making the audience jump, which he's so good at doing, and succeeds at grabbing the collective attention.

The nod to the Nineties shows up mostly in the casting of more feminine characters with two, Kirstie Alley and Linda Koslowski, being central. Alley takes on the role of a Government agent/scientist and keeps it business-like. Christopher Reeve replaces George Sanders' cerebral pursuit of the role with more physicality and detachment, albeit the latter brought on by the loss of wife, and is solid in the role. Koslowski becomes the emotional link to her child's bridge from coldness—mother love in lieu of father-bonding from the first one—to feeling and is touching in necessary moments. Thomas Dekker as her child walks the tightest rope for a performer in the cast, as emotional explorer and realizing the power he possesses at the same time and he pulls it off nicely. Lindsey Haun as the leader gives her character a hard coldness, also believable.

Meredith Salenger touches in her few moments while Mark Hamill dips a bit too far into dementia rather than tormentia as the local priest. Peter Jason broods well as a man thinking his wife's been unfaithful. And the always reliable character actor Buck Flower is solid as a school handyman and expertly bridges the serious with some laughter just prior to being broomstick-driven to his death by the kids. You have to see Flower high-stepping backward up a ladder to believe it.

Special visual effects by Industrial Light & Magic, combined with the power of digital sound push the energy force of the children's eyes and bring an audience up in their seats in a far superior manner than the original, which was, in its day, revolutionary. Case in point: the climactic ending, repeated almost shot for shot, with the mental destruction of Reeve's brick wall thought-protection is highly enhanced here. Ultimately Carpenter pays tribute to the original material rather than make an attempt at laying claim to it as his own. Interestingly in credits, the director fades his own possessory above-the-title declaration prior to the Village Of The Damned, allowing it to stand alone and unchallenged before its own fade out.

Michael Preger and Sandy King produced. Ted Vernon, Shep Gordon and Andre Blay executive produced with James Jacks and Sean Daniel co-execs.

20th & PolyGram's French Kiss, Not Just A Kiss, It's Love!

By John Goff

Meg Ryan and Kevin Kline strike sparks to a Parisian backdrop.

THIS ONE'S A BEAUTIFUL WINNER! If you don't feel like dancing and romancing after French Kiss there's no amour in your soul, mes amis, just pull the grass up over yourself and zip it up.

Maybe you thought Lawrence Kasdan had been crushed to death after Wyatt and all that horse...malarkey toppled back on him as he attempted to push that bloated carcass up the hill. No. He went to Paris and found happiness in an Adam Brooks script with an absolutely super cast headed by Meg Ryan at her absolute best and Kevin Kline following Ryan's lead.

Every once in a while a movie comes along that, while watching it you have the great, joyful feeling that: 'these people had fun making this,' and it comes across so vividly that you have fun watching it. French Kiss is one of those. The impression that Brooks even had fun while he was writing jumps off the screen. This is the most solid, all-around script thus far in '95. He cared about these characters and their situation and so we care. Now, I realize that may be a put off for some. More and more it seems audiences don't want to care; they simply want to sit in the darkness, away from feeling and watch dispassionate, self-obsessed characters self-obsess even more and think that's fine movie making. Not so. French Kiss is fine movie making.

Meg Ryan's a U.S. citizen engaged to marry Canadian Timothy Hutton. She's hilariously afraid to fly and doesn't accompany him on a trip to Paris where he falls in love with curvy croissant Renee Humphrey. A determined-to-get-him-back Ryan gets on a plane, is adversarially aided in getting off the ground by jewel smuggler Kevin Kline and they begin their love story without knowing it. There's a sub-plot involving friendly French policeman Jean Reno chasing Kline which is wonderfully interwoven.

Kasdan and his DP, Owen Roizman incorporate the city of Paris and South of France locales lovingly, beautifully, and not simply as a travelogue. The terrain becomes as integral a part, a character, of Brooks' story and the film, as Ryan and Kline.

With her performance as Kate, Meg Ryan displays a physical comedy aspect to her talent that would give Lucille Ball at her peak a run for her money. Ryan shows she's got it all, drama to slapstick, she can ride the rainbow of emotional colors from dark to brilliant light. She's going to be around for a long, long time.

Kline gets into the French manner terrifically, working that air-of-superiority with a wistful backbeat to his performance which keeps him likeable, even when his character's being perfectly obnoxious French.

Jean Reno, so impressive as the simple-minded killer in last year's darker The Professional, makes a total turnaround as the French cop/friend of Kline's, and he's just as solid. Timothy Hutton as Ryan's scattered, needy boyfriend brings an airheadedness, sort of a male blonde-joke touch to his character which allows us to like him even when he's turning Ryan's world upside down. It's just a super mix of script, direction and performing talent all together at the right time and right place.

James Newton Howard does with the music what James Newton Howard usually does with music for a film: integrate, supplement and move your emotions, wonderfully whispering in your ear even when you're not aware of it.

The Twentieth Century Fox and PolyGram Filmed Entertainment presentation of A Working Title production and Prufrock Pictures was produced by Tim Bevan, Eric Fellner, Meg Ryan and Kathryn F. Galan and executive produced by Charles Okun.

Panther Opens Old Wounds

By M.R. Martinez

Members of the Black Panther Party for Self-Defense strike a pose.

FILMS THAT DEPICT VOLATILE PERIODS OF HISTORY more often than not accomplish a few things. They can awaken and freshen old sentiments in those who experienced the energy of those times, and they can also spark debate over the accuracy of the events, people, places and things depicted in the film. And then sometimes they can entertain. In the case of director Mario Van Peebles' film Panther, culled from a script penned by his father Melvin from a book he wrote about the legendary activist group, all three are accomplished.

It's hard for you not to admire, as the film story goes, the original intent of the Oakland, CA-born black community activist group, or to even feel as though (whether you lived through those times or not) that many of the inequities, racial strife, rampant police brutality and societal ills are being revisited right now. And while some have challenged in the press the factual tenacity of Van Peebles' filmic account, there's little doubt that what he puts on the screen ultimately manipulates as it entertains.

This Black Panther story is told from the perspective of fictional character Judge, who seems to be a composite of many of the young black men in the Oakland community that were attracted to the Panther movement. Played with simmering insight by Kadeem Hardison (TV's A Different World), Judge is the connective tissue in this saga, which follows the formation of the party in late 1966 by its chairman Bobby Seale (Courtney B. Vance) and minister of defense Huey P. Newton (Marcus Chong), through its recruitment campaign, negative press attacks, and the concentrated government-backed, often violent war to bring the group down.

While the subject matter remains tenaciously serious (and sometimes graphically violent), there are moments that evoke laughter as well as moments that African-American audiences will surely react with pride.

There are fine performances throughout, including Hardison's ex-Viet Nam soldier, Chong's dichotomous Newton, Bokeem Woodbine as Panther soldier Tyrone, rapper Nefertiti as Panther female foot soldier Alma and Anthony Jones as treacherous drug dealer Sabu. There are a number of other cameo performances by familiar actors and music artists, which the younger Van Peebles assembles, and from whom he mostly with skill extracts the proper screen contributions. Eddie Pei's cinematography is unobtrusive and captures the various moods of the film with the proper visual attitude.

Depending on where you were during this period of change and awakening, Panther will open old wounds or intrigue and entertain.

The Working Title Films, MVP Films and Tribeca Prods. production was co-produced by the Van Peebles with Preston Holmes. Executive producers are Eric Fellner and Tim Bevan. Gramercy Pictures released the film.

Springsteen, Bodyguard Join RIAA Best Sellers Lists

BRUCE "THE BOSS" SPRINGSTEEN'S 1984 rock heavyweight Born In The USA last month reached the 15 million sales plateau, and the soundtrack to The Bodyguard, which featured Whitney Houston, reached the 14 million unit sales mark in April, making it the top selling soundtrack of all time, according to figures released last week by the Recording Industry Assn. of America (RIAA).

Additionally, the RIAA reported certification of 22 gold, 17 platinum and 34-multi-platinum album, in addition to six gold and one platinum single. The year's first video single was awarded platinum sales certification, and one platinum longform video was certified.

The Boss' new sales figures put him third on the list of all time best selling albums, behind only Michael Jackson's Thriller (24 million) and Fleetwood Mac's Rumours (17 million). In addition to rising to number four on the all time overall best selling list in the April tally, The Bodyguard soundtrack became the top selling soundtrack of all time, cresting a list that includes Saturday Night Fever, Purple Rain and Dirty Dancing (each at 11 million), and Grease, Footloose and The Lion King (each at 8 million).

AARC Gets Universal Settlement For Recordings Fund Distrib

Linda Bocchi (l), executive director of AARC, receives settlement documents from David Cone, president of Bopp du Wopp, Inc., independent record company based in Toledo, OH.

THE ALLIANCE OF ARTISTS AND RECORDING COMPANIES (AARC), a not-for-profit organization representing artists and record companies with regard to Audio Home Recording Act (AHRA) royalties, announced it has reached a universal settlement of the 1994 Sound Recordings Fund proceedings. Once those monies, which total approximately $350,000, are transferred to AARC by the U.S. Copyright Office, AARC will distribute them to its participants and the settling parties.

"I'm happy to report that the 1994 settlement took just under six weeks to negotiate," said Linda Bocchi, AARC's executive director. "Not only is this a tribute to all parties involved, but the successful completion of the 1994 proceedings means that the funds will go directly to the artist and record company claimants."

AARC was formed two years ago in response to passage of the Audio Home Recording Act of 1992, which requires that manufacturers and importers of digital audio recorders and blank digital audio recording media pay royalties into the U.S. Copyright Office. Two-thirds of these royalties are placed into a Sound Recordings Fund for distribution to featured artists and sound recording copyright owners.

Capitol And Yoko Ono's Rock Raise Money For AmFAR

THE HARD ROCK CAFE in New York City was the site of a special breakfast event celebrating Yoko Ono's new Capitol Records release, New York Rock. Ono was joined by Mathilde Krim, Ph.D., founding co-chair and board chairman of the American Foundation for AIDS Research (AmFAR) and Charles Koppelman, EMI Records Group NA chairman/CEO to announce a $100,000 donation from sales of New York Rock.

The album is the original cast recording from Ono's off-Broadway musical that ran at NY's WPA Theatre in March and April of last year. Featuring more than 30 numbers, the show's plot centers around the universal concerns of love, relationships, violence, survival and life in NYC and the contemporary world. Capitol's recording on New York Rock was released May 2 with, in addition to the music from the show, a bonus track which is an alternate version of the ballad "Never Say Goodbye," a poignant duet sung in the show by the male-female lovers and done here as a male/male duet.

In donating the check, Ono commented, "The AIDS epidemic is affecting the lives of all of us and therefore, it is in our interest to participate as much as we can in the battle against this disease. What AmFAR is doing through research may one day bring us the cure, which is what we are all praying for. I am very glad to help focus the attention on AmFAR's efforts through the release of this album."

Ricky Nelson Spotted On Hollywood's Rock Walk

RICKY NELSON will be inducted into Hollywood's Rock Walk May 8, the day that would have marked the performer's 55th birthday. The ceremony will take place at noon at the Guitar Center on Sunset Boulevard.

Nikki Rose: Country's In Her Heart

SOONER OR LATER is more than just the title of Nikki Rose's debut album on Platinum Plus Records. It could easily stand as Rose's credo when it comes to the music she loves—country music.

"We chose that name because I always said that it would happen sooner or later," Rose says of her musical career. As a self-professed lover of singing, Rose's vocal talents first presented themselves while still in high school. "I performed a lot in school as part of the choir," Rose says. "I've always loved to sing."

That love of singing and performing first led Rose to front a band some seven years ago. "The first five years I performed in a rock band, mainly because I like the challenge and competitiveness of it," Rose says. "Ultimately, she returned to her first and one true love—country music."

"Country is in my heart," Rose says. "My family listened to country music a lot while I was growing up. It was something I was raised on." Boasting such musical influences as Tammy Wynette, Loretta Lynn, Tanya Tucker and Reba McEntire, Rose's first steps towards her debut country album began by entering local talent contests. Those performances then led Rose to appear on a national talent contest, where she was approached by a talent scout.

From there, Rose headed into the studio to cut an album that contains three heartfelt ballads, along with some dynamic, upbeat singles that incorporate her country roots along with her energetic persona. "I was able to choose songs that suited me best," says Rose. "I spent about three months preparing and practicing before we went into the recording studio for two days."

With a passion for performing, Rose says she is currently searching for a band so that she can hit the road in support of Sooner Or Later, which includes her latest single "Tied To The Track" currently at #82 on the Cash Box Top 100 Country Singles chart. "We need a dedicated band that's willing to work with a Nashville recording artist," adds Rose.

In the end, Rose says that with the support of her family, to which this talented artist dedicated the album, it comes down to one basic thing: "I love music and sharing it with others."

Patriot recording artist Lisa Brokop (right) stopped by Westwood One to chat with Pam Green, Director/Artist Relations.

■ COUNTRY PRAISE: With You In Mind (Sky-line)

This debut project is christian country at its purest. Joanne and Bree Carraway, a mother/daughter duet, have created an album full of testimonies and tight harmonies. Songs such as "Lord Of The Valleys," "He's Making A Way" and "I Can't Picture Myself Without Jesus," take messages straight from the Bible and bring forth modern-day inspiration via fiddle and steel guitar. With all songs on the album written by Joanne, Country Praise delivers just what their name promises.

Jukebox Postage Stamp Issued

CHICAGO—A new postage stamp featuring a four-color reproduction of the historic Wurlitzer 1015 Bubbler jukebox, was issued by the U.S. Postal Service this past March 17.

The stamp is being sold to U.S. businesses and at most post offices in quantities of 500, 3,000 and 10,000.

For years, the AMOA jukebox promotion committee has been lobbying for such a stamp to commemorate the Bubbler's 50th anniversary in 1996-97. However, Joe Pankus, president of Wurlitzer Jukebox Company is credited for his successful efforts in getting the stamp issued.

TENTH AND COUNTING! This was no run of the mill post-ACME showing—not by a long shot! The recently held event, hosted by Atlas Distributing, Inc., at its Chicago headquarters, marked the distrib's tenth anniversary celebration—post-ACME show gala! Attendance exceeded expectations, despite complaints about "industry dol-drumms." The showroom housed a splendid array of equipment which operators were anxious to see, evaluate and BUY! Much business was written! What a great way to celebrate an anniversary while offering some really tempting deals to kick-off the spring buying season. As usual, there was plenty to eat and drink and a full line-up of factory representatives in attendance. Pictured here are (l-r): Tom Stewart of Atlas-Detroit and Antique Apparatus prexy Glen Streeter talkin' some shop!

ALG Offers Crime Patrol For CD-ROM

CHICAGO—Crime Patrol, the deluxe arcade game from American Laser Games, is now available for the factory's CD-ROM Entertainment System, making this live-action shooter affordable for street locations. Operators can obtain Crime Patrol in conversion kit form or as a complete CD-ROM system unit, in a cabinet with 25" screen and sturdy, lightweight plastic pistols.

Crime Patrol on the CD-ROM system is just like the deluxe arcade piece, but in a street location form. The theme has players assisting law enforcement officers in thwarting thieves, drug dealers, gangsters, terrorists and other criminals through increasingly difficult levels of action. A choice of scenarios on each level of play—Rookie, Undercover, SWAT and Delta Force—gives players numerous options for challenging action. Scenarios include shoot-outs at a bank hold-up, a gang fight, a crack house bust, a nuclear power plant take-over and hostage situations with international terrorists.

Further information may be obtained by contacting American Laser Games, 4801 Lincoln Road NE, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87109.
