Artists: Point Of View On The Short Career Cycle

Are artists giving themselves and their audiences a fair shake? It's disturbing to think that they're not, but there is evidence to indicate that this is so, particularly among many of the solo singer-writers. Among the more thoughtful spokesmen in the business, Jac Holzman of Elektra Records feels that things are getting out of hand, contributing as much as any other factor to a "short cycle for the careers of many artists."

Holzman is not necessarily thinking in terms of an artist's failure to provide a regular flow of recording product, but his "pulling away from the audience that made him a star in the first place." As the exec puts it, they have become "excessively laid-back, getting further and further removed from their fans." Holzman does not mean to deny artists a point in time when they might develop a need to remove themselves from the public spotlight, but, he feels, this can be carried too far. "They must schedule at least 40 or 50 dates a year, and return to where they've been and go where they have yet to be," he explains. On the artist's behalf, Holzman believes the artist requires audience "feed-back, to touch them" in order to further their art. They must allocate time so that they even perform once more in the smaller showcases where they got their start, Holzman feels.

The industry is well aware of the dire necessity—in view of the tight playlist situation, in particular—for artists to reach out to their audiences in the pure business sense. What Holzman stresses, however, is a philosophical commitment, too, by today's star performers. It is reaching out beyond the scope of their studio work, beyond the need for turnover of their recorded wares. It is a need to relate, with immediacy and spontaneity, to those who are eager for an entertaining dialog with their favorite performers.

The recording is, of course, a marvelous instrument for communication of one's art to those who are willing to listen. Yet, the disembodied voice of the performer as heard on recordings is but one form of communication, that of artist to listener. The listener desires a form of communication to the artist. The artist who fails in getting this "feed-back" is going to lose his way, and lose out to the outstanding artist who recognize the dual meaning of communication.

To "pull away" from their audience can deny artists the very breath of their creativity.

FCC To Anderson: Supply Us With Payola Evidence

Chairman Burch Letter Requests Information

NEW YORK — If the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) is to make a formal inquiry into charges of a "new payola scandal" in the music business—as charged by investigative reporter Jack Anderson in his March 31 column—then the Federal agency wants more concrete evidence from Anderson himself.

Dean Burch, chairman of the FCC, has written a letter to Anderson on the subject, since Anderson's basic thrust is that "... disk jockeys and program directors across the country are provided with free vacations, prostitutes, cash and cars as payoffs for song-plugging." As a result of the 1959 payola scandal, Congress passed legislation making bribes to radio personnel a Federal crime.

In his letter, Burch, noting the Mar. 31 Anderson report, states: "The Commission had made inquiry into hundreds of allegations of payola practices, and it makes many field investigations into such charges. This is consistent with Commission practice of investigating all alleged violations of the law when information is available to indicate such investigations may be fruitful. In line with this policy, we would appreciate you furnishing the Commission with any information that might provide a basis for an investigation by this Commission."

As of presstime, Anderson had yet to bring up the subject in his subsequent columns.

RIAA Reply

Meanwhile, the initial Anderson column received a speedy reply from the Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA). Stan Gortikov, recently named permanent president

English Price Confusion In Tax Cut, Price Rises

LONDON — Following the new Budget in which the Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber reduced the purchase tax on records from 45% to 25% comes news that Phonogram, in line with Decca and EMI, is passing on the whole of the reduction to the customer with a single retailing at 45p. The International budget line remains constant at £1.25 but the Popular and Classical series comes down from £2.15 to £1.99 and Vertigo from £2.40 to £2.25.

RCA, on the other hand, was planning an increase anyway so the reduction in purchase tax passed on to the consumer has been partially consumed by increased manufacturing costs. An RCA single therefore retails at 47p. The Popular Vanguard and Barclay series go up from £2.19 to £2.20 and the Popular budget line remains at 99p.

To make matters more confusing, CBS has raised the price of singles up to 49p with Pop Albums at £2.09 instead of £2.29, Classics at £2.29 instead of £2.49 with the Harmony budget series remaining at 99p. Its method has been to round off all prices to 9p. The Kinney Group (WEA) is retailing singles at 49p.

Companies are expected to increase their prices in due course. It is the poor retailer who bears the brunt of the confused state of the industry and instead of being able to do his job of selling records he has become bogged down with working out the price of each individual record. The retail trade is crying out for a standardized price structure on records and the sooner it materializes the better for all concerned—the manufacturer, the retailer and the customer.

FRONT COVER:

Tex, a name usually associated with country music, is also a primary figure on the pop/soul scene. Then and now. As singer and writer. As a figure who together with producer Buddy Killen, has carved out a sound that's never been duplicated. Not that folks haven't tried. Joe Tex is back in the gold with his Dial (distributed by Mercury) "I Gotcha" single (#5) and has just released an LP of the same title.

His first waxing was a huge hit, "Hold What You Got." It brought a preachin' posture to the Top 40 of the time and that special one-to-one musical relationship still works magic for him, both pop and r&b. His music and lyrics are raw soul, and yet his performances have had little trouble selling pop, establishing himself as a stylist of the first order. "Skinny Legs And All" was a million seller for him four years back. Joe Tex means business and music; he certainly qualifies as a rare stalwart soulman in an ever-changing milieu.

Newton Mapping Music Wing Of GSF Inc.; Named Co. Pres.

NEW YORK — Larry Newton is returning to the music business as part of his role as president of GSF Inc.

Formed in March, 1971 as an indie film production company, GSF plans a record operation and music publishing-management affiliate, according to Robert S. Sinn, chairman. This phase of the firm's operations will be known as GSF Music and Productions Inc.

Newton, who has left his post as vp of world-wide sales of ABC Pictures Corp., said the label will be a full-line operation "in every sense, with strong representation in pop, country, soul

NEW YORK — Response to last week's announcement of the Sly and Family Stone closed circuit TV concert (April 7th), also featuring Shawn Phillips and Ruth Copeland and being telecast to three colleges, indicates that this will be a "dynamic new medium for bringing the world's leading pop artists directly to youth throughout the country," according to Neal McCutcheon, president of Neal McCutcheon Associates Inc., executive producers of the event.

Accordingly, expansion plans are already being formulated for further events, he declared.

The team assisting McCutcheon is comprised of individuals and companies combining expertise in all areas. Joshua White and Lee Erdman are producing the Sly television origination, with White directing. White is well known in the rock field for his innovative light shows at the Filmore East, Woodstock, and many other rock music concerts and music festivals. More recently, he has pioneered in the use of closed circuit TV and jazz." Initial releases from the label, to be named shortly, may come in mid-summer, Newton added, with a network of indie distributors now being line-up.

Newton, a 20-year music industry veteran, became associated with the American Broadcasting Co. when he joined ABC Records in New York in 1956 as vp and national sales manager. In 1965, he replaced Sam Clark as president of the label. Clark had moved over to ABC as head of non-broadcast activities at ABC, which includes the ABC/Dunhill labels. Newton assumed his film post at ABC in 1970.

Newton started his music career in Philadelphia in the late 40's. He later formed a successful indie label, Derby Records.

As president of ABC Records, he also spearheaded the company's development of ABC Record & Tape Sales, a rack-distribution operation.

Knight Says He's Suspended Contract Of GFR

NEW YORK — The recording contracts of Grand Funk Railroad have been placed in suspension, according to Terry Knight. Knight said he made the move "for the group's failure to comply with the terms of the contract and for breaking their exclusive recording artist agreement, Mark Farmer, Donald Brewer and Melvin Schacher, professionally known as "Grand Funk Railroad", have been notified that their now existing Recording Artist Agreement with Good Knight Productions has been placed in Suspension until the terms of the Agreement are met".

Knight revealed that, since the members of the group have notified him in writing that they have "terminated" their contracts with him, Knight said he has been forced to cease negotiations in the group's behalf for a new recording deal and immediately suspend their contracts "until the matter is settled".

When asked how long he expected the Suspension to last, Knight said: "that's up to Grand Funk. The usual terms of recording agreements provide that when an artist breaks his contract the company has the right to suspend it for as long as the artist refuses to perform. It could take weeks or it could take years before the group can record again. It's all up to them."

Merc's Southern Strategy Reaps Hit Product Flow

NEW YORK — Mercury Records has launched its own "Southern offensive."

The label has long had a deep commitment to the South in both a musical and a business sense, according to label president Irwin Steinberg. From the early days of rock'n'roll, Mercury has been involved with Southern performers and Southern recording facilities. Remember "Chantilly Lace" by The Big Bopper and Dickie Lee's "Patches"? Both came out of Beaumont, Texas. How about Paul and Paula, and Bruce Channel's "Hey, Baby"? Dallas. Phil Phillips and his "Sea of Love" rose up from the bustling metropolis of Villa Platte, Louisiana.

New Product Flow

The stream of Southern Mercury product has never let up. Mercury-Nashville, run by Jerry Kennedy, and Buddy Killen's Nashville-based Dial Records both have impressive track records. Within the last few weeks, Dial's Joe Tex received a gold record for his "I Gotcha," and his new LP of the same name has just been released. From Mercury-Nashville comes "We All Got Together And . . .," a new album by country artist Tom T. Hall. And the inimitable Jerry Lee Lewis celebrates his re-entrance into rock'n'roll with a new album titled The Killer Rocks On. The Nashville roster also includes Bobby Bare, Roy Drusky, Dave Dudley, Jerry Foster, Linda Gail Lewis, Roger Miller, Patti Page, the Statler Brothers, and Kennedy himself.

Memphis, Jerry Lee's hometown, has lately been the scene of a different tactic by Mercury. The label is bringing its artists from other parts of the country down South to record: Melba Moore has just cut a single with famed Memphis hitmaker Chips Moman; the single is being rush-released.

Activity is taking place in other relatively new areas for Mercury. In Birmingham, Alabama, the Mercury-distributed Moonson Records have come up with a strong Top-40 candidate in Bill Brandon's "Stop the Merry-Go-Round." And Mercury has even gone to the mountains in its quest for good Southern music—the Appalachian Mountains, to be exact. Music from True Vine is an exposition of musical styles of the Southern mountains by well-known scholar-folk musician Mike Seeger. John Van Horn, who actually lives up in the hills, has just recorded an LP of more contemporary mountain music, called Out Back Music, to be rush-released by Mercury. These two Southern artists reversed the Melba Moore approach by coming up to Mercury's New York studios to do their recording.

Finally, Englishman Rod Stewart and his mates, Faces, are set to embark on a tornado-tour of the Southeast, beginning on April 21 and ending on April 30. Stewart and Faces will not be appearing in any other section of the U.S. on the upcoming tour.

"When we located an office in Nashville," explains Irwin Steinberg, "we demonstrated our commitment to the potential of the South. Although many of our artists are Southern, it's obvious that their music has a universal appeal."

Goody's Sales Profits Climb Over 12 Months

MASPETH, N.Y. — Sam Goody, Inc. has reported that a preliminary, unaudited report of its operations for the year ended Dec. 31, showed record sales for the year of $26,197,142, representing an increase of 13% over sales of $22,782,848 for the prior year.

Net operating profit after taxes increased to $585,961, equal to a record 86¢, for 4¢ per share. Per share earnings increased almost 100% over those of last year.

Sam Goody, president, said the results were attributable to the increased volume coupled with the corporation's efforts in instituting operating efficiencies which went "a long way towards overcoming consistently rising costs."

The firm's 10th store in the Woodbridge Center, Woodbridge, N.J., which opened in March of 1971, showed performance which "fully justified the quotas and projections made for it." The corporation expects to open two new stores in the Philadelphia area at Pennsauken, N.J. and Roosevelt Mall in Philadelphia, and large addition to its northern N.J. "Cluster" at Livingston Mall in Livingston, N.J.

Wallichs Income Up

TORANCE, CALIF. — Wallichs Music & Entertainment Company, Inc., has reported net operating income, before an extraordinary item, of $57,400, or 5¢ per common share, on revenues of $6,120,164 for the nine-months ended Feb. 29. This compares to a net operating loss of $92,437, or a loss of 8 cents per common share, on revenues of $6,126,968 for the year earlier period.

NMC Corp. Peak Over Six Months

OCEANSIDE, N.Y. — New highs in sales and earnings for the fiscal first half are reported by NMC Corp.

President Jesse Selter announced that primary net operating income for the six month period ended Jan. 31, rose sharply to $352,705 or $3.39 per share from $74,997 or $.09 per share in the first half of fiscal 1971. He said all per share figures had been adjusted to reflect a stock distribution having the effect of a 5-for-4 split of NMC's common stock, which became effective March 15, 1972. An extraordinary gain of $14,947 or $.02 per share brought primary net income for the recent period to $367,652 or $.41 per share as adjusted, compared to an extraordinary gain of $227,714 or $.29 per share for a total of $302,711 or $.38 per share as adjusted for the first six months of fiscal 1971. The company's 6½ per cent convertible subordinated debentures remain convertible at $11.85 until May 15, 1972 and at higher prices thereafter.

Mr. Selter noted that NMC's substantial operating gains were achieved "despite a very sluggish January period for the record and tape industry. However, I am happy to report," he added, "that record and tape sales are running strong again and we anticipate a continuation of peak operations for the balance of the fiscal year."

nary income of $67,875, or 5¢ per common share, from insurance benefits paid on the death of Glenn E. Wallichs, former chairman of the board.

In announcing results, Clyde O. Wallichs, president, said the company continues to improve its position and fully expects to show a profit for the year-end even though sales in the months of March, April and May are traditionally off throughout the industry.

"Unbelievable harmony concept...
once exposed
should make Africa
as big as America."

That's what last week's Cash Box had to say about "Here I Stand" by Africa, a 3-year-old Lou Adler production.

3 years ahead of its time.

WDAS in Philadelphia came across it a few weeks ago, began playing it, and was deluged with calls, cards and letters.

And the action began.

Last week it was rereleased on Epic. It was a cover pick in Record World. And a newcomer pick in Cash Box. "Fits almost every format," they observed.

This year, that's true.

"Here I Stand" by Africa.

It's exposure that gets Warners' albums out and shown in more places.

London Opera, Classics Drive

NEW YORK — London Records, in the midst of an extended merchandising thrust on conductor Zubin Mehta's Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra performance of "The Planets" by Holst, has broadened its push into the serious music markets with two additional full-scale promotions, according to Herb Goldfarb, vice president for sales and marketing.

The drives are designed to reinforce and expand the company's solid standing in the American opera and classical music markets on the occasion of its 25th anniversary year in the record business.

The first of these two heavy promotions incorporates a special 90th birthday celebration for the conductor Leopold Stokowski, who will have two new releases on London's phase 4 stereo label. These will include a performance of Cesar Franck's "Symphony in D Minor" with the Hilversum Radio Philharmonic Orchestra, on the first set, and readings of "L'Ascension" by Massien and "Orchestral Set No. 2" by Ives, with the London Symphony and Chorus, on the second.

Werner Ties-Up Perf. Rights

LOS ANGELES — Fred Werner, who composed the Grammy Award-winning "Desiderata" narrated by Les Crane for Warner Bros. Records, has completed negotiations on a contract with the copyright proprietor of the poem, Robert Bell and Crescendo Publishing Company of Boston. In so doing Werner has legally established that "Desiderata" may now be performed as a musical work only with his, Werner's, consent. The composer has been "anxious to clear up discrepancies that have existed in the past regarding 'Desiderata,'" and negotiated the present contract through his Old St. Paul Music Publishing Company, a Screen Gems affiliate.

"Desiderata" has been widely distributed in poster form for many years, reputedly having its origin in Old St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, dated 1692 when in fact it was written by the late poet Max Ehrmann in 1927. Werner has been through an exhaustive legal search to unravel complex details as to how the poem come to be printed as a separate piece.

Werner now feels that once the music industry and "responsible parties" become aware of the copyright he holds, there will be no more infringements on his works.

"Company" produced by Ernie Altschuler and Tim O'Brien, is by a vocal trio drawn from the Kids Next Door and the Young Americans.

Art Dennis To Head Tapes At Warner/Reprise

LOU DENNIS

NEW YORK — Lou Dennis has been appointed director of tape operations for Warner Bros./Reprise Records, reports Ed Rosenblatt, director of marketing. Dennis, who will be based in Burbank, will report to Roseblatt and will oversee Warner Bros. entrance into the tape field. Dennis' appointment follows the announcement that under the recent renegotiated contract with Ampex, Warner Bros. will now market all tape configurations through the WEA national distribution system. Ampex will continue to manufacture the tapes.

Dennis has been with Warner Bros. since 1967, in the capacity of eastern regional sales manager. Prior to his association with Warner Bros., Dennis was the product manager of Smash-Fontana Records. In comments on his appointment and Warner's commitment to the tape market, Dennis said, "It affords Warner Bros. an opportunity to utilize its successful WEA distribution arm to merchandise and sell tapes in a unique and creative manner. The same innovative techniques that have been applied to records will now be applied to tapes—and then some."

The expanded headquarters facility will serve as the primary location for Frank Stanton, president of the company, Samuel W. Gelfman, vice-president of programming and production and Denis B. Trelewicz, vice-president, treasurer and secretary of the corporation.

The enlarged programming facilities at the New York location include complete screening and editorial capabilities, and demonstration rooms for both programming and hardware. The eastern institutional sales office, the promotional research organization, the movie rental operation and other elements of the company's programming department will be housed in the New York headquarters.

Johnston, vice-president of marketing, and manufacturing and engineering facilities at San Jose, California, under the direction of Charles D. Brown, vice-president of operations.

GRT Sets Promo Behind Gospel Tapes; 69 Titles

SUNNYVALE — GRT Music Tapes is placing its promotional muscle behind gospel music in a month-long program beginning Monday, April 10, titled "Gospel Soul Of GRT." The program covers 69 tapes selected from GRT's catalog of material from the Chess, Checker, Westbound and Peacock labels.

All 69 gospel titles will be released in 8-track, with selected titles in cassette and open reel, stated Dick LaPalm, the company's advertising-promotion manager.

The campaign is the first all-out effort by GRT Music Tapes to emphasize gospel music. Two months ago, GRT Music Tapes released 20 gospel tapes, and "the response was so good we decided we would devote an entire month to promoting the music."

GRT will concentrate on 12 markets "where the citizenry appreciates and supports such music," LaPalm said. These cities include: Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Newark, Atlanta, Nashville, Dallas, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, the San Francisco-Oakland area and Los Angeles.

The company will deal directly with one-stops and retailers who cater to gospel audiences by providing them with special order forms, consumer pocket catalogs, posters and other aids. The company's 16 salesmen will call on these accounts to make sure they have received this material and to explain the program.

Aretha Franklin heads the list of artists in the release. "The Gospel Soul Of Aretha Franklin" was one of her first recorded efforts. LaPalm points out. (Miss Franklin is currently preparing another LP of gospel music.)

Other gospel performers offered are the Mighty Clouds of Joy, Five Blind Boys, the Violinaires, the Soul Stirrers and the Rev. C. L. Franklin.

LaPalm, who selected all the material, says the criterion was on album sales and name power in the field.

GBS TV Buys Four Ampex Corp. Branch Offices

NEW YORK — Harry Lefkowitz, president of GBC Closed Circuit TV Corp. (NASDAQ), reports that his company has purchased four operating branch offices of the Ampex Corp. for an undisclosed sum.

The offices, which are reportedly doing two million dollars in sales annually, are located in Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Indianapolis. Under the terms of the purchase, GBC has acquired the entire inventory of each of the offices, as well as their operating personnel. In addition, GBC, which claims to be the nation's "largest distributor of closed circuit television equipment," will also become the distributor for Ampex products for the states in which each branch is located.

"GBC intends to continue the distribution of Ampex products in these particular markets at the same high degree of integrity and standards which Ampex has always maintained. The new offices will serve as GBC branches in the same manner as our Boston office which became operational last summer," Lefkowitz stated.

New Activity For Skye Label

NEW YORK — The Skye Records catalog, now being distributed by Buddah Records, is experiencing new activity. Skye will release product from its previously recorded masters, the first two to be released on the Cobblestone label. They are "The Chuck Rainey Coalition" and Bob Freedman's "The Journeys Of Odysseus."

"Coalition" features four drummers, Bernard Purdie, Ken Rice, Herb Lovelle, Jim Johnson; three guitars, Cornell Dupree, Eric Gale, Billy Butler; two percussionists, Warren Smith, Specs Powell; congas by Montego Joe; organ and piano by Richard Tee, and additional piano by George Stubbs—all led by Rainey himself on electric bass.

"The Journeys Of Odysseus" is a jazz suite for chamber orchestra written by Bob Freedman and featuring Hubert Laws, Jerome Richardson, Marvin Stamm, Ron Carter, Richard Davis and "Bucky" Pizzarelli—plus Freedman's "chamber orchestra" which he conducts.

A third new Skye album to be released has just been recorded in New York and is a first for the talented young composer/singer, Roger Shriver. Featured players are Grady Tate on drums, Richard Davis on bass, Sam Brown and Bob Mann on acoustical guitar, Marvin Stamm on trumpet and flugelhorn, and Joe Farrell on woodwinds. The arrangements and conducting were done by David Krivoshei.

Other Skye plans for the "future include an album of "The Best of Gary McFarland, 1968-1971" featuring the late composer/arranger's top recordings on the Skye label.

EAST HARTFORD, CONN. — Joe Solano of Transcontinental Dist. here reports that the company retains the Evolution, Golden and Janus-Westbound lines. In last week's story on Frank Sutter's new firm in the area, these lines were incorrectly associated with the company.

GOIN' TO THE CHAPPELL—Frank Coachworth (l) general manager of Chappell & Co.; U.K., and chairman of Polygram, Coen Solleveld (r), pay a friendly visit to the New York offices of Chappell publishing company where they are seen chatting with Chappell president Jacques R. Sorrells Pickard is:

- (a) a $30,000.00 custom built European automobile
- (b) a rare breed of race horse
- (c) an exotic jungle fever
- (d) the best damn country writer this side of Flatcreek, Tennessee
- (e) the best damn country singer this side of Flatcreek, Tennessee

(see answer below)

If you picked (d), you're half right. Sorrells is one of the best damn country writers this side of Flatcreek, Tennessee (which, by the way, is his home). Four of his songs, you may recall, are on Ringo Starr's "Beaucoups of Blues" album. And David Rogers' recording of "She Don't Make Me Cry" won an ASCAP award as a hit of 1971. (Not to mention that his songs have been recorded by the likes of Kenny Price, Del Reeves, Ernest Tubb, Melba Montgomery, Roy Clark, Hank Thompson, and Kitty Wells, to name a few).

If you picked (e), you're half right again. Sorrells' debut album of his own songs has just been released on Decca records and tapes.

If you picked (d) and (e), you're all right. And so is Sorrells Pickard. Take a

RICHARD HARRIS (Dunhill 4310)

Turning Back The Pages (4:18) (Limbridge, ASCAP—B. Martin, P. Coulter)

LABELLE (Warner Bros. 7579)

Billy Preston's "Outa-Space": Nobody's singing it but everybody's playing it.

It's Billy's new single and the only instrumental from his new album, "I Wrote A Simple Song."

The airplay started in New York and soon spread to Newark, Philadelphia, Dayton and Cincinnati.

And it all comes at a time when Billy Preston is happening, not only on record, but on film: "The Concert for Bangla Desh."

So in addition to the fact that Billy is emerging as one of the most versatile "sidemen" in the world, there's one last thing: "Outa-Space" is outa-sight.

"Outa-Space" (AM1320)
Billy Preston's latest single.

NEW YORK—MICK GREENWOOD: SITUATION #4

Very often we find beauty in the simple things. But because they are simple, people tend to overlook them turning to the larger and more complex. Mick Greenwood, singer/songwriter, knows the value of beauty in its simplicity. He has composed an entire album, "Living Game," with that in mind.

Perhaps because he is a product of his times, Greenwood has realized that by getting right to the point, one has little chance of being misunderstood. Everything on his debut album is right up front. There's nothing to be sought. All you need do is listen and appreciate. Let the music speak for itself.

Much of the material on "Living Game" reflects Greenwood's personal feelings toward life, yet the songs themselves are much less complex than the topic about which they were written. Although no indication is given on the album itself, it appears that the LP sides have been divided to project two distinctly different views of life. Side one seems to be the philosophic side; the side on which Greenwood airs his personal feelings about life and living in general. Side two, more poetic, places the artist in perspective with life itself. Greenwood is now a part of the scene rather than an onlooker commenting on a particular situation.

Though all 11 tracks on this LP are brilliant for one reason or another, four of them, "My Life," "After The First World War," "Situation Number Four," and the title tune seem to have the most commercial appeal. That is not to say that the entire album isn't commercial, but that the above mentioned tracks, by virtue of their penetrating melodies, seem to immediately stick with the listener.

The basic instrumentation on the album is provided by Greenwood on vocals and acoustic guitar, Jerry Donahue, electric guitar; Pat Donaldson, bass; Gerry Conway, drums; and Tony Cox on piano. But for additional flavoring, Greenwood has added touches of flute, banjo, sax, sitar, tabla, trumpet and trombones—all precisely woven to further develop the atmosphere of the song.

Mick Greenwood's album will not soar to the top of the charts because of the limitations placed on radio playlists—but he will, through live appearances and FM exposure, develop a large enough following to make him a talent to be reckoned with in the future. And being only 20, it appears that Mick has quite a future at that!

David Bromberg

DAVID BROMBERG: DO THE GOOSE!

Back in the high school days, when the vagaries of the chem lab became close to intolerable, there was usually one fellow who at least looked like he knew the answers and you approached this tall gangly bespectacled lad with the hope that he could bail you out only to find that he was equally in the dark and David Bromberg reminds me of that boy. David, of course, is very much in the light, particularly when it comes to the arts of songwriting, singing and guitar playing, as anyone who has picked up a record magazine or read the list of sidemen on album jackets already knows.

David dropped by the bustling Cash Box office to discuss his emerging role as a soloist following more than a few years working behind such artists as Bob Dylan. A few days earlier, we happened to catch Bromberg when he wandered onstage at Castaway's to offer some bass support for Tracy Nelson ("I think it was my debut on that instrument.") Predictably he found working with Tracy a delight. "A back-up man should really sort of goose the lead and with Tracy it's really great because she gooses you right back and both of you sound better as a result."

When not out goosing, David found time recently to get into the studio (as everyone who ever heard him always hoped he would) and record his very own album. It's of more than passing interest, because David is not your conventional white kid singing the blues. Though only in his mid-twenties he has a curious world-weariness to his voice and this complements his traditional blues picking quite nicely. Most of the songs on the LP are originals, with the exception of the standard "Mississippi Blues," "Dehlia" and "The Bogy Road To Milledgeville (Arkansas Traveler)." A song called "The Holdup" has generated considerable interest—it was written in collaboration with George Harrison. It's a tongue-in-cheek little number that Bromberg delivers with . . . tongue in cheek. It sounds kind of like "El Paso" turned inside out.

Discussions of blues singers inevitably contain references to "paying your dues." While it is debatable whether the more paying of dues is sufficient or even necessary for a person choosing that particular art form, it is always refreshing to find someone who has gone over a few rough spots and—more important—has a thoroughgoing knowledge of the blue essence. One or two listens to Bromberg's album provides the necessary proof that he is indeed on familiar ground when he plays blues. Which is pretty good for someone who looks like the guy who didn't know the answers back in chem lab.

HOLLYWOOD—MEL TILLIS: THE CHANGING TIMES

First we heard of Mel Tillis, at least to pay any attention to him, was a couple of years ago when we were interviewing Mike Curb for the late, improving "Entertainment World." Mike told us that he was especially pleased that "one of the major country talents" was coming to MGM. The interview never ran—too late—but we kept Mel in mind. Later we found out that he had collected eleven BMI awards for his songs and written fifty tunes recorded by Webb Pierce (Webb, we had heard of) alone—including Webb's biggest hit, "I Ain't Never." Later still, we discovered that not only had Mel written "Detroit City" and "Ruby (Don't Take Your Love to Town)," he had also written one of our three or four all-time favorite country songs (or city songs, for that matter), "Mental Revenge." Were we ashamed!

Attempting to make up for our earlier ignorance, we tracked Mel down—first running into him at the Palomino night club, then following him out to Knott's Berry Farm to catch an actual Tillis performance. Between times, he'd taped a Dinah Shore TV show and run down to San Diego to work with Sonny James. Busy man.

Mel's show is about two thirds music, one third talking. He's known as one of the funniest men in country music, capitalizing on a mild stutter by exaggerating it and telling peculiar stories. It was, in fact, Mel's gift for comedy that won him a regular spot on Glen Campbell's television show. "I guess that helped my career more than anything," Mel tells us. "It made me better known, of course, but it also helps with my show. I don't have to take ten minutes explaining to people that I stutter."

Mel's prowess as a songwriter speaks for itself. Many of his ideas come from life. "The story of 'Ruby' is the story of some friends of mine when I was living in Florida. It was 1946. I moved things up from World War II to Vietnam. You've seen one war, you've seen 'em all." The guitar intro to "Detroit City," something that's become as much a part of the song as the words, was the result of one of those lucky accidents that happen now and again. "We were putting together a demo, and Billy Grammer was tuning his guitar right before we started recording. It sounded good and a bit unusual, so we left it in."

Mel Tillis: The Changing Times

Having been on MGM for a couple of years now, Mel's happy with his relationship with the company. "I think that Mike is excellent, and Clive Fox is doing a fine job there. I get to do pretty much what I like. Jim Vienneau, who now produces me, originally brought me to the company."

We asked Mel what he, as a long-time participant, thought was happening to country music. "I've noticed a big change in radio stations in the last six months. Demographics have changed a lot of peoples' thinking. They say that we should be selling to the 18-24 year old crowd, that country music is getting more modern. But the things I've recorded have been pretty much in the old 4/4 Bob Wills shuffle. It's the older fans who buy my albums. Kids don't buy anything."

"One thing I would like to see changed is the way country music is merchandised through the racks. We should have our own racks. A country fan doesn't like to go through all those racks and roll albums while looking for his favorite artists. I think our sales would improve considerably if it would be made easier for the people to get to us."

YOU HEAR THE DAMNEST THINGS WHILE STANDING IN LINE IN FRONT OF

THE TROUBADOUR—Free-lance restaurant critic Colman Andrews has been named to Atlantic's west coast publicity department. He continues to scout eateries for Rolling Stone and Holiday and occasionally brings sandwiches up to Pete Senoff. There's no word yet as to Colman's opinion of the Rainbow Bar & Grill, as he's one of possibly three publicists in town who doesn't own a percentage (watch for a sudden rash of press parties there). But he gave the HAMBURGER stand four stars (worth a trip). And, suddenly, everybody in town wants to interview Atlantic acts over lunch. Colman was nominated for, and lost, a Grammy, but it went to Atlantic's Sam Samudio, so everything's o.k.

Kim Fowley performed one of his inimitable types last week, this time for Nick St. Nicholas' group Queen, who are, we believe, the first Gay-Rock band to play the Whisky. Kim and Rodney Binghamer (" . . . Be sure you use my last name—'Rodney' isn't enough") seem to be doing most of the big-time party-putting-together in town—past accomplishments including the Daddy Cool hype for Kim, and the bizarre guest lists for the Kinks party and the local production of "Tommy" were assembled largely by Rodney. It should surprise many that both did so for free, while some publicists are getting hundreds per week. It should make still others ashamed of themselves. . .

Elvis Presley ("Oh, that Elvis) has apparently been spending considerable time recording late at night at RCA's Hollywood facility; the activity may be being filmed as well. The curtain is, as usual, drawn.

Reliable sources (the L.A. Times, the Hollywood Reporter and one other) inform us that the new Rolling Stones album is called (take your pick) "Exile in Maine," "Exile on Main Street" or "Exit on Main Street." Most agree that it will be released sooner or later. One source, whose name we shall not divulge, told us that the cover was being done by "one of Holland's foremost artists." Turns out it's good old John Van Hamersveld. Well, if he ever gets to Holland, he probably will be.

Speaking of Indian-rock, Anthem Records' artist Ranji will be produced by Snuff Garrett who, it says here, believes him to be "the find of the year."

It was our pleasure to be among the judges at the Los Angeles Teen Age Fair Battle of the Bands. First place was won by The Creative Sounds, a black-chicano group from Compton that could blow most second acts and quite a few headliners off the Whisky stage. Good horns, an o.k. lead vocalist and a guitarist who duck-walks. What more could a rock and roll fan want?

Film notes: Saw "The Concert for Bengla Desh" (or "Bangladesh," as they're now calling it, hedging a bit by spacing the type a little closer rather than making a firm name change). Film is interesting on a number of counts. It was especially nice to see Eric Clapton playing so beautifully. Fact is, the last time we've seen him playing so well was when he jammed (hate that word) with the Mothers of Invention at a Shrine Exposition Hall concert many moons ago. Then as now, he was more interested in playing than in being the superstar; as we recall, few people in the audience even recognized him until Zappa, after the number, introduced him to the audience. Same thing appeared to happen in "Bangladesh." Applause followed each number at the press/radio station screening, with the largest single amount going to Billy Preston's extremely strong "That's the Way God Planned It." For many people, it's going to be the first time they've heard the Pavi Shankar number all the way through. What they've been missing all this time!

The excellent "Slaughterhouse Five" has a score written by one J.S. Bach and performed by pianist Glenn Gould. It's nice, but probably won't win any Oscars next year because there's no catchy title song. You might try to write one in your spare time.

The theme, it says here, of the 1973 New Year's Day Rose Parade will be "Movie Memories." The idea was submitted by Mrs. Delmar R. Beck of Pasadena and was selected from more than 8,000 (!) suggestions.

"Nobody else in town was doing it right, so I thought I should." Steel guitarist "Red" Rhodes has opened up an amplifier repair shop in Hollywood, next to the Small World restaurant and within easy shot of a good number of recording studios. Red, whose been working with Gary Puckett and the Carpenters, among others, says he'll do the repairs himself between recording dates. "I've got a degree in electronics," he says, "I might as well use it." His partner in the operation is keyboard player Jim Gordon who, Red affirms, can completely overhaul a Hammond B-3. t. e.

SPORTS TALK—The current baseball player walkout will in no way delay the start of the 1972 softball season. Permits have already been obtained for diamonds in Central Park on Mondays and Tuesdays beginning this month. Last season, Atlantic Records and The Cash Box Bullets finished in a flat footed tie for first place, and the coming season promises to be just as exciting. All record companies, music publishing houses, etc, that are interested in participating on a regular week to week basis should contact Kenny Kerner or Mike Martucci at Cash Box, 586-2640.

PASSING REMARKS—Now something new has been added to the troubles of new non-performing songwriters trying to get their wares waxed. Eleven of the Top 100 songs this week can safely be labeled "oldie" copyrights, and three are in the Top 10. Bobby Byrd's "Rockin' Robin" tops the list, followed by Ewan MacColl's "The First Time," Paul Anka's "Puppy Love" rounds out the magic circle. Then there's "The Lion Sleeps Tonight," "Chantilly Lace," "Hot Rod Lincoln," "Iko Iko," "What'd I Say," "Jambalaya," "Darling Baby" and "I'm Movin' On." (If you want to play the original artists game, please feel free, but no prizes this week folks.)

And there's more on the way. The J5 have just re-done "Little Bitty Pretty One," Fanny's recorded "Ain't That Peculiar," The Coasters are rockin' with "Cool Jerk" and Barbara Mandrell's re-recorded Joe Tex's "Show Me." Now we've stated the facts, how about some interpretation?

You could start with the nostalgia trip. Move on to the "rock is dead" syndrome (but God's made a comeback, so there's hope even for the cynical). Or merely dump on Top 40's lack of success in coming up with anything new that really pervades. Truth probably combines a little bit of each, but the overriding consideration does seem much more positive. Remember when your high school music teacher told you that she wouldn't address herself to pop because its works "had no lasting qualities?" Well teach, it's all coming back to haunt you now. Not only are specific performances a staple of AM & FM years after the sales are gone, but the songs themselves are beginning to transcend the stamp of specific interpretation.

Publishers are happy. Working a catalog now seems like a potentially profitable as well as exciting challenge even after the first hit has been realized. The audience obviously likes to have its reminiscent cake and its "now" consumption patterns too. But what about the writers trying to break in now? As if the success of the self-contained act was not a serious enough blow to their future.

Sorry, but while I wish all the best, there's no simple solution. Putting your nose to the grindstone often gets you nothing but a sharp proboscis. But faint heart ne'er won fair chart. And if you were all to give up, where would we be? Just think . . . if you write just one hit today and never another, you could still be back in action years later, should this trend continue. Dear friends, those oldies but goodies do remind me of you and your situation. Write on! robert adels

English Act Rep Cites Success In U.S. Deals

NEW YORK — Lon Harriman's The Tasty Management Unit, Inc., headquartered here, is establishing itself as a unique management service after five months' operation. Harriman's experience as a booking agent had made him aware of the need for American representation of groups managed in England due to the vastness of the American market.

Harriman's company is geared to provide U.S. career advancement for English groups by his working as American rep for their English managers. Since each English group is active in this country no more than a few months per year, Harriman says he's able to handle a larger client list than most managers who are acting as sole exclusive management representatives and still provide comprehensive business and personal management facilities. He is handling all phases of each group's business in the United States including record label deals, tour and concert performance arrangements, work exchanges and visas.

Clients Listed

Projects Harriman is currently working on for his clients include: A 14-city, 18-day tour by the Jeff Beck group in May to coincide with the release of their latest album; Osi-bisa's first full-scale American tour which is to be the biggest premier tour ever done in the US, including 43 play dates extending from March 23 to May 14; a tour by Pentangle who will play the southern and eastern US April 14 through May 14; and a cross country club and concert tour by Mick Greenwood from March 30 through May 7.

Harriman, whose music business career began in agency work, was formerly head of the contemporary music department at Creative Management Associates, where he devoted much of his time to working with promising unknown acts. These included such people as James Taylor, The Moody Blues and Van Morrison. He also booked the first American tours made by Ten Years After, Led Zeppelin and Cream (who he booked through to their last tour).

The Tasty Management Unit, Inc. is located at 27 East 67th St. Telephone is: (212) 288-5204.

Ferde Grofe Is Dead At 80

SANTA MONICA, CALIF. — Ferde Grofe, who tried to "explain America in music," died here last week (3) at the age of 80.

Grofe's most famous work was "Grand Canyon Suite," featuring a segment, "On the Trail," that was to become the familiar theme for the Philip Morris cigarette commercials. Grofe also arranged and orchestrated George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" for its historic presentation at Aeolian Hall on Feb. 12, 1924, with Paul Whiteman conducting. Grofe also arranged Whiteman's big record hit, "Whispering," one of the first million-selling disks. Grofe's other works include "Broadway at Night," "Tabloid," "Mississippi Suite," "Mark Twain Suite" and "Hollywood Suite."

Surviving the composer are his second wife and four children.

Stevie Wonder Bobby Whitlock

BITTER END, NYC—Stevie Wonder doesn't make music, he is music! Anyone who could fit a 12-piece band on the Bitter End stage is a wonder to start with, and the fire that Stevie instills in his musicians is, quite simply, unbelievable.

Wonder's fire is fueled by his desire for perfection. To start his set, the Tamla Motown artist played drums for an instrumental, nailing down a relentless beat and establishing the groove for the group. Once everything was cooking, Steve switched to electric piano and bubbled his soul stew to the boiling point. And at the proper and tasteful moment, he mellowed the set out for a while, keeping things soft, but focusing all the intensity into his vocal phrasing.

With the recent evolution of his sound, Stevie Wonder has transcended musical categories such as soul and pop. His approach is highly futuristic, with synthesized tones and advanced polyrhythms. Yet at the same time, he also traces back to the forest primeval, using musical instincts and percussive beats that have been strengthened by nameless generations of ancestors. He is not only a highly competent bandleader, but a bright personality who inspires his musicians and creates the aura of a tightly-knit family about his band.

Songs from Stevie's new album such as "Superwoman" and "I Love Every Little Thing About You" were dynamically punctuated by progressive jazz-soul-rock jams with instant coordination. He is totally professional because he is totally unpretentious—music is more than a toy to Stevie, it is a saving grace that can save him only if he shares it with others.

"Where There's A Will, There's A Way" was Bobby Whitlock's theme and sermon this time through New York, his first excursion with his own band. And a fitting theme, too; which he proved by starting off slowly last week for a guest set at the St. Regis Hotel, sponsored by ABC/Dunhill Records, and then building to a very powerful climax by the end of a week at the Bitter End. Whitlock has determination to succeed, justified by the fact that he is a talent to be reckoned with. So thought Stevie Wonder, who invited Whitlock back on-stage to harmonize for Wonder's closing set. What a night!

Hot Tuna Mick Greenwood

CARNEGIE HALL, NYC — Impressively, both shows were sold out for the Monday (3rd), Hot Tuna concert. Legions of fans are already grooving to the tasty offerings of this beautifully knit four piece group. Guitarist, vocalist and composer Jorma Kaukonen knows exactly what direction in the stream he is going and his talents are equal to the task. The group does lots of traditional, with a kind of a hoe down flavor—folk and gospel; and with ageless Papa John Creach doing his wizardry on the violin it's a rocking beat that is absolutely infectious. And, Jack Casady on bass has to rate as one of the best. Sammy Piazza on drums also is exactly the talent for the unit. Selections, that brought the audience to their feet were, Johns Oven, and The Waters Fine. Keep On Truckin, and Let Us Gather Together Down

Here, only added to the audience pleas for more and more. Hot Tuna starts cookin' from the very first note and, believe me, the cookin' doesn't let up for an instant. One sampling of Hot Tuna is all it takes.

Mick Greenwood, an excellent talent vocally, and uses an acoustic, is going to be around a long time. Mick, performing in the first show only, was backed by piano, rhythm, bass and drums. His offerings of "Spooked," "Friend of Mine," and "Nobody Knows Me" were excellently performed. I especially liked his lyric and melodic structuring. "After The First World War," and "Taxi" won this young talent plenty of plaudits. Greenwood is personally together and many a fan will be on the Greenwood taxi.

Cheech & Chong

BITTER END, NYC — The times they are changin' . . . Comedy has taken on a new dimension thanks to the fresh, new talent that's been emerging. And with the new talent comes a new kind of comedy. Not the out-dated vaudeville routines or the sharp, one liners, but rather a comedy of life.

Nobody had any doubt as to the inevitable success of Cheech & Chong. Everyone was too busy laughing. And so were the stars! Their debut album was an overnight success. Their live appearances brought shouts of 'encore' from the audiences. To the young, C&C provide interesting antics that might very well have been filmed the night before. The material is topical—ever so topical. To parents, they provide the answer to the age-old question, "what's happened to our children?" And though it's all done in fun, no one can deny its accuracy.

Their Bitter End engagement found the duo in perfect form giving the patrons more than their money's worth. A dose of this . . . a dose of that. . . And as the continuing saga of Cheech & Chong becomes more prevalent with each passing day, we anxiously await the release of their second Ode album. (Also on the bill was Elektra recording artist, Harry Chapin whose show will be reviewed in next week's issue.)

Diana Ross

EMPIRE ROOM, NY — A fresh spring breeze blew into New York last week in the person of Diana Ross. What is most refreshing about her act is a seeming abandonment of mechanical, push-button staging in favor of a relaxed on-stage professionalism which puts the emphasis where it should be: on her voice. She is, to put it simply, emerging as a singer's singer, swinging with smartness (e.g. "Lady Is a Tramp"), rockin' with robustness (e.g. "Ain't No Mountain High Enough," which required two closing encores) and putting heart-felt feeling into ballads. In the latter area, there were a lovely reading of a lovely song, "The First Time I Ever Saw Your Face," Roberta Flack's top 10 dishing; and a medley of Billie Holiday-associated songs that she will sing in her role as the late jazz stylist in an upcoming Paramount film, "Lady Sings the Blues."

Even if it were true, as Diana jokingly remarked, the audience consisted of folks who couldn't get to see "Godfather," the Motown star put on a show that must have made many feel that they could wait to see the film on TV.

There's a fine vocal assist by a new Motown group called the Devastating Affair. They did a solo on their first Motown single, "I Want To Be Humble."

Karen Wyman

COPACABANA, NY — How do you precede Don Rickles, the standup Archie Bunker? Be a Karen Wyman is one way, and to sing-for-your-supper instead of zing-for-your supper. Karen, of course, is a superior young singer who gives the best of both worlds of pop—MOR and rock—the best chance at peaceful co-existence. An abbreviated stage performance in view of Rickles' headlining, it is, nevertheless, a rewarding one, consisting of eight numbers, including her new Columbia single, "Let Me Go," a fervent rock opus. "Night & Day," swinging to the rafters, is her only oldie, yet "One Love," heard in a Carpenters' album sounds like it can standup through the years, as perhaps Jacques Brel's fine what-the-world-needs-now-is-love plea, "If We Only Have Love." Karen makes waiting for Rickles a pleasure.

Theatre Review: Grease

EDEN THEATRE, NYC—The boy-meets-girl, boy-loses-girl, boy-gets-girl theme, the staple which holds together so many musical comedy books has hardly ever looked as good as it does in "Grease." The first r&r musical ever staged probably has gained from Broadway's and off-Broadway's hesitance in this area. While "Hair" and its predecessors have alluded to rock's roots, no show before has ever been built totally around the peculiar lifestyle (unless one counts Sha-Na-Na or the many r&r revival bills as theatre). But 18 years later, we have "Grease" and MGM is readying the cast LP.

The fifties are the last frontiers of nostalgia. The book, music and lyrics of Jim Jacobs & Warren Casey display a vivid faithfulness to the accuracy of every little detail from choreography to slang. Dick Clark "American Bandstand" videotapes and kinescopes were source materials and the research has paid off. Tom Moore's direction never has to sacrifice effect for authenticity.

The music runs the ballad-rocker gamut of sound-a-likes of the day which were entertaining and which never thought much about their artistic merits. We listen and laugh with tears in our eyes. If these sounds were innocense, it's pretty much vanished. It's certainly refreshing to be just a kid again, doing what we did again, shoo-dooping a song. The LP has the potential impact of another "Hair," with the ballad "There Are Worse Things I Could Do" and "We Go Together" potentially huge copyrights.

Buddy Miles Band Merry Clayton Curtis Muldoon

PHILHARMONIC HALL, LINCOLN CENTER, NYC — It really does happen! One of those totally unexpected musical happenings! Everything falls into place. The vibrations are right. Everything is cookin' and charged with emotional fervor. It occurred at the Buddy Miles (Mercury Records) and Merry Clayton (Ode) concert. Merry's simmering performance was brought the comment after her finale, "How Can You Top This" Unbelievably, Buddy Miles, 'Doin' his thing', carried the momentum to a rousing—leaping on the stage, dancing everywhere—climax!

Merry Clayton is together, and I do mean together. When she delivers "Lover Man" and "Steam Roller" hardly anyone would object if she ran the doggone thing right over you. "I Could Live Without Love, If I Wanted To," and a musical message about her own personal experiences on "Sunday School and Sunday life" are powerful on-the-mark musical truths. Merry was honored with a 5 minute standing ovation for her offering of "Gimme Shelter," but that was just the beginning.

The house and stage lights came down for several minutes. Then, slowly the stage lights were brought up; and just imagine the shock when the realization strikes you that the Buddy Miles aggregate is donned in tuxedos and top hats. Buddy, one of our top drummers, has had many bands and his ups and downs. But, this band has to rank as one of his best. With three horns, organ and his great funky bass player backing him, Buddy has put together a powerful unit capably performing jazz, blues, and rock. Practically everyone was on his feet and swinging to the Miles beat at the conclusion of "Elvira," a beautiful melody wrapped in a tremendous beat. The emotional bubble was about to burst. And, "Down By The River" did it! Overly enthusiastic had to be bodily removed from the stage. It was a scene not unlike that occurring at a Sly Stone concert. Buddy won many votes, including mine, as one of the top bands of the year.

The fantastic evening opened with Curtis Muldoon on acoustic guitar. He is backed with an acoustic, drums and bass. The group is from the British Isles. Curtis', "I Got A One Way

Lily Tomlin Steve Goodman

CARNEGIE HALL, NYC — Crowds can be rude, regardless of the demographics of age and social rank, totally apart from the time, place or decor input of the evening. This audience came for pictures and portraits by Lily, and many were unfair to Steve Goodman to the point of absurdity.

Polydor's Lily Tomlin, unlike many recording comics, does not rely heavily on her waxed humor. She understands that while musicians are expected to give the hits due consideration, concert comedy must be fresh. Taking many improvisational cues from her loving throng, she became Edith Ann and told her version of the truth. Just long enough to keep you interested. Her Ernestine segment was extremely short. This makes you want more. Comics thrive on self induced audience-hunger, and Lily is a master chef.

Her portrayal of a fifties teenager and that of a rubber freak (sorry, but we don't want to spoil it for you by explaining that one) were high points. On a lower but very insightful key, her cookie jar from the stamp redemption center routine was also a chuckle and a half. Lily Tomlin does more than play a character, she becomes one. And she never forgets that a warm smile is often worth ten guffaws. Never at a loss for inspiration, thus never at a loss for admirers.

Buddah's Steve Goodman may or may not be part of Chicago singer/songwriter scene as the play really hasn't gotten past rehearsals on the national stage, despite the likes of John Prine and Bonnie Koloc in the cast. He is in and of himself a talented addition to anyone's roster. Handling the often childish harassment of Tomlin fanatics (though Lily herself is a genuine fan), he won the respect of all those bothered to give him a chance.

Ticket To Nowhere," and "I'm Waitin' For The Man From Afghanistan" won plenty of plaudits from the audience. I especially liked, "Next Time I'm Gonna Get Myself Together" and "Still Is The Night."

In Total, it was a musical happening and this particular concert will long be remembered.

Anderson 'Payola' Column

We have uncovered evidence of a new payola scandal in the billion-dollar record industry. Disk jockeys and program directors across the country are provided with free vacations, prostitutes, cash and cars as payoffs for song-plugging.

Some big-time disk jockeys have run up thousands of dollars in bills at Las Vegas pleasure houses, all on the expense accounts of record companies.

More than a dozen years ago, the nation was shocked by payola scandals. Congressional hearings revealed in sordid detail how record companies manipulated public tastes by bribing disc jockeys to boost selected records. As a result of the hearings, payola became a serious Federal crime.

Yet our investigation shows that payola is back, with only the techniques slightly changed. The new payola focuses on the "Top 40" lists, which can make a hit or consign a record to oblivion.

The "Top 40" lists supposedly are based on the popularity of the new songs. The record companies have been able to rig the list artificially by paying off disk jockeys and program directors.

The stakes run into the hundreds of millions.

Record company officials, of course, write stern memos against payola. But many of them wink while their promotion men lavish disk jockeys with favors.

My associate, Les Whitten, has spoken to witnesses on the inside of the record industry. They asked that their identities be withheld for fear there might be reprisals.

RIAA Reply

of the manufacturer's association, stated:

"As an individual and as new president of the RIAA, I am flatly and strongly opposed to payola in any form. I deplore payola for both moral and business reasons—it is commercial suicide.

"Reported instances of payola do not in my judgment reflect the true broad profile of the recording industry, which encompasses so many highly responsible companies and people. But there are undoubtedly some single "bad apples" among us, as there are in many businesses. If so, their bad practices must be cleaned out.

"Therefore, I am urging the presidents of the fifty-four recording companies which comprise our Association to initiate prompt investigations and actions within their organizations to halt any offenses that might be prevailing without their knowledge and consent.

"This industry is, of course, broader than our Association's membership. It also includes hundreds of independent producers, radio promotion specialists and distributors. I also publicly urge them all to inaugurate individual self-examinations and to clean house where necessary.

"Moreover, I have offered the cooperation of the RIAA to officials of the Federal Communications Commission and the National Association of Broadcasters.

"Our industry produces recordings that bring culture, education and entertainment to millions of people around the world. We do not need to engage in unsavory promotional practices. We must not tolerate them. I am confident that the vast majority of responsible companies and people in this industry will join with me in an aggressive program of industry self-improvement, wherever it may be necessary."

These witnesses have described the payoff patterns in detail. Not only are big-time disk jockeys collecting payola, but the small-station jockeys are clamoring to get their share of the boodle.

The record companies, for example, have furnished wholesale lots of free records to so-called "R & B" (Rhythm and Blues) jockeys and programmers. They, in turn, sell the records cutrate to record stores, pocket the profit and boom their benefactors' records over the air waves.

The more audacious record promoters have simply bribed the record pluggers with cash or with new cars. Thus, an underpaid "R & B" jockey may be seen riding around in a Five Thousand dollar car, all for pushing a few "Top 40" records.

The dupes in all this are America's pop-crazy teenagers, always eager to buy the latest "hits". These youngsters have no inkling of the gangster-like world which rigs record marketing.

The Federal Communications Commission also haven't detected the small of scandal, apparently, in the teen-age market place.

Footnote: So widespread is corruption in the selection of "Top 40" records that ethical stations like WABC in New York City have set up an extensive sampling and monitoring system to make sure record stores fairly report what records are selling best. Only these records are included as authentic WABC "Top 40's."

Impulse Sponsors Road Show

BOSTON — April 7th marked the opening date for Impulse's concept in company-sponsored concert packages. It is the Impulse label New England tour, features the talents of Impulse jazz artists Alice Coltrane, Pharoah Sanders and Michael White.

The purpose of this tour and upcoming tours presently being planned is to establish wider market for the Impulse artists. According to Steve Backer, national promo director for Impulse, "The tour will bring this music in depth to one of the largest markets in the country and catalyze album sales in the area by virtue of the overwhelming effect of live performances by such legendary greats."

Selection of the Boston, according to Backer, was due to its large concentration of college-aged people, larger than any one given area in the country. "We want to key in and saturate this market," says Backer. "We are serving the existing 'jazz' fans, but we are also after the youth market—the 18 to 24 year olds who are ready to be turned on to 'the new music.'" Whether it be through personal appearances or in the area of radio programming, Backer feels that these "excursions for the mind, spirit and soul" are part of an educational conditioning process to introduce the youth market to the fine line of Impulse super talents.

In the area of radio programming, Backer states, "I feel that in order for progressive FM Radio to regain the avant-garde, forward image it once had, it must look for viable directions to give it that distinctiveness. One of these directions is the music we are involved with at Impulse. In an effort to break new ground, Impulse product is being sent to the more forward-thinking MOR stations, with an accompanying letter containing suggested cuts.

"In addition," states Backer, "we hope to ship an 'Impulse MOR Sampler' with the next release."

The Impulse New England tour is a pilot project with plans to increase album sales with this company-sponsored package. H. T. Productions in Boston has coordinated the tour and been instrumental in the logistics of this undertaking. Future plans include tours throughout the country. The groundwork for a California tour is being laid at present, and plans to

Richard Roemer, well known attorney in the entertainment and music industry, is serving as associate executive producer of the event, in addition to being general counsel and secretary of Neal McCutcheon Associates.

Bert Cohen of Great White Whale, Inc., who is acting as associate producer of the event, is guiding the advertising, promotion and public relations efforts, assisted by Chester Fox.

National Talent Service, creator of the "Video Tape Network" on college campuses, has booked the schools and coordinated campus activities.

The major thrust of the event is to bring pop artists, who would otherwise be unavailable, to areas and audiences at a low ticket price. McCutcheon Association states that it expects that the regional Sly telecast will result in a dramatic change in the whole college rock concert scene via the pioneering use of electronics.

Dates booked so far for the New England tour had Alice Coltrane, Pharoah Sanders and Michael White at the Fenway Theatre in Boston—(April 7), Clark University in Worcester, Mass. (8), the University of Massachusetts in Amherst (10), and Thornton Auditorium in Portland, Maine (13), and Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island (15). The tour stops at Yale University in New Haven on April 16.

According to Dennis Lavinthal, vice president in charge of sales, "We are working closely with our Boston-area distributor, Music Suppliers, Inc., to facilitate and receive immediate feedback and weigh the response to our Impulse artists in live concert. We anticipate the response to be overwhelming."

Elektra Nat'l Meets On A&R

HOLLYWOOD — Elektra Records will hold a national A&R staff meeting April 11-13, under the direction of Russ Miller, A&R vice-president. Topics will include present artist repertoire, future Elektra acquisitions, and the development of southern artists signed to the label. Among the Elektra execs attending the meeting will be Jac Holzman, Robert W. Zachary, Jr., Ann Purtil, Mike Rosa, Marlin Greene, Brenda Hagan and Miller. While in Los Angeles, the label's A&R staff will meet with distributor and dealer personnel in an effort to coordinate their productions with all phases of the marketing function.

The meeting will be the second in a series. A week ago Elektra's creative services department held a two-day meeting in New York. The label's promotion department will be meeting in June in New York.

This is a no bull...t release.

ELLEN MCILWAINE
Honky Tonk Angel
PD 5021

A first from the most exciting singer/guitarist to come along for some time. She can do it all... folk, rock, blues. Everyone who's heard her agrees: she transcends all categories. Except one. Damn good music.

Five new albums guaranteed to reach people where they live—all kinds of people. Production and material so great that nobody can put their needle down without hearing music that reaches out and says LISTEN. Everybody who hears it will reach out and BUY.

JAKE with the FAMILY JEWELS
The Big Moose Calls His Baby
Sweet Lorraine PD 5024

Rock n'roll (with just a touch of country) from the poet of the streets. Music that smiles-- music that's pop, and folk and rock all at the same time. Plus a healthy respect for those do-wops. In a word, fun music.

MANDRILL
Mandrill Is
PD 5025

The second album from the electric-blues-rock-latin band that brings it all home. Soul, rock and pop combine in Mandrill Music. Truly, the future belongs to Mandrill--- don't be left behind.

CAT MOTHER
Cat Mother
PD 5022

A third album from one of the alltime great rock and roll bands. A reputation for rock excellence only exceeded by the continuing growth of the group. The cat's rock brings 'em in and holds 'em.

ROY AYERS UBIQUITY
He's Coming
PD 5022

That heis-- more incredible fuzztone vibes music that crosses the borders between soul, jazz and pop. Add it up and it spells UBIQUITY--and that means music that'll pull in anybody who can get it on.

Pop Picks

GRAHAM NASH/DAVID CROSBY — Atlantic 7220

Now we finally have an album by the two men who were responsible for Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young, rock & roll's first corporate group in a long list to follow. Crosby and Nash were longtime friends before becoming members of a group, and their friendship permeates this easy-going set. Fraternity and teamwork abound, whether Nash or Crosby is taking the lead. The two form a distinctive vocal-instrumental sound that can be heard echoing in many other of today's pop groups. Highlights are "Frozen Smiles," "Immigration Man," "Page 43," "The Wall Song."

A MESSAGE FROM THE PEOPLE—Ray Charles —ABC/TRC ABCX 755/TRC

A new album by Ray Charles is always welcome. This one is particularly so because it is one of the most positive and joyous events in recent times. Ray voices a great many of the hopes and frustrations of people everywhere as he performs "Heaven Help Us All," "Abraham, Martin & John" and "What Have They Done To My Song, Ma." Brimming over with life are his treatments of "Every Saturday Night" and "Take Me Home, Country Roads" and a highly unusual adaptation of "America The Beautiful" rounds out the proceedings in thought provoking fashion. A remarkable celebration of life worthy to be termed a masterpiece.

MANDRILL IS—Mandrill—Polydor PD 5025

Mandrill hit it big first time out of the box and their second entry on the album market should equal and surpass their debut set. In the year or more since the first splash, Mandrill has developed into a much more cohesive functioning unit, and this increased intensity shows throughout this cooking set of eleven tracks. "I Refuse To Smile," "Cohelo" and "Central Park" are some of the more outstanding numbers. A sure fire chart rider.

BARE TREES—Fleetwood Mac—Reprise 2080

Fleetwood Mac blazes ahead with another stunning example of tight rock and roll playing. With each album they only solidify their position as one of the very best and most imaginative groups on the scene. "Child Of Mine," "Bare Trees," "Spare Me A Little Of Your Love" and "Sunny Side of Heaven" are only a few of the exceptional tracks. And Mrs. Scarrot's "Thoughts On A Grey Day" will make you smile, even on an orange day. LP should be on the chart and moving in no time at all.

I GOTCHA—Joe Tex—Dial DL—6002

Joe Tex has been around for more than just a couple of years, but he always sounds fresh and never more so than on this album, which takes its title from Joe's smash single. That number is here, along with a bunch of others—all marked by Tex's explosive delivery. Check out "Baby Let Me Steal You," "You're In Too Deep," "Love Me Right Girl" and "It Ain't Gonna Work Baby." Joe's recent single, "Give The Baby Anything The Baby Wants" is here too. All in all, it's soul singing at its classiest.

THE HOT ROCK—Original Soundtrack—Prophesy SD 6055

When a person considers the number of projects Quincy Jones is involved in, it seems almost inconceivable that the man gets time to catch forty winks. As is normally the case with his movie scores, there is a lot going on here, and very little of it predictable. A bit of Dixieland, some hard hitting gospel type sounds and a touch of cool jazz—it all amounts to another exciting entry—one which can be enjoyed even if you haven't seen the film. Among the excellent musicians heard are Clark Terry, Grady Tate and Gerry Mulligan. And Tate offers some compelling vocals too. Would that all soundtracks were as varied and consistently good as this one.

Newcomer Picks

HONKY TONK ANGEL — Ellen McIlwaine — Polydor PD-5021

Those who have caught Ellen McIlwaine in clubs and concerts have been singing her praises with great gusto. Now her first album is here to confirm all that they said. She is that rare hybrid of singer and instrumentalist—capable of stoning you with either hand. "Losing You," one of the five tracks recorded live at the Bitter End, showcases Ellen at her slide guitar-ing best, while "Weird Of Hermiton," "Can't Find My Way Home" and "Ode To Billy Joe" demonstrate her extraordinary interpretive talents. In a country vein, she is equally devastating on "It Wasn't God Who Made Honky Tonk Angels." Make no mistake about it—Ellen McIlwaine has the goods. She should go the distance.

STORIES—Kama Sutra 2051

Every picture tells a story for Rod Stewart—every story on this album will paint a picture for you. There are ten very different picture-stories on this LP, each neatly framed in an immaculate song arrangement. Michael Brown (formerly harpsichordist and composer for the Left Banke) and Ian Lloyd are Stories' nucleus, co-composing the tunes and handling keyboards and vocals, respectively. This first Stories collection brings back the feeling of the Beatles' "Rubber Soul" and "Revolver" LPs in that it consists of one treat after another, and each of them short and sweet.

YVONNE ELLIMAN—Decca DL 7-5341

"Jesus Christ Superstar" introduced us to a bright young talent in the person of Yvonne Elliman and her debut album establishes her as an important recording artist. Composers of the play, Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber have done a superlative production job on the eleven songs contained here, including, of course, their own "I Don't Know How To Love Him." Yvonne has chosen wisely from the song catalogs of Dave Mason, Steven Winwood, Gilbert O'Sullivan and Marc Benno. Listen especially to her highly individualistic reading of "Nothing Rhymed" and her equally fine "Speak Your Mind." A most engaging performer in a splendid setting.

GOLDIE—Goldie Hawn—Reprise MS 2061

On TV's "Laugh-In" she was a hip young dumb blonde. But even there, that was just surface appearance. On the silver screen, she has been allowed to show her dramatic talents. Now on disk, we see her as a combination of Nancy Sinatra, Dolly Parton and Joni Mitchell. She sings 'em pop, country and folksy—and all of them well. Buck Owens' Buckaroos back up on two tracks; material ranges from Bill Monroe bluegrass to Van Morrison romantic funk. Our favorites are the European hit "Butterfly" and her version of Dolly Parton's "My Blue Tears." And it wouldn't really surprise us if her first musical effort turned gold for Goldie.

THE BIG MOOSE CALLS HIS BABY SWEET LORRAINE—Jake With the Family Jewels—Polydor 5024

Jake & the Family Jewels have some hot rocks to unload. Ten to be exact. "Sunshine Joe" and "Minstrel Boy" were in on the heist. Meet them down at "Lake Louise" and they'll show you their ten gems, all neatly inlaid in a twelve inch, circular vinyl setting, otherwise known as "The Big Moose Calls His Baby Sweet Lorraine." For all the jewel detectives, Jake's alias is Allan Jacobs, and the Family Jewels are Danny Manselino, "Raquin Rob" Rothstein and Mike Rosa.

BREAD WINNERS — Jack Jones — RCA LSP-4692

The title of Jack Jones' newest effort has a two-fold meaning. These are songs which Bread has recorded; they also have proven to be among that group's most successful items. Here then are "Make It With You," "Baby I'm-a Want You," "It Don't Matter To Me," "Everything I Own" and half a dozen more excellent songs, the majority of which were penned by David Gates. The production work by Joe Reisman is on a par with Bread's own—and that is really saying something.

Rolling Stones' 30-City U.S. Tour

NEW YORK — The 1972 U.S. concert tour by the Rolling Stones will begin June 3, cover 30 cities throughout this country and Canada and include 40 concert performances.

The group has chosen to spread their appearances out over a two-month period for a more relaxed tour than previously, allowing for two-night performances and lay-overs in certain cities. They have decided to play a variety of halls, from large arenas to smaller dance-oriented auditoriums, and to schedule more dates than usual, giving more fans an opportunity to see and hear them in comfortable surroundings.

Joining the Stones on tour will be Pianist Nicky Hopkins, and horn men Bobby Keys and Jim Price who performed with the Stones on their last European tour.

The tour is being coordinated by Peter Rudge of Sound Image, Inc. All dates have been set and halls booked, and Rudge is currently negotiating with experienced and established promoters in each area rather than through booking agencies.

Headquarters for the tour, known as the Central Organizing Group (C.O.G.), have been set up in New York with offices at 2 Penn Plaza, Suite 2837, New York, N.Y. 10001, (212) 239-0811. Staging and lighting for the entire tour will be planned and coordinated by Chipmonck Industries of New York. Chip Monck has handled previous Stones tour in this country and Europe and was production manager for Woodstock. Jo Bergman, part of the Stones' organization, will accompany the group on the road. Gibson and Stromberg, Inc. will handle public relations for the tour.

A double-LP set will be released by the Rolling Stones to coincide with the tour.

Promo LP Via Chappell Pub

NEW YORK — Experience Music Ltd., a Chappell-administered publishing company, is releasing a promo LP aimed at exposing the new writers and unrecorded songs in its catalog.

Created by Gene Frank, head of Experience, the LP runs the musical gamut from C&W and Bluegrass to jazz and contemporary sounds. Many of the songs were written by young writers, including college students.

Included in the album are three songs—"Glooeey", "Kinsey Clan" and "No Way Of Knowing"—which will be featured on two forthcoming major TV series. "Glooeey" was written and recorded by Experience writer/artist Montego Joe, and "Kinsey Clan" is by Jim Smoak, famed banjo player of The Cumberlandds, Bluegrass recording group.

The album is being distributed to indie and staff record producers and artists. It is available at all Chappell branch offices.

Fania/Cotique Distrib Deal

The label has concentrated in the Latin field and will continue to control their artist and production.

The first release under this agreement, will be Tito Ramos, he had a million seller on Cotique, two years ago. His new release titled "I'm Not Too Young To Understand" written and arranged by Tito will be out in April. Fania Records is preparing a promotional campaign. The artist will get a cross country tour and several radio and television appearances. Tito Ramos has been absent from the record scene for two years.

BLOSSOMING—Beefing up their R&B department, MGM Records has signed The Blossoms who will release on the Lion label. The trio, Darlene Love, Fanita James and Jean King, were voted the #1 female group at the NAACP Award Banquet in 1971. Their first single release "Touchdown" is being rush-released, with an album to be issued shortly.

Mike Nesmith

CASTAWAYS, NYC — Kenny, who runs this upper east side musical oasis continues to select from among my personal and as yet, unsuperstar favorites without prior consultation. This gives me a lot of faith in the future of the bar/club scene. The most recent bravo is connected with his booking of RCA's Mike Nesmith, a man who has a profound understanding of both people and music himself.

It's now four, going on five LPs past the Monkees. The screams have been supplanted with quiet admiration. No one owns just one Nesmith LP, and those who have heard him collect them like we used to favor baseball cards. Fanatics, yes—and for good reason. Here is an artist whose music is about rather than simply is. The object of his focus is western music, which reflects more folk roots than what Nashville and Bakersfield presently call their own. Nesmith is one of the few still writing in this style, and one of a handful who can put across its most memorable standards. "Jo-Ann" was his biggest self-recorded hit and he's still revered for "Different Drum," but before he cut one note for RCA, he had assembled nine LPs worth of originals, other new fangled portraits and time-honored canvases of the art and is just beginning to reveal the complex clockwork inside his mind.

His stage presence is a very positive yet laid-back thing which no one should miss. His methods cannot fully be dealt with here, so watch the "Insights & Sounds" feature for further illumination. But we had a real good time that we defy anyone to sit through a Nesmith set and label him just another Monkee who don't stop no show.

David Pomeranz Revival

TOWN HALL, NYC — The crowd was small but committed. At this point, so is the relative standing of Decca's David Pomeranz in the pop pantheon. But while so many singer/songwriters are retreating into self-made wombs of introspection and introversion, a few (Polydor's Ellen Mellwainne also comes to mind) are not only rebels, but have cause. David does not put on an act, but he sure knows how to put on a show.

He opened on guitar with "You Can't Do That" and encored with "Jailhouse Rock." And during each, you hardly were conscious of John, Paul, George, Ringo or Elvis. They came across vibrantly fresh and personal, tinged with the jazzy enthusiasm that might be of future extension of Cat Stevens when and if he should decide to gamble on a new sound that'll keep his present fold while impressing the formerly aloof. David mostly plays piano, but is also gifted with David Mason in his quartet, giving himself the freedom to play either keyboard or guitar. His originals are all fine, all different. So are his moods.

Many artists are pleasant to hear, few are interesting. Pomeranz is a "few" who in time shall be discovered by the many.

Opening the show, Buddah's Revival. They are spirited, but have seemingly chosen to limit their base of operations to the electrified extensions of pre-progressive folk-rock. Things kind of get louder than this description might imply, and certainly funkier, but the core is unmistakably neither nostalgia nor what passes for normalcy on the current rock scene. Dig their attitude, dig their sound. It's that simple. Their music requires an open mind.

Bobby Goldsboro

WESTSIDE ROOM, L.A. — It was Bobby Goldsboro's debut at this Century Plaza Hotel supper club, and the United Artists singer handled the occasion to nearly its—and his—best advantage. Sitting on a stool, guitar in hand and backed by the string and horn-laden Al Pellegrini Orchestra and three of his own rhythm players, Goldsboro whisked through a dozen songs, of which eleven were hits either for or written by the singer himself. His patter was interesting and assured, and his guitar playing was considerably stronger than just "functional."

During the show, it became clear that Goldsboro is perhaps a greater talent than the music press generally gives him credit for being—"See the Funny Little Clown," "I'm a Drifter," "Broomstick Cowboy," "With Pen in Hand" and the more recent "California Wine" are really good songs, and Goldsboro wrote them all.

Other tunes performed included Sonny Curtis' "Straight Life," plus "Love the One You're With," "Watchin' Scotty Grow," "Your Song" and, inevitably, "Honey." All came through strong and clear in Goldsboro's versions.

Billy Joe Royal

P.J.'s, L.A. — Billy Joe Royal, the man with the biggest sob in his throat since Johnnie Ray's heyday, made an all-too-infrequent appearance in this Vegas lounge-styled room and proved that he's every bit as good as he's always been.

Backed by a seven-piece band (three horns) called Thunderchicken, Royal combined several of his hits ("I Knew You When," "Hush," "Cherry Hill Park" and "Down in the Boondocks") with several current successes by other artists. The high quality of Royal's versions of "Without You," especially, and "Honky Tonk Woman" and "Superstar" (the Murray Head number, not the Carpenters') indicated that Royal's recent "cool" period might be due more to lack of the right material than to any lapse in his considerable vocalizing ability.

Honk

SANTA MONICA CIVIC AUDITORIUM, L.A. — Being the warm-up band for a surfer movie isn't exactly ideal exposure for a group, even if they did the soundtrack for the film. Honk had the opportunity and, though they're a fine band, muffed it badly.

The group opened with "When I'm Dead and Gone," and the McGuinness-Flint jumper was the only uptempo tune of the long set. The rest of the program consisted of some nice but slow-paced originals, a brace of Jackson Browne tunes, and "When Roosevelt Came to Trinidad," which they took from the most recent Ry Cooder album. The set was as dreary as it was long; the sound was without doubt the least definitive, boomiest, bassiest ever heard in these parts (and that's saying a lot), and the audience was quite justifiably unappreciative.

All that is unfortunate, though, because the group is obviously quite good. Your basic country-rock instrumental line-up with especially good vocals and part singing, they add spice to their sound with harmonica, accordion and steel guitar. The drummer is especially strong, able to generate a nice Allman Bros. shuffle that, under other circumstances, would be nearly irresistible.

The group would do well to sit down, listen carefully to the first Buffalo Springfield album and learn how to plan a set. Then . . . watch out.

Pop Best Bets

BAGS & THINGS—Dennis Lambert—ABC/Dunhill DSX 50119

The title obviously refers to Lambert's distaste for musical labels like "pop" and "rock," and the music inside attests to the talent behind that way of thinking. As part of the Lambert/Potter writing duo, he's been connected with chartoppers like "Two Divided By Love" and "Don't Pull Your Love" but this LP features none of these. His newies are potentially as gigantic however, the best being "I Didn't Sing (In The New York Subway)" and "Somebody Found Her." This is his first album as a singer, but he paid his dues in the early sixties on quite a few single efforts and the experience thus gained makes a potentially shakey coming out sound more like a reunion.

LOU REED—RCA LSP-4701

The underground rock movement started with many groups to be sure, but Velvet Underground certainly was a cornerstone and Lou Reed its fountainhead. On his first solo effort, Reed continues to take that almost deadpan but always brilliant voice of his and use it to its fullest and most unique level. Assisting him are Yes' Rick Wakeman and Steve Howe as well as Hookfoot's Caleb Quaye, among others. Musically, he has become something quite distinct from the Underground, but no doubt he will be able to build upon their support. As close to a rock magician as you'll find anywhere, he will establish an occult cult of his own in no time.

CELEBRATION—El Chicano—Kapp KS 3663

The "Viva Tirado" boys are at it again in an aptly named LP. Third album for the band features a reprise of that hit number, some hi-jinks with the likes of "La Cucuracha," and some cooking versions of Van Morrison's "Brown Eyed Girl," the Cream classic "I Feel Free," Horace Silver's "Senor Blues," and "In A Silent Way," which was written by Joe Zawinul. Throbbing rhythms and top notch arrangements make El Chicano a special type of group.

PARIS ENCOUNTER—Gary Burton & Stephane Grappelli—Atlantic SD 1597

Two musicians of unquestionable credentials have gotten together for an album which is a rare listening experience. Vibraharpist Burton works neatly with the legendary Grappelli over a course of nine songs. There's a touch of the old ("Daphne" and "Here's That Rainy Day") and flashes of the new as in Steve Swallow's "Eiderdown" and "Falling Grace." Grappelli's own "Arpege" gets a lovely rendering too. Swallow and drummer Bill Goodwin round out the ensemble. A must for every serious collector of jazz music.

LOOSE & FIERY—Roger Whittaker—RCA LSP-4652

Roger Whittaker has been an international favorite for some time but has remained on the brink of American success. This may well be the album which puts him over the top here. It's a beautiful assortment of tunes, with Roger's solid vocalizing holding them all together like a cord. His version of "Mammy Blue" is unforgettable and other gems include "A Taste Of Honey," "By The Time I Get To Phoenix," "Scarborough Fair" and "You've Lost That Lovin' Feeling." Hang on, Roger, your "new world" is coming.

SON OF MY FATHER—Giorgio—Dunhill DSX-50123

International singing star Giorgio clicked on the American singles front with "Son Of My Father" and he could easily duplicate that success in the album field with this identically named set. The material here is every bit as fascinating as the face of the dog on the jacket. Listen to "London Traffic," "Spanish Disaster," "That's How I See Her" and "Watch Your Step."

Picks of the Week

MEL TILLIS (MGM 14372)

Would You Want The World To End (2:20) (Sawgrass, BMI—R. McCown)

Mel Tillis places his stamp of distinction on this smart Ron McCown ballad with smooth and mature vocals. Mel has a green thumb when it comes to cultivating hits, so expect this one to grow on you quickly. Flip: "Things Have Changed A Lot" (2:34) (Sawgrass, BMI—B. Wilson, D. Richardson).

HANK WILLIAMS JR. (MGM 14371)

Eleven Roses (2:41) (Hank Williams Jr., BMI—D. McCall, L. Morris)

A slow and meaningful arrangement serves as a fitting frame for this colorful song-picture, given intense emotional treatment by Hank Williams Jr. Production by Jim Vienneau adds to the song's already hot potential. Flip: "Richmond Valley Breeze" (2:10) (Hank Williams Jr., BMI—E. Pleasant, A.C. Solberg).

JAN HOWARD (Decca 32955)

Let Him Have It (2:17) (Ben Peters, BMI—B. Peters)

Jan Howard is spinning off of her "Love Is Like A Spinning Wheel" hit with a cute tune about the woman of the house exerting her authority over her mate. Should follow her last single right up the survey. Flip: "Remember The Good" (2:38) (Acuff-Rose, BMI—M. Newbury).

CHARLIE LOUVIN (Capitol 3319)

Just In Time (To Watch Love Die) (2:43) (Window/Captive, BMI—D. Coe, J. Townshend)

Charlie Louvin will get listening attention with the genuine quality of this sad love ballad, written by David Allen Coe and produced by Pete Drake. There are many similar sounding tunes on the market today, but the lyric and feeling of "Just In Time" make it stand out. Flip: "She Just Wants To Be Needed" (2:47) (Cooper Basin, BMI—R. Ellis).

RAY SANDERS (United Artists)

A Rose By Any Other Name (2:32) (Pocket Full of Tunes, BMI—T. Wine, I. Levine)

Pulled from his recent chart album, this single has a perky beat and a bright arrangement that showcases Ray Sanders' voice. Should be big—roses are very popular recently. Flip: no info available.

JEAN SHEPARD (Capitol 3315)

Virginia (2:45) (House of Cash, BMI—D. Reid)

Jean Shepard hops on the bandwagon of artists recording tunes about geographical places ("Carolina On My Mind," "Wichita Lineman") with a composition describing the Virginia mountains and their memories. The strength of the lyric and Jean's voice should command considerable attention. Flip: "We Go Good Together" (2:10) (Jangle, ASCAP—M. Blackford).

SKEETER DAVIS (RCA 0681)

Sad Situation (2:55) Window, BMI—C. Pitts)

This low-keyed Skeeter Davis ballad has a simple and catchy appeal once it's listened to a few times. Should catch on nicely if given the proper radio programming. Flip: "All I Ever Wanted Was Love" (2:02) (Crestmoor, BMI—S. Davis).

JOHNNY BOND (Starday 8026)

Hot Rod Lincoln (2:47) (Four Star, BMI—Ryan, Stevenson)

Already a country hit previously, this Johnny Bond single should see even more action as a re-release, now that Commander Cody & His Lost Planet Airmen have a pop hit with the same tune. Coming back under these conditions, the single can now go either country, pop or both. Flip: "Ten Little Bottles" (3:15) (Red River, BMI—J. Bond).

DOC WATSON (Poppy 90110)

Freight Train Boogie (3:00) (Hillgreed, BMI—D. Watson)

It's a well known fact that when it comes to acoustic guitar picking, there aren't many finer than Doc Watson. His new Poppy single is an excellent example, as well as being a catchy tune that could easily score on country surveys. Flip: "Going Down The Road Feeling Bad" (2:48) (same credits).

Best Bets

DIANE HAROLD (Dot 17415)

J. J. Sneed (2:52) (Owepar, BMI—D. Parton, D. Jo Hope) Diane Harold uses exactly the right tone of voice to convincingly deliver this song about a country & western Bonnie & Clyde-style bankrobbing team. Guaranteed to steal your heart, this tune should soon turn up on the Most Wanted List. Flip: "As Long As You Don't Bring It Home" (2:42) (Window/Ensign, BMI—T. Wayne).

LESTER FLATT (RCA 0680)

Backin' To Birmingham (2:42) (Peer Intl., BMI—L. Flatt, B. Graves) Lester Flatt comes up with a sharp truck song about a greenhorn who can't get out of reverse. Being an old pro himself, Flatt should waste no time in driving forward through the charts. Flip: "You're Still Mine Tonight" (2:38) (Peer Intl., BMI—Flatt, Graves, Leftridge).

NANCY FORD (Jean 724)

Tomorrow I Start (3:08) (Dihio/Thermal, ASCAP—N. Ford) Nancy Ford kicks off the Jean label (a subsid of Alithia Records) with a tasty ballad that uses contemporary guitar tones to highlight Nancy's accomplished singing style. Flip: "Johnny's Yo Yo" (2:15) (Dihio/Thermal, ASCAP—N. Ford, A. Schiff).

JERRY JAYE (Mega 0066)

Share Your Love With Me (2:48) (Don, BMI—Braggs, Malone) Wide-range vocals and catchy phrasing highlight this slow ballad. Should fare well for Jerry Jaye and Mega if given proper radio exposure. Flip: no info available

GMA Awards Dr. Martin

HOUSTON — A special award of appreciation from the Gospel Music Assoc. was recently presented to Dr. William C. Martin of Rice University. The award, presented by Les Beasley, president of GMA, was for Dr. Martin's article on gospel music which he wrote for Harper's Magazine.

In the January issue of the magazine, Dr. Martin traced the history of gospel music, described the atmosphere during an old-fashioned all-night singing and, in general, wrote complimentary of the gospel music industry.

Beasley said the special plaque was given to Dr. Martin for his "excellent presentation and for his many, many hours of research of gospel music".

The award was presented during an "all-night singing" held recently in Houston, Texas.

Balmur Signs John Cameron

TORONTO — Leonard T. Rambeau, general manager of Balmur Ltd., has announced that the company has just signed a management contract with contemporary-folk-ethnic-singer and guitarist, John Allan Cameron. Balmur will represent Cameron in the areas of personal management and bookings. John Allan Cameron is the only artist that is managed by Balmur, other than Anne Murray.

Cameron, a native of Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, and resident of Ottawa, is now considered to be the newest member of the "Maritime Mafia". He has recently signed with Columbia Records and presently has a single release with the label, "Streets of London/Liverpool Lou". The album entitled "Get There By Dawn" which was produced by Brian Ahern will be released in mid-April.

Country Music Foundation:

Looking Toward Future Plans

edited by Ivey.

Future Expansion

Keeping abreast of the surge of interest in, and acceptance of country music, the Foundation has plans for implementing within the near future many areas of expansion, chiefly among these being a book publishing activity, educational teaching classes and seminars, tape interviews, and grant acquisitions.

Under the publishing phase, a series of small special publications such as pamphlets on topical items will be released almost immediately, with manuscripts solicitation and subsequent book releases to be made within the foreseeable future.

Full semester seminars covering American country music are planned, with the teaching classes projected to start in late Fall of 1972. An active program of grant acquisitions has been outlined which is presently swinging into full operation. With the acquisition of such grants, all programs within the Foundation will receive fuller expansion with the addition of others.

A Firm Foundation

The Country Music Foundation is a non-profit, charitable, and educational organization, chartered by the State of Tennessee, with an executive board under the chairmanship of Frank Jones, director of marketing, Nashville product, CBS Records.

Dedicated to the encouragement of all forms of research into the past, present, and future of country music, the Foundation stands fully equipped, ready and able to supply the needs of those who love, study, and perform country music.

Present and Past

Today, the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum contains plaques dedicated to the memory of artists and businessmen who have made outstanding contributions to the development of country music. Those who are honored include, Jimmy Rodgers, Fred Rose, Hank Williams, Roy Acuff, Tex Ritter, Ernest Tubb, Eddy Arnold, Jim Denny, George D. Hay, Uncle Dave Macon, Red Foley, J. L. Frank, Jim Reeves, Stephen H. Sholes, Bob Wills, Gene Autry, The Original Carter Family, Bill Monroe, and Art Satherly.

The executive office of the Country Music Association, a trade association organized to promote all aspects of country music, is located within the building.

In addition to operating the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum, the Foundation, under the direction of William Ivey, executive director, also operates a library and media center dedicated to the study and interpretation of country music's past. The Center also publishes the quarterly, "Journal of Country Music",

Country Roundup

Tony Booth says, "The Key's In The Mailbox". . . WMTS, Murfreesboro, Tennessee, will broadcast April 12 thru 15 from the Ernest Tubb Record Shop in Nashville, during the Fan Fair, all day, each day. . . Music City Recorders' studios have been booked solid for U.S. Air Force country music transcriptions. The c&w shows are broadcast on several hundred stations throughout the U.S. Recording of the current series of shows include artists Connie Smith, Dave Dudley, Tom T. Hall, Stonewall Jackson, Jim Ed Brown, Margie Bowes, Kaye Golden, Glen Sherley, the Glaser Brothers, Ronnie Stoneman, Bobby Bare, Johnny Dollar, LeRoy Van Dyke, Johnny Carver, and a host of others. Scotty Moore supervises engineering for the shows. . . Since January, 1966, KSON Radio, San Diego, has averaged No. 1 over all in adult listeners age 25 thru 49, according to Pulse, Inc. . . . Wichita, Kansas has for seven years been KFDI (AM) Country. Since the addition of 100 KW, KFDI-FM. Kansans are trying a little "Stereo Country-ness".

In April, the Lundstroms will celebrate their 15th anniversary of gospel singing in the upper Mid-West.

They are presently heard on a network of 65 radio stations each week on their broadcast, "Message For America". Many are high-powered 50,000 watt stations reaching large areas of the U.S. and Canada. Last year, more than a quarter of a million people heard them in person. . . The newest night spot in Nashville, "Calamity Jane's," featured David Allan Coe on opening night. Coe, manager of "Aliases, Inc.," specializing in music written by prison inmates, will also appear at the "Exit In" the second week in April.

An exclusive booking contract has been signed by Murry Kellum with the Hubert Long Agency. At a dinner meeting in Hubert Long's home, the agency staff and Kellum completed the negotiations and the signing. . . Leonard T. Rambeau, general manager of Balmur Ltd., has announced that the company has just signed a management contract with contemporary-folk-ethnic-singer and guitarist, John Allan Cameron. Balmur will represent Cameron in the areas of personal management and bookings. John Allan Cameron is the only artist that is managed by Balmur other than Anne Murray. The Statler Bros. have been invited to represent country music and entertain for the Chicagoland Broadcasters, April 27, at the Sheraton Hotel in Chicago. . . The Don Light Talent Agency of Nashville merged the "old with the new" as they announced the signing of the Lewis Family, one of gospel music's oldest and well-known groups, and the newly formed Kenny Parker Trio, to exclusive booking contracts with the agency. The Lewis Family records on the Canaan label, a division of Word Records of Waco, Waco, Texas.

Songwriter, singer, actor Mayf Nutter had to cut short a 26-day March tour which started in Alaska and was to continue through Washington, Oregon and conclude in Idaho. The reason—Mayf had to return to Hollywood to narrate another Walt Disney Production, "Nashville Coyote" which focuses on the World of Country Music. Many of the scenes were shot in and about Nashville's Music Row, The Country Music Hall of Fame and the Grand Ole Opry House. Aside from his orative storytelling abilities, the multi-talented Mayf Nutter aptly applies his singing talents to 30 verses of "Talking Blues" which is included in the production. There is no air date as of yet. . . Buck Owens Enterprises has added KTLA, Channel 5, Los Angeles, to its list of 70-plus markets now carrying the Buck Owens Ranch Show. The show aired April 1 on Saturday at 8:PM in color, according to Joe Thompson, sales manager.

Lavonia, Georgia gave "Crash" Craddock not one, but two standing ovations when he played a standing room only gig. There "Ain't Nothing Shakin'" but the audience. . . Coming in from his meetings with the city officials of Bulls Gap, Tennessee, Archie Campbell announced that he has accepted an invitation to play in the Greater Greensboro (N.C.) Golf Tournament.

ONCE MORE, WITH FEELING—Tom T. Hall, left, signs a new contract with Mercury Records as Jerry Kennedy, Mercury vice-president and Hall's producer, watches. Hall's first LP under the new pact is his just released "We All Got Together And . . .". His last LP, "In Search of a Song," rode the pop and country charts for several months as did his hit single, "The Year Clayton Delaney Died."

NEW YORK — Chappell & Co. has concluded an exclusive print agreement for the music catalogue of Tom T. Hall, Nashville writer, covering the areas of the United States and Canada. The announcement was made by Norman Weiser, Chappell vice president and general manager.

Hall, who heads his own publishing firm, Hallnote Music, has had such hits as "The Year That Clayton Delaney Died", "Harper Valley PTA", "The Ballad Of 40 Dollars" and "Wash My Face In the Morning Dew".

Chappell is rush-releasing a vocal solo to coincide with Hall's latest single "Me and Jesus" and a folio based on his new Mercury LP "We All Got Together And . . ." The print program will include the publishing of Hall compositions, other Hallnote copyrights, plus versions of Hall's material recorded by other artists.

Henry Hurt, head of the Chappell-Nashville office, will coordinate product with Hallnote Music, Chappell-New York merchandising director Tony Lenz and Charles Ryckman, sales manager.

Country LP Reviews

A THING CALLED LOVE—Johnny Cash—Columbia 31332

Johnny Cash is still ticking and picking along in his own distinctive style—singing Johnny Cash songs with the inner strength and subtlety that only he can muster. For this set, the Carter Family (Johnny's normal backup vocals) have merged with the Evangel Temple Choir for an inspiring and oft-times chilling vocal backup effect, especially on the title tune (currently a hit single). The Johnny Cash image is classic—his charisma is of the highest magnetism. He makes good music, too! Listen to "Melva's Wine," "Tear Stained Letter" and "The Miracle Man."

THE "KILLER" ROCKS ON—Jerry Lee Lewis—Mercury 1-637

Jerry Lee Lewis is different things to different people. To the original Elvis-oriented rock audience, he was one of the first rock giants with "Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On," "Great Balls Of Fire" and so on. As his career mellowed, Jerry returned to his country roots and has been high on the c&w surveys with both albums and singles. And now the "killer" rocks on, delivering oldie goldies such as "Don't Be Cruel" and "I'm Walkin'." But the time is now ripe for crossover between rock and country, so it looks as though this album will be big in both markets, as is Jerry Lee's current "Chantilly Lace" single (also on the LP).

SINGING HIS PRAISE—Bill Anderson & Jan Howard—Decca 5339

Bill Anderson and Jan Howard are developing into multi-faceted talents. Their last LP, "Bill & Jan (Or Jan & Bill)" took a lighthearted look at love songs. In this set we find a totally serious album of traditional inspirational messages, including favorites such as "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," "Nearer My God To Thee," "Just A Closer Walk With Thee" and "There'll Be Peace In The Valley For Me." Although the mood on the two albums is different, the same joyous feeling sparkles through, having been cultivated over the years by warm harmonizing and artistic devotion. The highlight of this set is Jan's dramatic reading of "The Lord's Prayer."

JOHNNY TILLOTSON—Buddah 5112

Here we have another country crossover, this time on the part of both artist and label. Johnny Tillotson started his career with early 1960's rock hits such as "Poetry In Motion." He has now taken the country fork in his music's road, applying his direct and enthusiastically youthful voice toward Mickey Newbury tunes ("Make Me Believe," "She Even Woke Me Up To Say Goodbye"), inspirational offerings ("The Flower Kissed The Shoes That Jesus Wore"), an original ("I Love Lovin' You") and a pop-oriented Elton John-Bernie Taupin song ("Ballad Of A Well Known Gun"). Once again, a pop singer turned country points to airplay and sales in both markets. And, last but not least, this set is on Buddah Records, who stand good chance of repeating their pop success in c&w.

Phonogram Stresses Foreign Pop

TOKYO — Nippon Phonogram is stressing overseas pop material for the first half of 1972. Japan Assoc. President: Records Tax Unfair Burden

TOKYO — Yutaka Ando, president of the National Record Association of Japan, has strongly attacked the tax of recordings. "Records are not a luxury," he declares, "but a cultural asset. It is unfair too that records are taxed while books are not." The current tax rate on records is 15%, but the rate is expected to be increased next year.

Music tapes, which are not yet taxed, were also discussed by Ando. The association has appealed for continued exemption, for at least one year, on the grounds that the music tape industry is still unstable; many small manufacturers can't afford the tax. There is concern that a sales tax will

2 Euro Labels Buy Audio Matrix Plating Systems

NEW YORK — Dureco of Amsterdam, and Areacem of Paris, both affiliates of Fabeldis, S.A. Brussels, have purchased four-position Audiomatic Process record plating systems from Audio Matrix, Inc., of The Bronx, New York.

The patented Audiomatic Process, an advanced automated record plating system, was originally developed for its own use by Audio Matrix, the largest independent manufacturer of record plates in the United States. Since Audio made the system available for purchase by others, installations have been made for industry leaders in the United States, Europe, Central and South America. Melodia Records, the state-owned record company in Russia, recently purchased an eight-position system and RCA uses the Audiomatic Process in its record manufacturing operations in the United States and throughout the world.

Milton Gelfand, president of Audio Matrix, Inc., who has just returned from a European trip on which he consummated the two sales and attended the AES convention in Munich, reports that the devaluation of the dollar is creating great new opportunities for the sale of quality American equipment in European markets. "In all my experience, I have never seen as much interest on the part of European manufacturers in production equipment from the United States," he said. In addition to marketing his own plating equipment, Gelfand heads Audiomatic Corp. which is exclusive international distributor for Electro Sound products and is actively seeking representation of other lines for sale to foreign record and tape industries and related fields.

EDITORIAL:

The Younger Customer

We ran an editorial on "middle of the Road" music several weeks back, in which we urged all record one stops to expose this type of product to their operator customers, and not to keep it hidden just because it wasn't riding up the trade charts. "Middle of the road" music, as we learned from many operators, often makes superior coin on the machines, but since such records rarely achieve heavy pop-chart status, they are darned tough to find, much less buy.

We received several very nice compliments on the piece, one of which added an interesting note which said: "MOR music is important on the boxes, but don't minimize the primary importance of the pop music, especially since many states in this country are dropping their legal drinking age to 18 and your average tavern goer is getting younger as a result."

That's obviously a very pregnant statement, especially to those operators in the 18 year old drinking belt. Every operator knows the 18-25 "young adult" market presents your most frequent jukebox players. By nature, they're much more apt to plug quarters into the machines than their elders; and are far more "music-conscious" than any other age group. These are the young lads and gals who live by the Top 40 stations when driving in the car and not only know the latest Bread single but can tell you what color David Gates' eyes are.

Since most operators rely upon printed popularity and sales statistical charts as the foundation of record selection, there's no great need to alter one's buying habits to meet the "younger" tavern audience. But, and it's a pregnant but, the operator must insure that his chart rock records are put into the boxes as soon as is humanly possible, in order to capture that heavy initial coin before the disk becomes a full blown national hit and the kids are turning their attention to something else.

Of any type of music, the chart rock singles are by far the easiest to dope out. Besides charts, record reviews and the rest, the operator should rely upon the advice of a "hip record programmer" or some other member of his staff, be it a young mechanic or even a member of the family.

There are certain singers and groups whose records just about automatically "hit" each and every time. A young music fan could tell you who these are and these names should become automatic purchases in the way many tradesters automatically order Dean Martin, Aretha Franklin, Sinatra and the others. It's also crucially important that the person picking the records be well aware of your locations, because some of today's heavy rock records can be offensive to elder customers and can create annoying problems in that regard. It's not discrimination to avoid trouble here; it's just plain common business sense.

Lastly, there's nothing like the advise of a good, conscientious record one stop to aid in record selection. . . pop, middle of the road and also little LP's. Concerning the latter, there are quite a few stereo little LP's on the market right now featuring real

Midway Flash BB Hits Trade With Scoring Pluses

Midway Flash Baseball

CHICAGO — Although the opening of the current major league baseball season has been postponed due to a players' strike, Midway Mfg. Co. is opening the season in fullswing production with "Flash Baseball", a new game in a pinstyle cabinet.

"Different and exciting," is the way Larry Berke, Midway Director of sales, described, 'Flash Baseball.' Double target hits and top this score are among the scoring highlights.

The playfield with an outstanding H-O-M-E-R feature, "helps bring you into your favorite ballpark as the crowd reacts to each crack of the bat," continued Berke. Scoring excitement is increased with the addition of four sensor lights on the playfield, flashing lights, ala the shuffle alley—and the Red star feature create diamond swift action, and top score values.

The scoreglass features reels for each category—Runs scored, Top this score, Double target hits, Homers, balls—and baseball figures are vividly depicted to carry out the national pastime theme.

"Flash Baseball" is a season opener guaranteed to last and last and will be a top location attraction," stated Berke, and he suggests that orders arrive early to help facilitate production schedules.

Berke also announced that Midway will soon be sampling their new dart game, Bulls Eye, that is to be available in either a wall unit or upright cabinet. The game can be played by remote control or direct hard line control, and has a variety of game-over score settings that the operator can adjust to suit the location. The game will be made of conventional parts that are familiar to the servicemen, and again Berke suggests that orders be placed early.

"now" chart artists, again, the cater to that younger tavern audience.

Again, this all boils down to a specialized skill requiring some sort of music specialist on the payroll. The playlist is still your most important product.

N.Y. Hearing Set On Games Status

NEW YORK — The New York City Dept. of Consumer Affairs has notified hundreds of locations throughout the city that several amusement games, previously ruled "approved for operation" have now been disapproved. The notice was sent to the locations, since it is the location's name which appears on New York's Common Show license certificates (for games), and renewal time for the licenses is at hand.

Trade leaders here have requested a formal hearing into the matter. This will take place Monday, April 10th, at 80 Lafayette St. There the problem should come to a head . . . either determining that the games violate the City's regulations on amusement devices or do not, and can remain on location.

The machines mentioned are Williams' Four Aces, Williams Planets (a version of Zodiac made for the New York market), Gottlieb's Extra Inning (a version of Play Ball made for New York) and Gottlieb's Challenger (an experimental game on test in several locations but not under stance on these games (referred to in production).

Insiders feel the City's reversed the trade as "like-a-pins") lies in their possible convertibility to free play games, which are outlawed under state law. The State penal code permits games which grant as "extension of play based upon the player's skill" . . . ergo, add-a-ball flippers are legal . . . but free play is not.

The City, however, has a blanket anti-pingame statute, regardless of any rewards given by the flipper. The machines mentioned, however, originally secured approval since they had no ball launch plunger, no rubber bumper at playfield top, nor several other features considered by the City in their definition of a pinball machine.

MOA Sets Sites On N.Y. Seminar

CHICAGO — With two out of three MOA is devoting all its attention seminars successfully under its belt, toward pulling a packed house of Northeast area operators to its final business seminar slated for the New York Hilton Hotel, April 21-22.

Registrations thus far received by the sponsors indicate a superb turnout. MOA president John Trucano advised, but there's still space open, and he urgently requests that those planning on coming to file their $45 registration fee immediately. Checks are to be made payable to "University of Notre Dame, CCE" and mailed to MOA, Center for Continuing Education, Box W, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. (MOA members have received registration blanks in the mail.)

Trucano is counting heavily upon a full house, in as much as the New York State trade alone counts as the largest state group in the national association.

"Well be privileged, at this last 1972 seminar, to join in discussion with some of the most astute operators in the country," Trucano declared. "The team of instructors are (Cont'd on p. 49)

A Snow Solver

BOZEMAN, MONTANA — John Stocksdale has a unique way of servicing his route. John, formerly a coin machine distributor in Indianapolis, Ind., purchased an operator's route here just over a year ago.

One of the areas serviced by his company, D & R music & Vending, is Yellowstone National Park. Due to the incredible growth of snowmobiles there are now several areas within the Park that remain open year round. The roads within the Park are snow bound the better part of the time from September thru May; and now John has joined the ranks of the snowmobilers.

To service his locations within the open Park areas, John travels to West Yellowstone by car and from there continues on by snowmobile. Using this mode of travel, is an example of an operator overcoming a slippery problem in a desire to service his accounts to the best of his abilities.

In addition to the business aspects, John has discovered the impetus behind the snowmobile boom — namely, that it is great fun. He often shares that fun with his wife, Dorothy.

Hicks, Johnson Busy At 2-Day Super Star Wurlitzer Seminars

NORTH TONAWANDA, NY — Wurlitzer field service engineers roared like lions through parts of the West and South West this month of March, setting a blistering pace for the Wurlitzer service school program. In the spacing of two weeks Leonard Hicks conducted two day schools in Missoula, Montana and Oakland, California, while Karel Johnson was doing the same in Omaha, Nebraska and North Little Rock, Arkansas.

The service schools, part of the thorough plan to expose music operators and their representatives to procedures of servicing the new Super Star Model 3600 phonograph, have been for the company a great success over the years. This year at a time when Wurlitzer sales have greatly increased because of the company's most dependable phonograph in recent history, the results have been outstanding, company spokesmen stated. A rundown of those in attendance at the four March service schools follows:

At Omaha, Nebraska on February 29 and March 1: Hal Burchell, Joe Rothkop Co., Bellevue, Nebraska; Gary Townsend, Casey's Music Co., Yankton, S. Dakota; Jack Koch, Grand Island Amusement, Grand Island, Nebraska; Leonard Van Sant, Central Dist. Co., Omaha, Nebraska; Dave McLaughlin, Coin-A-Matic, Omaha, Nebraska; Harold Peterson, A-1 Machines, Omaha, Nebraska; Don Greenough, Conyers Music, Mapleton, Iowa; Ralph Ericksen, R & S Music, North Platte, Nebraska.

Those in attendance at Godwon Distributing Co., North Little Rock, Arkansas on March 7 and 8: Mickey Grimmett and C. W. Terry, Camden Novelty, Camden; Don L. Wortham, Godwin Dist. Co., Little Rock; James W. Henington, Winslow; Tommy Beth, Ozark Amusement Co., Springdale, Fred Matteson, Intercity Music Co., Fort Smith, Jackie Wood and Preston Williams, W. & W. Amuse-

The grand prize, an all expense paid one-week trip for two to the Playboy Club in Jamaica, West Indies, was won by Tony Costanzo of Capitol Amusement & Vending, Providence, R.I. The other door prizes which included two color T.V.s, black & white T.V.s, a home bumper pool table from Irving Kaye, and many other lovely gifts were won by: Gus Croteau of Roland Tanguay Amusement Co., Joe Paris of Coin-O-Matic, Nancy Nye, Jack Kerner of Melotone, Doug Lippert of Kiddietime, Roland Tanguay of Lewiston, Me., Earle Boisclair of Rowe Vending, Max Spector of York Beach, Me., Dave Redfern of Rowe Vending and Mrs. Joe Paris of Providence, R.I.

The warehouse area was set up as a large arcade utilizing the various new games that were being delivered by Robert Jones International, as well as a number of kiddie rides that were installed for the occasion by Kiddietime Corporation of Natick, Mass. The kiddie rides were very well accepted by the small fry, and this afforded the adults more time to inspect and enjoy the various other amusement machines that were on display.

Bob Jones said, "in addition to everybody having a marvelous time it came as quite a surprise to receive a substantial number of orders for games as well as music equipment," from the enthusiastic crowd. The open house was hosted by Ruth and Bob Jones, assisted by Dona and Bob Le Blanc, Louis and Bob Mahony, and the staff of Robert Jones International. The guests enjoyed a delicious hot and cold cocktail buffet as well as other refreshments.

EASTERN FLASHES

AROUND TOWN—By the time most traders hereabouts read this, several of our local leaders will have locked horns (over the current games controversy) with the Dept. of Consumer Affairs. There's lots at stake and we hope all went well at the hearing April 10th. ARAVEN's chief Herb Sternberg, who's knocking down more air miles these past few weeks than a PanAm captain, hoped to attend the hearing when we spoke to him last week. Jukebox Harry Goldman, one of Herb's key route managers in their broad network of music and games concerns, proudly told us he's recipient of gorgeous certificate of appreciation from the Newark Boys Club. Harry, as many in the Jersey trade know, is deeply involved in Newark community activities and can call everyone, up to Mayor Gibson, his close friend. Harry's sponsored basketball and bowling teams in Newark for years and with all the good will he's built up there, he could probably be elected Mayor himself if he so desired.

Next meeting of the New York State Operators Guild has been set by secretary Shirley Werner for April 19th at the Hotel Washington in Newburgh. Usual 7:30 PM start mark. . . . Quite a few upstaters are registered for the April 21-22 MOA seminar at the Hilton, we're happy to learn. Should be a very rewarding two days. We attended the first session out at Notre Dame and ran out of compliments in our description of the sessions to guys on the phone. If you can make it, don't miss it!

Out Jersey way, Vinnie Storino of S&S Amusement just returned from week in the Miami sun. Brother Pat himself recently returned from MOA Directors meeting in Phoenix; will be attending the New York seminar. . . . Bernie Yudkoffsky of Gold-Mor Dist. (little LP's) doing double duty at the place with right hand man Pete Colletto off on vacation. Bernie's track record with the little LP's has been excellent and now he's about to notify one stops of still another excellent jukebox record deal (hush hush for now).

RECORD EVENTS—Green Bottle Records, distributed by Famous Music Corp., is now marketing one of their first LP's, 'The Chesapeake Juke Box Band'. Interestingly, the album cover folds out to unveil a 78RPM vintage juke box. Nearly as we can judge, the juke box is approximately a 1947 model and is a Wurlitzer. This interesting packaging concept, led us to come up with this notion, which we pass along. Little LP distributors could possibly create a packaging series whereby the covers are reproductions of all the models of the juke boxes made by the juke box companys. At any rate, we pass this concept along. Many an operator, in poking about the shop, will undoubtedly discover one of the old 78 vintage jukes. An operator should remember that a good working vintage model juke falls into the antique category and commands a good dollar. The old type boxes also make great window display items, for the operator as well as for a distributor. And, in summing up, the coin operated juke box deserves a lofty place in the music scene.

Following are some of the jukebox selections that did not appear in the 4/8 issue. Sly & The Family Stone, 'Smilin'; Rare Earth, 'What'd I Say'; Tom Jones, 'The Young New Mexican Puppeteer'; Bill Withers, 'Lean On Me' and Delaney & Bonnie, 'Where There's A Will There's A Way'. On the R & B ledger, B. B. King, 'I Got Some Help I Don't Need'; The Coasters, 'Cool Jerk'; and in C & W, Sammi Smith, 'Girl In New Orleans'; Nat Stuckey, 'Is It Any Wonder That I Love You' and Hank Thompson, 'Cab Driver'.

CALIFORNIA CLIPPINGS

LOS ANGELES—Bob Portale, owner of the Portale Automatic Sales Company in this city, and long time veteran in the coin machine business, is very modern in his approach to the needs of today's coin machine operator.

In every category of today's business, whether it be from small appliance to heavy industry, Bob Portale believes that service to the customer, viz: the coin machine operator, is the name of his game. Portale says, "To just sell a phonograph or some other piece of coin operated equipment to an operator, is not the end of the game—it is just the beginning. Full service to the operator and all of his needs is the rest of the game".

Portale follows through by furnishing a complete service to the operator, and a full line of parts for whatever his needs, on a long term basis. "This is what the operator wants and needs to efficiently run his route and service locations," Portale stated.

This business philosophy of Portale Automatic Sales, Rock-Ola's full line distributor, is borne out by the appearance of the Service and Parts Department in his Los Angeles headquarters. As Bob says, "it is open, airy, friendly and fully stocked to meet the operators' immediate needs whether it be for a new cue tip or a major part of any coin machine in this business".

CHICAGO CHATTER

Here's a flash from Midway Mfg. Co.'s Larry Berke, "Due to popular demand we have resumed production on our 'Haunted House' gun!" So, if you need some—order now! . . . Factory's "unique" new baseball game "Flash Baseball" which was mentioned in this column a couple of weeks back is currently in production at the Schiller Park plant . . . But that isn't all, Larry said sample shipments of Midway's new dart game "Bulls Eye" will be in progress very soon. Watch for it!

NICE HEARING FROM CAL CLIFFORD of Cal's Coin College in Nicoma Park, Oklahoma. Cal said his mechanics training school is doing quite well. Classes are now being held in the new building which was completed not too long ago. One of the most popular courses offered there is the one week, 45 hours course, which is priced at $325.00. The school also has 2, 3 and 4 week courses. "We try to arrange our training schedule around the individual needs of the operator and distributor," Cal said, "and find that for the most part a course can be completed in one or two weeks, depending upon the aptitude of the student." Since we've had calls at the Cash Box office inquiring about the school we'd like to make note here of Cal's address and phone number—P. O. Box 810, 11504 Northeast 23rd St., Nicoma Park, Oklahoma 73066; phone: (405) 769-5343.

CENTER OF EXCITEMENT AT Bally Mfg. Corp.? Well, as a matter of fact, there are three very hot sellers on the factory's current delivery schedule, namely, "Hill Climb", "Road Runner" and the "Fireball" 4-player pinball game! A winning trio indeed! Right, Herb Jones?

EMPIRE DIST.'S JACK BURNS tells us the new ChiCoin "Twin Rifle", which has been the talk of the trade since its release, is on display at all Empire offices—and attracting plenty of operator attention! . . . Jack and his wife, Sibby, by the way are hoping the baseball strike gets settled real quick so they can attend the Chicago Cubs opening game April 11. We hope so too, Jack! . . . Harold and Dee LaRoux took off for a Florida holiday last week-end. Harold heads up Empire's Grand Rapids office . . . And while we're at it, we hear that Bob Rondeau (Empire-Green Bay) had a brief visit with his daughter and son-in-law, Darcey and Jim Magnuson (and his grandchild, of course) in Fort Lauderdale recently. Jim, who formerly pitched for the Chicago White Sox, is now a member of the New York Yankees team!

CHATTED BRIEFLY WITH ALVIN GOTTLIEB at the D. Gottlieb & Co. headquarters in Northlake. Things are extremely busy out there, needless to say. "We're more or less concentrating on export at the present time," Alvin said.

MILWAUKEE MENTIONS

Hastings Dist. Inc. was among the exhibitors at the recently concluded Wisconsin Restaurant Show, held at the Milwaukee Expo Center—displaying such products as the Frigidaire ice machine, Tepco air purifier and, as a frosting on the cake, the beautiful new Rock-Ola model "447" phonograph. "The phono is quite a crowd getter", as Jack Hastings told us, "especially this particular model since its posh lines and elegant design are a far cry from what many people expect a coin operated phonograph to look like. It certainly attracted people to our booth!" Great! Assisting Jack at the show were Wally Bohrer, Paul Pade, Art Morgenroth and (Womens Lib please note) Marietta Redding, who joined the Hastings' sales staff a couple of months ago.

OUR CONDOLENCES to Lyle and Bob Olson of Olson Vending, on the death of their mother.

"WE'RE KNEEDEEP IN SHIPPING out the newly arrived Gottlieb add-a-ball 'Pop-A-Card' "—to quote Bob Rondeau of Empire. Bob was really anxious to get the new game and had quite a backlog of orders to fill. Imagine that first shipment went like hot cakes. Bob hopes to plan an Automatic Products school in the very near future and will announce a date shortly.

UNDERSTAND RUSS DOHERTY of Rapids Coin in Wisconsin Rapids attended the recent MOA seminar in Las Vegas and was very impressed with the entire program. We're sure Fred Granger will be happy to hear that! Might also note that the third, and final, MOA seminar session is scheduled for April 21-22 at the New York Hilton.

Mr. & Mrs. Don Hazelwood, Aitkin, is expected back next week from Clearwater, Florida after spending six weeks . . . HOUSTON HAPPENINGS

Harold Handkins, Rowe manager for zone covering Northern California, Northwest Mountain States and great State of Texas, together with Hans Von Reydt, head of Central Sales, Inc., Houston, journeyed to Chicago for first look at new games by Chicago Coin Machine Co. Handkins makes Central Sales his permanent headquarters. . . . Melvin Talley sold his big retail record store in Oak Forest shopping center and now is with Margie's One Stop (owned by Margie Kunkel) on Polk Ave. . . . Carroll Cummings, Mannings Music Co., shopping about for operating equipment. Manning Music is a comparatively recent addition to Houston coin operated firms.

Michael Reeder, son of Russ Reeder (head of Record Service Co. here) spent Easter holiday leave from West Point U.S. Military Academy with his parents. Mike will graduate and get his Commission this June. . . . Cathy Von Reydt, student at University Of The Americas in Mexico, enjoyed visit with parents, Hans and Maria Von Reydt. The Lass likes that school better than the one from which she transferred and said her grades were easier and better. Doting father that he is, Hans admitted there was room for improvement . . . First time in long time enjoyed visit with C. D. Morris, owner Morris Music Co., Pasadena, Texas. Morris apparently has things under control in Pasadena, a City of over 100,000 that joins Houston on East. . . .

Another local operating firm second, to several others in longevity, is Creative Amusements. Big wheels of this progressive outfit are president J. G. Robbins and Jim Brown. . . . G. H. (Pat) Cole, officer mgr., for L. E. Corporation 2700 Milam, said sales of Rock Ola line currently were good. Fact that Pat just recently bought himself a new Pontiac with all extras adds credulity to his statement.

Numerous distributors and record wholesalers here were closed in observance of Good Friday. . . . Houston Firemen annual "Parade of Stars" benefiting Firemen burial and scholarship fund, was a sell out both nights. Featured stars were Faron Young, Little Jimmy Dickens, Pat McKinney, Tom T. Hall, Loretta Lynn and Mel Tillis. John G. Wright

If they're hooked on Lynn Anderson they're high on Wurlitzer Super Star

Here's why On a Wurlitzer SUPER STAR you can hear both sides of a Lynn Anderson record in succession. No other tunes can get in between them. Same with your other favorite artists.
