Cover Story

Pearl Jam's Vitalogy

Pearl Jam's Vitalogy, their third Epic Records release, comes with all sorts of baggage attached, such as its expected commercial potential following the phenomenal success of their debut Ten and the lesser sales of the sophomore effort Vs.; the media scrutiny on Seattle, Kurt Cobain, Eddie Vedder, et al.; bandmember changes; label marketing strategies, etc....oh, the pressures of being a rock star!

Feature: Loose Groove Records

Tangentially, life does go on outside of Pearl Jam (trust us on this one) as guitarist Stone Gossard and friends have banded together—with Epic/Sony's help—to run Loose Groove Records, a haven for bands looking for "creative freedom." Steve Baltin profiles this example of the growing trend of artists taking control of a label.

THUG LIFE IS CATCHING UP to rapper Tupac Shakur, who was shot five times last Tuesday in New York City at about 12:30 a.m. after leaving the Quad Recording Studio near Times Square.

Shakur sustained gunshot wounds in his groin, leg, hand and head. But Sgt. James Coleman of the New York City Police Department said that Shakur was conscious and lucid enough to provide a detailed report of the incident while being treated at Bellevue Hospital.

Just a day after his court proceedings on sexual assault charges commenced, Shakur and his manager Freddie Moore were approached by three men, one of whom reportedly told him to "give it up." When he apparently didn't react in time, one of the men opened fire. Shakur and the man struggled with the gun and Shakur chased him to the street after sustaining the gun injuries. Moore sustained an abdominal gun wound, but was said to be in stable condition.

You Got Lucky, the Tom Petty tribute on Backyard/Scotti Bros. Records, stands as a showcase for some of America's most cutting-edge bands—several of which performed recently at New York's Under Acme club. Top row (l-r): Jade Devitt, Engine Kid vocalist/drummer; Pablo Koller, vocalist/guitarist, Nectarine; Sohrab Habibion, Edsel vocalist/guitarist; Andy Cohen, Silkworm vocalist/guitarist; Joel Mark, Alleged Records. THE JAZZ TIMES CONVENTION was started ten years ago in Washington, D.C. as an informal meeting place and forum for discussion for a coterie of jazz aficionados. This year's convention, held November 16-20 at the New York Hilton Hotel, welcomed over 700 people from the U.S., England, Sweden, France, Russia, India and other points. Long known as the mecca for jazz musicians, for those four days and nights N.Y.C. was also the place for club owners, booking agents, critics and radio & record execs.

Guided by convention director Lee Mergner (he is also associate publisher of Jazz Times magazine), the meetings and panel discussions signalled a more polished, professional coordination than some earlier meets. Panels addressed the internationality of the music, focusing on the European Jazz Festival Circuit, as well as Selling and Licensing Recordings in Europe. Panels looked at upgrading radio promotion, distribution and marketing. There was Jazz In Cyberspace, and a critical look at jazz critics. And there was a special tribute to saxophone colossus Sonny Rollins.

There were performances from jazz mainstays and newcomers including Milt Jackson, Hubert Laws, Henry Threadgill, Wallace Roney, Jacky Terrasson and plenty of others. And there were a number of convention-connected events open to the public at various night spots, like Threadgill appearing at the Knitting Factory in its new TriBeCa location, and Mark Whitfield and others at Fez in the East Village.

THE THELONIOUS MONK INSTITUTE OF JAZZ held its Vocal Jazz competition on November 21 at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. The winner was Sara Lazarus, a 1984 Harvard graduate who has lived in Paris for the last decade. Judging from the boost the award has given the careers of other recent winners, Lazarus could well be on her way to a similar jolt.

Recent winners who have gone on to major record deals and other notoriety include: saxophonist Joshua Redman, who just had his third Warner Bros. album, Moodswings, released; pianist Marcus Roberts, who has played with Wynton Marsalis, is a leader in his own right, and has just had his newest Columbia Records album Gershwin For Lovers hit the streets; and pianist Jacky Terrasson, who has played with a number of veterans including a stint with jazz diva Betty Carter and has his debut Blue Note Records disc set for a January release.

Lazarus was named the winner by a panel of veteran jazz vocalists consisting of Abby Lincoln, Jon Hendricks, Cleo Laine, Jimmy Scott, Shirley Horn and Dianne Reeves. The doings included a reception at the Vice President's residence with a guest list of some of the top names in jazz. There was a closing concert where saxist Jimmy Heath received the Maria Fisher Founder's Award (Fisher and the Monk family founded the Institute) and featured performances by Heath, guitarist Kenny Burrell, flugelhornist Clark Terry, pianist Herbie Hancock, bassist Ron Carter, drummer Grady Tate and others. Lazarus won $10,000 and the right to be serenaded by some record label looking for a new jazz singer.

I swear it's only because they send more photos than anyone else. So here's I.R.S. recording artist dada, they of "Dizz Knee Land" fame, as they recently dropped by the studios of L.A. AAA station 101.9 to showcase tunes from their debut album Puzzle and, more likely, their new album American Highway Flower. The trio is currently on the road in support of the record and plan to continue touring through the new year, with occasional time off to shoot the breeze as they did at 101.9. Seen here (l-r) are: Nicole Sandler, 101.9 talent; Michael Gurley, dada; Merilee Kelly, music director, 101.9; Phil Leavitt, dada; Mike Morrison, program director, 101.9; and Joie Calio, dada.

THE NIGHT BEFORE THANKSGIVING saw two of famed indie label 4AD's brightest artists in L.A., as Lisa Germano and Pale Saints played at Luna Park. The two, who have been on the road together for some time, are both out in support of critically acclaimed new releases, Germano's being Geek The Girl, while Pale Saints are out behind Slow Buildings.

Germano and her three-piece band rocked their way through equal portions of the Geek... album and last year's Happiness record. The biggest drawback to her set was the way she retreated from the personal nature of her material on stage, hiding behind loud guitars, but given the intensity of her new material it's understandable and certainly excusable. In addition, she did have the benefit of a tight band, and simply put, right now she's on too much of a roll to come off poorly. And beyond that, there's something very exciting about watching an artist come into her own and discover their voice, which is exactly where Germano appears to be at now.

As for Pale Saints, the quartet did a credible job of bringing their ambient mood music to the stage, but lacked a biting stage presence that made them enjoyable to watch—at the time.

WHILE ON THE CLUB FRONT: One of the most underrated bands in pop/rock today is American Music Club. The Bay Area band, who are out in support of their critically lauded (yet again) Reprise album San Francisco, turned in another stellar performance, this time at the Roxy in Los Angeles. Thanks to frontman and songwriter Mark Eitzel, the Club are able to provide a unique way of interpreting and discussing the most common element of humanity—the need for relationships.

The truly impressive thing about the band's hour-plus set at the Roxy was that they were able to bring that originality to the stage. Again, thanks largely to Eitzel, who wears his discomfort on stage on his sleeve, the group have a charming humility about them that fits perfectly with their sound. Words like "genius" are thrown around far too freely in the hyperbole-filled world of rock, so we'll leave it as Eitzel is a rare talent.

Cover Story

Pearl Jam's Vitalogy

By Steve Baltin

PEARL JAM CAME OUT OF the ashes of the proverbial buzz, thanks to the band Mother Love Bone, to make what bored on a great record with Ten. And within the framework of that Epic album they did hit moments of greatness on songs such as "Black" and "Jeremy." Unfortunately, though, whereas Ten should've lined them up for future greatness, the record's phenomenal reception removed any time for growth and immediately put them under the microscope as the heir-apparent to the top bands in rock, namely R.E.M. and U2.

Pearl Jam

That type of situation—with pressure on the band and expectations from the label, industry and fans—is never a positive for anyone involved. Such was the case with the band's sophomore effort, Vs. Though the album sold extremely well, breaking first-week sales records, it didn't have the legs of Ten, leaving the naysayers with room to articulate their "I-told-you-so's."

Now, it's the band's turn to speak...and everyone else will just have to shut the hell up, as the five members of Pearl Jam (counting the pending announcement of a new drummer) have responded in the best way they know how—with an album that will make everyone eat their words. Vitalogy captures all the best elements of Ten—the raw urgency and freshness—and mixes them with a newfound maturity that shows them writing about adult relationships in a surprisingly insightful manner.

Just as the 14 songs on Vitalogy run the gamut of ages theme-wise, they cross the specter of ages musically, mixing up almost-punk numbers like the first single "Spin The Black Circle" and the opening "Last Exit" with softer near-ballads "Nothingman" and "Immortality." But while many acts wear their diversity as inconsistency, there is a continuity found here that helps the record pass the first—and maybe most important test—which is that Vitalogy can be listened to all the way through, and even grows stronger with future listenings.

Much of the consistency has to be credited to lead singer Eddie Vedder's lyrics. The band's sound has changed slightly, but it's Vedder's lyrics that have grown the most. An unabashed fan of Neil Young, Vedder uses that narrative style well on "Better Man." Sample lyric: "She loved him/She don't want to leave this way/She feeds him/That's why she'll be back again."

There's been a lot of debate over what makes a song connect with a listener, and while there may never be—nor should be—an answer, it's hard to discount the theory of honesty, particularly when talking about younger listeners. And Vedder's songs scream with his sincerity. And it's that quality that allows him to get away with putting a mature song like "Better Man" on the same record as the youth anthem "Not For You." A sample lyric: "All that's sacred comes from youth/Dedications, naive and true/With no power, nothing to do!/I still remember. Why don't you?"

From a sales perspective, which can't be ignored when dealing with a band of this stature, Vitalogy has the earmarkings of a smash. Again, it's their diversity that will serve them, as not only is this album chock-full o' singles, but the singles fit at almost all outlets. "Nothingman" and "Better Man" fit at AAA, while "Spin The Black Circle," "Tremor Christ" and "Whipping" are modern-rock monsters. "Not For You," which fans are already familiar with thanks to the band's performance of the song on "Saturday Night Live," and "Corduroy" are guaranteed gems for AOR. And even beyond that, most of these songs have crossover appeal, as each of these tracks will likely find their way to other formats. As for top 40, top 40 will come to Pearl Jam as the album dominates the charts.

But that aside, Vitalogy is first and foremost an artistic success, a record that fans of all ages can both relate to and believe. In other words, this is what everyone wanted Vs. to be—the lesson being, just let it happen. If everyone would remember that after the inevitable multi-Platinum success of this new album, who knows, maybe Pearl Jam will be...Nope. Why rush it? After all, watching them get wherever they're going will be where the fun comes in.

Feature

Loose Groove

By Steve Baltin

LOOSE GROOVE RECORDS is part of a rapidly growing trend of artists taking control of a label. While this has been done before, look at A&M—the artists are getting younger. With that youth and artistic temperament comes a new way of running the business side of things—Loose Groove, which is a subsidiary of Epic Records, and is thus under Sony, is a perfect example of the new wave of acts in control. Run by Pearl Jam's Stone Gossard, Satchel's Regan Hagar and producer Dennis Herring, the new label went on what Hagar referred to as "a signing frenzy" recently, signing four active bands: Weapon Of Choice, Prose & Concepts, Critters Buggin and Devilhead, as well as reissuing the early records from Malfunkshun, Hagar's old band, and the one record from Brad, Gossard's side project of last year which included Hagar.

The most noticeable thing about the roster as it stands now is its diversity. These bands represent a wide range of styles, not just leaning toward alternative rock or pop. In fact, hip-hop seems to be a very prevalent style in the initial list of acts, with punk thrown in for good measure. But that just falls in line with the label heads divergent tastes, as there is an obvious yin and yang in running Loose Groove—a fact evidenced by the specific roles each person fits.

Hagar's involvement with the label runs toward the artistic side of things, while Gossard deals with the business aspects and Herring handles the technical portion. Though each has his niche, everything is decided in a counsel-type manner, with all three having a say in the bands that are signed, despite the fact that each brought in his own acts initially. With Satchel on the road and Pearl Jam's new album just out, this is a busy time for the parties involved in Loose Groove, but Hagar is confident the label won't get lost in the shuffle, as this is something that means too much to those involved.

According to Hagar, the idea behind the label came from Gossard, "who's wanted to do something like this for a long time," with the purpose behind the idea to get exposure to bands who might not otherwise have the opportunity. Still, starting a label is a time-consuming project, and the members certainly could've passed along the tapes of their pet bands to the proper A&R people. But that isn't what Loose Groove is about, says Hagar. In this situation, the parties responsible can offer the bands a "looser" environment. When asked what Loose Groove can offer a new band, Hagar says without hesitation, "creative freedom."

REVIEWS By Steve Baltin

■ TLC: "Creep" (LaFace 4082)

Taken from their guaranteed hit album, CrazySexyCool, this song is all of those things. Infused with a slight bit of drama in the intro, "Creep" just slinks through the airwaves, slithering into listeners' minds where it wraps itself tightly, thanks to its low vocals and enticing backbeat. A monster hit.

■ HOOTIE &amp; THE BLOWFISH: "Let Her Cry" (Atlantic 5639)

The new single from the group's well-received debut album, Cracked Rear View, proves the hypothesis that was formulated by the band's first single, "Hold My Hand"—this group is AAA radio's wet dream. A hybrid of country, folk and pop, Hootie & The Blowfish are reintroducing to the masses the lovely medium of acoustic music. With this single, they continue to do it effectively, making their one of the more appealing success stories of the year.

■ MARIAH CAREY: "Miss You Most (At Christmas Time)" (Columbia 6647)

Carey's first X-mas tune should do wonders for the holiday suicide rate, as she sings against a melancholy backdrop about how her broken heart is strongest when the snow begins to fall. Carey redeems herself somewhat by showing unusual restraint, as she refrains from her normal showy finish to let the song speak for itself.

■ SOUNDGARDEN: "Fell On Black Days" (A&amp;M 8314)

At last count, this is the fourth single from the band's Platinum-and-more record Superunknown. The slowed-down tempo of this new one is more reminiscent of "Black Hole Sun." Fans of that song will be pleased with the accent given to Chris Cornell's vocals here. But then again, it's all irrelevant, as the song is already getting massive airplay at modern rock and AOR formats. It's just refreshing to know that once in a while a song that receives this much support deserves it, and this one does. A winner.

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: "Six-Sided Single: Vol. 1" (I.R.S. 58291)

The latest attempt from I.R.S. to remain on the cutting edge is a single/EP designed to introduce the listening public to three unsigned bands. The lucky trio in this case being Albany, NY's Bloom, Thirteen from San Antonio, TX and L.A. boys Grin. The refreshing thing about the six songs found here—two from each band—is that they don't suffer from the dreaded fad-of-the-day syndrome, with each band sounding just different enough from the others. Also interesting is the way that each band has one song that stands out above its other song. For Bloom, it's "Drown"; for Thirteen, their best cut is the punkish "Alcohol Funny Car"; and as for Grin, the winner is the power-pop tune "Tripping The Life." I.R.S. has done their part, bringing to light three new and worthwhile bands; it'd be really nice to see radio follow suit, as all three of these bands would fit at modern rock outlets.

POP ALBUMS

DUMB AND DUMBER

Yet another soundtrack designed to reach the seemingly endless alternative market, this one is able to slide by thanks to giving exposure to some bands who are very deserving of it. Those given the opportunity to expand their audience by latching on to the Jim Carrey bandwagon include Echobelly, Pete Droge and Gigolo Aunts. The biggest names here are Crash Test Dummies, who do a fairly credible job of XTC's "The Ballad Of Peter Pumpkinhead," a song that seems a perfect fit for a Carrey movie and Butthole Surfers, who resuscitate their amusing 1991 version of Donovan's "Hurdy Gurdy Man." As for the lesser-known bands, some of their material is previously available, though this soundtrack makes a good introduction. Among the artists who stand out are Droge, with the satirical "If You Don't Love Me (I'll Kill Myself)," The Primitives with "Crash—The '95 Music," and Willi One Blood, who provide the album with its highpoint in "Whiney, Whiney (What Really Drives Me Crazy)." Ultimately though, this is not a record that is likely to stand on its own, and its success will depend on how well the film does.

CRANES: Loved (Dedicated/Arista 18769)

While the third album from this English band carries on their ambient tradition, tracks like "Bewildered" and the flood mix of "Lilies" give the record a slightly grittier feel than much of the sleepy time/celestial music out there these days. The result is an album filled with what the Cranberries' new album had hoped to be, aggressive mood music. Some of the record's finest moments come with the more subdued work, like the lovely "Are You Gone," but what makes Loved stand out is the hard-edged drum beat that dominates here. That and Alison Shaw's charming vocals. This is one that could get lost in the shuffle, but deserves a much better fate than that. In other words, find it.

GODFLESH: Selfless (Earache/Columbia 66157)

Godflesh have managed to garner some support out-of-the-box for their debut album...a fact that is a little surprising given the sugar-coated state of today's music for the adolescents. Even punk is buffered by pop, so as not to offend. And along come Godflesh, with music from down deep in the depths. A heavy drum beat, swirling guitars and one of those satanic heavy-metal voices that drive the parents wild can be found throughout the 11-song collection. Given that you can't understand most of the lyrics and the music is monotonous, this record is all about packaging. So give Columbia credit—they know what the kids want, or at least how to make 'em believe this is what they want.

VARIOUS ARTISTS: Shared Vision: The Songs Of The Beatles (Mercury Nashville 50432)

Not as much a tribute album as a collection of covers, the cause behind assembling others interpretations of 14 Beatles' tunes is to benefit The Lighthouse Inc., which benefits the blind, and The Elton John AIDS Foundation. The material ranges from the best-known Beatles' covers—Joe Cocker's "With A Little Help From My Friends," Richie Havens' "Here Comes The Sun" and "Lucy In The Sky With Diamonds" from Elton—to previously unavailable works, including "I Will" from Kathy Mattea and Redd Kross' version of "It Won't Be Long." However, the best moments come from neither of those categories, instead hailing from the lesser-known but previously-released section. And at the top of that section are P.M. Dawn's groovy hypnotic version of "Norwegian Wood (This Bird Has Flown)" and the always dependable Jam with "And Your Bird Can Sing." "Something for everyone" is a cliché often abused, but with acts covering so many different styles, that cliché rings true here.

POP WILL EAT ITSELF: Dos Dedos Mis Amigos (Nothing/Interscope 92393)

Before this new album, Pop Will Eat Itself were a largely techno band subject to the limitations of techno music, namely it went over great in clubs, but the appeal ended there. However, for their new record the group has hooked up with Trent's label, with very effective results. What makes the change in the direction of the music work is that P.W.E.I. and co-producer Bryan New have not tried to copy the Nails' style, but have added what was necessary to diversify their own sound. On "Familus Horribilus," for example, the grooves are broken up by a bell sound. The strongest tracks though are the opening "Ich Bin Ein Auslander" and the wonderfully hard-edged and seedy "Underbelly," a song that far surpasses anything P.W.E.I. have ever even attempted before.

PICK OF THE WEEK

ASS PONYS: Electric Rock Music (A&M 0270)

Hailing from Cincinnati, the Ass Ponys are a quartet who built up the underground buzz and are now attempting to make their mark nationally with their major-label debut. Along those lines, the band recently concluded a tour with Pavement. But do they have the songs to connect? They've got the range, living up to a bio that classifies them as being somewhere between Captain Beefheart and Captain & Tennille. The best moments here come when they strip away all the pretense, like on the opening number "Grim," a gripping song that gives lead vocalist Chuck Cleaver his shining opportunity. The one drawback to this record comes with the amount of fluff, like in the first single "Little Bastard." The songs are catchy enough, even bringing to mind the Spin Doctors in the grooves, but after one listen to "Grim" you'll be crying out for more of that raw brutality. Still, the edge the band demonstrates throughout, particularly in Cleaver and John Erhardt's guitars, and Cleaver's charming Americana-slice-of-life stories makes this a most impressive debut, and as this band gets more comfortable, look out....

REVIEWS by M.R. Martinez

NATALIE COLE: Holly & Ivy (Elektra 61704). Producers: Andre Fischer and Tommy Lipuma.

Natalie Cole creates a warm hearth of Yuletide spirit with some classics and lesser-known holiday chestnuts. The music is alternately up-tempo and introspective, a state being the season almost universally provokes.

THE BOYS CHOIR OF HARLEM: The Sound Of Hope (EastWest 92432). Producers: Mervyn Warren, Don Sebasky & others.

The soaring musical spirit of this album translates easily to this season of giving, hope and renewal. From the swaying funk of "Heroes" to the touching rendition of the late Donny Hathaway's "This Christmas," this venerable choir's contemporary album debut establishes a firm identity for one of America's cultural institutions.

VARIOUS ARTISTS: MoJazz Christmas Album (MoJazz 30353). Producers: Various.

There's a hint of bop on many of the selections on this album. While MoJazz's breakout hit artist Norman Brown clocks in with a couple of tracks (including a rare cover of "Greensleeves"), praise goes forth to Frank McComb ("This Christmas"), Ronco Martin for her heartfelt version of "Silent Night," the soothing yet gripping version of "Christmas Tree" by Eric Reed, the adult contemporary vibe of J. Spencer's "What Child Is This" and the salsa vibe served up on "Feliz Navidad" by Pete Escovedo.

KOFI: A Very Reggae Christmas (Atlantic 82713). Producer: Kofi.

Not since Jacob Miller's reggae Christmas collection has there been a personality to drive an entire album. Of course, the album opens with "The Little Drummer Boy." The back beat and groove on most of this album will make you listen more closely for your favorite lyrics because you will groove. Kofi combines roots rocking with dancehall flavor for massively effective results. This should join your reggae holiday compilations (and Miller's opus) as a classic.

THE SECOND CHAPTER: Feel The Spirit (DDSJMM 001). Producer: Paul Porter.

The spirit of this music is R&B, tent-trembling funk in the name of The Lord. While there are no overtly holiday-oriented materials on this album, this music can make its way into the peace, hope and love rotation easily. It can be played year-round without mistletoe and evergreens fouling your living room. "I'm Not What I Used To Be" is a crossover hit. This is an unashamed gospel album with Good News all over it.

PICK OF THE WEEK

MARIAH CAREY: Merry Christmas (Columbia 64222). Producers: Walter Afanasieff & M. Carey.

Mariah has an incredible instrument. But she shows the proper restraint using it on this collection, only unleashing those expansive octaves when called for. There's lots of groove, plenty of lesser-known Christmas songs and great production, especially on "All I Want For Christmas" and "Joy To The World." Everybody will hear a single released from this package, "Miss You Most (At Christmas Time)" (see separate pop singles review). A fav here: the lullabye-to-bombast treatment given to "Santa Claus Is Comin' To Town."

THE RHYTHM

By M.R. Martinez

Silas/MCA recording artist Chanté Moore recently was feted with a Gold record award for her second album A Love Supreme after a special live performance featuring music from the album at the Wilshire Ebell Club House in Los Angeles. The date was the finale of a series of intimate dates hosted by Silas Records prez/CEO Louil Silas, Jr. Pictured at the presentation are (l-r): Glen Lajeski, sr. v.p. of artist development, MCA; Sara Melendez, v.p. of marketing/artist development, Silas; Louil Silas, Jr.; Chanté Moore; Fred Moultrie, Moore's manager; Ernie Singleton, president of MCA's black music division; Richard Palmese, president, of MCA Records; and A.D. Washington, sr. v.p. of promotion/marketing for MCA's black music division.

IS IT SAFE...TO LAUGH?: Sex, drugs and music have always been targets for the barbs of incisive comedians, using these subjects as points-of-departure into social commentary that barks and bites at the underbelly of society's faux pas. A direct lineage can be traced from the late Redd Foxx through legendary, over-the-edge comic imitator Richard Pryor and the underexposed Paul Mooney. Loose Cannon Records, a subsidiary of Island Records and headed by long-time PolyGram Records executive Lisa Cortes, recently re-released four comedy collections, three featuring Pryor and one featuring Foxx. Cortes and Loose Cannon plan release of best-of packages on both Foxx and Pryor in April. But for now, Craps (After Hours), Black Ben The Blacksmith and Who Me, I'm Not Him by Pryor and I Ain't Never Lied by Foxx all provide classic routines by these hilariously groundbreaking comedians. (We haven't forgotten those who've come before them like Moms Mabley, Pigmeat Markam or Wild Man Steve, nor those comedians like Nipsey Russell, Flip Wilson or Bill Cosby who take a less dark path to social insight. The former offer a predated perspective and the latter offer a "crossover" look at life in the community and in households.)

But the shit that Foxx and Pryor make funny on the Loose Cannon releases is distilled and given unabridged treatment by Mooney on his second Stepsun Music Entertainment album Master Piece. Some of the subject matter parallels are obvious, since Mooney at one time was a chief writer for Pryor, who drew some of his keys from Foxx. The truisms in some of these routines are so vivid sometimes it's hard to laugh. Sometimes you have to laugh to keep from crying. As USA Today columnist DeWayne Wickham put it, Mooney's work is "cutting-edge stuff. But to many African Americans, Mooney's routine[s], while painfully funny, [are] no joke." The following is a sampling of the material from Pryor's much coveted Craps... album, Foxx's album and several more topical bits coming from Mooney's current Stepsun offering, which was produced by label chief Bill Stephney.

Redd Foxx on black people fooling white people with the word "Boss":

"Well, good night, boss... Yes sir, boss. See, boss spelled backwards is double-S-O-B, and that means two of 'em...That's right, good night, you sonofabitch, you...work me to death all week and ain't payin' me no decent salary...you go to a big party and ask your friends, 'Why do they steal?' Because you wasn't payin' me nothin'..."

Basketball's Best Kept Secret on Immortal/Epic Records represents an all-star grouping of 10 NBA notables-turned-rappers and 11 of hip-hop's currently hot producers/rappers, including Dr. Dre, Ant Banks, DJ Slip, Warren G. and DJ Clark Kent. Clippers.

Pryor on anger and coming:

"Comin' is the coolest thing in the world, 'cause you come, you can't be mad at all comin'...I ain't never been mad comin'..."

Mooney on the power of the drum:

"They took the drums from us because that's how we sent our messages... 'Catch a nigga on a drum that's the death penalty.' That's why we don't keep drums in our house now!...[But] I gotta drum in every motherfuckin' room! Never know when that phone will go out. (The sound of a drum) Yeah, they disconnected that motherfucker, but you can't stop this (the sound of a drum again)."

Mooney on Howard Stern:

"Fuck Howard Stern!...He's said some outrageous shit. If I was on the radio and said some shit that white boy said, they'd come down there and blow that motherfucker up. America likes that shit...Fuck Howard Stern!...He says stupid shit when it comes to black people...There's an African doctor who does a lot stuff with herbs [to cure AIDS]. There was a rumor that he discovered a cure, and Howard Stern said, quote, 'No, niggas ain't discovered no cure. They can't even discover a cure to keep their hair straight'...you go back and tell that motherfucker I said, 'Oh no, niggas have a cure for that, too. We'll fuck all the white women and make sure all our kids' hair's straight'..."

Mooney on the O.J. situation (truncated version):

"It's a modern-day Othello."

Mooney on being a black man in America:

"It's hard being a black man. It's like being the goddamn boogie man...look at Ted Danson. He was a nigga for an hour and look at all the trouble he got in to...he hurried up and got out of that black face. He said, 'Whoopi [Goldberg], fuck you. I'm gonna be white. Bye, bitch!'"

Are you laughing yet?!!

Rap Single Reviews

■ MISTA GRIMM: "Situation Grimm" (550 Music/Epic Soundtrax 6677).

Impeccable production is the main thing on this record, which is a breezy incantation about women, words and something looking Grimm. Mista Grimm's mic flow excels over a bumpin' beat, clicking and swooning guitar work. Culled from the soundtrack to the upcoming John Singleton film Higher Learning, this first single will earn airplay.

■ CLI-N-TEL: "Mo' Juice" b/w "Concrete Roots" (Hitman/Triple XXX 51201).

Cli-N-Tel, along with the Wreckin' Cru, was one of the first West Coast artists that Dr. Dre helped give identity to. This is a plot point in the historical arc of West Coast rap that strived for credibility in the face of East Coast dominance. "Mo Juice" is a dance rave-up, while "Concrete Roots" is a sample of Dre things to come.

■ RUDE AWAKENING: "Fallin'" (Street Flavor, no cat #).

A dark undertow, quick and witty mic play and Wu-Tang-like textures are the centerpiece of this release. The solid bedrock-synthesized bass groove, the swirling, swooning synth textures on top and a riptide of mic work by "Big Mike" Mike Stutts and "T-Shon" Kris Taylor work.

Rykodisc's Bob Carlton,
Marketing

By Steve Baltin

RYKODISC USES MUCH the same strategy in assembling their active roster as they do in determining whose back catalog to acquire, which is to find artists they can work with, and more importantly, that they believe in. While it sounds simple enough, in the world of music it's not an easy task. That, according to Carlton, is why they are not more active in the signing game, instead choosing to concentrate on reissues, with the exception of a few bands who meet their difficult-to-please criteria.

Of course, the results of being that finicky can be beneficial, as the label often finds themselves with critically acclaimed bands with a built-in audience. Such is the case with the label's two biggest acts, Sugar and Morphine.

Sugar especially brought in a large and devoted fan base because of leader Bob Mould's days with Husker Du. And with the current climate in popular music and the way formerly underground artists have broken through to the mainstream, the timing would seem perfect for Sugar to break through. As such, the trio's new album, File Under: Easy Listening, hit the top 50 immediately upon its release. According to Carlton, the way they're going to capitalize on the initial success is the old-fashioned way. The band will continue to tour through at least the first part of '95, with more singles to come as well.

Morphine is a slightly different story, as they've garnered a large buzz in the collegiate world, thanks to their unique saxophone, drums and bass sound, but are not well-known to the mainstream. Yet many believe this is a band with an opportunity to make major in-roads upon the release of their next album, due in February or March of '95. For a band with this kind of reputation, playing live will continue to be a major part of the marketing angle, says Carlton, but to get the group's name out there more, the label will turn to the grass-roots approach they use on certain reissues, which were cited here last week.

Whatever way they go about it, '95 looks to be a busy and prosperous year for Rykodisc.

On The Cutting Edge

Indie News

By Steve Baltin

AVI ENTERTAINMENT GROUP INC. recently released eight blues and gospel CDs through their newly restructured L.A.-based music publishing, licensing and distribution company. The releases, which hit stores on November 29, include: Standing On The Rock from The Fairfield Four; Slim Harpo's Hip Shakin, a double-CD set; Lightin' Slim's I'm Evil: Rare And Unissued Excello Masters Volume One; and It's Jesus Y'All, courtesy of The Soulful Sound Of Nashboro Gospel featuring Various Artists.

AVI will distribute its reissue product through INDI, while continuing to sell directly to the niche market independent retailers not covered by the INDI Network through their own in-house distribution organization. The company will also sell selected third-party product to specialist accounts through a direct-mail operation that will allow AVI to target its consumers directly.

Harry Anger, AVI chairman, president and chief executive officer, commented: "We are proud to be showing deserved respect to the music of yesterday by making these titles available on CD. Our re-releasing of titles from the rich Excello, Nashboro and AVI catalogs, with painstaking attention to their sound quality and packaging, will make these a must for all collectors and fans of blues, rhythm & blues and rockabilly."

SONIC YOUTH GOES TO THE MOVIES: Rhino Records, the industry's self-proclaimed premier musical archival label, has set January 24 as the release date for Made In USA (Music From The Original 1986 Motion Picture Soundtrack). The album remains the only film soundtrack entirely composed and performed by Sonic Youth, whose popularity continues to grow as more and more young acts cite them as a major influence.

Recorded in '86, but not released on disc or tape until now, the album features 23 tracks on CD and cassette, with a retail list price of $15.98/$10.98 respectively. The group wrote the material specifically for key scenes in the obscure art film, which starred Christopher Penn.

The soundtrack is comprised mostly of ambient instrumentals with a few hard-edged guitar-driven songs written to enhance scenes throughout the movie about disenfranchised youths on a crime spree to find freedom.

REVIEWS By Steve Baltin and M.R. Martinez

■ BURNING SPEAR: Love & Peace: Burning Spear Live (Heartbeat 7675)

According to the back of the CD, Burning Spear is the quintessential live reggae performer. While that may be going overboard just a bit, this nine-song collection show it's not over by much. This album is infused with all the best aspects of the genre, from the harmony of unity to the laid-back grooves that cry out "peace" and "love." As inviting as a Jamaican beach and all that comes with that image, Burning Spear and his nine-piece Burning Band have created a splendorous celebration of their music, resulting in a record to carry you away. (S.B.)

■ WADE HUBBARD: Insanity Lane (Vibration Entertainment 9532)

Hubbard is a new singer/songwriter whose debut record covers material ranging from '88 to '94. While that is often the case with first records, trying to cover that much time can present a problem with consistency. However, that is not the case with the 11 new songs and one cover of Stevie Wonder's "Golden Lady" found here. From the opening song "Dream Baby Dream" to the album's title track, and the best number, "Beautiful Liar," Hubbard remains true to what he set out to accomplish. (S.B.)

You have to love Leon Parker after listening to his post-modernist version of "Bemsha Swing," which gets funky, changes tempos and glides through straight lyricism into jagged chordal explorations. This drummer demonstrates that his tenure with both Joshua and Dewey Redman provided him with the experience of interchange through restraint and freedom. Working to soothe and create tension is the track "You Don't Know What Love Is," which Cassandra Wilson covered so ably earlier this year. "All My Life" frolics and shows off the capable sidemen. (M.M.)

■ NU SKUUL JUNKIES: Lust Reaction (Lionhead 0711)

There's some seminal R&B grooves offered on this disc, which, despite the album title, has a few insightful lyrical gems on it. The arrangements might remind you of that myriad of synth-driven R&B crews of the late '80s. But there is an undertow of emotional verve on many of the tracks. The message tome "Motherland," the slow-grinding "Let Me Know" and the sexy ballad "One More Again" are all entries for hits. (M.M.)

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ THE UNDERTONES: The Very Best of The Undertones (Rykodisc 20297)

The band that launched the career of Fergal Sharkey is very well represented here, with a blissful 25-song retrospective that makes it clear why legendary British deejay John Peel calls "Teenage Kicks" his favorite song of all time. As sublime a pop experience as one is likely to have in this life, the Undertones were thought of in their time as punk, and though that comes through on tracks like "Family Entertainment" and "Male Model," this is the stuff pop dreams are made of. With 20 of the 25 numbers clocking in under three minutes, the Undertones took to heart being concise and never wasting a precious note. They could get away with it because they weren't trying to be something they're not—this is not a philosophical record. Not with songs such as "Here Comes The Summer," "Let's Talk About Girls" and "Mars Bars" to be found here. Though they were successful in England, this Irish quintet—who recorded their first record when all but one member was still in their teens—never saw the respect they deserved. But then, artists are never appreciated in their lifetime, and the Undertones were artists. (S.B.)

Defining Women: Television And The Case Of "Cagney & Lacey"

By John Goff

WAS IT A SOCIAL PHENOMENON, as some areas like to view it, or simply the right timing that TV's "Cagney & Lacey" gathered such a fervent group of followers? Actually it was a long, hard road of action, planning and counter-attacking the CBS-TV network by and for producer Barney Rosenzweig, cast and company. And whether "Cagney & Lacey" defined women or not is another question entirely.

If you don't know the history, "Cagney & Lacey" began as a TV movie in 1981, became a series, was cancelled, brought back, almost cancelled and came back in the ratings like a phoenix more times than anyone would probably care to remember.

Author Julie D'Acci is an assistant professor of communication arts at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and an academic approach fills this leave-no-insinuation-unturned-or-unexamined account of the history of the show, from original casting of Loretta Swit as Cagney and Tyne Daly as Lacey in the TV movie to Meg Foster and Daly in the first series (which drew fire for being too "lesbian"-oriented) to the end and ultimately successful teaming of Sharon Gless and Daly. D'Acci dutifully chronicles the show from its creation by Barbara Avedon and Barbara Corday through the fight producer Rosenzweig had to get it on the air and the tampering studio heads felt was needed to its end (though it hasn't truly ended, since C&G had a "Return" as a TV movie in November and another "Together Again" coming at ya in early 1995.) Sometimes the reader feels as if he or she is sitting in a dimly-lit lecture hall—and, perhaps, a little nap back here in the corner won't be noticed (Remember that feeling? It was Art History class for me)...not good for learning a definition.

D'Acci brings in so much that it gets tough slogging sometimes, especially if you follow along with the oftentimes interesting notes in the back of the book, which total another 45 pages. It also contains one of the series' better scripts, dealing with battered women, which aired in 1983, garnered wide attention at the time and is even more relevant today. The struggles of everyone to keep the series on the air with publicity, touring and letter-writing campaigns are highly interesting. Reproductions of the show's reviews don't do a lot for the pace—author's summation would have been better if these comments were relevant—but it does illustrate the disparity and fervency of, for and against rages that whirled around the show in its beginning. The show's development process from "cop show to woman's program" gets bogged down in technicals. One wants to see D'Acci cut through the research to the hearts of these people and run with them, but it never really comes about. History is best when moving fast, especially history about a business as crazy as the television world "Cagney & Lacey" fought so hard to survive in.

As History, it's a solid and admirably researched piece of work. As Entertainment, it's slow-going. Let's split the difference and call it Historical Entertainment.

George Jones: The Life And Times Of A Honky Tonk Legend

By J.G.

YOU WON'T GO TO SLEEP on the subject of this manuscript. You might get a mountainous thirst or "contact high" reading about the prodigious amounts of booze and drugs its subject consumed during his hell-raising days...you might want to toss your cookies, lunch or yesterday's dinner at some of the impassioned passages author Bob Allen indulges himself in...but, Hoss, y'ain't gon' turn y' back on ol' George "Possum" Jones.

Allen's a freelance writer—Esquire, Playboy, Rolling Stone, Billboard and an "editor-at-large" for Country Music Magazine—so the credentials are there, and the bulk of this book was originally published a decade ago when the "Possum" was still swimming upstream in Whiskey River, but at a time when the current was gettin' to him. His fate was still in question. Well, he's weathered it thus far and Allen has added some mellow wrap-up material (Foreword and Epilogue). In his Foreword, the author states: "In re-reading this book for the first time in quite a few years as I prepared it for reissue, I was tempted to change certain things. There are a few fleeting moments of excess, where, in my passion to convey Jones' inner turmoil, I veer dangerously close to melodrama and demonstrate a somewhat clumsy propensity for celestial metaphors. And there are a couple of recurring phrases which I unwittingly beat to death through repetition.

"Then, too, I like to think I've gotten a little kinder in middle age" and goes on to name a couple people he feels he dealt with harshly and admits he would, were he doing it now, deal with them "a little gentler." Actually he dealt gentler with himself. He could have said "...a few fleeting moments of excess on every page." He's on the money, however, on his assessment of the recurring phrases beaten to death. A few more references to Jones as "the prodigal singer" or Hank Williams as "the dark archangel" could send one running to the porcelain pillow with the Possum on a bad hangover morning.

But Allen tells you this going in, so you're prepared. Just push on through because he's done a fine job of chronicling the country singer's life. And it's that Life that keeps pushing out to grab a reader. I'm sorry Allen didn't see fit to give it a complete reworking and cut away the unnecessary melodrama. The way Jones lived from his birth in the East Texas Big Thicket area on September 12, 1931 to the present, simply written cold, is fascinating—the compulsive escapes manifesting itself in long, wandering drives; nights spent sitting with a quart of liquor and .38 staring at dark rivers—chilling even in simplicity, not needing any additional color. It is the stuff of both American dreams and world nightmares; high and low comedy; dirt-poor Depression-era poverty and great riches; simplicity and complexity, and all of these go to the absolute far ends of the spectrum. There is the seventh grade drop-out George Jones singing for nickels and dimes on Beaumont (Janis Joplin's hometown also), TX street corners, and the later Jones playing venues like Madison Square Garden and earning his "Possum" nickname drunkenly scurrying through bathroom windows to escape those crowds to earn himself another nickname—"No-Show Jones." His personalized current license plates (pictured with the singer in the book) read IDOSHOW.

If you're a country music fan, you've seen Jones' life played out in the media. He's never made a secret of his alcohol abuse, or any other abuse. Jones was a good ol' boy who made good, one of their own for many years. He grew up in a time and area where to take a few too many drinks and raise some Hell were not only accepted, they were expected. Jones, like any top-of-the-line alcoholic, took it all to the extreme. If it's worth doin', it's worth doin' to excess. Jones' excesses would have killed ordinary men and brought other practitioners to their knees long before they did him. That he's alive today is proof there's a God, especially for drunks.

Throughout the book, Jones' life is both a look at the evolution of country music and a classic study of alcoholism and drug abuse, and in those respects...Life And Times... is totally fascinating, whether you're a fan of Jones and country music or not. Here is an inwardly simple man who turns to substances to give him the courage and strength to accept the exterior adulation of a talent he's not sure of and overcome the fear of inadequacy which plagues every abuser.

Today, however, he is an icon in his field, and he appears content with his image. He's able to poke fun at his past after having made peace with it and with himself. You've only to watch him riding his lawnmower down the road in a Vince Gill music video with a great smile, knowing that that was his transportation to get to the store for another bottle of whiskey in his crazed days when one of his wives hid his car keys, to know that he's got a terrific sense of humor. As satisfying as a double shot of Black Jack on the rocks for a crazed mind on a dark and stormy night.

News From England & The United Kingdom

By David Courtney

ONLINE DINNER WITH OZZY: To celebrate the success of Nativity In Black: A Tribute To Black Sabbath, eight radio contest winners will get the opportunity to have dinner with Ozzy Osbourne at his home in England. WAXQ (NY), KNAC (LA), WXTB (Tampa), and KISW (Seattle) are all co-sponsoring, with Columbia Records and Concrete Marketing, the contest in which two winners from each station will fly to England for a catered, private dinner with Ozzy at his estate. During the dinner, there will be a global online hook-up direct to the home which will enable computer online users to ask questions, check out what's going on, and generally join in the festivities through the Internet (but can they taste online?).

MTVE GREAT SUCCESS: MTV's "European Music Awards" held last week were hailed as a great success. The awards were beamed into 240 million homes around the world. The two-and-a-half-hour show screened live from Berlin and was dominated by U.K. acts. Winners included Take That (Best Group), Youssou N' Dour and Neneh Cherry (Best Song for "7 Seconds"), The Prodigy (Best Dance Act), Gun (Best Cover For Cameo's "Word Up") and Therapy (Breakthrough Artist). The event was given an added dimension by the appearance of two superstars, both who happen to be locked into dispute with their respective record labels—George Michael and Prince/Symbol.

RETAILERS POISED FOR BEATLES ALBUM: This Friday will see the release of The Beatles' Live At The BBC album. The album is expected to fly into the charts, probably straight to the top. The album consists of 56 songs recorded for the BBC between 1963 and 1965 and combined with dialogue between The Beatles and BBC deejays at the time.

STONES U.K. DATE: The Rolling Stones are set to play three British dates next summer as part of their Voodoo Lounge world tour. Venues are Sheffield Arena on July 9 and Wembley Stadium July 11-12. A small venue warm-up concert has yet to be announced.

A&M'S NEW GUITAR LABEL: A&M launches its new guitar-oriented offshoot label Paradox in January with the debut EP Seven Sisters from Northern Irish four-piece Joyride. The label will be coordinated by A&R manager Martin Toher, product manager Sophie Ashmore and press director Andy Prevezer. Joyride are scheduled to support The Senseless Things on a U.K. tour starting December 8.

ANOTHER COPYRIGHT HEADACHE FOR MCA MUSIC: Another songwriter is claiming copyright infringement against Whigfield's million-selling #1 single "Saturday Night." Last month Warner Chappell launched an action against "Saturday Night's" publisher MCA Music, claiming that the song is based on the first line of The Equals 1969 hit "Rub A Dub Dub" by band member Derv Gordon. Now Alan Hull of '70s folk-rock group Lyndisfarne is claiming the Euro-pop hit is based on "Fog On The Tyne" which he wrote in 1969. Hull and publisher Hit & Run Music have hired musicologist Harry Rabinowitz.

COUNTRY MUSIC AWARDS FOR '95: Country music, which has been growing in popularity here, will see the launch of the U.K.'s first country music awards in March, followed by a European tour featuring four of America's biggest contemporary country artists. "The Great British Country Music Awards," spearheaded by the British Music Association, will be broadcast on BBC Radio Two on March 23 with American singer Marty Stuart as its presenter. Radio Two's British Country programme will provide a six-week run up to the awards with a new series in February.

FEATURE FILMS GET THE EDGE ON DISNEY: Video retailers report blockbuster feature films have stolen a march on this year's Disney Christmas Classic, with traditional market leader Buena Vista looking unlikely to regain a #1 position in the video sales chart this side of Christmas. Following its release in mid-October, Snow White And The Seven Dwarfs occupied the top spot for only two weeks before being toppled by Mrs. Doubtfire, which is approaching Fox Video's original sales target of 1.5 million units in its first three weeks of release. Meanwhile, CIC's Jurassic Park is expected to comfortably exceed 1 million sales.

THE BRITANNIA MUSIC 25TH ANNIVERSARY: Britannia Music is keeping the lid on plans for its 25th anniversary extravaganza, which is to be held at North London's Alexandra Palace on December 16. Around 600 guests from the music and video industries have been invited to the celebration, which will include performances from five acts (including one from the '60s).

Indie Picks

Todd Cordle

■ Todd Cordle: "Hide & Seek" (Platinum Plus)

Cordle offers up a steady beat single highlighted by the soft touch of a fiddle. With an interesting hook and some creative musical accompaniment to follow, Cordle offers up an indie standout.

■ Delia Charlene: "Somebody Once Told Me" (Platinum Plus)

This single kicks off with a guitar intro that continues throughout the entire song. A cute melody and straight-ahead musical accompaniment make this one by Delia Charlene worth a listen.

■ Michael Copeland: "Friends Behind Bars" (Platinum Plus)

As the title implies, a great hook is the main attribute of this one. A simple, uncomplicated, easy-going production makes for a good melody and a high dose of sing-along possibilities. Give it a play.

Indie Spotlight

Shad O'Shea: He Does It All

SHAD O'SHEA, president of Fraternity Records and a singer/songwriter with his current single "McLove Story" at #63 on the Cash Box Top 100 Country Singles chart, is also an author, among other things.

As the author of Just For The Record, the book Grammy Magazine called "the finest book ever written on the subject"...and that subject being the music and recording business as seen by an insider with over 30 years' experience. Just For The Record tells the beginner, and reminds the veteran, of what it takes in the way of talent and smarts to make it as a composer or performer.

O'Shea isn't a one-time author. He has two new books: Beware...The Song Shark, which details just about every scam in the business, the kind of stuff that bilks hundreds of thousands of dollars from unsuspecting people who want to break into the world of music; and Common Sense And The Music Business, which is the ultimate "how to" manual that lists every possible mistake and how to avoid them. A fourth book, Music In America...the '90s, will deal with the bewildering world of technical hardware and software—everything from sampling to buying music in stores off satellites.

O'Shea's insight into the music business has also spread into the world of seminars. "One Full Day With Shad O'Shea" is the title of America's most complete one-day seminar on the music business. O'Shea has been producing them for several years in major markets. Along with O'Shea is an array of well-known experts in the fields of session producing, songwriting, manufacturing and entertainment law.

As for his background, O'Shea has spent over 15 years as an on-air personality in markets such as New Orleans, St. Louis, San Diego and Cincinnati. He was the voice for clients which include Dodge/Plymouth, White Westinghouse, Ideal Toy and Cintas The Uniform People. Regionally, he wrote and produced broadcast commercials for more than 500 clients and for 15 years wrote, produced and voiced radio and TV campaigns for the Tri-State Ford dealers. As a songwriter and artist, he has written and produced over 70 novelty records and is the featured artist on a six-volume CD set for collectors' recordings. In 1970, he built Counterpart Creative Studios, a state-of-the-art facility that has attracted such artists as Aerosmith, Todd Rundgren, Livingston Taylor, Mike Reid, Midnight Star and Leonard Bernstein. In fact, Bernstein's world-famous work, "The Mass," was recorded in its entirety at Counterpart. The studio also recorded for other major labels and worked with dozens of other nationally known recording artists.

As for his connection with Fraternity Records, he bought the label in 1976. In addition to keeping the label alive, he uses it as a springboard for new, promising talent. Fraternity also has two publishing companies, Hurdy-Gurdy Music (ASCAP) and Counterpart Music (BMI).

As a producer and consultant for songwriters and recording artists, O'Shea has helped put, to date, 46 newcomers on the national top 100 charts. He has taught courses in radio & television, music production and TV & record production at the University of Cincinnati and Southern Ohio College.

Shad O'Shea, a jack-of-all trades when it comes to the music business, is truly unique in his experience and background.

POSITIVE / CHRISTIAN COUNTRY

Ted White: The Lawman

"THE ALBUM is called Lost & Found, and I was lost for an enormously long time," says Ted White, a.k.a. "The Lawman," of his debut Positive/Christian Country album on HeavenSpun. "Thirty-seven years I was lost and I've been found since. I'm 46, so I know a whole lot more about being lost than I do about being found, and I'm showing through the songs what it's like to be lost in a lost world."

As a singer/songwriter, White garnered the alias "The Lawman" because, in addition to his musical career, he is also a nationally recognized trial lawyer with a practice in Houston. With his current single "Tornado Saloon" at #25 in the Top 40 Positive/Christian Country chart, White's story of how he began his musical career and came to move himself, along with his wife Pamela and their three children, to Nashville four months ago is quite an interesting story.

"There I was three years ago...fretting over what I would get Pam for our 13th wedding anniversary. What should I give her—a car, jewelry, clothes? So He gave me a song to give to her," White says of how he began his music career and ultimately moved to Nashville. "I'd never written a song in my whole life up until that instance...never wanted to, never thought of it, and it never occurred to me. I wrote it on the piano—which, by the way, I don't play the piano...so I decided to play it for her. I got to the piano and sat down and I poured myself into it, and when I finished with the chorus she just burst into tears. I thought 'Oh, how wonderful.' Then she got up, ran out of the room and locked herself in the master bedroom.

"I thought, 'It couldn't have been that bad.' She knew what I didn't—He was planning a big time adventure for us. I didn't see it. I thought he was giving me a killer song for our anniversary. I kept saying, 'That's not true' because she was saying that she was going to be uprooted, and our whole lives were going to change. I kept telling her, 'It's just one song. Calm down.' Well, she was 100 percent right and I was 100 percent wrong."

Over the next 18 months, White says that 25 songs came to him, 10 of which can be found on the album. Although the song he wrote for his wife, entitled "God Made Woman," doesn't appear on the album, he did include the second tune he wrote. "The second song I wrote was 'Shadrach, Meshack and Abednego.' The first song was [from] Jesus and I to Pam, while this one was mine to Jesus. It's my commitment of faith to Him. Like the story of Shadrach, Meshack, and Abednego, if he wanted to throw me into the flames all he had to do was tell me. That's also what this album's about. Let's face it—taking a trial lawyer from Texas, with no singing history, no songwriting history, no desire to be a singer/songwriter even today and throwing him into Nashville, what would you call that? That's being thrown into the flame."

As for his inexperience in the music business, nobody has to quibble with White as to why he should be here. "I'm only here because God ordered me to be here. Nobody has to argue with me about why I shouldn't be here." To be more specific, when asked about his inexperience as a professional singer, he recalls his involvement with his church choir: "Nobody ever picked me to do a solo. In fact, they didn't even pick me to be in a group. Most of my singing experience comes from singing with the radio and shower...I have no credentials at all for doing this, except that I love music, I love Jesus Christ, and I love people. Other than that I have no credentials, and I'm happy to say so."

Although he quickly admits his inexperience in the music world, he does believe it can have its advantages, especially when it comes to getting his record out. "One of the advantages of knowing nothing about the music industry is that you don't know what you can't do," White says jokingly. "I decided early on that my market was women 25 to 55 with families who love Jesus Christ or at least knew of Jesus Christ and wanted to love

Jesus Christ. That's the Wal-Mart consumer. So I called my sales rep and said, 'Get me into Wal-Mart.' And he said, 'That's impossible. We've never gotten anybody into Wal-Mart.' I said, 'Well, just get me through the door.' So I flew to Amarillo, Texas, which is home of the marketing group for Wal-Mart, and I got to see the head buyer and the head of marketing. I told them the same story I'm telling you. I said, 'Your consumer is my consumer.' They said, 'We'll listen to your album and we'll let you know.' That was on a Thursday. On Monday the head buyer called my rep and said, 'This is the greatest album I've ever heard. How many do you want us to buy?' Not only did Wal-Mart get excited about the project, they literally left it up to us as to how many they bought."

Since that time, White's "inexperience" in the music business has propelled his album into Blockbuster Music, Camelot and Hastings stores throughout the country. "God called me to help the Christian Country music world break into all the major secular markets," says White. "Basically, God said to me, 'Christian music is going out to thousands—I need my word through music to go out to millions, and that's why I picked you.'"

Whether it's a new act or a seasoned veteran, most artists will tell you that the road to making it in the music business is different for everyone—and Ted White, singer/songwriter/trial lawyer, has to be one of the greatest illustrations to date, with his album Lost & Found as a shining tribute to that fact.

Review

■ TED WHITE: Lost & Found (HeavenSpun 9950)

With a wealth of Nashville's best session players backing him, White's debut album is quite an ear-full. In what is certainly a positive addition to this unique project, White added at the end of the album "soundtracks" from all 10 of his songs for those listeners who like to sing themselves. As for the songs, all 10 were written by White, whose deep messages about Jesus come to life through his often rugged stories of cowboys and cowboy ways. The album overall stands as a testament to one man's beliefs and his longing to share that message with as many people as possible.

News From U.S. & Latin America

By Hector Resendez

ON THE HEELS OF *THE LION KING, another star is shining brightly in Walt Disney's kingdom. This coming Wednesday, December 7, at 10 p.m. (PST), "Navidad En Las Américas" will air on the Univision channel.

The one-hour TV special is slated for viewing almost one month after the release of the Navidad En Las Américas album. The precedent-setting special will feature top Latin talent in the first-ever music compilation of its kind. Headlined by Plácido Domingo, José Feliciano, Tito Puente, Celia Cruz and Chayanne, among others, the ground-breaking "Navidad En Las Américas" Christmas music television special is scheduled for domestic as well as international broadcast during the 1994 holiday season.

The Navidad En Las Américas album features star performances by 12 of the top Latin American musical talents today: Veronica Castro, Chayanne, Celia Cruz, Plácido Domingo, Luis Enrique, José Feliciano, Pedro Fernandez, Juan Gabriel, Ricky Martin, Tito Puente, Lucha Villa and Xuxa. Both album and TV special were executive produced by There Goes The Neighborhood Productions. Headed by Dan Guerrero, Michael Dagnery and Lisa Orozco Rosales, There Goes The Neighborhood (or the Park, in this case) is one of the leading producers creating new product for the exploding domestic and international Latino market.

"As producers, we always look for unique and challenging projects. As Latinos, our aim is to promote our culture and exhibit the tremendous potential of this important market," states Guerrero, executive producer of There Goes The Neighborhood. "Christmas and music seemed the ideal way to celebrate the styles and traditions of the various Latino cultures, and that's how Disney's Navidad En Las Américas was born," he continues.

Interpretations of traditional Latin and American Christmas songs include: "La Virgen Lava Panales" by Plácido Domingo, "Noche De Paz ('Silent Night')" by Jose Feliciano, "El Tamborilero ('The Little Drummer Boy')" by Tito Puente and others.

associated with our two benefitting organizations, Reading Is Fundamental and Casa de Tina, and hope that our Christmas message will inspire music lovers worldwide."

Similar sentiments were echoed by the eight artists who taped the television special at the Magic Kingdom on that chilly night this past October. "I feel privileged to be part of such a noble effort here tonight," exclaimed singer Chayanne. "This project is dedicated to such an important two-fold cause. I feel so inspired to be here with such great friends." The pop idol also served as the host for the television special. Latin jazz and salsa legend Tito Puente was equally humble about his role. "I am here to spread not only Christmas cheer, but to let everyone know that Latin music is for everyone to enjoy and to understand all year-round!"

The evening of the taping at Disneyland was highlighted by the constant comic antics of Jose Feliciano. After his incredible rendition of "Noche De Paz ('Silent Night')." Feliciano swung into his classic "Feliz Navidad"...an excellent ending to one memorable performance at the happiest place on earth.

THE LATIN LOWDOWN

REVIEWS By Hector Resendez

■ LALO RODRIGUEZ: *Naci Para Cantar (EMI Latin 72438) Producer: Harvey Averde.

Salsa singer Lalo Rodriguez returns from a three-year absence. The release of this album also marks an even more remarkable fact: it has reunited Rodriguez with Harvey Averde, the Grammy-winning producer. Averde's Cocom Records produced the first two Grammy Award winners in the Latin category with Eddie Palmieri's Sun Of Latin Music and Unfinished Masterpiece. Averde discovered Rodriguez when he was 16 years old. Having written or co-written all eight songs on the album, Naci Para Cantar should break new ground for this remarkable singer.

This sibling duo began their professional collaboration in 1979, combining the intimacy of the folk traditions learned from their parents with the openness of the North American and British pop music coming to them on the radio. Taking their name from Nicaragua's national bird, Salvador Cardenal Barquero's poetic writing combined with Katia's passionate vocals thrilled visiting cultural workers like Jackson Browne and Holly Near. In 1990, the group represented Nicaragua in the prestigious O.T.I. (Latin American TV) competition, garnering 2nd prize for "Dame Tu Corazon," recorded here for the first time. The album contains 12 ballads and pop songs.

■ PIRI THOMAS: *Sounds Of The Streets (Cheverote Productions 793937) Producer: Greg Landau.

Sounds Of The Streets is a collection of 10 poems/lyrics performed by Latin flowmaster Piri Thomas, set to Afro-Latin jazz and featuring the great conga player Carlos "Patato" Valdez. Thomas is the well-known author of Down These Mean Streets, Stories From El Barrio and Seven Long Times, as well as many poems. The master poet recorded his ten readings to the beat of a Latino jazz session led by Valdez. Other illustrious musicians include Greg Landau on guitar and tres and Orestes Vilato on bongos, percussion and timbales.
