PRINCE OF PLATINUM—The executives of Morgan Creek Records recently presented gold and platinum records of the original soundtrack to the film Robin Hood: Prince Of Thieves to the executives and branch managers of PolyGram Group Distribution to express their appreciation for the distributor's part in helping the label's first release sell over a million units domestically. The celebration and presentation took place aboard the S.S. Dream Maker which was docked in Marina del Rey. Pictured above (l-r) are: Jim Caparro, senior vice president of sales, PGD; Morgan Creek co-president David Kershenbaum; David Fitch, vice president of national accounts, PGD; Morgan Creek co-president Jim Mazza; and Gary Rockhold, president and CEO at PGD.

ON A VERY SAD NOTE, we at Cash Box join with many others in mourning the death of former colleague and CB managing editor, Stephen Padgett, who along with his wife Charyl and his sister-in-law Dawn Hamilton, perished in a single car accident on Oct. 13 in Zion National Park, Utah. Memorial services were held on Friday, Oct. 18 at All Saints Episcopal Church in Pasadena and the funeral was held on the same day at LaSalle Street Church in Chicago. Memorial funds have been set up in memory of Stephen and Charyl Padgett at both both churches. Padgett, most recently joined NARAS in August this year and was responsible for all editorial from the Recording Academy. In addition to his work here at Cash Box, he also worked at Los Angeles Magazine and his freelance work appeared in various publications including Billboard, Tower Plus, Playboy and Hits to name a few. Rest in peace, Steve.

MTV'S 10TH BIRTHDAY will be the cause for a television special to air in November on the ABC-TV network. The special will feature celebrity interviews, animation, a retrospective montage of video music's greatest images, a look at MTV around the globe and a report on the rise of rap as a musical and social force. But the big surprise will probably come from none other than Madonna who will present a unique performance of her own. Expect the unexpected can be the only password here.

RHINO RECORDS HAS ENTERED has entered an exclusive pact that will have Rhino distributing independent label Tomato Records in the United States. Under the agreement, Rhino will distribute Tomato's new rock, blues and country releases as well as its catalog of approximately 80 titles. The agreement was reached between Rhino co-founder and president Richard Foos and Kevin Eggers, Tomato founder, owner and producer.

SINGLES

■ DIRE STRAITS "Heavy Fuel" (Warner Bros. PRO-CD-5126)

Their latest single, has more fun Mark Knopfler guitar work and sarcastic lyrics in it since early favorite, "Money For Nothing." Like a freight train running into your face, "Heavy Fuel" hits hard with all those Texas-blues sounds you have grown to expect from these down-home boys. This cut is 'strait'-off the new LP On Every Street which is riding high on the pop albums chart after five weeks. Produced by Mark Knopfler and Dire Straits.

The song actually starts off very similarly to his father's "I Am The Walrus," and has some seriously Beatlesque production. This new single from Julian is a meaningful, sociologically concerned tune. The saltwater being tears of sadness over an environment and society that is in need of some drastic improvement, but isn't getting much—in spite of all our technology. The familiar sound and feeling on this cut gives it welcome warmth. Produced by Bob Ezrin, who must have been an "Apple-scruff."

■ ROBBIE ROBERTSON: "What About Now" (Geffen PRO-CD-4312)

Former leader of The Band, Robbie Robertson has released his second solo LP, Storyville, following the success of the first self-titled, and Grammy Award-nominated album. This first single, has a surprisingly Henley-istic approach, and features the backing vocals of recording artists Aaron Neville and son, Ivan, who co-wrote this track as well. This, and all cuts on the album, were produced by Robertson, Steven Hauge and Gary Gersh.

■ 3RD BASS: "3rd Bass Theme a.k.a. Partrairt Of The Artist As A Hood" (Def Jam/Columbia CSK 73896)

3rd Bass is back with their second single taken off their Derelicts Of Dialect album. "Pop Goes The Weasel," the first single off the album, hit the number one spot on the Cash Box Rap Charts after only a couple weeks following its release. "3rd Bass Theme" is without a doubt on the dope tip, with the hype beats and the skilled lyrics of Search and Pete Nice, not to mention the incredible scratchin' from Richie Rich. They have another hit on their hands.

■ CANDYMAN: "Oneighthundred-skytalk-pinelevenotwosevennine" (Epic ESK 4220)

Yo, check this out!!! Candyman has released "skytalk,," a funny-funky hip-hop tune that has a different sound than the rest of Candyman's previous cuts. The single is the first song taken off his upcoming album titled Playtime's Over that is expected to take this young artist to the top of the charts everywhere.

■ SHANICE WILSON: "I Love Your Smile" (Motown Records CD45-1581)

The long-awaited return of Shanice Wilson has finally arrived with the release of "I Love Your Smile," the first single taken off her upcoming Inner Child album. Compared to her previous projects, you can clearly tell that Wilson has matured both musically and vocally to take this project to its limits. Mark another hit down for this young vocalist.

THE ROCK

BUSY EX-COUGAR AWARDED: Now, we all know of John Mellencamp's music, and that maybe he has changed his name once or twice. Most of us are aware that he was fairly instrumental in the orchestration of Farm Aid and has won at least one Grammy Award.

John Mellencamp

What you might not know is that in addition to all that, it was announced this week that he has been selected as the 1991 honoree by the Nordoff-Robbins Music Therapy Foundation, and will receive The American Silver Clef Award. For the last three years, the foundation has been raising money for a clinic at New York University to treat autistic and severely disabled children through the power of music. The clinic opened last October, with the help of many involved in the music business. This year's fund-raising dinner will be chaired by MTV ceo Tom Freston at Roseland, where Mellencamp will be honored on November 14. The event features an auction of celebrity memorabilia, with items ranging from a tennis match with John McEnroe, to fantasy vacations, sports outings, an hour of air time on MTV, VH-1, and WNEW radio, to a children's appearance on the Nickelodeon Network. Atlantic Records ceo, Ahmet Ertegun heads up the fundraising committee, while Elektra Entertainment chairman Bob Krasnow oversees the planning board with Foundation president Ian Ralfini. On hearing the news of his honorificity, Mellencamp said: "I'm excited to have been selected as this year's honoree... I applaud the efforts of the foundation and I thank them for this honor." He joins the ranks of previous recipients, Neil Young, The Who and Bon Jovi. John also has a new album out, Whenever We Wanted and is currently putting the finishing touches on a motion picture due out in early 1992 in which he co-stars with Mariel Hemingway (Falling From Grace, which he is also directing). This is a very busy boy, but hey, I don't know about you, I'm kinda curious to find out how much money somebody is willing to donate to have McEnroe wipe their butt all over the tennis court...

STONED—AGAIN: You'd almost have to be loaded to come up with the title to this video for all of you die-hard Keith Richards fans. Keith Richards & The X-pensive Wimos Live At The Hollywood Palladium, December 15, 1988, is a fairly self-descriptive and appropriate title for this limited edition, specially boxed set that includes long-form video and CD, due out November 26...And in a related story, The Rolling Stones have a film done (the first ever full-length concert film in IMAX) opening exclusively at the IMAX Theatre in Los Angeles October 25. The film puts you on stage with the aging rockers on their Steel Wheels Tour as it rolled through Europe in 1990. At The Max has 48-track digital sound that recreates the thrill of of a live concert and could only be described as "larger than life." I personally can't wait to see Mick's lips pouting out Stone's classics on a screen making them larger than a Mack truck...

HIT THE ROAD!: Currently romping through Europe is not only freedom and political reform, but rock and roll is rattling behind what used to be the Berlin Wall, in the form of David Bowie's Tin Machine. Soon to be arriving in the USA, with concert dates in all the major cities, and even a guest appearance on Saturday Night Live November 23. Look for the single "Baby Universal" release on Oct. 28, with a video following close behind... Van Halen has launched their Top Of The World tour by traipsin-g across the top of the United States, with concert dates in the north from Portland, Maine to Portland, Oregon. Proving that rockers can get away with anything, the band was recently given an unprecedented carte blanche at NASA facilities for the making of their current video, "Top of the World", space suits, and all. I wonder if they had to pay the dry cleaning bill?...The Red Hot Chili Peppers will be smoking their way across North America on a 50-date tour that will keep them busy until well into next year...Singing her "Unforgettable" daddy's songs on a concert run, is Natalie Cole highlighted by three days at Radio City Music Hall, Nov. 1-3. With her album well into platinum, and still in the top 10, she's making her papa proud, I'm sure...and it's time for me to fly kids...next week...

ALBUMS

■ NANCY WILSON: *With My Lover Beside Me (Columbia CT 48665)

In her career of over 35 years and 53 albums, this LP marks the "birth" of 10 previously unheard lyrics by the late Johnny Mercer, and brought to life with music composed by Barry Manilow. A project over eight years in the making, Manilow manages to keep the 'old-standard' style of the Mercer classics on the title cut as well as the romantic "Just Remember." Wilson lends her lush and influential vocals to this project, making this album a landmark, and instant classic. Tastefully arranged and produced by Eddie Arkin and Barry Manilow.

It's about time Public Enemy released their long-awaited fourth album. This album by far, is anything but a disappointment. The same dope-ss production that has made all of their previous albums hit, is present on Apocalypse 91... The first single released off the album "Can't Truss It," is currently passing all chart competition at an incredible pace. With all of the dope-ness included on this album it's hard to point out songs in particular that stand out.

■ MC 900FT JESUS: *Welcome To My Dream (Network/I.R.S. Records)

Alternative Rap? MC 900ft Jesus' debut album has to be an attempt to alter the way rap music is looked at today. His muffled rap voice is quite amusing when you think wherein hell did this guy lay his lyrics down. "Adventures In Failure," "The City Sleeps" and "Dali's Handgun" are among the album's cuts that are guaranteed to make you fall out laughing.

■ ANOTHER CARNIVAL: *Enjoy The Ride (JRS Records 73333 35806-4)

From the music mill that has grown out of the Twin Cities, comes the first major label release from a group that would like to feel they are devoid of categorization. Together since '82, they have released two independent LPs, and toured with Roger McGuinn. There are serious influences of '60s British-invasion rockers here, along with a taste of Hollywood glam-guitar work as well. The lyrics paint verbal images of Jackson Pollack artwork, almost like they were sprayed onto the music. Producer: John Jorgensen.

Singer/songwriter and guitar player, in the Tracy Chapman/Suzanne Vega genre, Patty Larkin has already achieved 'folk-star' status with several New England music awards for her three previous indie releases. Primarily noted for her numerous concert performances, what with her debut album on Windham Hill's new vocal label, her calm, yet captivating vocals, and beautiful guitar sounds, Patty may well head up the ladder of recognition. Tango offers 12 warm and emotionally intelligent songs, produced by herself and Will Ackerman.

■ RAW YOUTH: *Hot Diggity (Glant 9 24405-2)

It seems only natural that the children of baby-boomers, growing up listening to the music of the '60s, would show distinctly influenced signs of that style in their original material. Raw Youth even describes themselves as "a cross between the Mamas and the Papas and The Clash" but there is an element of other flower-power generation influence here. (Seekers, Cowsills, et. al.) This debut LP features first single, "Matter Of Fact" and 10 others. Produced by Michael Beinhorn and Dave Dale.

■ BRENDA K. STARR: *By Heart (Epic Records EK 46231)

Brenda K. Starr has returned with her By Heart album. While listening to this album, you can't help but hear the sound of Madonna's first couple of albums. Brenda delivers a nice sound on "What If," "Never Let You Go" and "You Touch Me In All The Right Places." This one will attract pop radio nationwide.

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: *Tunes From The Missing Channel-An Island Records Sampler Of New Rock For The 90's (Island Records PRCD 6663-2)

Island Records has put together a compilation with some of today's most innovative rap music. Featured on this album are tracks from PM Dawn, Stereo MC's, Dream Warriors, Disposable Heroes Of Hiphoprisy and Anthrax. For those rap listeners that want to hear something different, this CD will fit your needs perfectly.

■ CAPITAL PUNISHMENT: *Livin' On The Edge Of A Razor (Wrap/Ichiban Records WRA 8102)

Capital Punishment is a black, social awareness group that is brought to us courtesy of Ichiban Records. Don't expect to pop this CD in and hear watered-down lyrics and soft beats because they have made a nice effort in making their debut far from that. "Livin' On The Edge Of A Razor," "Murder" and "Caliber 380" are the album's strong songs.

■ TEXAS: *Mother's Heaven (Mercury 848 578-2)

Out of the working-class tenements of south-side Glasgow, Scotland comes an ominously 'dark-side' interpretation of folk-rock/blues from a group that somehow calls themselves (of all things) Texas. Lead singer, Sharlene Spiteri's voice wails and taunts, while the band pumps out a strong, yet ethereal groove. One cut, "This Will All Be Mine" is curiously similar to the Doors' "My Wild Love." The group's second LP, follows a two-million selling debut, Southside, both produced by Tim Palmer (David Bowie, Robert Plant).

PICK OF THE WEEK

"It's been a long time coming..." but it's out now, and more fun to listen to than you might remember. These classic, as well as previously unreleased songs have been crisply remixed, and includes outtakes and mixes of your old favorites that just haven't been heard. All the titles you are familiar with, including cuts with Neil Young are featured in this edition which is unquestionably the ultimate collector's item for any CSN fan, or for anybody that had a heartbeat in the '70s, for that matter. A four-CD boxed set, with 78 cuts and a 34-page booklet that will leave you tripping down memory lane with those warm, soothing and tasteful harmonies for decades to come.

DEBUT PICK OF THE WEEK

■ PM DAWN: *Of The Heart, Of The Soul And Of The Cross: The Utopian Experience (Gee Street/Island 314-510 276-2)

Damn, this album is crazy-dope! I'll give Island Records credit for being experimental with their music. P.M. Dawn is paving a new path for artists to use to get out of the creative slump that the industry seems to be in. There is no style with which you can actually label this group, but the best way to describe it would be a hip-hop/R&B sound that is destined to storm the market with its original and catchy sound. "Reality Used To Be A Friend Of Mine," "To Serenade A Rainbow," "Comatose" and "On A Clear Day" are the album's strong cuts. "Set Adrift On Memory Bliss," the first single taken off the album is currently rocketing up the charts.

COVER STORY

Little Feat: No Escape From Where They Came

By Mark Albert

THOUGHT OF BY MANY as one of America's premier bands, and in fact considered by some to be the best band during the '70s, Little Feat are on the road again. No, it's not in headline fashion to which their fans of two decades (would they be called Feat Fetishists or Feat Heads?) are accustomed, but as part of the Allman Brothers Band national tour that began in Concord, CA on Oct. 4 and will take them across the country till the end of the year. Well, headline or not, after seeing their Oct. 12 show at the Santa Barbara County Bowl, one can only have compassion for any act that follows these guys in concert. The group sounded better than ever, seemingly determined to go for the jugular with every rockin', funky, bluesy note.

But then, these are very exciting times for the members of Little Feat. Managed by Peter Asher Management, Inc., this current tour coincides with the release of the group's 12th album, Shake Me Up on a brand new label, Morgan Creek Records, after an entire career spent with Warner Bros. Records. Little Feat basically and painfully came to an end in 1979 when singer/songwriter/lead guitarist Lowell George died at the age of 34 from a heart attack. Remaining members, Little Feat founder and keyboardist Bill Payne, guitarist Paul Barrere, drummer Richie Hayward, bassist Kenny Gradney and percussionist Sam Clayton parted ways for a while, but regrouped for a jam session in 1985 that really rekindled the life that was always there for them. With the addition of long-time friend Fred Tackett on guitar and former Pure Prairie League lead vocalist/guitarist Craig Fuller to the lineup, 1988 saw the re-emergence of Little Feat and two subsequent albums with Warner Bros., Let It Roll, followed by Representing The Mambo.

(In an exclusive interview with Cash Box, Bill Payne discusses the new album, the group's relationship with Morgan Creek Records and the legacy of Lowell George, among other things.)

Cash Box: This tour with the Allman Brothers Band is going to be a heck of a run. Do you get a chance to do much writing when you are on the road?

Payne: Yeah, it's going to be a good tour. We work hard and we're glad that these guys do too. I've definitely done some writing on the road. Generally, during more inclement weather situations, there's a good many of us that bring our computers with us. I hook mine up to a keyboard. We pass around tapes to one another, see what we've got and carry on from there. In the old days, we used to do a lot of stuff in rehearsals. "Shake Me Up" was originally conceived on the road.

Cash Box: For me, the Shake Me Up

LP starts off with a wonderful song, "Spider's Blues," which has a real "Dixie Chicken" feel—sort of a '70s-era Feat feel. How would you describe this album?

Payne: I think that it's a definitive Little Feat record in the sense that the first time you hear "Spider's Blues," it's, you know, "Come on in, the water's fine." I think the album can be summed up in one word. It's accessible. We mean to grab people's attention the first time they listen to it or certainly listen to most of it. What gives it repeated listenability is the fact that you can focus in on the lyrics which have a certain life of their own, and I think the instrumental work we do within the context of the songs is something you can hear differently with each listen. Shake Me Up was really designed to be a straight-ahead album, whereas Representing The Mambo took a few more chances, was more of an eclectic album and it was absolutely meant to be that way. We felt that the second album should demonstrate that we could still turn left on a dime if need be. And that the third album would really be more of "we're going to go for the throat" and that's where Morgan Creek enters the picture.

Cash Box: How did Little Feat find a new home with Morgan Creek Records?

Payne: We were in fact, first dropped by Warners on a computer error that allowed our contract to lapse. Perhaps it was Providence stepping in saying, "Ok, Warners is a wonderful company for these boys, but apparently they need a little bit more attention." We had to review the situation carefully because we have friends and fans at Warner Bros. But, I felt that if we took a long, honest look, that while Warners is a great company with many, many successes—in fact they helped shoot us back out with Let It Roll in 1988—the fact of the matter is that in being such a large label, they cannot attend to everybody's needs. They're gonna go for the strongest first, and I'll be the first to admit that the type of material that I put up, particularly on Representing The Mambo, was not the kind of LP that would necessitate radio or other powers that be—that give you a long life on an album, to take a serious look without a lot of help. So I wondered what it would be like if we were on a smaller label and were one of the main acts. And boom, here's Morgan Creek and they said, "Well, we'd like you to be the flagship of our label." How can we lose? We met with the principles, Jim Mazza and David Kershenbaum (Morgan Creek co-presidents), and James Robinson who funds the company. They're a good group of people and very committed. I'm not going to bat against this, I'm going to go with this and we've been very, very happy with the results.

Cash Box: You've referred to Little Feat from time to time as the "quintessential American band." What are that he did was a Frank Zappa album, Weasels Ripped My Flesh. That's how Lowell knew the guy. Lowell was in Zappa's band at the time.

Cash Box: "Rock 'n' Roll Doctor" is a tune that Little Feat performs in concert with tremendous reverence. Is that the band's tribute to Lowell?

Payne: Well it certainly is. When we look out at the faces in the crowd there's a lot of younger folks out there, and it's a real pleasure to turn them on to Lowell's music. It is a nice legacy to be handing down and the music is still fresh. It is an amazing difference in that Lowell isn't there to sing it, but I cannot think of too many people that are better equipped, and also from the standpoint of being a guy who is not a threat to Lowell, and that's Craig Fuller. It's his personality is what I mean by not being a threat. He sings that music and half the time puts his own twist upon it, but he's very aware of the phrasing. To me what was Lowell's genius was his phrasing. A lot of people cite his slide guitar playing and it was very good, and it's subjective. But when you put him up against Duane Allman, I mean Duane was really one of the best. But Lowell's genius to me, was his ability to come up with great lyrics and his ability to phrase those lyrics within the context of the tune.

Cash Box: Was there much risk-taking in reforming Little Feat?

Payne: When we first started again in 1987, there was the whole question of how this band would hold up to the pressure of so many bands reforming, putting themselves back on the line. In fact, Fred Tackett even asked me then if this wasn't just a "money-grabbing revival tour." And I told him if we can't write good music, we won't do it. It was a calculated risk. We took it slow. We made sure that we got the right singer, and we did. We made sure it was the right label, and it was at the time. We don't base this on anything but the music and if we don't have the music to sustain it, I'll tell you right now, forget it. But Let It Roll was the first indication to me, as an album, in the process of writing that album, that indeed we had something to say and that there was tremendous room for growth within this organization as a band and as individuals.

Cash Box: OK, so there was naturally a calculated risk taken by the individual members of the band to reform Little Feat in as much as you each had your own lives and were working with other musicians. What was the motivation then for Little Feat to do this?

Payne: There's a song on the Let It Roll album called "Hangin' On To The Good Times" which we wrote for Lowell and has the lyric "we couldn't escape from where we came." The band had broken up. We were working with different people. Of course wherever we went, we brought with us the baggage of having played with Little Feat. In essence we couldn't escape from where we'd come from and thank God we didn't want to escape from our past. We are what we are.

your musical influences?

Payne: I had a classical background so I'll listen to just about anything from that point of view whether it's opera, Stravinsky, Bartok, Gershwin; although I know Gershwin is still considered outside the classical circle by a lot of those folks. The Olympics' "Big Boy Pete" was one of my favorite songs when I was a kid. I like Little Richard, Steely Dan, The Band, Bob Seger, George Jones, Conway Twitty—my musical tastes are more from a blues standpoint.

Cash Box: One of the most consistent things about Little Feat albums is the unique cover art. Your cover artist, Neon Park, has been with you guys all along. What are his contributions to the band?

Payne: Neon, first and foremost, is a dear, dear friend of this band and has recently begun writing with the band. In fact, he contributed lyrics to the title track of Representing The Mambo. But Neon has been a part of Little Feat since Sailin' Shoes, which came out around the latter part of 1971. The first album cover that I became aware of

INDUSTRY BUZZ

EAST

By Lee Jeske

ONE THING ABOUT A MAX WEINBERG PARTY, YOU NEVER KNOW WHO WILL SHOW UP: Like Bruce. Uh-uh, he didn't make it. Like Jon Bon. Uh-uh, he didn't make it, either. But among the glitterati who did make it to New York's Hard Rock for the launch of Max's new band, album and record label were jazz tub-thumper Louie Bellson (left) and Late Night sidekick Paul Shaffer.

PAUL'S HALL: Paul McCartney, the guy who's given us 30 years of silly love songs and other bits of pop and rock confection, has plunged headlong into the world of classical music with his and Carl Davis' "Paul McCartney's Liverpool Oratorio" (that's the full title), the 90-minute work for symphony orchestra, four vocal soloists and two choirs that was premiered in Liverpool in June.

What does it sound like? Well, the Liverpool performance will be telecast on PBS' Great Performances on Oct. 30, a week after EMI/Angel releases the album. But what does it feel like live in a concert hall, with the zillionaire ex-Beatle in attendance?

New Yorkers will have the chance to find out. On November 18, the Royal Liverpool Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Davis, singers Barbara Bonney, Sally Burgess, Jerry Hadley and Willard White, the 180-voice Collegiate Chorale and the Boys Choir of Harlem will crowd the stage of Carnegie Hall for the North American premiere of the loosely autobiographical piece which, we're told, "centers on a Liverpool-born protagonist, Shanty, whose life is chronicled from his school years to marriage, the near-death of his wife, and redemption through the birth of his child."

Silly love songs, anyone?

W.E.L.C.O.M.E.: New York is not a blues town. New York is a jazz town. Chicago is a blues town. When tourists go to Chicago, they go hear the blues. When tourists come to New York, they go hear jazz. Blues clubs in New York generally take one of two routes: belly up, or booking a lot of music that isn't blues. Why doesn't New York take to blues? Nobody I've ever asked seems to know.

Anyway, at the end of last year, New York ended up with two new blues rooms at once: Manny's Car Wash on the Upper East Side and the Abilene Cafe in the Village. Manny's, which has kept to a pure blues policy, has thrived, booking the biggest touring names they could afford (which is the second level of blues acts, considering, say, B.B. King and John Lee Hooker the first level). The Abilene has died, but in its place—in its very place—has risen the most ambitious blues room New York has seen in ages: Chicago B.L.U.E.S.

That's right, you astute clubgoers will know that that's the name of Chicago's two hottest blues clubs. Bill Gilmore, who owns the two Chicago rooms, has decided that New York is ready for what he's got, and what he's got are full-blown, full-sized Chicago bands seven nights a week. Not just the usual touring guys (although big Chicago acts like Otis Rush, Sunnyland Slim and Magic Slim & the Teardrops will be coming around as often as Gilmore can get them), but bands like Willie Kent & the Gents, Scotty & the Rip Tips and Cicero Blake and the Masheen Co., Chicago bands that rarely leave the Windy City in toto. How is Gilmore going to do it? Easy: he's rented an apartment for the bands to stay in, a cheaper option than hotels.

Will it work? Who knows? But the Abilene's tchotchkes—cowboy type stuff—has been replaced by Chicago tchotchkes—Cubs pennants, Muddy Waters posters—and, as it must in the blues, hope springs eternal.

COMING ATTRACTIONS: The Kentucky Headhunters and NRBQ at the Ritz, Oct. 30. Two bands that can really cut it up live, although neither is going to win any beauty contests... Ricky Skaggs at Tramps, Oct. 24: Cut through the layer of glitz and there's an incredible bluegrass musician underneath. The cozy setting should be just right... Michele Shocked at the Lone Star, Oct. 24: The one contemporary folkie who's going to endure, as this acoustic show should make clear.

KEEPING (UP WITH THE) STATUS QUO: As a test of endurance, the Status Quo trip around the UK in search of a place in the Guinness Book of Records took on heroic proportions.

It's not that being ferried around in helicopters, Lear jets and stretch Mercedes with police escorts sounds too taxing a way to travel, but combine the 800-mile journey with four separate performances—all with the attendant Quo trademark agitated-kangaroo-boogying—and it becomes clear that this was rock's equivalent to climbing Everest.

Like the latter pursuit, there was little point to it except to prove it can be done, although that does not take into account the brilliant marketing opportunities the event presented for promotion of Status Quo's new album, Rock 'Til You Drop. Setting a new world's record for playing the most arena shows in the shortest time—with a certificate by Norris McWhirter to prove it—and donating nearly $400,000 to children's charities were useful side effects.

Seeing three of the four shows, it all became clear how their easy-listening rock makes 50-year-old mums and dads feel they are hip while young kids, who could conceivably be into rap, still feel it is not uncool to enjoy them. Status Quo really is the group that breaks down family barriers.

Keeping up with them was not an easy task, although we are grateful to their sponsors, the Britannia Music Club, for putting up the $400,000 it took to drag us along. But since we were in a tortoise turbo-prop, which always got overtaken by their hare-like Lear, we were doomed to always miss prime photo and interview opportunities. Putting us in coaches for the connecting flights, while the group had helicopters, did not help either.

So I caught them for 40 minutes at Sheffield Arena, 20 minutes at the Glasgow S.E. and C.C., zero minutes at the Birmingham NEC—a press mutiny prevented us from getting out of Birmingham International Airport to grab five minutes of their show—and for the full 50 minutes at Wembley Arena.

The group had the advantage of showers and pressed, washed denims and white shirts at each venue, and, from what I saw, they were remarkably consistent in their stamina levels. At the end of the day, Rick Parfitt, wrapped in a towel, did admit to nearly coming to grief halfway through the Wembley show. "When we were going into the 'Waltz' medley, I had a horror of my legs going. I was about to go into the Twilight Zone."

At the start of the day—20 minutes out of Northolt on their helicopter—they had a near miss with a light aircraft and had to drop suddenly to avoid a collision, which did not help the stomach of Francis Rossi, the band's most delicate flier. Later in the day, their jet encountered a stormy sky from Glasgow to Birmingham and Rossi prepared himself with an airbag. "I was going to chuck up in it," he delicately put it, but he held his bile, and all was well.

For a non-Status Quo convert, I found the shows curiously satisfying. I enjoyed Rossi's blues-style guitar passages and Parfitt's rhythmic guitar interweavings. Being punch-drunk from going up and down in aircraft released the old critical faculties and allowed me to drift with the beat rather than to worry about the clichés. Even the hard-bitten media posse could not resist a

"Here we Quo, here we Quo, here we Quo" on our final descent into Heathrow, enjoying the finest hour of the rock and roll equivalent of fish and chips.

CASH BOX EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

It's about time Los Angeles rappers have a chance to be in the spotlight and now it seems L.A. rappers are among the favorites that are out in the market. Recording artists like Ice T, Above The Law, NWA and IceCube have changed the way rap is being looked at and opened doors for others to finally be heard in this ever-changing industry.

Well, South Central Los Angeles is the base area for a new talented group, Who Am I?, known to the underground as Ko-Kaine and DJ Snow. Their debut album is titled Addictive Hip-Hop Muzick, which is exactly that. "The album strictly gives up the real, that's what we're about," group member Ko-Kaine stated with confidence. "While other groups out there are busy trying to be accepted as an R&B act, we do exactly what we feel and the outcome was Addictive Hip-Hop Muzick." Give the album a listen and if you're into hype beats and dope lyrics, Who Am I? should be to your liking.

The production on the album is cleverly arranged to turn out a sound that makes a perfect fit for Ko-Kaine's lyrics. He continues, "Cold 187um produced the entire thing with some co-production from Lay-Law (Lawhouse Productions.) 187 is my cousin, but it wasn't until two years ago that he started working with me on music. It was through him that I hooked up with Lay-Law, then I eventually met up with Eazy E. I must say though, 187 is a musical genius. Lyric-wise I wrote all the lyrics and Snow co-wrote one of the songs. Put all of that together and here we are right now. I'm satisfied with how the album turned out."

Later in the conversation, the subject of rivalry between the West Coast and the East Coast came up and Ko-Kaine stated his interesting view on the entire situation. "Well, I don't even think about it as rivalry. Rap is rap. If someone's from Idaho and tha' sh*t is slammin', play it, if they're from Compton and tha' sh*t is slammin', play it. There are too many other obstacles trying to get in the way of rap music, why create more problems? If the product sounds dope, who cares where they're from. It's all nonsense." Group member DJ Snow looks at Ko-Kaine and agrees.

In closing, Ko-Kaine says, "I also have to say, a lot of music critics thought rap was just going to be around like some old 1950 be-bop stuff, but take a look, it's making more money than ever. Now, because it's still around, critics are trying to destroy it. That's why they're brainwashing people, telling them that rap music is destroying their children, causing violence and all kinds of crap. It gets to the point where they try to make static between the East and West Coast. I mean, take the worst rap album and I don't think you'll hear anyone talking about cutting their head off or eating bat heads (everyone laughs). If some rock artists do it, hey it's alright. If you're against the whole movement of rap, stick around and 10 years from now you'll still see it here."

"Nickel Slick Nigga" is the current single that's taken from the album. It's getting a lot of underground attention and is on its way to the rap charts. Be on tha' lookout...

WORD HAS IT that N.W.A. member Dr. Dre has signed with Epic Records to record his debut solo album.

RHYTHM & BLUES

R&B MUSIC

By Bryan DeVaney

NILE RODGERS, the multi-faceted performer, composer, producer and all-around musical catalyst, has won the Outstanding Creative Achievement Award as Record Producer Of The Year at the 1990 TEC (Technical Excellence and Creativity) Awards, hosted by Mix magazine at ceremonies in New York City.

Rodgers was singled out by the readers of the publication from a distinguished field that included producers Bruce Fairbairn, Patrick Leonard, Scott Litt and Hugh Padgham. He was honored for production credits that include tracks for Ole Ole and Paul Young, the albums Family Style by the Vaughn Brothers and Let's Go Faster by the Stray Cats as well as work with Ric Ocasek, Charlie Sexton, Lionel Richie and Cathy Dennis.

Along with a full slate of current production projects, Rodgers has also reformed the seminal dance music group Chic, along with founding member Bernard Edwards. A new Chic album, Chicism, is scheduled for release on Warner Bros. Records in early 1992.

Epic Recording artist Tony Terry gets a scintillating smile from Vanessa Williams during Jack The Rapper's "Family Affair" convention. Terry's smash ballad, "With You," is currently climbing the pop charts at an impressive pace.

D.J. MAGIC MIKE CROSSES OVER: On the heels of their recently certified gold disc for D.J. Magic Mike's Bass Is The Name Of The Game, Orlando-based Cheetah Records is currently putting the final touches on the new music video from D.J. Magic Mike, "Dynamic Duo" from the soon-to-be released lp by Mike featuring M.C. Madness, Ain't No Doubt About It. Filmed on a soundstage and on location in Miami, director of photography Gordon Miller and editor Bill Bakula were used for the shoot. Together this production team has credits which include several Miami Vice episodes, as well as videos for Huey Lewis, Schnitt-Acht and Anthrax. The executive producer is Cheetah Records president and ceo Tom Reich.

The video features the adventures of D.J. Magic Mike and M.C. Madness as they invite viewers to join in with the "Dynamic Duo" during their vacation in South Florida.

ALBUM ACTION THIS WEEK focuses heavily on Vince Gill's second MCA project Pocket Full Of Gold, which garners Most Active status on this week's TYop 75 Country Album Chart. With heavy sales reported by retailers such as Big State in Dallas, TX; Mobile Records in Pittsburgh, PA; and Richman Bros. in Pennsauken, NJ, Gill moves up six additional positions landing at #15.

The retailers love Billy Dean or rather they love Billy Dean, the most recent offering from Dean which debuts on the Cash Box Top 75 at #34 this week. Some of Dean's biggest fans include Harmony House in Troy MI; Scott's One Stop in Indianapolis, IN; and Valley Records in Woodland, CA.

No tears shed here. For My Broken Heart, the Reba McEntire latest, made the most impressive debut since the Garth Brooks's takeover, assuming the #2 position on Cash Box's Top 75 Album Chart. Heavy sales are reported by retailers such as Sounds & Video in Milwaukee, WI; Sound Shop #1342 in Monroe, LA; and Music Center in Birmingham, AL. No doubt it. If ever there was an Album To Watch, this package by McEntire sure looks good!

HITTIN' THE STREET—And that's just what he did. Marty Brown, the pride of Maceo, KY, left Music Row recently to do a little shopping, crowd shopping that is. Driving a convertible 1969 Cadillac, with a guitar in hand and a trunk full of cassettes, Brown embarked on a 45-city tour of Walmarts. Last attempted by Tiffany, the teen pop artist who ran the shopping mall gamut in 1988, Brown revives the almost extinct grass-roots marketing style of yesteryear—by peddling his music from town to town, picking up fans and radio airplay along the way. Currently Brown's MCA debut album, High And Dry, is positioned at #39 on Cash Box's Top 75 Country Album Chart.

At a recent Music Row celebration, new Country songstress, Trisha Yearwood, was honored with her first gold album. Her self-titled, MCA debut project has sparked only two single releases with the first entitled "She's In Love With The Boy" garnering #1 chart status. Yearwood's second release, "Like We Never Had A Broken Heart," a duet with Garth Brooks, continues to target a second #1 position. Pictured (l-r) are Yearwood and Bruce Hinton, MCA Records/Nashville president.

NEW SINGLE RELEASES

OUT OF THE BOX

■ GARTH BROOKS: "Shameless" (Capitol 79008)

Producer: Allen Reynolds

Writer: Billy Joel

Taking a step even further, CMA Entertainer of the Year Garth Brooks continues his plunge towards unprecedented success. With his latest endeavor, Brooks again extends his talent beyond the realm of Country by releasing this Billy Joel soul-rocker as his latest single. "Shameless," more than ever, allows Brooks to flaunt his ability to wail out a gut-level vocal drive, while topping almost scream-peaking notes at the same time. Although Brooks' southern-edged accent still shines through, this clawing number definitely reflects a lean toward the pop-rock format, and it will come as no surprise if the pop-rock audience leans a bit closer to Brooks.

FEATURE PICKS

■ PIRATES OF THE MISSISSIPPI: "Fighting For You" (Capitol 79972)

Producers: Jimmy Bowen/Richard Alves

Writers: Roger Murrah/Bill McCorvey

It's perhaps safe to say that the Pirates Of The Mississippi found a preferable niche that worked for them when they released "Feed Jake." Once again, the Pirates follow that same niching pattern by unveiling another slow, flowing mover. "Fighting For You" presents listeners with a strong faith in love with its romantic lyrics. Also enhancing such simmering balladry are gravely vocals and a very precise yet delicate acoustic guitar performance.

■ HAL KETCHUM: "I Know Where Love Lives" (Curb 080)

Producers: Allen Reynolds/Jim Rooney

Writer: Hal Ketchum

With his follow-up to the spicy "Small Town Saturday Night" debut, Country new-face Hal Ketchum flaunts another side of his vocal talent. "I Know Where Love Lives" reveals Ketchum's ability to spill out heartfelt emotion along with his luring, husky vocals—giving us an even closer listen to what this rising star really sounds like. Without a doubt, the results are stunning!

■ CHARLIE DANIELS: "Little Folks" (Epic 74061)

Producers: James Stroud/David Corlew

Writer: Charlie Daniels

It's quite obvious that Charlie Daniels was born to pump out heavy-duty southern rock, but when he brings himself down to this level, it's a Daniels we want to know even more about. "Little Folks," which sparks from Daniels' Renegade disc, gives us a much more sensual and vulnerable side of a southern rocker. The lyrics are sweet, true, simple and perhaps best describes the significance of the children of our world. Who couldn't fall for this song?

■ COLLIN RAYE: "Love, Me" (Epic 74051)

Producers: Jerry Fuller/John Hobbs

Writers: S. Ewing/M.T. Barnes

Only few voices compare to what this newcomer has to offer. With the follow-up to his debut single and title cut, "All I Can Be," Collin Raye comes back with a ballad that couldn't be any prettier. Although the word 'pretty' might come across as a mighty simple description, it certainly fits when describing this soft-edged tune. Chiming acoustics, unmatched harmony, romantic lyrics and a vocal delivery that's sure to capture every tuned-in listener, create a song that has similar qualities as hits like Vince Gill's "When I Call Your Name" or Kathy Mattea's "Where You Been." And that's the question: Where's Collin Raye been hiding?

INDIE INSIGHT

Black Tie

Formally speaking, Black Tie is the lead in independent action this week as their latest single, "Oh My Lover," rises to #53 on Cash Box's Top 100 Country Singles Chart. This third release from Black Tie's debut album entitled, When the Night Falls, is the result of six years in the making. It was in 1984 that the brainstorming efforts of Rob Perkins and Reggie Fisher originated the concept for what would become Black Tie.

After the idea was underway, all that lacked was the music. The solution was to stick with the veterans, a conglomeration of musical backgrounds conducive to a country style but not bounded by any particular genre. They broke ground with country/pop artist Billy Swan ("I Can Help") who would bring with him songs such as "Jerry Lee," and the old Buddy Holly number "Learning the Game," (which would become the group's first release). The next addition to the group would be Jimmy Griffin, formerly of the early '70s rock band Bread and the animator of such songs as "If You Gotta Love Somebody," "You're My Life" and "Oh My Lover." Rounding out the Black Tie orchestration would be Randy Meisner, the founding member of such greats as Poco, the original Stone Canyon Band and the Eagles. With the foundation laid, Black Tie would team up with a host of other musicians (including Ernie Watts and T-Bone Burnett) to produce the debut project. Although Black Tie concentrated six years into the release of their first album, it has taken only nine weeks to keep their single on the upswing at #53.

Most recently, Jimmy Griffin of Black Tie added his talents to the formation of BNA Entertainment's newest act on the roster—The Remingtons. The Remingtons, which also includes Griffin, just released the first single for the label, with the Remingtons debut project slated for an early 1992 release.

Hanging steady behind Black Tie at #56 is Lisa Rich with her single entitled "I'm Nobody's Fool Anymore" and Sandy Sanford's "That's Why I Sing The Way I Do" at #60. Debuting this week are Sharon Cumbee, Ernie Ashworth, Dee Ford and Two For The Money.

■ STOKER BROS.: "Love On The Run" (Comstock COM-2027)

Producers: Rick Whitelaw/Mickey Stoker

Writers: M. Stoker/D.J. Stoker/X. Stoker

This spicy cut kicks off to a spastic start with some flashy guitar licks and a tempo destined to make listeners jump into the 'groove.' "Love On The Run," the newest single from the Stoker Bros., comes across the review board as one of those few and far in-between records which deserves complete attention. With souped-up instrumentation, including a soulful harmonica performance, "Love On The Run"'s vocal results prove to be right on target. This gutsy brother act unleashes such soulful grinds as the original sounds that might spark from the streets of Memphis—definitely a country-format alternative!

■ R.B. STONE: "How Much I Care" (Stardust SR-1102)

Producer: Colonel Buster Doss

Writer: Buster Doss

This is not the first time country-to-the-core singer R.B. Stone has garnered a top review pick. Once again, Stone's vocal display just can't go unnoticed. His gritty and southern-rippling tones lift up these romantic lyrics with full flavor. "How Much I Care," which unwinds an extremely blues-edged ballad, reveals just how much this country boy can spill his heart and voice into a song.

■ PAT PAYNE: "Gentle, Most Of The Time" (Stop Hunger SHR-PPN-1101)

Producer: Pat Payne

Writers: W. Pratt/M. Pratt/P. Payne

Another kick-up-the-heels cut can never hurt a playlist, especially when there's a new, hard-driving vocalist such as Pat Payne pushing out a performance that's as strong as this one. Payne's rock-a-billy singing personality quilts this energizer with just the right punch, and turns "Gentle, Most Of The Time" into a wild-n-wooly number.

GOSPEL MUSIC

FEATURE STORY

DeBarge: Back On Track

By Gregory Cooper

DeBarge

FORMER MOTOWN STARS DEBARGE have returned to the industry after a self-imposed musical sabbatical. This talented family group, once compared to the Jacksons, has renewed their ties with the church and Gospel music. Their debut Gospel project entitled, Back On Track, released on the Indianapolis-based TM Records label, marks a return to their musical roots.

Their new release finds the same personnel line-up as the group that recorded and performed during their heyday for Detroit's Motown Records. The "new" DeBarge includes: brothers and sisters Mark, Randy, Bunny, twins Darryl and Carol, Tommy from the group, Switch, and their talented mother Etterlene DeBarge Rodriguez. Of special note is guest appearances by the two remaining members of the original group; James and Eldra (El) DeBarge, who appear courtesy of Warner Brothers Records.

Since the beginning, music has always played an important role in the DeBarge household—especially Gospel music after being raised in the Bethel Pentecostal Church in Grand Rapids, Michigan, pastored by their uncle, Elder William Abney.

"El served as the choir's pianist and organist for several years," said Etterlene. "Bunny was a lead vocalist and the others were harmonizing and writing melodies even as young children."

Convinced that this was their calling in life, the DeBarge clan formed their own group called God's Children Of Harmony. Following a degree of success from traveling and performing their own material; record companies eventually made their inquiries. Observing and charting the stardom and popularity of their older brothers Randy and Bobby as members of the famed group Switch, the younger DeBarge siblings began to consider leaving their Gospel upbringing to pursue the lights, glitter and glamour of a secular career of their own.

According to Etterlene, "It all started in the mid '70s, Jermaine Jackson came to hear the children sing. He was inspired by them and wanted to sign them up. El must have been about 17. He would have been 18 that following year. El wanted me to sign for him and I wouldn't do it. Soon he became 18 and he signed for himself." Motown Records took over from there, taking a family of young talented singers (DeBarge) and enrolling them in the same star-making academy formerly attended by the Jacksons among others. Motown honed their musical presence, polished their skills, graduated and produced another commercial Pop/R&B group. DeBarge garnered five gold albums. Smash hits such as "All This Love" and "I Like It" continue to receive major radio airplay even today.

While churning out hit after hit, DeBarge also discovered, everything that glitters is not gold. Despair was facing them after the drug conviction and imprisonment of their brother, Chico DeBarge. The record company also caused some internal problems and disruption, wanting to promote El and Bunny as solo artists and leave the rest behind. They were still under contract. The split was very bad and caused a lot of pain among the singing siblings.

These were the circumstances that led the DeBarge family back to their first love—Gospel music, and the TM Records release Back On Track. A video has also been released on the cut "The Good Times," which tells the story of the way it used to be. "Right now we're trying to zero in on what the Lord wants to do with DeBarge," says Darryl.

"I always wanted to sing Gospel and be in the ministry. To tell the truth, Motown was offering us a salary and Light wasn't," claims Bunny. "I have faith in God," Randy adds. "What we are doing now is coming from our hearts, it's real."

The DeBarge family, former contenders of the Jacksons and now being compared to the first family of Gospel, the Winans, have a renewed desire to do God's will. Music has been the vehicle in which DeBarge has been able to share with the world their God-given talents. It has certainly allowed them to travel full circle, placing them back in their musical roots. The foundation of DeBarge's new found faith can be witnessed as their management has scheduled future appearances on the Black Entertainment Network, Johnny Carson, David Letterman and Arsenio Hall shows.

Back On Track is more than a disc displaying the group's musical expression. It exuberates the renewed joy, peace and contentment of one family happy to be reunited with the Provider of their substance. Welcome back home to Gospel, DeBarge family.

TAKE 6 TOURS EUROPE AND JAPAN

Four-time Grammy Award-winning Take 6 recently embarked on their third tour of Europe and Japan. The tour comprises the most extensive schedule ever assembled by Warner Brothers/Nashville for a European/Japanese tour. In an effort to reach the world, the tour coincides with Take 6's third release entitled, He Is Christmas. European performances will be held through November 11 hitting such cities as Stockholm, Munich, Prague, Rome and Barcelona just to name a few. On November 29, Take 6 will travel to Japan and perform to fans from Tokyo to Sapporo with seven cities in between. Don't fret though, Take 6 will certainly take time out for the holiday. The group plans to be home for Christmas.

PETRA'S LOUIE WEAVER...FEEDING THE 5,000—Petra's drummer Louie Weaver recently addressed over 5,000 students at Nazarene Youth Congress '91, an international conference for discipleship training held in Orlando, Florida. Weaver shared his testimony and then expressed his thoughts on what he sees happening in Christian music today. Weaver not only signed autographs, but also took time to really get to know as many people as possible. Naturally, Weaver noted his experiences with Petra and how God has blessed his work with the group. For an additional treat, Weaver performed a drum solo for the 5,000 attendees.

ONE OF THE BOYZ GETS MARRIED... Arcade Artist Sam Katina of the Katina Boyz recently tied the knot to Kathi Miller at the Assemblies of God Church in Tacoma, Washington.

INTRODUCING GRACE RECORDS: Hollywood, California is home to a new label. Grace Records, headed by industry veteran Tommy McGhee, officially opened its doors with the release of the single from the Futch Brothers, entitled Come Back Home.

McGhee, who serves as Grace Records' president, is based in the label's home office of North Hollywood, CA. The label also has opened up a regional office in Detroit, Michigan, which houses David Robinson, director of A&R and William Middlebrook, national promotions director.

"Grace Records is a ministry developed to reach all sectors, promoting a message of hope to those who need hope, and love to those who need love," says Middlebrook. "We'll attempt to do that with a diversified roster of talent."

That roster includes the Futch Brothers, the 40-member Queens Community Choir of New York, and 91 AM, a five-member, male/female urban-contemporary group. "We're also close to signing Lynn Washington, a female vocalist who was featured on the Queens Community Choir's debut album on the 1 AM label," says Middlebrook.

The story behind the formation of Grace Records is unique. The label came into existence through Laurie Records, a country/western label, that will serve as the distribution outlet for Grace. "The Futch Brothers were a major factor in locking up the deal," says Middlebrook. "The Laurie Records people liked what they heard on the Futch Brothers project and wanted to do something with it. The rest is history."

Jerry Park, president of the Benson Music Group recently announced the signing of Matthew Ward. Ward, a former member of Second Chapter Of Acts, has lent his vocals to such artist's projects as Sandi Patti and Harvest, to name a few, and has numerous solo albums to his credit. Along with the Benson sales staff, Ward is pictured with from (l-r): Andy Ivey, Benson A&R director; wife Deann; Ward and Park.

SONGS OF PRAISE

VISION A.D.: Bind In Love (TM)

This group's debut project showcases the enormous amount of talent that these six young men possess. Although the production carries a slight Commissioned feel, they make sure to sign their signature to the structure of the album. Hit picks include: "Slow Motion," "Bind In Love" and "Amazing Grace."

WILLIE WILSON: I'm So Grateful...Live (Singsation)

Willie Wilson who is the executive producer of the popular syndicated Singsation Gospel TV show, as well as a former member of the Norfleet Brothers group, has released his debut solo album. Wilson's easygoing southern vocal style is the album's focal point. No electronic wizardry, just good, down-home Gospel music.

SURRENDER: John P. Kee Presents... (Tyscot)

The latest entry into the female Gospel group category comes in holding back no punches. Multi-award winning artist/producer John P. Kee production, strong material, accompanied by loads of talent these four young ladies possess, yields one, dynamic project.

DINO: Majestic Peace (Benson)

This is the third in the Peace series released by Dino. As with the previous two, Dino's use of sound effects along with his noted abilities as a musician aids in creating an atmosphere of peace and spiritual tranquility for the listener. Notable cuts include: "He Looked Beyond My Faults And Saw My Needs" and "In The Sweet By And By."

THE MIGHTY SONS OF GLORY: God Says We Can (AIR)

This group is another one of Gospel's best kept secrets. Without much fanfare, the Mighty Sons Of Glory have quietly developed their own core of ardent followers. This album shows the groups branching out more musically, encompassing more of a contemporary sound, something that hasn't been present on their previous releases. Once again, the ingredient that takes this album over the top is the power-packed lead vocals of Tommy Ligon.

Freedom of Soul - Brainstorm Artist International Records

By Tim A. Smith

Freedom Of Soul

THE RAP GROOVES of Brainstorm Artist International Records artist Freedom Of Soul is something to behold. Fresh and innovative best categorizes the sound and style of their debut album, titled, Caught In A Land Of Time.

"As Christians in this world, we are struck for a period of time until the return of Christ," posse leader Peace explains regarding the message conveyed through the album's title.

Peace, 22, has been a part of the rap subculture for a good number of years. Growing up in the hot Bronx, New York rap scene, Peace spent his early years listening to underground rap radio and tapes, performing himself at the age of 12, as well as serving as a DJ at parties during his teenage years.

After moving to California in

NEW ARTIST SPOT

1984, Peace found and accepted the Lord into his life. It was during this period that he began incorporating his love for rap music with his 'new found love,' performing before the same kids that listened to his secular jams, only this time dishing out a new rhyme and message. The talent and power conveyed in his performances did not go unnoticed, leading him to tour with two other hot Christian rap acts, SFC and J.C. & the Boyz.

It was in mid-1990 that Peace and Vic Everett, better known as D.J. Cartoon, joined forces, creating what is now recognized as Freedom Of Soul.

The hip-hop beat of their debut album features a special guest appearance by blue-eyed soul, Stevie Wonder sound-a-like, Jon Gibson, on the cut, "This Is Love."

Freedom Of Soul is not ashamed of what they believe in and stand for. Their spiritual stance is best depicted through the tune, "This Is Love": "Freedom Of Soul is the name of our crew/because we're free to do what we want to/but we choose to do it in this fashion/not with hate, violence or sexual passion/we're doin' it with love from above."

Xalt...Making History

By Steve Giuffrida

Xalt

BEARERS OF LYRICALLY INTENSE MUSIC, who communicate a message of pure light, has often been the description of Christian Metal artists Xalt. Xalt is comprised of Scott Doerfler (vocals), Randy Carlson (bass guitar) and James Erdman (guitars).

After recording and marketing a successful demo tape entitled, Dark War, Xalt caught the attention of Pure Metal Records, which instantly signed the band to a recording contract. Xalt then released their first label project in June of 1990 entitled Under The Ruins. The album was looked on as a success, and the single "Piercing The Darkness" maintained a strong position on the metal charts for 26 consecutive weeks.

"We were able to tour many parts of the world on the strength of Under The Ruins," says Jim Erdman, leader of Xalt.

The new Xalt album is entitled History. "We Think History is still true to our metal, but it is more radio accessible," claims Erdman. "This new record is where we wear our hearts out on our sleeves. It is reflecting on the grace of God and what He is doing for us. We want to paint the picture that God is bigger than anything we can possibly do."

History is filled with a powerful message with songs like "Walk Away" and "Standing," both which express encouragement to the Christian who faces the numerous trials of life. The album's current single "Unconditional Love," a savvy ballad about a romantic relationship, continues to receive significant airplay, in addition to increasing chart success. "It's the first personal relationship song we've ever done," comments Erdman.

Since the group's formation in 1987, they have performed in a number of diverse venues ranging from clubs to churches, to music festivals, but have never forgotten who they are. "Even in clubs and mainstream festivals, the owners and promoters know who and what we are about," states Erdman. "They understand us and we understand them."

Michigan-based Xalt, a band looking towards the future, is also a band determined to remain firm in their beliefs. And while doing so, Xalt will no doubt continue to make History...literally.

DEGARMO & KEY GO TO THE TUBE—DeGarmo & Key continue their success in mainstream video with "Family Reunion," the first video single from their new Go To The Top home video package. Both Country Music Television (CMT) and The Nashville Network (TNN) have added the Deaton/Flanigen produced video into rotation on their music video shows. It was D & K who pioneered Christian music video on MTV with "Six, Six, Six" the first "Christian" video added to MTV rotation. They are now leading the way for contemporary Christian music in the mainstream country video field. Pictured (l-r) are Eddie DeGarmo and Dana Key.

Expansion Continues At Deutsche Wurlitzer

CHICAGO—With the culmination of a very successful financial year, which ended on June 30, 1991, Deutsche Wurlitzer, one of the world's largest manufacturers of jukeboxes and vending equipment, is gearing up for continued expansion and market penetration, worldwide.

"Turnover increased by 15 percent, and this is the sixth consecutive financial year with above average growth," declared Hans Domberg, managing director of the German-based company. "During the last four years we have more than doubled sales; the market situation is good; and, today, our staff has grown to more than 500 employees."

Deutsche Wurlitzer produces vending machines and jukeboxes in two factories, located in Huelthorst and in Levern; in addition to which, the company has representatives in Paris, London and New York to support its distribution and marketing activities. In 1985, Wurlitzer was acquired by the Nelson Group of Companies, headquartered in Sydney, Australia.

Approximately 70 percent of Wurlitzer products are exported to more than 30 countries. "Wurlitzer's product range is designed to spread the risk equally," stated Norbert Lohre, marketing director of the company. "Cigarette, drink and vending machines as well as jukeboxes achieve mainly the same sales. Naturally, there are differences between individual markets," he continued, "but through flexibility in controlling our production, we are in the position to adapt in a short period to the current trends in demand."

The worldwide boom in jukeboxes has been especially significant for Deutsche Wurlitzer, according to Hans Domberg, who emphasized that the CD technology has provided substantial innovations during the last four years. "The old single version with 200 selections only attracted teenagers," he noted, "but the new CD version with 1,500 selections is an alternative to background music for pubs, restaurants and hotels. In addition, the nostalgic jukebox OMT has attracted completely new markets."

He went on to explain that, "As far as cigarette vending machines are concerned, German tobacco wholesalers are compelled to take enormous investments. On the one hand, the coming tobacco tax increase is responsible, but on the other hand there is also a strong backlog in the five new federal states in East Germany," he continued. "Reduction of working hours as well as growing costs in industrial enterprises and service industries have also had an effect on manual food catering. Food and drink vending machines are a favorable alternative."

In conclusion, he added that, "our future plans at Wurlitzer contain further growth; and our markets, high-quality products and motivated employees are a good basis."

Gamco's The Boogiemen

PREPARE YOURSELF FOR SOME SPINE curdling sights and sounds! The Boogiemen from Gamco International, Inc. is scary and spooky and fun to play; with the added incentive of scoring points and winning tickets.

The main characters are three horrible looking creatures, whose mouths slowly open and close as you try to shoot balls into them; and with each successful shot they scream bloody murder. There are also four caskets on the playfield, two of which open and close continuously; so if you miss the mouth of a boogiemer you can still score points and win tickets when the ball goes into one of the open caskets. All of the action is portrayed amidst the sounds of haunted house music along with "the death march," the rattling of chains and the cackling of witches.

The Boogiemen is currently in shipment after undergoing over six months of testing. The cabinet, in haunted house purple with gold trim, compliments the scenario. The gun is gold anodized and steel welded for extra strength.

There are three Boogiemen models; the Skull model, the Witch and Ghost model and the Ancient Evil model; so that locations can bank them side by side to offer players a different variety of creatures to shoot.

Further information may be obtained through factory distributors or by contacting Gamco International, Inc., 2153 Tenth St., Sarasota, FL 34237.

Sega's Spider-Man

UP TO FOUR PLAYERS can take part in the adventures of Marvel Comic's famous Spider-Man—the newly released video game from Sega Enterprises, Inc. (USA)—and they can choose from four characters, namely, Spider-Man, Hawkeye, Sub-Mariner and Black Cat. What's more, there is the unique feature which allows players to change from character to character throughout play.

This scrolling action game utilizes Sega's "32-bit" technology for explosive graphics; and the factory has incorporated a new feature by way of a Zoom in/Zoom out format which changes the size of the characters with each scene.

Using 16 scenes within four chapters, Spider-Man, The Videogame offers continuous action and features six of Spider-Man's arch enemies for players to conquer and they include King Pin, Sand Man, Scorpion, Green Goblin, Venom and Lizard.

Players have complete control over their character's movements and fighting technique and will be awarded additional power for the number of enemies killed in each chapter. Additional power may also be acquired by picking up heart shaped items along the way.

What you have here is a game involving characters that have strong player recognition, coupled with the continuation mode as well as the buy-in feature to generate increased earnings on location.

Further information may be obtained through factory distributors or by contacting Sega Enterprises, Inc. (USA), 2149 Paragon Drive, P.O. Box 610550, San Jose, CA 95161-0550.

D.D. Crew kit

Among the new kits in release from Sega is D.D. Crew, which focuses on an amusement park and a gang of hoodlums who have planted a bomb therein, creating all sorts of mayhem, which only the D.D. Crew can bring under control.

Up to four players are challenged to exert their fighting skills as they encounter gang-style attacks on moving trams, merry-go-rounds and other amusement park rides. There are four different characters to choose from and each offers a unique fighting style and knock-out blow. Enemy weapons can be picked up along the way and used to their best advantage; and there is a unique feature which allows players to fight against each other to determine who is the toughest.

The D.D. Crew conversion kit is available for immediate delivery and it utilizes both the buy-in and continuation mode.

A product shot of Sega's Spider-Man was not available at presstime; so we decided to use this photo of Spider Man and Sega's Jim Chapman, which was taken in the factory's exhibit at AMOA Expo '91 as showgoers were taking turns at the machines!
