■ MICHAEL JACKSON'S MOONWALKER (£34.99)

The official BUZZ Mega Drive review...

Aaow! Strut your stuff the way Michael does...and save the world's children while you're at it.

Loosely based on the film, prepare yourself for beat perfect (though without Michael's singing which you could provide yourself) versions of hits like "Smooth Criminal", "Beat It", "Billie Jean" and "Bad".

Also standbye to be amazed by the superb quality graphics and super smooth movement...

■ MOONWALKER review continued...

You're Michael and have to use your magic and moves to moonwalk over muggers, pulverise punks, bash the big baddies and rescue the little kids. Even Bubbles the chimp helps out!

Sounds really ace doesn't it? well, the music is brill, Michael's movements are uncannily like mike, his squeal sounds and dancing top-drawer stuff.

The drawback, once you've marvelled at the quality of the product you realise how dull and easy the game is! Shame.

■ GHOSTBUSTERS (Sega, £34.99)

Official BUZZ Mega Drive review...

Take a hit film, re-make it and call it part II. Again it's a smash so, make it into a FUN computer game and it's...

Well, the idea's not bad - a quirky platform game where you choose which of the Ghostbusters you want to be and go around blasting all manner of ghosts, poltergeists and bits of green slime.

Add in a host of ridiculous middle and big baddies to zap and then trap. Have the Stay-Puft Marshmallow man peering in windows at you... Yes, that's the idea it's fun. cont >

■ GHOSTBUSTERS review continued...
But there's something missing here...

That zaniness which made the first film such good entertainment, and even part II passable, hasn't transferred to the game.

There's nothing specific to gripe about - sound FX are OK, music not bad, comicstrip-type characters well drawn etc - it just lacks the necessary charm to carry it off as a game. Ghostbusters freaks will probably love it but it didn't send shivers down my spine.
