The "New" That's Fit to Print

By The GamePros

What's new? Plenty!!!

You should already know that GamePro's on TV this month. On September 28 in fact, we debut at 100 stations around the country. See page 17. GamePro TV belongs to the same folks that do American Gladiators. The Gladiators play rough, so we thought we'd feature them on the cover before they tore up the place. Moreover Game-tek's packed them into an NES cart; we've got a preview.

You're probably curious about what we saw at the Summer Consumer Electronics Show (CES). In fact there's so much stuff coming your way this Christmas that we can't fit all the systems coverage in one issue!

Is the NES facing extinction? No way!!! Check out this issue's list of carts to come. Then scrutinize the ProReviews covering Tecmo's Ninja Gaiden III, Taito's Rainbow Islands, and Meldac's Zombie Nation.

There was outrageous looking SNES stuff at CES; we're playing them now, but here's a preview of Capcom's Ghouls 'n Ghosts.

But can the Genesis steal the SNES's 16-bit thunder? They've got the games to do it! We were impressed with Renovation's Arcus Odyssey and Electronic Arts' Faery Tale Adventure at CES, but check out the ProReviews and call your shot. Now we all know those are just two of the hot Genesis carts around. The hottest of the hot could be Sega's own ToeJam and Earl (see Short ProShots) even as speedy little Sonic the Hedgehog tries to run rings around Mario.

Got a feeling Sega isn't standing still? In fact, it plans to spin into CDs in a big way. Check out the Cutting Edge.

But don't underestimate the TurboGrafx-16! Check out Bonk's Revenge in this issue; it's a winner on any system.

Hand-held games? Castlevania II for the Game Boy, Shinobi for the Game Gear, and A.P.B. for the Lynx are hot.

Okay what's new with you? Drop us a line!

A Genesis Advocate

I know that Nintendo and Sega are trying to duke it out for the number one spot in the 16-bit area of the video gaming industry and, well, my personal feelings are that I like the Genesis better. I feel that the performance and quality of the Super NES has been overexaggerated. Does this world really need another 16-bit system on the market? You say the SNES can produce sounds unheard of from other systems. Well, the SNES only has eight channels of stereo sound with voice sampling, while the Genesis has a whopping nine-channel stereo sound and voice sampling. The Super NES does generate large sprites, but what's the point of having all those great big graphics when it doesn't have the megahertz to move them quickly?! Gradius III was a perfect example of this atrocity. This is a serious subject to me, and I'm hoping that you won't overdo it with the SNES reviews and continue to give the Genesis the recognition that it deserves!

Carl Rizzo, Bergenfield, NJ

Mega Drive Maniac

I've read another magazine for over a year, but once I bought a copy of GamePro I decided to dump it and subscribe to GamePro. You have the best magazine on the market. One thing you could do to make it more helpful and interesting would be to put together a complete listing of all the Mega Drive games, similar to the way you did in the special 16-bit Buyers Guide. I would like to see a Mega Drive special because I've recently purchased a Genesis and now I'm planning to purchase a Mega Drive converter.

Jason Passons, Dallas, TX

(If we had endless page space, Jason, believe us we'd cover every last thing we could get our hands on. Unfortunately that's not the case. Our page space for each issue is precious and limited, and though we do our best to bring our readers the cutting edge information on the Japanese gaming scene, our primary focus is to cover the hot new titles and systems that are most readily available to the North American gamer. By the way, perform a little "plastic surgery" on your Genesis and you won't need to track down that converter. - Ed.)

Mystery Monster

I'm very interested in two Japanese titles, Godzilla 2 and Rodan. What can you tell me about these two games and will they be available in the U.S.?

Max Taylor, Abbotsford, B.C.

(Rodan and Godzilla 2 are actually the same game, even though they're two different monsters. In Japan the game is called Rodan; in the U.S. it's called Godzilla 2. As for the release of Godzilla 2, the sequel to Toho's 1990 release, Godzilla, it is scheduled to be on the shelves sometime in October of this year. - Ed.)

Longing for A Journey

Why haven't there been any role-playing games for the Lynx? I've purchased a Lynx and I was really hoping I would be able to play adventure games while on the go. I think Atari is capable of producing an RPG that would be far greater than the ones produced for the Game Boy, mainly because they would be in color. Could you check into this for me?

Gerren Gambel, Modesto, CA.

(Hold tight, Gerren. Your wish shall become a reality some time within the next year. We contacted Atari's Vice President of Software Development, Craig Erickson, and he assured us "there is a lot of excitement and interest in role-playing games for the Lynx, and this is one area that Atari will fortify very soon." Mr. Erickson went on to tell us about a few of the projects that are currently in the works. One is an original RPG from the British development house, Imagitek Designs, entitled Demon's Gate. Erickson described it as an overhead scrolling game much like Gauntlet but with larger characters. He also said that Atari is currently negotiating with SSI (Strategic Simulations Incorporated) for possible development of an Advanced Dungeons and Dragons series title, and that there are also other, confidential titles in development that will combine action with role play. - Ed.)

A Collector's Item

In your most recent S.W.A.T. issue (June '91) you offer the readers a chance to back order previous issues. The problem is that there are two missing from the offer (July/August '89 and December '89) and those just happen to be the only two I'm missing. I even have a premiere issue! Why can't I get my hands on those two issues? I'd really like to make my GamePro magazine collection complete. Any suggestions.

Joerg Gromotka, Munich, Germany

(Bad news, Joerg - they're all gone. Even we can't get our hands on those two back issues, either. Here's the scoop. Each month a certain number of GamePro issues are printed and distributed accordingly: subscribers, newsstands, toy stores, etc. A certain amount are also set aside for the back order program. What's happened is that between each of those sales channels, all copies of the July/August and December '89 issues were sold out! Hang onto that premiere issue, though, it may just be a collector's item one day. - Ed.)

Correction

In the July '91 issue of GamePro, the Letter from the GamePros incorrectly listed Boy and His Blob II as a cart-to-come from Electro Brain. Boy and His Blob is an Absolute game as is its Game Boy spin-off, The Rescue of Princess Blobette. Boy and His Blob II? James Charne, vice president legal and business affairs at Absolute, informed us in a letter dated June 14, 1991 that "...this is an unannounced product. It does not exist." We regret any inconvenience this has caused. - Ed.

CUTTING EDGE

By the Whizz

The Genesis Gets a CD-ROM

Sega got a serious jump on Nintendo in the 16-bit systems race. Now it's making a major move as front-runner in the disc derby, too, compact discs that is. Oh yes, the Genesis CD-ROM!

Sega hopes to begin spinning CDs in the U.S. by Spring '92. Nintendo's guesstimated arrival for its American CD-ROM is Fall '92. Both game companies plan to debut Japanese CD systems within the next few months (See ProNews Report, GamePro, August '91).

If nothing else the Genesis and its CD will make a slick looking couple. The Genesis will ride piggy back on the CD unit which has roughly the same dimensions, but it's about 1 inch thicker. The two units connect via that once mysterious port (remember the TeleMo dem?) on the right side of the Genesis. The unit's a slide-out front-loader and will play both 3-inch and 5-inch CDs.

The CD player gets its processing muscle from a 16-bit 68000 CPU just like the Genesis. Sega CD games will be programmed to access both 16-bit processors to maximize speed, graphics display, and the ability to move around onscreen objects.

Another way Sega plans to put some hustle in its CD is a special high speed laser CD pickup drive, custom-designed for gameplaying, to cut down average access time. However, the unit should get a big speed boost from a large memory buffer, reportedly 768K. The beefy RAM should shave down access time a little more and also enable the unit to display monster graphics. According to Sega, its CD player will bring advanced biaxial rotation and zoom functions to the Genesis.

And naturally, CD means cool sounds, in this case 8-channel digital stereo similar to that of Sega arcade games.

Games? Price? Stay tuned.

Acemore's Game Action Replay

Acemore's put a little more control in your controller with the Game Action Replay. Now you can have slow motion and the ability to save five different game locations at your fingertips.

This handy little device is the same size as an NES cart. You slip it onto the cart's business end, and then you slide the mated units into the NES. That's it.

Doesn't look like much - but it is!

Now, you have five memory locations and up to four slow motion speeds. If you're a player who likes to tackle several carts at a time, here you go.

Once you plug in a game, there are two basic ways to operate the Game Action Replay. Press Select, A, and B simultaneously to activate an almost-frame-by-frame, sloooooow slow slo mo. Hit the same combo a second time to pick the pace up to slow slo mo. Hit that combo again to switch off slo mo. To save a position in a game, press Select and A simultaneously. Press Select and B simultaneously anytime to return immediately to that point of the game.

The Game Action Replay has more tricks up its sleeve. A 6-year lithium battery enables you to save game locations in memory longer than anyone should. (And don't forget you can save locations from more than one cart.) You can also display an onscreen menu, where you shuffle through the memory locations. A memory scan feature displays a single screen snapshot of the saved location. There's also a menu for different slow motion speeds, and you can reconfigure the button combo that activates slo mo, too.

The Game Action Replay should be around some time this Fall. Expect to pay something around $59.99.

The Genesis CD-ROM.

PRO REVIEW

By So Mo

If you think you're into video bushido and you've read this far without getting an adrenaline rush, then turn in your Nintendo Ninja Society membership card! You just "dissed" one of the most popular shadow yamori sagas ever!

New and Improved Ninjitsu

Ninja Gaiden III: The Ancient Ship of Doom continues Tecmo's saga of Ryu Hayabusa of the Dragon Clan and his one-man battle against the dark machinations and the gruesome forces of the demon, Ashtar. If you're a fan of the other Ninja Gaiden carts, you must repeat MUST take on this game. The single player action and the graphic style fall right in line with the previous Ninja Gaiden carts (and that's pronounced "guh" as in "hey, guy," "den"), but it's much more difficult.

Is Ryu his own worst enemy?

Irene Lew's missing in action again. This time Ryu Hayabusa's the prime suspect. Did Ryu off Irene? Well, you see him do it in the opening story scenes. The story sequences between stages are as sharp-looking and dramatic as ever, and the stage backgrounds are a knock-out.

PROTIP: If you ever reach Stage 4-1A look closely. The answer is "Yes."

Unfriendly Places

As usual Ryu's quest quickly becomes a massive bug-beast-and-bot hunt. A horde of creepy things backed by mean traps and nasty obstacles make this cart the toughest Ninja Gaiden yet. Even things that are actually easy prey, such as the little grey 'bots, the flying robo-bugs, and the leaping howlers, become real pains merely by their locations on a stage. As in the earlier episodes, position, timing, and knowing when to fight and run mean everything.

PROTIP: In the Desert the little round robots don't look powerful, but they take a toll. The Windmill Throwing Stars help.

You have to reach Castle Rock Fortress to solve the mystery, and to get there you slash and dash through seven stages and 48 scenes of brain-busting action. The Stage 1 Lab is a pushover, but that's it. You'll go nuts everywhere else — the desert, a castle, two enemy bases, a swamp, a huge airplane, and roughly five different caves.

To make matters worse (and more fun), the forces of evil have recruited eight new bosses such as the pesky, flying robo-bug Night Diver, the double trouble Great Kogane, and the sneaky Sandeater.

PROTIP: To beat Stage 3's boss Great Kogane, use the Fire Wheel and the Dragon Sword. When the clones first appear, immediately empty your Fire Wheel flame 'bots at either one of them. To dodge their throwing stars, wait until they toss them to make your moves.

Weapons Past and Present

Ninja Gaiden students will recognize most of the ninja arts. The slick Windmill Throwing Stars are as sharp as ever, the Fire Wheel and the electric Fire Dragon Balls are still a blast, and the Invincible Fire Wheel remains "hot" protection.

The Vacuum Wave slices above and below

The new art is the Vacuum Wave, which shoots deadly energy blades simultaneously directly above and below you. Naturally, you need to grab Dragon Spirit Crystals to power-up, but this time you can see what they are before you cut them down.

ILLUSTRATION: FRANK CIRROCCO

PROTIP: Don't forget: if you use Windmill Throwing Stars, jump just before they return to bust a deadly move.

PROTIP: In the Swamp, the second power-up maxes out your Ninja power! The Vacuum Wave Art helps you get it.

PROTIP: Always grab Dragon Scrolls to increase total ninja arts power. That's critical!

Grab the Dragon God Sword-always.

A great new weapon is the Dragon God Sword. It's suspiciously similar to Strider's Cyber Sword, but it's the best all-around weapon. Unfortunately, Ryu's ghost ninja clones from NG-II have vanished.

In addition to Ryu's traditional repertoire—running, crouching, somersaulting, and, of course, climbing—he's got a slick new move where he jumps up to grab overhanging scenery, such as vines or pipes, and pulls himself across it hand-over-hand or flips up onto it.

Hang out with Ryu.

Doesn't sound like much, but you'll find that it is. And, at last, Ryu can flip to the top of a wall once he climbs it in a single, simple move.

PROTIP: As you work your way up through the vertically-scrolling Magma Cavern, try to bump up against the top of the screen. Jump onto ledges the instant a space appears and you'll get bad guys before they move.

PROTIP: You can easily make some enemies disappear by making the screen scroll past them. For example, "erase" Piranhas attacking you from behind in the Swamp by quickly running ahead of them until they disappear.

PROTIP: On vertically-scrolling levels you can make pulsing energy balls fall below you if you make the screen scroll down over them as soon as they appear. This helps in the Stage 3-2C cavern.

Did we mention that this game's a toughie? And this time around continues are limited to five (still 3 lives and 15 life points, though). "Passwords?" you ask. Bite your tongue.

PROTIP: To snatch that enticing 1-Up in the Swamp, first move to the left of the moving platform to get the Piranha. Then move right until one foot is off the platform. Finally, slash the 1-Up and grab it in midair as you jump to the next platform.

Thinking of Ryu

If you like ninja fighting, this is a no-brainer. Go for it. Even the sounds rate above average for Ryu's "hii-yahs" alone.

Tecmo hints that this is the final chapter of NES Ninja Gaiden (which, by the way, roughly translates as "Tale of a Ninja in a Foreign Land"). But before you run out and commit seppuku, consider this: Maybe ending Ninja Gaiden is okay. Maybe Ryu should finally hang up his sword and find peace. Maybe Irene should enjoy life instead of always losing it. Maybe Ashtar should just chill out...Nahhhhhh!

Use all of your smooth moves to batter your Joust opponent until he falls off the pedestal. Jump and grab the Super Pugel stick that flies by – it's a heavy duty weapon.

Dodge the flying tennis balls as you make your run for the finish in Assault. If you can grab a weapon and blow up the Gladiator, you'll earn 50 bonus points.

Stuff as many balls as you can into the goals to score in Powerball. If you get a ball into all the goals, you earn a 1-up.

Make like Tarzan and swing as the Human Cannonball. You win if you knock your opponent off the pedestal. Use the Power Gloves to climb the rope and grab a 1-up.

Score big by climbing as high as you can in The Wall without falling off. If you see a pair of Power Gloves grab them for extra speed.

Zombie Nation

PRO REVIEW

Rainbow Islands

By Toxic Tommy

In Zombie Nation a vile space being called Darc Seed turns America into a nation of zombies, and that's the most normal thing about this outrageous shoot-em-up from Meldac.

Getting A Head

You know Japan has a lot invested in the U.S. when the spirit of the great samurai Namakubi returns to the world of the living...err, living dead to combat Darc Seed and his Seedlings. However, only Namakubi's noggin actually shows up.

You "fly" the head in a horizontally-scrolling, monster blast-athon across America. Namakubi pops eyeballs from his sockets and spits tongues from his mouth. He's gross but effective.

Oh Say, Can You See?

This game is so graphically intense it might give you a headache. You get five stages, 12 rounds total. See New York City, the Grand Canyon, the Texas Oil Fields, and the Underground Caverns of the North Central U.S. like you've never seen them before.

PROTIP: Stage 2's lightning bolts hurt, but don't get caught in the clouds during an electrical storm either.

through cascading waterfalls, boulder showers, and eerie night scenes. The backgrounds are bizarre and gorgeous!

PROTIP: Make the screen scroll over zombies positioned above you and they won't shoot.

PROTIP: In Stage 4, Round 2, you can't do much damage to the aliens as you cross the waterfall. Gram into either the upper right corner or the lower right corner of the screen to suffer the least damage.

Zombie Out!

What's going on at Meldac! This shoot-'er's a big time fun, it looks tough, it's weird...but when the going gets weird, the weird get going. Zombie Nation's definitely heads and shoulders above the rest.

Head on out!

This is a shooter's nightmare! The screens are overrun with zombie things including helicopters, jets, robots, water snakes, lava monsters, and teeny tiny people (sometimes riding teeny tiny horses).

The four extra large bosses include a gigantic Statue of Liberty, an axe-juggling giant, and awful Venusian Snakes. Moreover, you fly

Lady Liberty's mean!

— Rainbow Islands (You may have been one of the few who saw it in the arcades).

Island Fever

In this one player adventure Bubby travels to the Rainbow Islands in search of seven colored diamonds. There are seven levels of action, each with four stages and one big boss to fight (32 stages in all). Each stage has several different areas. If you "do the right thing" there's also a special bonus word. Just as in Bubble Bobble you must snag special treats, avoid nasty bad guys, and collect letters for a special surprise (this time you get to spell RAINBOW).

PROTIP: If you're too slow the island sinks and you're sunk.

Rainbow's End

At first Rainbow Islands seems a little cloudy. The two-player simultaneous action was half the fun in Bubble Bobble, and it's missed in Rainbow Islands. Challenge-wise the first several levels are too easy and the action only picks up with Level Three.

On the other hand, Rainbow Islands does use many of the same fun devices of the original that make all kinds of unexpected things happen. You can also do some really nifty tricks with your rainbows.

PROTIP: Rainbows wrap around the edge of the screen so you can stand on the left, shoot a rainbow off-screen, and zap a bad guy on the right.

Although Rainbow Islands doesn't quite live up to its classic predecessor, it captures some of Bubble Bobble's magic. There's a little pot of gold at the end of this rainbow.

By Speedy Buns

Yes, Bubby and Bobby fans, it's the sequel to Bubble Bobble

Grab special items for double rainbows and other weapons.

But that's about where the similarity ends. Our buddy Bobby has apparently fallen prey to the evil Bubble Dragon. Instead of bubbles Bubby uses Rainbow Magic to grab treats and subdue bad guys.

PROTIP: If a Rainbow traps a beastly but doesn't do him in, just jump and hit one side of the Rainbow and he's done for.

PROTIP: To stop Level 2's Helicopter boss just dodge its bombs until it reaches ground level and then stand in the right hand corner of the screen. When the Helicopter goes to the left hand corner shoot right to tag it, and then turn and face it to shoot it when it comes to the right. Repeat until it's done for.

Hockey Carts

FACE-OFF!!

By Fanatic Fan

The thermometer's checking in at 85+ degrees and air conditioning is suddenly more important than food, sleep...even video games! But Fanatic Fan has the cure for those dog days o' summer blues...some chillin' ice hockey action for the Genesis, the TurboGrafx-16, and the Game Boy.

NHL Hockey

If Fanatic Fan had a personal award for awesome sports games, it would go to the folks at Electronic Arts. EA has singlehandedly given die-hard sports gamers a reason to rush out to buy a Genesis. The latest candidate for the Video Game Sports Hall of Fame is NHL Hockey, a great balance of fast action, realistic simulation, and hot graphics all wrapped up in a four meg cart. NHL Hockey is programmed by Park Place Software, the same guys who created John Madden Football, so ya got to figure it would be smokin'.

Replay the Penguins/North Stars Stanley Cup Finals. Will the Penguins prevail again?

Like most EA games, the graphics and sound effects are top-notch. Your team of players appears onscreen in a three-quarters overhead perspective. Like real skaters, they take long strides as they try to move faster, and they use their sticks the way you'd expect hockey players to. They even grunt when they hit or get hit.

The game has regular season play and a full playoff format (including a best of seven option). You can play any of these options alone, against a friend, or as a two-player team.

High Stickin'

NHL Hockey is the first cart to license the National Hockey League - that means you get to control ALL the pro teams even the newly-formed San Jose Sharks! If you're a beginner, take over the Campbell or the Wales All Stars and give yourself an advantage. Although the players in NHL Hockey don't have names on their jerseys, you can figure out who's who by their player number. And as in John Madden Football, the players are all rated in several skill categories (based on their real-life abilities).

A head-to-head comparison reveals who has the advantage before the game starts.

Icing, Icing Baby

The cart's programmers try to give you a feel for the sport without bogging you down with complex rules and difficult game play. Most of the regular hockey penalties are called - unless you choose a no - penalties game. The zebra's whistle, charging, cross-checking, tripping, hooking, roughing, interference, even icing and off-sides. There's also a Penalties, Except Off-sides mode in which they call all the major infractions, but skip the annoying offsides calls. This is the way to play - after all, hockey without penalties is, well, CHAOS.

Let's See That Again!

A great feature of NHL Hockey is its Instant Replay option. Just scored an incredible, game-winning goal? You can literally "rewind" the action and watch the play as it happened again and again. By hitting the B button repeatedly, you can even watch one frame at a time.

He shoots. He scores. Now let's see that instant replay!

PRO TIP: Don't take unnecessary risks when you have the lead. Play a "four corners" game - keeping the puck away from your opponent as the clock winds down.

Alright for Fightin'

Has there ever been a hockey video game without some sort of "fight mode?" For that matter, has there ever been a real life hockey game without any fights?

NHL Hockey has a fight mode that's totally excellent! Check a guy one too many times, and he may just drop his gloves and try to teach you a lesson. Whether you win or lose, you'll get a five minute major (penalty) for the battle.

PROTIP: You have a better chance of winning any fight by breaking your opponent's grip on you and backing off. When your opponent takes a swing at you (and misses) slide forward and pop him in the gut or the face, then back off before he can swing again.

Overtime

EA hasn't missed a hat trick in designing what should be their next great sports hit. This cart's got it all: cool graphics, fast action, fist fights, highlights from other games in progress, and instant replays. They even have "home team advantage" - your crowd will get behind every move you make, even the cheap shots. With NHL Hockey, video hockey has finally emerged from the Ice Age!

TV Sports Hockey

TV Sports Hockey may be the most realistic Turbo sports game to date. Like NHL Hockey for the Genesis, TV Sports Hockey uses a vertical overhead view of the rink and players, but it also features fantastic close-ups - whenever you break away with the puck, face off against an opponent, or fight. These super close-ups give TV Sports Hockey the edge over all previous TV Sports products.

Using the TurboTap, up to five players can skate at once. The computer opponent is fairly weak, so playing your friends is highly recommended if you want a competitive game. It's also more fun!

Go head-to-head against a friend or team up.

International Hockey

There's an international flavor to TV Sports Hockey. Eight teams from around the world participate in a three-round tournament - USA, Finland, USSR, Sweden, Canada, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Norway. Each team has three lines of players and two goalies. The lines are rated in four categories: Speed, Strength, Stickhandling, and Stamina. There's also an Energy rating that lets you know how tired your line is.

PROTIP: Choose a team that has a line with a top rating in Speed. A quick team is most likely to get breakaways on offense and get to the puck first on defense.

PROTIP: A one-minute breather is usually enough to bring a tired line's energy rating back to 100%. That means you can use your best line almost the entire game!

Sometimes you can catch your opponent off-guard with a long range slapshot.

PROTIP: You can only change lines between periods, when infractions are called, or when a fight breaks out. If your line on the ice is out of gas, deliberately "ice" the puck or make an offsides pass to stop game play and substitute.

PROTIP: On a breakaway, don't commit to the direction of your shot until after the goalie commits to the section of the goal he will defend. You'll improve your chance of scoring dramatically!

Down 5 - 1 in the third period? Take out your frustrations on your opponents.

Cracks in the Ice

Realism makes a good sports game, and TV Sports Hockey gets high marks for its accurate game play and hot sound effects. Players move like they're really on ice skates, and you can hear the "shush-ing" of the ice when they hit the brakes.

But a lack of frills detracts from what could have been a "great" game. The rink fills the entire screen, so there's no room for a scoreboard. If you want to know the score or how much time is left you have to stop game play and select the Scoreboard option. A similar problem occurs when a penalty is called. The game switches to another screen to make the call. And speaking of penalties, the penalties here are awfully arbitrary. There seems to be no reason or consistency to the calls (other than when a fight breaks out).

Ice-A-Roni

TV Sports Hockey really excels as a multi-player game. Use the one-player mode for practice only and reserve your serious game for friends. When it comes to multi-player sports action, TV Sports Hockey's detailed closeups and realistic game play make it one of the hottest tickets in town.

Blades of Steel

When you talk of hockey video games, you can't go far into your conversation without mentioning Blades of Steel, the best-selling hockey game of all time.

It took a while, but Konami finally has a scaled down version for Game Boy owners. It may not have the digitized voice, but all the other elements of the NES game are still intact.

They're smaller - but these Blades of Steel players are just as tough as their NES counterparts.

Carry A Big Stick

Blades of Steel doesn't have the detailed player characteristics of the other hockey simulations, but it captures the flavor of the original NES hit - hack 'n slash hockey without restrictive rules. Graphics are sharp, although the game tends to be hard to follow at times because of its fast pace and small characters. Incredible animation scenes appear when you score a goal, or get into a fight. They're worth the price of admission alone!

The large animations are a knockout!

One or two players (with an extra cart and Game Boy) can choose from three leagues/skill levels - Junior, College, and Pro - and eight teams. Practice mode improves your fighting ability and penalty shot shooting.

PROTIP: You'll do much better in the fights if you come out swinging. Press Up and tap B rapidly to deck your opponent before he decks you.

PROTIP: Catch your opponent offguard with a long distance shot on his goal. Aim for the side opposite the goalie.

Looks like your goalie has a hole in his stick!

Hit the Ice!

Game Boy Blades of Steel is not for hockey wimps. You'll have to do plenty of hitting and checking to win. Luckily, the refs are blind!

There's enough hot action to keep puck-heads satisfied until the NHL season starts again. It may not have NHL teams or the superstar players, but sometimes shooting and punching alone is enough.

Sega's Mario Lemieux

1991 has been quite a year for hockey superstar Mario Lemieux. In May he led an underdog Pittsburgh Penguin squad all the way to the Stanley Cup Finals. Shortly before the Finals, Mario signed a deal with Sega of America to do a hockey game for the Genesis. Some guys have all the luck...

Practice your shooting skills during the practice round

Mario Lemieux Hockey is a four meg action simulation. Fifteen teams (fictional, but using real NHL cities) shoot it out in tournament or exhibition mode. Teams are rated in six skill categories: shooting, power, passing, speed, defense, and goalie. Each team has three lines of players.

Mario Lemieux uses a three-quarter overhead perspective and plays horizontally.

Mario Lemieux will be statistics heaven — there are more stats tracked during this game than any other sports cart to date. Everything has been covered, from the types of penalties to percentage of time spent on the attack.

Look for Mario Lemieux Hockey to skate into your store by Christmas.

SUPER Should 'It Ghosts

By the Unknown Gamer

The tale of Sir Arthur continues on...thanks to Capcom and the Super NES. The cart's due out this November, but here's an early look.

Sir Arthur to the Rescue!

The evil Lucifer, putrid king of the Ghoulish Realm, has returned! It was merely three years ago that Arthur vanquished his mindless minions and rescued Princess Guinevere from Lucifer's wretched Kingdom. And now, Lucifer has done it again — he's spirited the Princess away, this time to the Phantom Zone! No, that isn't the place in Superman comics where all Krypton's bad guys wind up. The Phantom Zone is a nightmarish land, which is completely under Lucifer's power. It's also the home of some of the most horrible undead this side of a George Romero film.

If he's to rescue Guinevere and restore order to the kingdom, Arthur must survive four dangerous quests across eight stages and defeat a Foul Guardian at the end of each one that blocks the gate to the next level. And with twelve different weapons, three powerful magic spells, and your guidance, he just might succeed!

Watch your step as you climb these sharp thistles! Those big feet at the top of this screen mean big trouble!

Sir Arthur finds money bags for bonus points. Watch out for those zombies.

You could find this gastric stage hard to digest.

Beware! Some chests hold helpful items and some hide spooky surprises.

Island hopping is critical in the game. But those vines have thorns and berries, which make things very sticky.

This wormy boss tries to make rings around your collar.

Jump to this platform for safety, spikes rise from the ground.

Arthur loses his clothes versus the wolf creature.

Did you buy a Nintendo® Entertainment System game console (NES Console) between June 1, 1988 and December 31, 1990? IF SO, YOU ARE ENTITLED TO A $5 COUPON.

New York Attorney General, Robert Abrams, Maryland Attorney General J. Joseph Curran, Jr., the Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia, and the Attorneys General of 48 other States brought lawsuits against Nintendo of America Inc., claiming that in some instances consumers were overcharged for the NES console at retail stores. Under a proposed voluntary settlement in these cases, you are entitled to a $5 coupon redeemable at any retailer on any NES 8-bit game marketed either by Nintendo of America Inc. or a Nintendo licensee company that can be played on your NES 8-bit video game console.

This is your legal notice of the settlement. Please read it carefully.

You will automatically receive a $5 coupon if, between June 1, 1988 and December 31, 1990, you mailed in your warranty card, subscribed to Nintendo Power magazine or your name was otherwise entered on the Nintendo consumer list.

If you are not on the list to automatically receive a coupon, you must request a coupon and show that you bought a NES console between June 1, 1988 and December 31, 1990. To request a coupon or verify your eligibility, you must do either of the following by September 19, 1991.

1. CALL TOLL FREE 1-800-255-3788, from 4:00 a.m. - midnight, Pacific time, Mon. thru Sat.; or Sunday, 8:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Pacific time. Be ready to tell the operator your name and address, the approximate date you bought your game console, where you bought it & the serial number (located on the bottom of the control deck),

Nintendo Settlement Fund,
P.O. Box 97063, Redmond, WA 98073-9763

THE SETTLEMENT

These cases were brought by the Attorneys General of 50 States and the District of Columbia after an investigation into whether Nintendo and unnamed dealers agreed to sell NES consoles at or above certain minimum prices in violation of the antitrust laws.

No trial has been held on the merits of these allegations and Nintendo denies them. After extensive negotiations, the parties to the lawsuits agreed to a proposed settlement agreement to avoid long and costly litigation. The States have concluded that the settlement gives significant relief to buyers of Nintendo products during the period of the alleged conspiracy (March 1, 1987 - December 31, 1990). Nintendo has agreed to settle but without admitting wrongdoing or liability. The proposed settlement must be finally approved by the Court, which has preliminarily approved the settlement. This notice does not express any opinion of the Court as to the merits of the claims or defenses asserted by either side in the lawsuits.

In summary, the terms of the settlement are as follows:

Nintendo will mail up to $25 million in coupons to consumers who bought NES consoles between June 1, 1988 and December 31, 1990.

If fewer than $5 million in coupons are redeemed by consumers, Nintendo will pay the difference up to $5 million to the States to use for antitrust enforcement, a public purpose to benefit consumers, or to deposit in the state treasury. In addition, Nintendo will pay the States $3 million for these purposes.

Nintendo will also agree to an injunction prohibiting future violations of the antitrust laws and will notify its dealers that they are free to price Nintendo products independently at whatever level they choose.

The Attorneys General will release Nintendo from any further liability resulting from alleged agreements between Nintendo and dealers, between March 1, 1987 and December 31, 1990, regarding the price at which any Nintendo products would be sold.

The legal rights of all buyers of Nintendo products between March 1, 1987 & December 31, 1990; including game consoles, game cartridges, accessories or related items; will be affected by this settlement. If you bought any of these products within this period and you do not want to be bound by the settlement, you must expressly exclude yourself. To opt out of this settlement or for more information, write to Nintendo Settlement Trustee, 1525 Wilson Blvd., Suite 1225, Arlington, VA 22209.

PRO REVIEW

By Doctor Dave

If you think hack-n-slash games are beginning to blur together, here's an awesome cart that mixes great arcade action and just the right bit of fantasy roleplaying. Renovation gets a big Thumbs Up for Arcus Odyssey, an 8 meg cart for the Sega Genesis.

Arcus is a land torn asunder by a massive battle between the evil sorceress Castomira and the Princess Leaty. The princess won that one, but the fight did her in. Now, forces of evil are on the move, and you must find Leaty's legendary Sword of Light to overcome the dark army.

The Cast of Characters

In this hot adventure, you can become one of four characters, or you can play a two-player simultaneous game, where teamwork is essential to success.

Arcus Odyssey adds depth to the typical magic and weapons combo you find in most sword and sorcery carts. Each character has a different weapon and magic ability. You can power-up magic to five levels. Different power levels make each character's unique magic ability react differently. You can also find treasure chests filled with helpful magic items that you carry around until you need them. A handy pop-up window enables you to manage your stuff.

Jeddah Chef's powerful Teamatto Sword produces a wave of destruction, and he also wields strong magic!

Erin Gashuna is a master of the chain sword. Her magic isn't as potent as that of the others, although her weapon definitely makes up for the loss!

Diana Fireya is an archer who launches long range attacks. Her arrows ricochet off walls to destroy enemies around corners! Her magic is limited to healing.

Bead Shia is a sorcerer who fires bolts of energy as a weapon. Naturally, he's especially adept with magic.

The intro to this masterpiece has to be one of the best around!

Killer Looks

Once you choose your characters, you're ready to rock. Arcus Odyssey's outrageous graphics hurl you into a fantastic world. Its looks are a killer!

And speaking of killers, all that imaginative scenery and eerie architecture is overrun with deadly, once-human beasts called the Dark Lords. The Lords look cool, and they're bizarre such as the gigantic turtle. You must try to get on top of his shell, then you both rocket around some canals as a little imp keeps popping out of the turtle shell to fire bolts at you.

Most creatures fire some sort of energy or projectile at you, and they have no qualms about nailing you from off-screen.

How You Gonna Act?

This three quarter overhead view adventure covers 8 different Acts with great-sounding, unusual names such as the an Act, but it's better to talk to everyone in the game to get directions. In fact, in some Acts, such as the Cave Where the Demigod Cried, you can free the Dark Lords' prisoners, who join you and double your firepower!

Here in Act 8, you need full weapon power to survive.

PROTIP: In Act 4, watch for the shadows on the floor. There's a pack of dragons waiting to attack!

PROTIP: Spring Fureya from the prison deep within Act 2 to help you. Her guided energy missiles destroy enemies with ease!

PROTIP: Get Keyami to join you in Act 5. His awesome firepower pumps up your defenses!

Love at First Fight

A quick glance might lead sword and sorcery vets to compare Arcus Odyssey to Gauntlet. Wrong! No contest! The different quests in each Act will keep you glued to the tube from start to finish. (Don't worry you get passwords.) The graphics in this Genesis masterpiece are both highly detailed and beautifully painted, in the tradition of Japanese fantasy adventures. The characters are nicely animated, too. If you enjoy three-quarter angle action games (or go nuts over video fantasy action), Arcus Odyssey is the best so far!

The land of Holm...peaceful, idyllic, and generally a nice place until the Evil Necromancer absconds with the talisman. Three brothers vow to get it back to restore peace and tranquility to their homeland (Holm-land?). You play one of the brothers as you journey through eight multi-level quests broken down into smaller challenges in 50 different locations including islands, castles, lava-filled plains, a dragon's cave maze, a tomb maze, and, most difficult of all, the Grimwood Maze.

PROTIP: Julian is the best brother.

Julian challenges the Red Dragon.

You orchestrate the action via a nicely-drawn, 3/4 overhead view with neat, colorful graphics. To track down the Necromancer you'll use an icon-based menu system and a dialog box to do typical PROTIP: Leave the swan on the outskirts of the Plain of Grief before attempting the Citadel of Doom.

But you'd best be ready for heavy duty button punching versus skeletons, wraiths, snakes, ogres, big hairy spiders, and goblin bowmen. The major baddies include a dragon, a witch, a dream knight, and, of course, the extra-Evil Necromancer.

You start out with a lousy, little dagger, but soon you'll soon find a mace, a dirk, a bow and arrows, a sword, and last, but not best, a wand that shoots blue fire. Magical items include blue necklaces (for teleportation), glass vials (for Vitality), and bird totems (a map). Tangible intangibles that are critical to your survival are Bravery, Kindness, and Luck points.

PROTIPS: Visit the Sorceress when you're low on Luck. She'll give you 5 Luck points (which equal one Life), until you're maxed.

PROTIPS: Stock up on inventory items by repeating this move. When you find something you need, grab it and then save and restore your game.

Okay, complaints over. This game is a ton of fun. It'll keep you up late, real late. Then you'll wake up bleary-eyed and play some more. (Good thing there's a password feature.) The final scene is a gas, a real "reversal of fortune." Try it, you'll like it, but play your own music.

By Road Kill Warrior

Bonk's back in a bodacious, brand-new, brain-busting adventure! This time he's out for revenge in Bonk's Revenge, the latest from NEC.

When we last left our heady hero, he had just stopped the evil King Drool from ruling Moonland forever. But old enemies die hard; King Drool's back with an even more devious and destructive plan. Since he couldn't handle all of Moonland last time, the evil king's cut the planet in half! Bonk must stop Drool and reunite the two halves of Moonland! It's a big job, but Bonk has just the head to handle it.

PROTIP: Bonk's safest attack is from above. Just jump (press Button I) and tap Button II once. Bonk will land head-first right on his victim.

Worlds Apart

To get Moonland back together, Bonk traverses seven perilous levels, bashing Drool's minions as he goes. For those of you who missed the first adventure, Bonk (a little guy with a BIG head) fights by head-butting baddies. How he uses the head-butt is a matter of personal preference. Bonk can jump and hit them from below, drop on them from above, or run up to them. In any case, Bonk's enemies are in for some real headaches!

Unfortunately, this all new brigade of bad guys isn't going to take this challenge sitting down. Drool's recruited some mean-looking prehistoric animals, including fire-breathing lizards and rampaging dinosaurs. Some are so old they're just walking piles of bones! A few of Drool's original minions, such as the dreaded Chikkun Army, have also returned for an encore performance. Don't be fooled by the vaguely familiar faces. These guys are meaner and uglier than ever before!

Mega-Bonk!

PROTIP: Some of Bonk's most dangerous enemies are the "piranha-birds." The only safe way to off one of these foul flyers is to jump up and hit it from below.

As you'd expect Bonk's got an amusing assortment of level bosses, too, such as the crossed-eyed Dodgee and the shark-riding, hook-tossing Captain Hook.

Each boss is colorful and cleanly animated with no visible flicker. When you first play, these creatures seem impossible. After you figure out their secrets, though, things go as smoothly as Bonk's head.

PROTIP: The third level end boss (the dancing snow queen) will quickly put Bonk on ice unless he stays all the way to the left or the right side while she spins. Her vulnerable spot is her head.

The Bonk with Two Brains

One significant change in the sequel involves Bonk. The first time he gobbles up meat to power up, Bonk looks mean, like he did in his first adventure. But when he powers up a second time, Bonk's head goes bonkers! Now he does three times as much damage with his head-butt, and, when he lands on his new noggin, every on-screen enemy takes damage! Not only that, but Bonk breathes fire! Yes, tap Button II and he spits out flames, frying almost any enemy immediately.

Meat isn't the only thing that beefs Bonk up. Along the way, he can find flowers which enable him to fly! Flying is one of the most important aspects of the game, as it can lead Bonk to areas and power-ups he might not normally be able to reach.

PROTIP: Once you get the hang of flying by rapidly tapping Button I, search the clouds for extra bonus goodies.

PROTIP: Always test for hidden flowers in areas that look "too" empty. To do a quick test, jump straight up and then land head first. Any flower in the general area will immediately pop up.

Ridin' the Monster-Train.

Level-Headed

Bonk's Revenge takes place across a great-looking, wacky prehistoric landscape. Each level features a unique theme, such as the ice-cold icebergs in the third level and the sunny beaches and shipwrecked boats of the fourth.

PROTIP: In the fourth level, make sure Bonk avoids the cat-napping cats. If he wakes them up, they'll tear out their hair trying to grab him!

Just to mix things up, each level has a different number of rounds. So while the first level may seem short, the fifth will seem like a game in itself!

Bonk's got great bonuses this time, too. Each level has flowers that lead to one of eight, different bonus rounds. The rounds are huge and they're funny, too. In one round Bonk goes fishing – not with a pole, mind you, but with his entire body! Another is similar to those "hit the squirrel!" games at the arcades.

PROTIP: In the "Iceberg" bonus round, don't try to stop. If you do, Bonk will just keep moving and slide off an edge. Instead, maintain a steady pace and jump a lot! You'll beat it in no time.

The bonus rounds are also Bonk's key to success. In each round Bonk can earn Happy-Faces. If Bonk has collected enough Faces by the time he beats an end boss, he becomes eligible to ride the Monster Train, where each passenger gives Bonk something special, such as meat, an extra heart, or even a free Bonk!

Bald Ambition

Bonk's Revenge is an excellent game which shows the TurboGrafx at its best. Bouncy tunes and colorful characters make the game fun to play, and the challenging, though not impossible, gameplay makes it enjoyable for gamers of all ages and skill ranges. We can only hope that King Drool's next of kin carries on the tradition of oppressing Moonland, so Bonk can return once again!

Quintuple Castle Mania

If you thought the original Konami black and white behemoth was a nightmare, wait 'til you get a load of part two! Not one but five castles contain evils unimaginable by mortal men. You must conquer the first four, Plant, Crystal, Rock, and Cloud, (in any order) before you raise ruckus in Drac's personal haunt. Just so you won't have to go to hell and back again in one day, a password is provided.

PROTIP: You can continue at the half-way point of each castle, but the password only works after you terminate the fortress.

Each castle environment is suited to its name, such as the swampy organic settings in Plant and the wispy surfaces in Cloud. There are also plenty of traps and snares out to put the crush on ever. His regular lash powers up to a rootin' tootin', fireball shootin' morning star. In addition, he can round up the Battle Axe or Holy Water and gather Hearts to drive them.

PROTIP: Whip every block — you never know where a Pork Chop, Large Heart, or extra life might be hidden. Look for this 1-Up in Crystal Castle.

Whether it's roly-poly eyeballs, menacing mouth-cannons, or screwy skeletons, there are enough disembodied body parts to keep your whip crackin' and the bones snappin'. Also, watch out for bats, dark knights, boomerang bullies, and they-came-from-the-goop zombies. To make matters even gorier, at the end of each castle resides a you know what...

PROTIP: After you whack a spider, scale its thread to safety.

PROTIP: Iron Doll is big, ugly, and easy. Make mincemeat out of him with the whip and run under his leaps and finish him off after he sheds his armor.

Transylvania Attractions

You gotta love the Castlevania series — it's filled with great graphics, terrific tunes, guts and gore galore, and it inspires some truly awful puns. "Stake" out your local retailer for Belmont's Revenge!

GAME GEAR PRO REVIEW

By Gideon

Sega's enlisted the services of their all-time greatest ninja warrior, Joe Musashi, for a brand new multi-leveled Shinobi adventure! Break out your shurikens, ninja fans, this Game Gear game is fresh!

Who Ya Gonna Call?

When a powerful evil force invades Neo City, the Master of the Oboro school of Shinobi dispatches his best students, the Blue, Green, Pink, and Yellow Shinobis, to investigate. Now they've disappeared. It's up to the oldest, wisest, and strongest pupil, Joe Musashi – the Red Shinobi, to rescue the missing ninjas and rally them to destroy the City of Fear!

Musashi must travel through four parts of Neo City including downtown highrises, a raging river that leads to a huge waterfall, tankers moored at the city harbor, and an abandoned pagoda.

PROTIP: Most of the enemies shoot and attack in a set pattern. Step back to study their patterns before you attack.

PROTIP: Since you have a limited amount of Ninjutsu power, it's best to save it for the end of each level.

An army of evil ninjas and warriors hides behind every corner, rock, and bush! Enemies include mallet-carrying strongmen, archers, flame throwers, flying disc throwers, nunchuk-throwing women warriors, and ninja frogmen. Bosses await PROTIP: You can wipe out some enemies from below. This way you strike it without fear of reprisal!

PROTIP: Once you learn the location of power-ups and extra health units, plan your strategy accordingly. If you have a full health gauge, attack your enemies first, then return to replenish your health units.

Shinobi at the end of each level – a killer helicopter, a hot-to-chop black ninja with dual swords, a giant robot, and a giant hovering mask of death.

PROTIP: You often hear most enemies before you actually see them. Keep alert and stay ready for danger!

Team Shinobi

Upon defeating each level's boss, you free one of the captured Shinobis and add them to your team. Each Shinobi has a weapon, a special ability, and a secret Ninjutsu power – Joe carries a sword and creates earthquakes, Blue Shinobi hurts a crescent blade yo-yo and becomes a human tomado, Yellow Shinobi throws spheres of "Shinobi force" and forms an invincible lightning barrier, Pink Shinobi pitches bombs and flashes a blindingly bright light, and Green Shinobi throws shurikens and projects a powerful, screen-clearing blast.

You start with five lives, four health units per life. An assortment of bonus items appears throughout each level including valuable 1-ups, extra health units, and Ninjutsu power-ups.

PROTIP: Always jump back after touching a bonus item. It might be booby-trapped.

Shrimpy Shinobi?

Shinobi is a fast-paced and challenging game regardless of its size. Gameplay is extremely smooth and the detailed graphics are astounding! The game maxes out the Game Gear's superior range of color values and renders extremely smooth character and background movements. You'll love the nasty thunder storm special effects in the harbor level!

Shinobi's only major drawback is that it's limited to 4 levels and 3 rounds per level. A game this good makes players wish it could go on and on! Shinobi's a sure bet!!

PRO REVIEW

By Rigor Mortis

Once again Atari dips into its bag of arcade hits and pulls out a pint-sized but faithful translation for the Lynx – A.P.B.! A.P.B. stands for “All Points Bulletin,” the radio call sign used to alert the police to an important announcement. Well, here’s an A.P.B. for all Lynx lovers out there!

Calling All Cars

You are Officer Bob, a green-as-grass rookie cop fresh out of the academy assigned to patrol the streets of the big and nasty city. This overhead 360-degree-scrolling game, places you in a squad car armed with a gun and a siren. At the start of each day you get an assignment with a quota of criminals to apprehend.

Criminals drive vehicles and range from fairly innocuous litterbugs and speeding taxi drivers to ruthless assault bikers and bomb-tossing murderers! There are two ways to apprehend the violators: point your crosshairs at the suspect and hit the siren or ram the offender’s car several times. Once you gain experience you receive a sudden A.P.B. calling for the arrest of a major criminal!

PROTIP: Sound the siren only when you have the suspect in your sights. Using the siren too much will scare the baddies straight and make you miss your quota!

Make your quota or face the sergeant's fiery wrath!

To Serve and to Protect

Good A.P.B. police work requires sound judgment as well as quick reflexes. Each day you only get a certain amount of fuel PROTIP: The training course is a free bonus buffet! Load up on as many as you can get within the allotted time!

merits for errors such as running over pedestrians, blowing up your car, and failing to meet your quota. Every 8,000 points erases a Demerit, and the thieves have also dropped money bags, which contain valuable bonus points, Demerit credits, and other goodies. Be careful though, some money bags are booby-trapped!

Every couple of days or so, you receive a budget that enables you to purchase upgrades for your squad car such as faster acceleration, tighter brakes, radar, armor, and a gun.

An Arresting Adventure!

A.P.B. is a top cop cart. It's extremely fast-moving and challenging. The colorful graphics are very detailed and well-rendered. Check out all the little details on the buildings and at the sides of the road. The music and sound effects are also well done featuring amusing digitized voices, which cheer you on and guide you throughout the game!

A.P.B. is a solid, entertaining Lynx hit sure to please video rookies and veterans alike!

PROTIP: Load up on as many donuts as you can. Time left over after making your quota earns you extra bonus points which help to erase demerits!

Make a wrong move and you get Demerits. Ten means you must turn in your badge and return to civilian life. You get De-

Some tricks of the Cyberball trade

On offense, run the following four plays for easy scores:

- 1. Axle Grind: To score quick TD's throw to the left wide receiver.
- 2. Sunday Ride: For quick yardage to cross the 50 yard line throw to the left running back.
- 3. Zig-Zag: For quick yardage or for scoring inside the 10 yard line throw to the left running back.
- 4. Suicide: To score extra points after TD's or for scoring inside the 10 yard line throw to the left running back.

On defense, to stop the computer with negative yardage and lots of safeties run this defensive play:

- 1. Prevent: For the sack, blitz your linebacker around the left side of the offensive line.
 - 2. 3-4 Defense: When the computer is inside of your 10 yard line, blitz your linebacker around either side. Be sure to use your powerbooster to get to the QB.
- To score on kick returns, run between the two men on the right and then run up the sideline. If you do this correctly, you'll score every time.

Kill the bug by jumping on it and continue to the right until you reach a second dancing Letter A. Pass the Letter A and keep going right. The Immortal

Dear ASK THE PROS,
How do you defeat the dragon in The Immortal?

Micah Hood, Ann Arbor, MI

Dear Micah,

To defeat the dragon and finish the game first use the Blink spell six times to avoid the dragon's first six flame bursts. By this time the dragon is tired and it will try to blast you with one final LONG blast. Wait for his second inhale, then use the Flame Protection Scroll.

This dragon will huff...puff...and fry you like a cheeseburger...

If you make it this far, hold the amulet up to the light, BUT DON'T READ THE RUNES. This will frighten the dragon and keep him from attacking you further. This will also summon the Wizard Mordimer. Mordimer will try to fry you with his lightning bolts. Use the Statue Scroll three consecutive times to defend against his lightning bolts. Mordimer will try to fake you out after casting three bolts. The key is to watch the dragon's head. The dragon will always follow the lightning. When Mordimer tries to fool you, the dragon will continue to stare at Mordimer. Next, he'll try three more lightning bolts; use the Statue Scroll three more times.

OK...if you make it this far, Mordimer will exclaim that "you have no more defenses and prepare to die." After he says that, use the Magnetic Hand spell to suck the amulet from his hand to yours. And then watch as the dragon makes a Mordimer shishkebob.

The Simpsons: Bart vs. the Space Mutants

Dear ASK THE PROS,

In The Simpsons: Bart vs. the Space Mutants there's a dinosaur on Stage Four. I've tried jumping over it, but I fall off the ledge. I've also tried shooting it, but that didn't work. Can you help me?

Angel Morales, Jr., Tucson, AZ

Dear Angel,

To get by the dinosaur you must stand on the third platform. From there you can jump onto the dino's head. Jump on his head three times and he will move out of your way. There are two versions of the Simpsons game on the market. In the first version, there will be no noticeable effect when you jump on the dinosaur, but after the third jump he'll go away. In the second version the dino flashes every time you land on him.

Castlevania III

Dear ASK THE PROS,

In Castlevania III, I can't beat Dracula. How do I defeat him in his three forms?

Derek Coleman, Waterford, N.Y.

Dear Derek,

The easiest way to defeat Drac in his three forms is to choose Sypha as your character. By using Sypha and the Great Bolts of Lightning you should have little trouble with Dracula in any of his forms.

Genesis

Final Zone

Dear ASK THE PROS,

I'm having trouble with the last guy of Final Zone. I just can't beat him. I used my Help and Spread Gun (both are heat-seeking missiles), and I still can't beat him. Please help me.

David Thurston, Roxbury MA

Dear David,

When you begin the final battle against the last guy in Final Zone (another NAP), he'll be spinning in front of you. Switch to the Ray Gun as your primary handheld weapon and any other fast firing weapon (such as the Vulcan Cannon) as your secondary weapon. As the other NAP appears in front of you, you have approximately 4 seconds to do as much damage as possible before he stops spinning and attacks. Use the Ray Gun during these four seconds because it does the most damage. When he stops spinning, run away from him and hide behind one of the partition walls. Position yourself in one of the corners of the playing field and wait for the NAP to approach you. When he approaches, blast him as many times as you can with the Ray Gun until he gets almost close enough to punch you, then run away again to another corner. The hit-and-run strategy is the best in this situation. If you're lucky, you'll be able to pin him in a corner and destroy him quickly, otherwise keep using the hit and run strategy to succeed.

GamePro Hits the Airwaves!

That's right, campers...GamePro is now a national TV show! Hosted by J.D. Roth (of Funhouse fame), the GamePro show will air Saturday mornings in almost every major television market (Check the schedule on page 17 of this issue to see what channel in your area will carry the show). GamePro will have the same basic format as the magazine, so all your favorite features will be there: ProReviews, PreViews, S.W.A.T., Ask the Pros, ProNews, and the Cutting Edge. Each episode will be one-half hour long and packed with hot graphics, humor, and exciting coverage of the video game industry. The program will use a special "ultramatte" system which projects video game screens larger than life – so the show's hosts can walk right into the games in order to point out key things that shouldn't be missed. The first show airs Saturday, September 28th. Don't miss it!!!

Galoob Wins Round 1 vs. Nintendo

The Game Genie may materialize in the U.S. after all. A federal judge declared that Lewis Ga-loob Toys can make and sell its Game Genie device, a controversial add-on product which enhances and changes the playing conditions in NES carts. Galoob will have the right to market and sell the Game Genie in the United States as declared by Judge Fern Smith of the San Francisco District Court. Naturally, Nintendo of America senior vice president Howard Lincoln "anticipates" appealing the decision and may ask the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to prohibit the sale of the Game Genie while the appeal is pending. Stay tuned to Game-

Pro (your Game Genie headquarters) for more on this earth-shaking story as it happens!

ASC's $250,000 Treasure Master Contest

American Softworks Corporation has announced the first-ever in-home software event.

This Fall, in conjunction with the release of their latest NES title, Treasure Master, ASC will award $250,000 in "fantasy" prizes to players of the game. In the contest, gamers must complete the first five worlds of the six-level game by March 14, 1992. On that date, at 12:01 pm

Once they enter the Secret Password, gamers will be able to unlock the sixth "Treasure World." When a player achieves an individual winner code which appears on the last screen of the game, they can immediately call Treasure Master operators at 1-900-370-U-WIN to claim their fantasy prize — and its first come, first served. Caller numero uno gets to name his reward! And check out these grand prizes:

EST, March 15, 1992 qualifies for consolation prizes.

THE ZOMBIES ARE COMING!!!!

By I. C. GOOLS, Times Staff Writer

NEW YORK--What appeared to be a harmless meteorite crashing in the Nevada desert has turned out to be Darc Seed, an evil alien creature with horrible powers. By shooting strange rays, Darc Seed has turned the helpless nation into zombie slaves.

Mayor Heminhaw immediately called an emergency press conference where he read the following prepared statement. "I um, er, ah, I am doing everything, ah, er, humanly possible to see to it that ah, this situation er, um, this terrible situation ah, comes to a ah, ahem, a swift and, er, um, um, a swift and um, satisfactory close.

Ground Shaking NES Action

Zombie Nation is a ground shaking action/shooting game for the NES. The object of the game is to wreak total destruction on everything you see (it's a dark and dirty job, but somebody's got to do it). Meanwhile, you need to rescue as many zombie hostages as you can in order to gain enough strength for the ultimate showdown with Darc Seed (he's toast!).

Devastating Graphics and Pounding Sound

Zombie Nation's graphics are so devastatingly realistic you'll almost be tempted not to demolish them (yeah right!). And the relentlessly pounding sound effects will make you feel like you're right in the middle of the action hammering away at skyscrapers, mountains, and everything else that crosses your path. So don't just stand there like a Zombie, get your copy now!

Play a Game With a Lot Of Horsepower.

Grab your six shooter and strap on a pair of high top spurs, because the Lone Ranger rides again. Only this time he's gunnin' for trouble on your NES™. It's the wild west adventure your trigger finger's been itchin' for, with eight shoot 'em up stages that challenge you to rescue the President from the clutches of Butch Cavendish. Blast through ambushes. Search for treasure. And gunfight with varmints. Until you save the Head Honcho. Or get knocked off your high horse!

Different viewpoints help you through this multi-dimensional adventure.

When exploring 3-D railroad cars and mining caves you can get into deep trouble. Luckily you have the option of pulling the Zapper® or Konami Laser Scope™ from your holster to make the bad guys bite the bullet. The 2-D side views are tricky areas. Often you'll meet a stranger who's willing to offer advice. Sometimes it's free. Sometimes it's mucho dinero.

An overview of your dilemma.

The overhead screens are the ornierest of all, and the lead will really fly as you confront the west's wildest gunfighters. You'll also rap with friendly townsfolk who think they have all the answers. Be careful not to let any stray bullets bounce off innocent schoolmarm's. That'll cost you important clues and put you within neck's length of the hangman's noose.

Ya gotta know when to hold 'em, know when to grab 'em.

One of the many challenges confronting you is the high stakes poker hall, where the card you draw is as important as the gun. Here you can make a mint or lose your mask.

When you need more bang for your buck, visit the gunsmith's shop. Just remember, your credits no good here. So grab all the loot you can from defeated train robbers. That way you can afford those expensive silver bullets.

You ask HOW? I'll tell you, Kemosabe!
This in-depth guide screen leads you through 15 towns, four camps and numerous forts.

To reach each location, you'll hop trains and ride your trusty horse Silver. Be sure to consult the map Tonto's drawn for you, or else you'll be chasing misleading smoke signals.
