ON THE COVER

Every 10 years or so, a musical act comes along which sets the world on fire. Back in the 1950s, Elvis Presley taught folks a whole new way to rock. During the 1960s, The Beatles helped us learn that "all we need is love." Throughout the '70s, Bruce Springsteen captured the soul of a runaway American dream, taking us to the darkness on the edge of town. And during this decade, it appears Michael Jackson is the prime mover.

The phenomenal success of Jackson's latest album, "Thriller" — over 15 million LPs sold to date powered by a half-dozen hit singles — is only one example of the artist's genius. Along with the album's supersmash status are other, perhaps even more important, distinctions.

By creating songs that speak to the mind as well as the body, making us think and dance, Jackson has been responsible for some of the imaginative tunes of the last few years. Combining several different musical genres to form his own personal style, he has helped break down barriers in a number of ways, most noticeably on radio playlists. And finally, through the brilliant use of video to illustrate his compositions, Jackson has become visual music movement's trendsetter.

BLACK TIE AFFAIR — After a 10-year absence from the pop music scene the now legendary Everly Brothers Phil (l) and Don have teamed up for a reunion concert which will air on HBO on January 14. The hour-long feature was produced by Delilah Films, the cinematic arm of Delilah Books, a publisher of rock-oriented reading material.

Year-End Update

'83 Brings Big Changes For Independents & Majors Alike

by Fred Goodman

NEW YORK — The past year saw a major realignment of the record industry as a rash of defections from the independent ranks to major distribution closed down the nation's largest independent distributor and left the remaining network carefully examining its future. And while the bulk of major policy decisions was being consigned to an ever-shrinking circle of major corporations, those large companies began squaring off in a battle for market share with acquisitions, pressing and distribution arrangements and merger proposals as the favored tools.

Although 1983 saw several branch distributed labels move into the independent fold, the addition of those labels — Spring, GRP, and Unlimited Gold — hardly counterbalanced the anking of frontline manufacturers Chrysalis, Motown and Arista, and the shuttering of Boardwalk. Aside from these large, hit-oriented manufacturers, the independent web also lost such specialty outfits as 12-Inch leader Sugar Hill, gospel mainstay Nashboro/AVI, New York's Gramavision, and California's alternative rock label and distributor Faulty Records.

At the majors, consolidation and re-direction were embraced as a cure for continued market shrinkage, despite indication from a healthy '82 Christmas season that the downward trend was ready to reverse itself. Warner/Elektra/Atlantic (WEA) greeted the new year with news that their California-based Elektra-Asylum labels would be moved to New York with "back-office functions to be assumed by Atlantic" (Cash Box, January 22). Both the label's new chairman, Bob Krasnow, and new president, Bruce Lundvall, pledged that the label would be re-channeled to reflect "cutting edge" of music instead of relying on the mellow, soft California rock that had built the company. And although the label did not break any of their new signings to a mass market by year's end, December found them with two hit albums that were hardly in the mold of the old Elektra/Asylum formula: Midnight Star's "No Parking On The Dancefloor" and Linda Ronstadt's collection of MOR classics, "What's New."

Independent distributors started their year without Chrysalis Records, which replaced its indie web with a CBS pressing and distribution deal (Cash Box, January 8). The move caught many distributors off-guard. "Chrysalis backed us during individual meetings and in forums," said Jim Schwartz, president of the Maryland-based Schwartz Bros. "I even think that (Chrysalis) management was also surprised by the move." Schwartz's remarks were bolstered by the resignation of label president Sal Licata, a long-time supporter of independent distribution. Yet the loss of Chrysalis — which at that point had the biggest selling independent title with Pat Benatar's "Get Nervous," — failed to rattle the distributors. "We're going to have some cutbacks," said Mike Palkos, president of Northern California's Pacific Records and Tapes (PRT). "But that might have happened anyway. This shouldn't be taken as a result of what Chrysalis did." PRT was out of business by mid-year.

Retailers Say 1983 Marked 'Turnaround' Year

by Jim Bessman

NEW YORK — The 1983 record retail year ended in sharp contrast to the prevailing mood of 1982, which had been marked by both a gloomy economy and its accompanying record business recession, and the swiftly changing home entertainment scene, which left dealers everywhere exploring new product mixes in order to meet and stay ahead of consumer tastes.

That the year 1983 would be a year of "turnaround" in the record industry was presaged by a late Christmas sales surge at the end of 1982 (Cash Box, January 8). Many retailers had earlier expressed apprehensions in their Christmas forecasts due to mixed Thanksgiving sales reports and the perception among many that Christmas had been occurring later and later over the last few years. But those dealers holding faith that records would emerge as last minute gift items were borne out when sales during the week before Christmas increased dramatically, with Men At Work's "Business As Usual" taking honors everywhere as the biggest Christmas album by far.

Several retail spokesmen queried at the time were further enlivened by continued sales strength following the holiday.

Radio: The Year In Review

by Harry Weinger

NEW YORK — It was a heady year for changes in music radio, with Top 40's return to ratings heights creating tumultuous transitions at both the AOR and adult contemporary level, and MTV vying for consumer attention in the rock marketplace. Urban contemporary radio established itself as a mass-appeal format in 1983, causing some programmers to question ratings techniques as well as the seeming lack of black music chart crossover.

The insurgence of "new music" groups such as Eurythmics, Naked Eyes and Stray Cats on the pop charts caught AOR looking backwards, and one of the first industry reactions took place at the consultancy level as Lee Abrams announced his Superstars format would include new music. Abrams was quoted as saying, "New wave is coming into its own, and stations are open to more new stuff." (Cash Box February 5). Radio programmers were mixed in their reactions, with some stating Abrams may have overreacted. The oft-discussed influence of MTV was deemphasized by Larry Berger, program director of WPLJ, a station that was later to leave the AOR fold.

The impact of new music groups and the stunning P.R. job dished out by MTV was undeniable, however, as major syndicators surged ahead with new music shows to fill the void left by cautious traditional AOR programmers (Cash Box, March 5). London Wavelength debuted Rock Over London this year, while Westwood One announced a short-flight experiment with Rock Of The 80s, a "modern music" specialty show produced by Rick Carroll and Associates. DIR Broadcasting, for years successful with a calendar of rock acts presented in a taped live concert setting, began incorporating double-bills of new music groups in their production schedule.

In non-commercial vein, National Public Radio (NPR) began the year on an optimistic note, but the web found itself in serious financial straits by midyear. Frank Mankiewicz, president and chief operating officer, said in January 1983, "We've just tripled our programming, as we are looking to give the corporations more vehicles to underwrite." (Cash Box, January 15). Mankiewicz called the buildup in program inventory a strategy for independence, and hoped to see NPR free from the spectre of the Corporation For Public Broadcasting (CAB) by 1987.

By March, however, NPR was forced to slash its budget by 10 percent, and announced cuts in programming. There were rumors of deficits in the millions of dollars (Cash Box, March 26).

The radio industry gathered in Las Vegas for the annual National Association Broadcasters (NAB) convention, and talk focused on the unveiling of two universal AM stereo receivers ready for manufacture by Sony and Sansul (Cash Box, April 26). The receiver drew a mixed reaction, although general industry support for AM stereo's introduction into the marketplace seemed to endorse the product (Cash Box, May 7).

1983 Congressional Overview: Copyrights A Major Issue

by Earl B. Abrams

WASHINGTON — Songwriters, music publishers and record companies are looking to the coming second session of the 98th U.S. Congress, which begins Jan. 23, to give them a share of what could be a multi-billion dollar bonanza — a change in the copyright law's "first sale" doctrine and the imposition of a royalty fee on the selling price of audio recording equipment and blank tapes.

In both instances, the motion picture industry and other video program producers are included.

Already, the U.S. Senate has passed legislation dealing with the right of copyright owners to have a say in the rental of audio recordings. The music industry sees and many Washington observers agree, that the House of Representatives may well follow suit sometime before summer '84.

On the horizon is the $1.4 billion pot for the music industry that rides on pending proposals dealing with home taping. These bills propose to relieve the public who tape programs at home from copyright liability but impose a royalty fee on the sale of recording equipment and blank tapes.

Although hearings by both subcommittees on the audio and video portions of these home taping bills have been held, Congress has been loath to take action. It is waiting for the U.S. Supreme Court to rule on whether or not home taping for personal use without payment of royalties can be construed as copyright infringement.

But it is the "first sale" revision that has the attention of the aggregate music industry. It provides in essence that retailers

BUSINESS NOTES

Bergamo No Longer MCA Dist. Chief

LOS ANGELES — Al Bergamo, president of MCA Distribution, the distributing arm for MCA Records and MCA Home Video, was asked to step down from his post December 16 according to Larry Solters, vice president, artist development.

Bergamo joined the company five years ago and has overseen MCA's successful entrance into the distribution of videocassettes and other product for the home market.

Last week MCA penned an agreement to let WEA International distribute MCA product everywhere around the world except the U.S., England and Ireland.

At presstime Bergamo was unavailable for comment and no reason by MCA was given for why he was asked to leave his post.

Par To Issue Stayin' Alive At $19.95

LOS ANGELES — Timothy Clott, Paramount Home Video's vice president and general manager recently announced that the video concern will release Stayin' Alive at the suggested retail price of $19.95 for CED discs marking the first time Paramount has ever offered a blockbuster title at such a low price. Slated for February release, Stayin' Alive represents another attempt on behalf of Paramount to bring down costs in the home market as well as supporting RCA's marketing efforts on behalf of its CED players.

Activision, Atari Pact For Home Games

LOS ANGELES — Mountain View, Calif.-based Activision, Inc. and Milpitas, Calif.-based Atari, Inc., have entered into a tentative agreement to provide computer software and services directly into the homes of consumers.

The service involves the use of a special wireless transmitter which will send signals into the consumers' homes to be picked up and translated into computer language by a special home receiver or black box connected to a home computer.

The proposed electronic distribution service will license computer software and games from a variety of suppliers including both Activision and Atari.

Market testing of the service will begin in Northern Calif. after the first of the year to determine the extent of consumer interest in the service and if a viable marketing opportunity exists for the companies.

Eastman Kodak To Enter Video Field

LOS ANGELES — Eastman Kodak Co. stated that it will be announcing on January 4 its new line of video products which could bring the photography magnate into the forefront of the video camera market. Although there has been a lot of speculation with regards to greater specifics, according to an article published in the Wall Street Journal Kodak is seemingly ready to introduce an 8-mm camera and recorder accompanied by a compatible player unit. According to the article, Kodak has spoken with Japanese manufacturers regarding the possibility of marketing their products in the U.S. — namely the Matsushita Corp. would supply Kodak with the 8-mm camera while TDK Corp. would provide the videotape.

CRT To Distrib Juke Royalties Soon

LOS ANGELES — The Copyright and Royalty Tribunal (CRT) said it will distribute shortly some $2,900,000 in jukebox royalties collected in 1982 to the three major performing rights societies — ASCAP, BMI, and SESAC. An additional $1,350 will be given to Italian Book Corp., a music publishing firm representing a repertoire of Italian music and not a member of a performing rights society.

Approximately $300,000 in 1982 jukebox royalties has also been set aside, the tribunal said to settle a pending claim by the New York-based Latin American Music Co., another music publisher without society affiliation. Christie Rodriguez, a spokesperson for CRT said that the Tribunal, which is made up of five commissioners appointed by the President of the United States, will be making a decision on the Latin American case and meeting with the attorneys for the music publisher sometime in '84.

NARM Readies 1984 Convention

NEW YORK — Preparations are now under way for the 1984 National Assn. of Recording Merchandisers (NARM) convention. The gathering this year is tagged "The 1st Annual Music & Video Carnival of Entertainment." It is scheduled for March 23-27 at the Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood, Fla.

In a letter to NARM's associate membership, which is made up of suppliers, Roy Imber, president of the Record World/TSS stores and the convention chairman, said that the renewed excitement in the music industry had necessitated a "radical" change in priorities for NARM '84, namely, a focus on music and people. "In our effort to be better businessmen and more efficient managers, we cannot let the sounds of music be lost to the hum of computers," said Imber, adding that manufacturer presentations at the event will involve music and be followed by a creative marketing program centering on various customer segments including retailers, rack jobbers, one stops and independent distributors.

To enable participation from more people, Imber noted the incorporation of a reduced fee schedule for regular members to attract "grass roots" level attendance, such as store buyers and managers, or small dealers and one stops, who might be attending their first NARM this year and could become "your most important new contact."

For additional information on registration for the NARM Convention, the organization can be contacted at 1008-F Astoria Blvd, Cherry Hill, N.J. 08003, phone (609) 424-7404. Reservations close on Feb. 20, 1984.

BMI Licenses Nashville Network

NEW YORK — Broadcast Music, Inc. (BMI) has signed a licensing agreement with The Nashville Network. An advertiser-supported cable television network, the Network airs primarily country oriented programs.

In commenting upon the agreement, Edward M. Cramer, president of BMI, said "It is particularly appropriate that the number one licensing organization of country music should join together with the first country music oriented cable network to bring to millions of American viewers the kind of music that is appreciated and enjoyed by so many people throughout the United States. We at BMI hope that our relationship with The Nashville Network will continue to grow through the years just as country music has grown and prospered."

The terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

NEW FACES TO WATCH

The Raybeats

In today's pop music world of sharply dressed, synthesizer backed vocalists, an all-instrumental combo like The Raybeats seems an anachronism harking back to the sunburnt surf guitar days of the Ventures and Surfaris. But the four-year-old New York City band has proven so successful with its fresh blend of such seminal early '60s rock 'n' roll sounds that it has actually helped enable these forerunning bands to return as concert and recording entities in their own right. And with their second album, "It's Only A Movie!" now out on the Shanachie label, the group is ready to carry its modern instrumental approach to the next level of commercial awareness.

The Raybeats had previously released a self-produced EP entitled "Roping Wild Bears," and a critically praised first album, "Guitar Beat," which was released on the JEM domestic label, PVC Records, after its original English version became an import hit. The album was produced by Martin Rushent, immediately prior to his groundbreaking achievement with Human League. "We went over to England and were knocked out that he'd take us," recalls the Raybeats softspoken guitarist, keyboardist, and saxophonist Pat Irwin. "He was very high-priced but he did it for nothing because he liked us. I knew him through his production of the Buzzcocks, Generation X, and the Stranglers. He had a great sound, and we knew if we made a record it would have to sound great."

While Irwin looks back at the Rushent project as "not a bad album" he acknowledges that it came at a time when the band was still young and not fully developed as instrumental songwriters. "Writing instrumentals is tough because you need strong melodies with a good beat," he explains. "You have to be able to hum it, like you can hum 'Wipe Out.' Instead of having a convoluted mass of several melodies and different rhythm patterns. It's got to be straight to the point, because if you're writing for musicians only, that's as far as it goes. Herbie Hancock's 'Rockit' is a great example — you could say it's stupid, but in reality it's simple and good and contemporary."

The core of the Raybeats, Irwin, guitarist Jody Harris, and drummer Don Christensen, came up to New York out of the Midwest. Irwin, who hails from Iowa, fondly remembers growing up when radio was "a lot different than now, when four of the Top 10 were instrumentals." The Raybeats emerged after the demise of two of the most important bands of the so called "no wave" scene in New York: The Contortions, which was led by James Chance and included Christensen and Harris, and 8 Eyed Spy, which was led by Lydia Lunch and included Irwin. The late bass guitarist George Scott had played with the Contortions before joining 8 Eyed Spy, and when that band dissolved, sparked the formation of The Raybeats, which now has no permanent bass player.

Exile

One of country music's freshest new groups to emerge within the year was also a hit pop band in the late 70s. Exile went to the top of the pop charts with "Kiss You All Over" in 1978 after being together over 15 years, and within five years have become a hit country group.

Originally formed in 1963 as a high school rock 'n' roll band, in Richmond, Kentucky, the only remaining group member is J.P. Pennington who has left the group several times but returned to be joined by Marlon Hargis in 1973, Steve Goetzman, six years ago, Sonny Lemalre five years ago and most recently Les Taylor in 1979.

"It originally started as a rhythm and blues group," said keyboardist Marlon Hargis. "When I joined it had developed into a rock 'n' roll band, I suppose because it was the thing to do at the time, even though we all grew up with country music, it wasn't the thing to do to be in a country band. Basically we all started playing country music, I know I did when I started 20 years ago, as did J.P. and Les. I guess you could say we've gone full circle and are now back where we started."

After hitting the top of the charts in 1978 with "Kiss You All Over," the group went on to have another Top 40 hit, however the group felt all their success was in the European market, and not in the United States. Within two years of their first hit single the group decided some changes needed to be made, so Exile went into a club and in Lexington, KY, to decide what direction to go.

In 1980, the same time the group decided to make changes, several groups were having hits with songs they had penned, including Alabama with "Take Me Down" and Janie Fricke with "It Ain't Easy." "We felt we had good material and songs and yet something was wrong," stated Hargis. "At that time Mike Chapman who is a rock producer was producing our Warner/Curb albums. Our music was going in the country direction, but we felt we were still being produced in the European pop market. We felt we needed a change in producers and record labels, and Mike and the label agreed."

The group worked in the club on new songs while also tightening up as a band and by 1982, the group felt they were ready to go into the studio, so they went looking for a producer. "Our manager knew Buddy Kollen and mentioned to him that we needed a producer and Buddy was also looking for a new group to produce," recalled Hargis.

Exile also signed with a new label, Epic Records, in early 1983 and immediately began working on their first album for the label. The self-titled LP includes 10 tunes written by members of the group. Their first single "High Cost Of Leaving" became a Top 40 hit on the Cash Box Country charts and currently their second tune "Woke Up In Love" is climbing up the charts. "The album now sounds like our concerts before they sounded like studio work," stated Hargis.

1983 Congressional Overview: Copyrights Are Major Issues

may not rent prerecorded audio records or tapes or video cassettes or discs without the expressed permission of the copyright owners — both those who hold the original underlying registration and those licensed. Under present provisions, once a retailer has bought program material (and paid a royalty included in the purchase price), he may sell, rent, lease or give it away.

The audio rental field, a small but apparently burgeoning market in the United States, could if allowed to grow unchecked, cost the music industry not only lost sales but, according to Stanley Gortikov, president of the Recording Industry Assn. of America, sow the seeds of a destructive impact. He and others noted that in Japan, for example, the practice of renting albums overnight for home taping is widespread, with reportedly about 1,700 such establishments. The Japanese Diet late in November enacted a rental amendment to its copyright law that deals with the problem along the lines of the U.S. proposals.

Adherents of changes in the law favoring more copyright-holder control over the audio and video rental business gained powerful allies late in the year when Reagan administration officials notified congressional leaders that they supported the changes. This support came from the Department of Justice, the Cabinet Council on Commerce and Trade and the National Endowment for the Arts. The administration position favoring the proposed bills was articulated early in December before a House copyright subcommittee by Gerald J. Mossinghoff, assistant secretary of commerce and commissioner of patents and trademarks.

Although the industry and its Washington counsel expect early action on the rental legislation, particularly that dealing with audio, they see slower movement on the other side of the legislative coin: that dealing with home taping of both audio and video program material. One of the principal reasons for the slower pace on this issue is that Congress is awaiting a U.S. Supreme Court decision on the subject. This litigation, dealing with the copyright liability of public TV viewers using video cassette recorders (VCRs) to record programs from off the air without payment of royalties has been argued twice before the high court — virtually unprecedented in the court's history. The first argument was in January 1983; the second last October.

This so-called Betamax case began in 1976 when Universal Studios and Disney Productions sued Sony and other VCR manufacturers for contributing to copyright infringement. A federal judge ruled against the Hollywood studios, stating that home taping is a fair use of the broadcasts. A U.S. appeals court, however, reversed that decision and held that home taping without copyright payment is a violation of the copyright law. A decision is expected from the Supreme Court sometime next year, possibly before the summer recess in July.

In all the hearings and arguments pro and con on both the rental bills and the home taping legislative proposals, principal objections have come from retailers and manufacturers, namely through Charles D. Ferris, Washington attorney and former FCC chairman; Jack Wayman, senior vice president, Consumer Electronics Group, Electronic Industries Assn., and Frank Barnako, president, Video Software Dealers Assn.

Meanwhile still pending action by the White House are two appointments to the under-strengthened Copyright Royalty Tribunal. CRT has been below its normal five-member level since last spring when Commissioner Mary Lou Burg, one of the tribunal's original members, died of a stroke. Earlier this fall, President Reagan moved Katherine D. Ortega, ex-California banker, from her less-than-a-year's incumbency on the tribunal to the more exalted job of Treasurer of the United States.

From time to time there is talk of reducing the CRT membership from five commissioners to three. But as of the moment nothing is brewing along those lines.

CRT's current membership consists of Thomas C. Brennan, a native of New Jersey and former chief counsel of the Senate subcommittee on patents, trademarks and copyright; Douglas E. Coulter, a native of New Hampshire and a Democratic party worker, and Edward W. Ray, a former Los Angeles and Nashville music company executive and a Republican worker. Brennan, the present CRT chairman, and Coulter are original appointees, named when the tribunal was established in 1977. Ray was appointed by President Reagan in 1982 to succeed original appointee Clarence James, who resigned. Ray was confirmed for a full seven-year term early in 1983.

Most Retailers Agree 1983 Marked 'Turnaround' Year

Among these was Ralph King, senior vice president of marketing for Durham, N.C.'s Record Bar chain, which had shown a per-store increase averaging 10 percent during the Christmas week. Reporting Sunday-after-Christmas sales of $212,000, which more than doubled the previous year's $100,000, King noted that sales reports at the chain for the following week were holding strong. "What makes this so important is that it puts us in a non-pressure situation for the remainder of the year, unlike the last couple of years where Christmas didn't meet all of our budget expectations," said King. "Now we're smoking and can do more business on pre-recorded music instead of relying on accessories and high-priced items like last year."

That more business was there to be done became evident throughout the year. In April, dealers were lauding both strong new product and the return of the consumer, even in areas hard hit by snowstorms and unseasonably cold spring weather (Cash Box, April 30). Even though Washington, D.C. was besieged by below-freezing weather and heavy precipitation, Howard Appelbaum, vice president of the area's Kemp Mill Records chain, found business to be "absolutely booming" thanks to a "turnaround" in black product sales and the fact that "people are psychologically feeling better about things" and bringing that feeling into the marketplace.

Just a few weeks later, Mother's Day sales reports showed the upwards sales trend continuing to spiral (Cash Box, May 21), this despite the fact that Mother's Day was not universally regarded as the strongest of a gift-giving trio of dates also including Father's Day and Graduation Day. Thus, retailers like Record World/TSS president Roy Imber attributed the 14 percent sales increase at his Long Island-based chain not so much to the holiday as to the "better business in general" being registered at his chain as well as so many others across the country. Similarly, Lew Garrett, purchasing director for the N. Canton, Ohio-based Camelot Music chain, found little Mother's Day effect on his chain's 20 percent sales increase, just an ample supply of hot titles by such artists as Michael Jackson, Bryan Adams, and David Bowie, as well as the hugely successful Flashdance soundtrack.

By the eve of the third quarter, retailers were observing a resurgence of interest in recorded music, fueled by such factors as strong hit product, exposure of new music via TV and radio, a slack off in video games sales, the increasing availability of compact discs, and a general upturn in the economy (Cash Box, July 9). And while few were willing to go out on a limb and declare that the music industry was on the verge of a full-fledged turnaround, practically all felt that the recent pickup in business went far beyond the mega hit strength of a few titles. While Kemp Mill's Appelbaum joined practically everyone in marveling at Michael Jackson's "Thriller," he also noted that lesser hits were showing greater strength than before.

"'Thriller' is the biggest record ever for us, double the biggest one before," stated Appelbaum. "But even though the gap between that and our #2 record is big, when you look at the Top 20 for us, even #20 sells X amount plus 50 percent more from the #20 last year."

"The current picture is definitely more than a one-record turnaround," agreed Norman Hunter, buyer at the Record Bar. "For example, Men At Work's 'Cargo' dropped two spaces this week for us, but not because it's slowing down, but because other records are speeding up."

After a preview of label third-quarter release schedules, Hunter was able to predict as many as 15 "legitimate happening records" to last through the rest of the year, making Record Bar's weekly Top 10 a "hotly contested race." Other retailers, including Tower Records president Russ Solomon, were equally happy about reduced price product and its beneficial effect on consumers and consumption. "$6.98 and $5.98 catalog have been tremendously successful," said Solomon, adding that from his vantage point, "People are responding to a variety of items, and business is getting better all over."

Despite the view by many dealers that July 4 is an outdoors holiday and one where many people are on vacation, some nonetheless reported sales increases of as high as 25 percent, sparked primarily by the then just-released Police album "Synchronicity." (Cash Box, July 16).

Indies, Majors Face '83 Changes

Independent distributors got an emotional and financial boost later in the month, when Dave Grusin and Lany Rosen's GRP Records opted for indie distribution at the conclusion of their deal with Arista Records (Cash Box, Jan. 22). Initially shopping for a distribution deal similar to the one they had enjoyed with Arista, Rosen said he was convinced to go the independent route when he attended the National Assn. of Recording Merchandisers (NARM) Independent Distributors meeting in Florida. "We certainly know how to make records," said Rosen, "and we feel we have the ability to try and sell them. We're out of a situation with Arista where the label had more clout, but we're going to make it up in enthusiasm."

The question of Chrysalis's future leadership was settled in March, when the British-based company tapped Jack Craigo as their new president (Cash Box, March 26). As former division vice president of RCA Records and senior vice president and general manager of Columbia, he was a logical choice to integrate the label into the CBS marketing and distribution systems.

Craigo's former label, RCA grabbed the spotlight early in April with the announcement that they had acquired close to a 50 percent interest in Arista Records (Cash Box, April 9). The purchase, reviewed by the Justice Department under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Act, cleared all anti-trust hurdles within two months, although details of the transaction between RCA and Arista's German parent company, Bertelsmann's Ariola Records Group, were never publicly disclosed.

With the announcement of the acquisition of Arista, that label's largest distributor, Pickwick, closed all six of its distribution centers for what was termed "a complete physical inventory." Sources at the company later reported that Arista and Motown titles accounted for 85 percent of Pickwick's stock (Cash Box, April 16). At the same time, the shuttered PRT was replaced by an expanded San Francisco branch office of California Record Distributors Inc. (CRDI). "The closing of Pacific Records & Tapes means we have become the only truly independent record distributor covering the entire west coast," quickly captured the hearts of a legion of U.S. admirers, sending her Columbia debut album to platinum "Faster Than The Speed Of Night." Her Jim Steinman-produced single, "Total Eclipse Of The Heart," is also nearing platinum after spending four weeks at the top of the charts and attracting the undivided attention of both Pop and Adult Contemporary formats. After "Total Eclipse," the future looks bright indeed.

JULIO IGLESIAS

After seducing most of the civilized world with his romantic melodies and Latin good looks, Julio Iglesias has finally added America to his list of conquests. His recent cross-country tour was S.R.O. (Swooning Room Only) and his first American release, "Julio," has gone gold: quite an achievement for an album of foreign language love songs. And beware, Julio is about to become fluent in his sixth language: English.

Question: Can an Ant make it as a sex symbol? Listen to Adam Ant's just-released album, "Strip," for the provocative answer. Here's a hint: Adam's last album, "Friend Or Foe," was his first U.S. gold—which proves he has a legion of loyal followers in the colonies as well as his homeland of England.

FASTWAY

NENA

Also making their moves on America are England's Fastway and Germany's Nena. Thanks to relentless touring, Fastway's debut album—with sales of over 300,000 and still climbing—has traveled all the way into the hearts of America. And Nena is currently wooing U.S. listeners with "99 Luftballons"—her fast-rising debut single.

PAUL YOUNG

Other new faces to watch out for include Paul Young and WHAM! U.K.—both have already achieved #1 success in England and are making a play for similar status here. Australia's latest new face is Midnight Oil, making their American debut with "10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1." Count on them to be the next 'down under' band to head straight for the top.

WHAM! U.K.

Naturally, bands like Men At Work and Loverboy—who've had phenomenal success since their debut albums—have continued their multi-platinum success stories.

And coming soon with strong first quarter releases are three big English bands following up on their biggest albums yet: The Clash, Psychedelic Furs and Judas Priest.

Add to the mix a new album of hot rockers from Britain's Shakin' Stevens, and you can be sure they'll all be affairs to remember.

POINTS WEST

MEET JOHN DOE — Although he's one of the X-men, there's no mistaking John Doe for a Marvel Comics character. For one thing, he resembles actor Warren Beatty much more than a Stan Lee-inspired brawny mutant. Anyway, Points West had the opportunity to speak with Doe recently, and it seems like the next year is starting out pretty successfully for him and his cohorts. The singer-bassist was prepping for the road, getting ready to work a New Year's Eve show down in Long Beach, Calif. with Los Lobos and The Motels. Asked if the shows have changed much since the old days when the combo played in dank basement clubs as opposed to today's arena venues he replied, "Basically it's the same — we just get out there and play. There aren't too many gimmicks or slide show qualities to it. Our material now has a broader range, instead of just getting out there and killing people for a half-hour. Sometimes you have to give the audience a rest or they burn out quick." As far as Doe's feelings about the band's latest album, "More Fun In The New World," he explained it's deliberately a lot less polished and more raw than previous endeavors. "We wanted to make this record more basic than 'Under The Big Black Sun.' So we recorded it faster, didn't do as many overdubs, made the songs simpler and the arrangements tighter and got it out." When he's not rocking out with his regular group, John and wife Exene Cervenka along with The Blasters' Alvin brothers enjoy themselves performing as an acoustic group known as The Knitters. "We get together as often as we can. When we're in New York, we'll try to play Folk City. It's just something we did one night just sitting around the living room. I think people need a little bit of a break from 'loud, fast rules.' The point has been made that you can play loud and fast, and it's not as much of a departure as it was four or five years ago." A lot of things have changed over that time period, especially the tenor of the L.A. club scene. "I wish there was a place where hard-core bands could play and not get closed down constantly," bemoaned Doe, who counts Big Boys, The Minutemen, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Blood On The Saddle, Dream Syndicate, The Joneses and Tex & The Horseheads among his current favorite local acts. By the way, fans of Doe & co. will want to pick up a brand new tome entitled Beyond and Back, edited by famed Frisco photog F. Stop Fitzgerald. The book features a text penned by a number of California shutterbugs including Debbie Leavitt, Ann Summa, Craig Dietz and Gary Leonard among others. Beyond and Back is published by the Bay Area's Last Gasp crew. Beyond and Back is published by the Bay Area's Last Gasp crew.

SHORT CUTS — Todd Rundgren finally appeared at The Palace last weekend, after postponing a couple of solo gigs due to a busted arm in November. Showing excerpts regaled the packed crowd with songs from Utopia's next LP (due in January on the band's own label, distributed by Jem) as well as chestnuts from his past such as "I Saw The Light" and "A Dream Lives On Forever." After one more album due to Bearsville, T.R. will be scouting for labels as a solo artist. While in town, Rundgren also stopped in at Tower Records' video annex where he chatted with fans and signed copies of his music vid works . . . Odd Couple: Chris Blackwell's Island Records has secured the soundtrack rights to Mel Brooks' new dud, To Be Or Not To Be . . . After an extended engagement, Rolling Stone Keith Richard and model/actress Patti Hansen tied the knot in Mexico last week. According to initial reports, the whole event was so secret not even best man Mick Jagger knew about the ceremony until a day before it went down . . . As many folks expected, due to the overwhelming response to the 14-minute minipic "Thriller" video, Michael Jackson's album of the same name has vaulted back into the #1 spot on Cash Box's Top 200 Albums Chart this week . . . Rick Springfield held a concert last week at The Roxy for the Crippled Children's Society . . . Geoffrey Holder, costume designer and director of the original 1975 Broadway company of The Wiz is in L.A. to help prep the 1983 cast for a Dec. 29 opening at the Shubert Theater in Century City. Stephanie Mills will recreate her role of Dorothy for the run. While in town, Holder is also shopping a movie script called "Voodoo" to various producers . . . Without being too maudlin, Points West takes this opportunity to wish every reader a happy holiday season and a peaceful 1984. Keep in touch.

AMPEX GRAND MASTER® 456

Success in the professional recording business comes from using the best—the best talent, the best music, and the best tape.

That's why more of today's top recording studios have the confidence to choose Ampex 2" tape over all other professional studio mastering tapes. Combined.

Confidence that comes from consistency.

Proven consistency. Proven by testing every reel of Ampex Grand Master® 456 end-to-end and edge-to-edge, to make certain you get virtually no tape-induced level variations from reel-to-reel, or case-to-case. And we even include a strip chart in every box of 2" 456 to prove it.

With Ampex Studio Mastering Tape you also get consistency of delivery. Because we stock our tape inventory in the field, we're always there when you need us.

If the ultimate success in a studio mastering tape is measured by more hit records from more top recording stars, then Ampex professional studio mastering tape is the most successful tape in the world.

'Healthy' 1983 Reported For Black Contemporary Music

by Harry Welnger

NEW YORK — It was a healthy 1983 for black music, with as many black artists, including Donna Summer, Lionel Richie and, of course, Michael Jackson, scoring significant crossover success and even national video play on MTV. Up-and-comers Prince and Kashif had respectable chart runs while their influence scattered across the black music roster; it was a year, too, that the urban street rhythms of scratching and rappin' made their way to commercial radio. A cooler sound from Jamaica also made an impact, as reggae and African beats became an ingredient in pop hits and dance-floor churners.

Also of note was the return of top vocal harmony groups, such as Gladys Knight and The Pips and the Manhattans, and the chart longevity of more traditionally-based R&B acts. Z.Z. Hill was represented by two Malaco releases this past year, with a 1982 album, "The Rhythm and The Blues" stayed on the black contemporary album chart throughout 1983. Tyrone Davis made a strong comeback, while Sonny Charles and Anita Baker hit big with releases that contrasted with the urban contemporary groove.

The year began auspiciously as Marvin Gaye, Lionel Richie and Michael Jackson, all Motown acts at one time or another, sat at numbers one, two and three, respectively, on the black contemporary singles chart. Their sound had grown since the Motown heyday, obviously, but the label was la' r to capitalize on the resurgence of interest in the "Sound Of Young America" by capturing the top Nielsen ratings slot with their 25th Anniversary television special. The show reunited many of the old stars, and sparked consumer interest in Motown catalog product.

Jackson's Epic LP "Thriller," released late in 1982, became 1983's largest overall industry seller. It was the tougher sound of "Billie Jean" and "Beat It" that skyrocketed the album, and Jackson hit number one on four major charts — pop singles and albums, and black singles and albums — in March.

At the same time Jackson was beginning his takeover of the charts, Lionel Richie was basking in the fallout from a successful 1982 solo debut. The ex-Commodore received numerous general market industry awards, including Best Pop Male Vocal from the American Music Awards. Richie will be hosting this year's show.

Marvin Gaye completed his comeback with a successful tour that included a week at New York's Radio City Music Hall. The year also saw the reappearance of funk mob leader George Clinton. In the midst of legal hassles with his groups' names, Clinton took a solo recording based on an underground dance craze to the top of the black contemporary music charts, and people danced and "woofed" while radio programmers scratched their heads. "Atomic Dog" was a smash, and brought back a funk fever to a black music market

RCA Declares Dividend

NEW YORK — RCA has declared a quarterly dividend of 22-and-a-half-cents per share on RCA Common Stock, payable February 1, 1984 to holders of record December 19, 1983.

$1 per share on the $4 Cumulative Convertible First Preferred Stock, 91-and-a-half-cents per share on the $3.65 Cumulative Preference Stock, and 53 and one-eighth-cents per share on $2.125 Cumulative Convertible Preference Stock, all for the period from January 1, 1984 to March 31, 1984 and all payable April 2, 1984 to holders of record March 16, 1984.

under the spell of white dance bands from England.

Culture Club, David Bowie and New Yorkers Hall & Oates were to make significant inroads on the dance music scene, but funksters Steve Arrington, the Gap Band and The System found themselves with hot product as winter drew to a close. Prince, following the breakthrough success of "1999" and its title track, was popping up on AOR and Top 40 playlists with "Little Red Corvette." While that track did not have as the same success on black radio as its predecessor, its rock attitude later resulted in the acceptance of a number of acts who borrowed heavily from the form. The chart runs of Shalamar, Earth, Wind & Fire and other acts with screaming guitars pointed to Prince's impact.

While rock-tinged black product began to seep into the marketplace, a smoother sound also emerged, and it was mostly from the production wing of Mighty M. The company had scored big in 1982 with a silky, vocal-accented dance groove applied to hits from Evelyn "Champagne" King and Howard Johnson. The production team, consisting of Kashif, Morrie Brown and Paul Lawrence Jones III, went their separate ways in 1983, and Kashif released a solo LP. He hit number one on the b/c charts as a producer for George Benson's "Inside Love," while his own single, "Lover You Turn Me On," reached the Top 10.

The distinctive sound could be heard on albums from Melba Moore and the debut smash from Lillo Thomas, among others, and was copied copiously on more than a few independent releases.

Ballads returned also, as Champaign, the Whispers, the Chi-lites, the Isley Bros. and Sergio Mendes had chart successes with their softer releases. Still maintaining a hold at the top of the album charts, however, was "Thriller," and there was no sign of letting go.

Independent labels such as Tommy Boy, Profile and Streetwise made their presence felt in the urban centers with significant releases from Run-D.M.C., the Jonzun Crew, Freeez and others. Breakers clubs fell into the mainstream and network television crews were spotted searching for street dancers for their nightly newscasts. The phenomenon was cap-sulized by Herbie Hancock, of all people, whose "Rockit" single exploded on the charts. With a hip-hoppy, percussive groove and scratching by turntable whiz Grandmixer D St., the record sparked commercial interest in the genre throughout the last half of 1983.

Black product, sparked by the pop success of Jackson, Richie and Prince, showed significant retail crossover. Dealers cited a "recent softening of radio and MTV playlists" as well as the popularity of the Motown 25th Anniversary TV special. (Cash Box, June 25).

Third-world rhythms caught the ears of the public in late summer, as the rock/reggae of Eddy Grant's "Electric Avenue" hit number one on the pop charts and a duet between Donna Summer and Musical Youth broke out of her hit LP. Bill Summers' "It's Over," Monyaka's "Go-Deh-Yaka" and the cosmopolitan reggae of Men At Work and the Police were just a few examples of the year's breakthroughs.

Black music video began making inroads in 1983. Clinton's video for "Atomic Dog" was noted for its innovative production work. Videos from Peter Tosh, Nile Rodgers, Musical Youth, Eddy Grant, Michael Jackson, Prince, Donna Summer and Lionel Richie made inroads at MTV. Debuting in the past year were a number of

EAST COASTINGS

F.B.I.'S AUSTRALIAN OPERATION — In an era when labels were unwilling to plunk down any money for tour support, Frontier Booking International's (FBI) Ian Copeland turned shoestring touring into a fine art. Aside from attention grabbing successes with bands like The Police and The Go-Go's, Copeland has been able to send a wide range of acts at varying stages of development out on the road and accomplish the impossible; not lose any money. Now, with labels loosening the reins on their support dollars just a bit, FBI is taking the opportunity to exploit what has been an untouchable yet promising source: Australia. "The cost of getting bands to this country has been the biggest hurdle," Copeland recently told us. "The opportunity presented by Laker Airline's low fares started us off with The Police and that legend needs to be duplicated with the Australian bands. Right now the interest in Australian bands has resulted in many of them getting support from the American labels. And basically, that support pays for their airfare over here. Once they arrive, the tours are self-sustaining." Copeland's present roster of down under outfits includes Split Enz, Hunters & Collectors, Little Heroes, and Midnight Oil. "Australia is now a unique market," Copeland said. "Bands are encouraged to play their own material, and they've got the kind of scene where the support they receive touring Australia and New Zealand encourages them to get themselves together." Aside from the strength of their home market, Copeland sees Australian bands getting a further lift from the interest they're also attracting in the United Kingdom. "Bands that break here tend to break first in Great Britain," he said. "Many of the bands have done that first, certainly Midnight Oil is one of them. People here read publications like New Musical Express and then report on it in this country." As far as selecting bands that he wants to work with, Copeland said he just signs the ones he likes. "You can't fly to Sydney every time you hear about an interesting band," he offered. "It's almost the opposite of the situation with Great Britain. I heard the Midnight Oil record and like it, even though I didn't know a damn thing about them. I have a tendency now to listen to whatever I get from Australia." Specific plans for the bands are still up in the air. "We're still setting up how much we'll do with each band once they get over here," Copeland said. "With a band like Midnight Oil, who will arrive after the New Year, it's so expensive to get them here that once they're over, we'll try and keep them here for as long as possible." Looking over the past year as a whole, Copeland feels '83 brought a lot of changes to the concert scene. "New bands with a buzz are starting at a higher level than they did last year," he observed. "A band like Big Country can pack the lower level houses and their tour this year was grossly underestimated. This was also the ice age for dinosaur acts, and I think everything is set up for that to continue next year. Television as a whole is more receptive to music, with each band having a video. All of the elements are set for growth.

THIS 'N THAT — Rhino Records is currently soliciting tapes from pop-oriented girl groups for a modern compilation LP. Tapes or inquiries should be directed to Gary Stewart at Rhino, 1201 Olympic Blvd., Santa Monica, CA 90404. Telephone is (213) 450-6323. . . Composer Phillip Glass has embarked on a 10-day tour of India where he will deliver a series of lectures and presentations at several academies and universities. . . NRBQ goes back into the studio this month to begin recording their second LP for Bearsville. Meanwhile, Red Rooser/Rounder Records has just released an NRBQ compilation LP, "Tapdancin' Bats" . . . Premier Talent has signed Headpins for worldwide booking.

A FOND FAREWELL — Aside from marking the end of the year, this issue of Cash Box is also the last to feature the work of staff reporter Harry Welnger, who more than ably covered the radio and black contemporary beats. Harry, who is leaving to pursue other interests, will be sorely missed by us. You can reach him at (212) 222-1963.

WHAT'S IN-STORE

WHITE WRITING — Chrysalis recording artist Billy Idol (l) recently appeared for an autograph party at A&A's Yonge Street in Toronto. He was in town doing radio and TV interviews and to collect a platinum album in recognition for Canadian sales for his first self-titled LP along with a gold album for his current "Rebel Yell."

MAN WITH AN ACTIVE VISION — James H. Levy, chairman and president of the Activision, Inc. entertainment software company in Mountain View, Ca., usually doesn't give the press a peek at forthcoming product which is premiered at the January Consumer Electronics Show in Las Vegas. But he did hold an informal chat with a small press gathering in New York earlier this month, at which some current and new product was demonstrated and his observations on the present and future of the games industry expounded. "The business is turning," declared Levy, "The sense of unpredictability is changing, at least at Activision. We see a turn back to confidence in the industry and sense this in the distribution, retail and manufacturing communities." Levy made clear, however, that he was speaking of the long-term picture. The short-term, he noted, wasn't as rosy. "We expect a very good Christmas at retail, and our rate doubled for the first and second week in November. But our October base was much smaller than we had hoped and we know it won't be a growth year in dollar volume. Where we were 25-30 percent up at the beginning of the year, we expect it to be flat at the end of the year due to the dump of game product in mid-year." But back in his California headquarters a week after the New York conference, Levy said that net sales for the third quarter ending Dec. 31 would be sharply lower than the same quarter a year ago and that Activision would suffer a loss compared to the profit in last year's third quarter. "While our factory shipments have improved slightly since last quarter, we had hoped that the seasonal upturn in Christmas sales at retail would result in a concurrent increase in our shipment of new product that would be significant enough to produce good results for our third quarter." Again, Levy attributed the third quarter decline to the large quantity of discounted older software as well as dealer concern over inventory levels in new video game and home computer software. He added, however, that the company continued to have a strong financial position in cash, working capital and equity. At his New York session, Levy stated that Activision had been the least affected games maker since it had exercised tighter control over distribution and retailing systems and showed a firmer grasp of its customer base. He added that the company was continuing in its philosophy of never being "first nor last," meaning that Activision does not begin producing games for a system until quality work can be put out. Thus, no software will be created immediately for the forthcoming IBM "peanut" home computer; on the other hand, fresh product for the Intellivision units would be introduced, even though that system is "currently working its way through the market." As for the future of the games industry, Levy noted a three- to six-month focus on a "near term transition strategy" at Activision, to be in place by July 1. "Our feeling is that 1984 will be a flat year," he explained, citing the continuing excess of inventory through mid-year or the fourth quarter, as well as "confusion" among computer hardware manufacturers. As for the computer side of his flat games forecast, Levy noted the short supplies and late deliveries of many of the new home computer models, which had been predicted to take up much of the slack of the decline in sales of video game hardware. But although the dip in the video game growth rate would continue through much of 1984, the end of the year should see an upward turn, according to Levy. "After the first quarter the industry will be making the changes it has to make," he said, pointing to his predicted tightening up of major software competition from his current estimated 34 to only three or four, and a corresponding decline in the seven or eight major hardware manufacturers to another three or four. Then in 1985 the industry should take off on another growth period lasting three or four years before the next change in technology. "It's like the history of recorded music in the post World War II period," said Levy. "It went from 78s to 45s to LPs and from mono to stereo, only this is compressed by half." Continuing the analogy, he predicted "two or three-computer households" by the end of the decade, in a price structure comparable to home stereo. "At the end of 1984 we see a market expansion beginning to include two thirds of all American homes by the end of the decade. So we're a long way from saturation in video game and home computer equipment as well as education and entertainment software in this business." Accordingly, Activision has kept on nearly 40 designers, this despite its recent 25 percent workforce reduction. While Levy expected little growth in new product until the industry resumes its own growth, he hinted at "exciting work" due out in the first half of 1984, with an emphasis on a "multiple system" approach in its focus on "high quality strong base machines." Activision currently markets games for the Atari 2600 and 5200 game consoles and its computers, as well as for the ColecoVision and Intellivision models, and will announce games for two more hardware systems as CES. As for forthcoming new titles, Levy said that an educational software development group had been established to define what educational software for home computers for mass consumption means. "We don't even know what the product looks like," he said, adding that so far there weren't enough "good computers with disc drives" to encourage the making of the product. One new game that was on hand at the meeting was "Pitfall II: Lost Caverns," which is being shipped early next year as a sequel to the 3.5 million selling "Pitfall!" Levy said that besides building upon the first "Pitfall!" consumer base, the new version benefits from a "revolutionary" new chip technology allowing for enormous complexity in a video game, such that it becomes "close to a two-hour feature film" and "takes a year to go through all the caverns."

ABBA has been deemed the world's biggest selling pop group; It has been Sweden's number one selling export, outstripping the Volvo car. The mastermind behind the band and its entire career has been its manager, publisher and mentor Stig Anderson.

He has been involved with it from the start. In the late sixties Bjorn came to him and asked him if he would write some lyrics for his duo with Benny. A few years later he created ABBA and guided it from strength to strength.

He has for many years remained a somewhat mystical figure — known as ABBA's non-singing fifth member. He has just published his biography, which sets out to prove that there was a life before ABBA, as indeed there is life after ABBA.

He is the quietly dynamic force behind Polar Music, and its varied tributaries. He has been in the music business for nearly 24 years, covering all sorts of different fields — as a writer, lyricist, publisher, manager, company director and has dabbled successfully on the Swedish Stock Exchange.

Despite press speculation about ABBA's financial dealings, its members surge on with new individual enterprises, still with Anderson at the helm.

He was in London's sedate Connaught Hotel this week for the first night of the new musical "Abacadabra," which is a star studded pantomime set to ABBA's music, with special new lyrics.

Chrissey Iley talked with him about his past, which has often gone unrecognized, and his plans and hopes for the future. He remains charming and with the energy of an optimist.

Cash Box: When did you first start in the music business?

Anderson: I started in 1960, before that I was a teacher, first in elementary school and then I taught chemistry and math. But during this time I was traveling around the country as an artist singing my own songs. I have been writing songs since I was 18. I had some songs that were hits in Scandinavia, and all of a sudden I had a very big hit, so I decided to borrow some money and publish that song myself. And I found myself in the business, and that was the start of Sweden Music AB. (AB stands for Limited Company.) This was the mother company for Polar which was started in 1963. During the 60s I built up Sweden Music AB to a big publishing company. I got all kinds of offers from American, English, German and French publishers who wanted me to translate their songs into Scandinavian. Then I met Bjorn, he was then the leader of a group called The Hootenanny Singers. We launched them back in 1963 and we had lots of hits with them within Scandinavia. At the end of the 60s Bjorn met Benny who was then leader of The Hep Stars and they decided that they should start writing songs together. They came to me because they wanted me to write the lyrics for them. At the same time as being a successful publisher I was the most played lyric writer because I kept buying songs for Scandinavia from abroad and translating them into Swedish. In the late 60s we issued some singles and some albums under the name Bjorn and Benny, then in 1969 they met Frida and Agnetha — they were well known artists in their own right. At that time we were singing still only in Swedish, and the girls were introduced as backing vocalists. We had hits, but only in Scandinavia.

Cash Box: When did you decide to go for an international market?

Stig Anderson ABBA's Action Man

Anderson: It was in 1972; we decided to do some recordings in English because I had already told them earlier that they had the capacity to do something internationally. I listened to the songs and thought that these songs are not only for Sweden. If we wrote in English we could have a world market. We found that it sounded nice when the girls backed them in the studio. The problem came when they returned from the studio one day and it was only possible to hear the girls sing, and I thought how can a group that sounds like two girl singers call itself Bjorn and Benny. So it was only at this point that they became a group, quite by accident. And we started calling them Bjorn, Benny, Agnetha and Frida, but you know that wasn't a very good name because it took half your life to pronounce it. In 1973 still under this name we were invited by Swedish television to write the song for Europe. We didn't win, but that song was called "Ring, Ring," it became a continental hit without any help of any Eurovision, so then we were quite sure that one day we would make it.

And then in 1974 we got another invitation and that was the year we won with "Waterloo" and so we were able to represent Sweden in Brighton, and that was the year I decided to take the first initials of each of their names (Frida's full name is Anni-Frid) and they became ABBA. Brighton was the first time they performed as such. You could say that ABBA was never formed. It just grew in a natural way.

Cash Box: How did you cope with the enormous success of ABBA?

Anderson: Everything started to happen with ABBA, and from success follows money, and the money became so much that we didn't know what to do with it. We couldn't place it back into the music industry and that's why I decided to diversify. We bought lots of shares on the stock market. We became the biggest shareholder in a real estate company, we also became big shareholders in another company called Monark which made bikes and we had business interests in oil.

Cash Box: Why did Frida sell her shares in the company?

Anderson: Frida wanted to have an international base for an international career so she decided to move to England. She is right now in the charts with a song taken from "Abacadabra," the new musical. Frida has got a flat here in London, but she is very often in France because the "Abacadabra" musical has been recorded on an album in France where it is very successful. So she has been doing some television in Paris.

Cash Box: Are there any plans for ABBA to do anything together?

Anderson: What we say is that it would be very nice to do a new album, but it's hard to see now when this will happen because they all are so busy on individual projects. Because Bjorn and Benny have been writing for so long there are some songs left over that did not fit into the musical so I hope they would be released separately.

Cash Box: Are there any plans for them to tour or appear live as ABBA?

Anderson: No, not for the time being. Frida would like to do a world tour and have a new album out with ABBA. In one way they all would like to do it, but as we can see it would be hard to find a time that this would be possible. This musical is very important for Bjorn and Benny, they have been writing for ABBA for 10 years so they would like to do something else for a change. And that's why we are writing this musical. I have listened to parts of it and I can only say being the music publisher that this is the best thing they ever wrote. So it will be hopefully, probably, sensational.

Cash Box: So do you think it is fair to say that as ABBA grew together quite spontaneously, that they are also growing apart in the same sort of way.

Anderson: Yes, that's it, in the same way.

Cash Box: You appear a somewhat mystical figure, an unseen fifth member of ABBA. Do you enjoy this image?

Anderson: If it is a mystical one I suppose I am stuck with it. I have been very deeply involved, of course. I have been the lyric writer for the first seven years, also the manager and the music publisher. As you know Bjorn and Benny are 50 percent owners of the Polar label. I have the other 50 percent, so obviously we are all very involved together.

Cash Box: What are the future plans for the members of ABBA?

Anderson: Frida will do a new solo album which will be recorded in Paris during February and March. Steve Lillywhite will produce it. We plan a new album for Agnetha to be recorded in August, and it will be released in October. And the big thing for us is the new musical which is called "Chess." Bjorn and Benny are working with Tim Rice. They are right now in the studio, they have started recording it. It will be a double album. They will be working on that until mid-June. We will release the double album first, it's not really just a soundtrack to the musical. We are using the same policy as they did with Jesus Christ Superstar where they released an album half a year before the show opened.

We hope that this double album will be released by the end of August and the show will open here in London maybe May 1985. Elaine Paige and Murray Head are already chosen to perform on the album.

Cash Box: Do you have any ambitions left?

Anderson: My problem is that I love to work. I have been working all my life and I just love it. If I should come into a situation where I didn't have any work I would be impossible. That's what people who know me say. I agree now my ambitions are a little less now, because so much has already been achieved. The "Chess" musical is something I look forward to, and Bjorn and Benny do too. This is something new and something new is always fascinating to work with. This is the biggest thing at the moment, but I never promised not to try non music business again because I have developed a certain taste for that too. For the moment I feel very happy to be back 100 percent in music, because that's where my heart is.

Cash Box: Has your relationship with the group changed over the years?

Anderson: Oh yes. We have been friends for so many years, I have known Bjorn for 20 years, and the others for 15. We have really been a family, as far as ABBA is concerned this has always been very helpful as we have always made up our minds together, then it's easy to work because everyone has had something to say. But I've not just been working with ABBA all these years. I still love hearing a song and having that HIT feeling. Nothing makes me so happy, except my family of course.

Cash Box: What family do you have?

Anderson: I have my wife, Gudrun. I have one daughter Marle who is working for Polar Records on promotion. She is 26. I have my elder son Lars, he is 25 and is working in the Polar studio. Anders is only 17, so he is still at school, but he is playing the guitar, the organ, the drums, he has more or less occupied the whole house with them.

Cash Box: Are you going to encourage him to make a record?

Anderson: I have never tried to lead them in any direction, their coming into the music business just happened. They have probably been inspired by all the music they have heard throughout their lives.

Cash Box: How do you spend your normal working day?

Anderson: I wake up at seven, have a long walk with my dog, a German Shepherd. I never have any meetings before 10 in the office, but that does not mean I'm not working. I work a lot at home. I leave the office at five and start working again at home. I have lots of paperwork here and I use the phones. I am in business from the moment I wake up to the moment I start sleeping. It is like that because I love it. I can't help it. I can't go on holiday without a phone.

Cash Box: How would you describe your personal lifestyle?

Anderson: I have a beautiful very big home, on an island in the middle of Stockholm. Outside my windows is an open air park with lots of different animals, deer and cows side by side, so my dog plays with the deer on the other side of the fence. The house has nine very big rooms. I love art so some people say it's an art gallery. I collect Chagalls and Miro, as well as two Swedish painters.

Cash Box: Do you have time for hobbies?

Anderson: I love very difficult crosswords, on the weekends. Reading, I read anything from the telephone book to the Nobel prizewinner. I am probably the only one in the world who can get something out of the telephone directory in a hotel room.

PRIVATE AFFAIR — Following the recent move by Metromedia to go private by buying $1.45 billion of its own stock, majority shareholder and financier Kirk Kerkorian bid to make MGM/UA a private enterprise by buying stock he does not already own for approximately $865 million. The action entails for a shareholder to be compensated by a cash and debenture package where, out of the $26 per share value, one would receive $9 in cash and $16 in I.O.U.s from the entertainment company. Presently, the issue centers around the question of how Kerkorian will get the money to pay for all the shares. It is yet uncertain as to the amount that the financier will put out of his own pocket and the amount solicited by various banking institutions and outside investors. Similar to the Metromedia buyout, Kerkorian's move was sparked by a dissatisfaction with the price of the stock on Wall Street asserting that it had been undervalued. Apparently this action has not and will not have any effect on the studio's daily operation since managerial details had already been preplanned. The deal, which officials expect to be closed within a three month period, still needs to be approved by federal antitrust officials and the Securities Exchange Commission, although everyone is confident of its final approval.

SOLID GOLD BLUE-EYED SOUL — Culture Club recently appeared on "Solid Gold" where it performed the successful "Church of the Poison Mind," "Karma Chameleon" and "Miss Me Blind." Pictured backstage after filming the segment for an upcoming show are (l-r): Marilyn McCoo, the show's host; and Culture Club's Boy George.

NUCLEAR BLASTS DON'T NEED TRANSLATIONS — Soviet officials recently contacted PSO, the company which has the international distribution rights to ABC's nuclear holocaust scenario The Day After, expressing interest in viewing a cassette of the program so as to decide whether to show it on Soviet television. With its airing on European stations receiving favorable response, particularly in Britain where it attracted 15 million viewers, The Day After is currently being previewed by such Bloc countries as Poland, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia for possible future transmission . . . Steve Diener, president of CBS/Fox Video International announced that the company has acquired the overseas home video rights to The Day After with scheduled distribution to video markets in the United Kingdom, Sweden, France, Italy, and Japan by early 1984. In Europe, the movie is expected to be shown theatrically before its videocassette release except for the U.K. which has already aired it on national television.

MEANWHILE . . . BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN — HBO Films completed principal photography near London for Sakharov, starring Jason Robards and Glenda Jackson. Scheduled to debut in 1984, the made-for-pay-television film is the biography of Andrei Sakharov, the dissident Soviet nuclear physicist whose human rights protests and beliefs have made him an exile within his own country, namely in the restricted city of Gorky. Directed by Jack Gold, and produced by Herb Brodtkin and Robert Berger, Sakharov was adapted from the screenplay written by David Rintels . . . Producers Mildred and Edward Lewis recently received 1983 honors at the American Civil Liberties Union annual Bill of Rights dinner. Known for such political works as Seven Days in May and Missing, the producing duo is currently working on an updated version of The Grapes of Wrath entitled The River and starring Sissy Spacek and Mel Gibson.

VIDEOOVERVIEW — The members of The Police never seem to stop being involved in various projects whether together or individually. Sting, pursuing his acting career, will have the lead role in a BBC-produced version of Three Penny Opera while Andy Summers will make his debut in front of the camera as he tackles the starring role in an Irish mystery film, tentatively entitled Goosefoot . . . On the subject of playing roles, David Bowie's "White Light, White Heat" video was taken from Ziggy's 'final' concert in 1973 . . . The new ABC video for "That Was Then But This Is Now," directed by Duncan Gibbins, features a Louma crane, usually used in major motion pictures for trick shots. The clip utilizes model aircrafts and helicopters and it took 27 hours of continuous shooting to complete . . . Gang Of Four, after releasing four LPs, finally filmed a video.

"Is It Love?" was directed by Peter Cornish, known for his work with Duran Duran and Human League, and the script was cowritten by Cornish and the band's central politburo: Andy Gill and Jon King.

BROTHERLY LOVE — After more than 10 years since they stopped playing and recording, the Everly Brothers finally reunited for a special performance at London's Royal Albert Hall and the historical occasion was videotaped by HBO for an hour-long special to air January 14.

STAR STAR — Midnight Star was the first group featured in a new series of in-concert specials aired by the Black Entertainment Television Network focusing on the urban contemporary music scene.

COMEDIC ROYALTY — The King Of Comedy will make its national pay-cable TV debut Sunday, January 8, at 8 p.m. (ET) on the Cinemax system. Pictured above are (l-r): Jerry Lewis and Robert DeNiro, who star in the film about an aspiring comic who intensely pursues his dream to become a television talk show host.

BYRNEING DOWN THE HOUSE — Talking Heads recently completed filming for a concert film to be entitled "Electric Guitars." Directed by Jonathan Demme, former rock critic and alumnus of the Rhode Island School of Design, the rock documentary was shot at Hollywood's Pantages Theatre during a four-night run. Soundviews had the opportunity to catch the first show and was overwhelmed, or disturbed, by the excessive and distracting amount of people onstage which included not only the nine-member band but also 15 stage hands fumbling about trying not to trip over the musicians. The performance was a rivetingly kinetic affair in the best Talking Heads tradition, however, the show was 45 minutes late; rather than the billed "8 o'clock sharp" it was more like nine-ish and the 45 minute interval after only half an hour of playing did not help.

WTTW-TV Airs In Stereo Now

LOS ANGELES — WTTW/Chicago has become the first television station to broadcast its programming in stereo.

Its ability to transmit its signal in stereo is the result of a combined six-year effort between WTTW and Telesonics, Inc.

The signal is received at the viewer's home by means of a set-top converter which connects to home stereo systems. WTTW and Telesonics anticipate that the reception equipment will eventually come built into televisions sets.

Recent tests conducted by the Electronics Industries Association have proven the merits of the new system.

Sony To Sell Vid Players To Public

LOS ANGELES — Sony Corp. which has been selling videodisc players in the industrial marketplace for over two years said it is gearing up to produce a videodisc player for consumer use.

Unlike the RCA model, which uses a stylus to pick up vibrations on the grooved videodisc, Sony's product — like that of North American Philips and Pioneer Corp., uses a non-contact laser beam to reproduce signals from the videodisc onto the consumers' television set.

While videodisc players are noted for producing clearer, more vibrant pictures than videotape players, they have not been as popular among consumers because they lack recording capabilities.

Sony's principal customer for its commercial videodisc recorder has been the Ford Motor Co. which bought over 4,000 for training purposes.

RIAA/VIDEO Wing Membership Restructured

NEW YORK — The Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA) has restructured its RIAA/VIDEO wing in response to the growing importance of music video programming to the RIAA's audio membership. Effective April 1, current and prospective members of RIAA/VIDEO will become associate members of RIAA.

Under the new program, RIAA/VIDEO members will continue to have access to relevant services, including the freight rate and postal rate programs, the data processing committee, engineering committee, video program development workshops and market research activities.

The current RIAA/VIDEO Council will continue as a policy committee to periodically discuss priority projects and programs and review dues schedules.

RIAA/VIDEO associate membership is open to manufacturers and/or licensed marketers of prerecorded videocassette and videodisc programming solely for the family home entertainment market. Information on membership is available from Stephen Traiman, vice president and executive director, RIAA/VIDEO, 888 Seventh Avenue, 9th floor, New York, N.Y. 10106. The telephone number is (212) 765-4330.

CUE & REVIEW REVIEW — Network and syndication program producers have much to be proud of this year. Specialty shows, along with the increase in major advertisers' spot buys, showed a significant leap in quality and execution. While year-end space limitations prevent the inclusion of the C&R review box, its introduction was offered as a challenge to maintain the standards being set from week to week. Now that the satellite systems are 90 percent in place, choices for stations are reaching the outer limits and suppliers can only be encouraged to seek out programming innovations. Here's an optimistic toast to better listening in '84.

SPEND THIS XMAS WITH ROXANNE — Beginning December 14, Q107/Washington,

IT ONLY TOOK A MINUTE — RCA recording group Tavares recently visited with New York radio stations in support of their current album and single, "Words and Music," and met with actress and aerobiciser Jayne Kennedy (c). Pictured at the studios of WBSL (l-r): Pat Prescott, air personality, WBSL; Ralph Tavares; Kennedy; Vaughn Harper, air personality, WBSL; and Tiny Tavares.

D.C. gave away a concert trip for two listeners to England to see the Police live in concert, every day for 12 days until Christmas Day. Each daily winner received round trip airfare, five nights at the Hyatt Carlton Towers and $107 in spending money, in addition to the pair of ducats for the platinum trio's New Year's eve performance at Wembley Arena.

NAMES IN THE NEWS — Carol Miller, recently booted unceremoniously from WPLJ-FM/New York, has returned to New York rock radio on WNEW-FM. She began her stint December 17. Miller was once a jock at the station while commuting to WMMR/Philadelphia prior to her long-term stay at WPLJ . . . New producer of Drake-Chenault's revised/updated History of Rock & Roll, Scott Kenyon, (Cash Box, December 10), has also been named the firm's director of feature productions. . . David Maclolek joins the ABC Radio Networks from the web's TV spot sales division as manager of promotion. He'll be responsible for advertising and promo for the Contemporary and Talkradio networks. . . Major changes at WDIA/Memphis. Ernie Jackson, formerly the station's general sales manager, has been named station general manager. Jackson has also been named vice president of new station owner Bendia, Inc., a subsidiary of Broadcast Enterprises National, Inc. Replacing Jackson as general sales manager is Janet Armstead, upped from local sales manager.

TIME HAS COME TODAY — Set to premiere the first weekend of the new year (Jan. 7-8) is Flashback, a three-hour AOR/CHR feature from the Source net. The new weekly program will highlight events from the 60s and 70s with emphasis on music cuts from that time period. John DeBella of WMMR/Philly is host. Flashback promises to be an innovative blend of news actualities, comedy cuts, rock 'n' roll hits and overall atmosphere. Dan Formento will produce.

UNIVERSAL VOTE — The NAB, in a recent statement to the press, has asked for the support of AM stereo from radio receiver manufacturers: "In order to spur and encourage the introduction of AM stereo technology into the consumer marketplace, the NAB Executive Committee hereby urges consideration by radio manufacturers of the development and marketing of radio receivers, particularly for use in automobiles, capable of receiving all AM stereo radio transmissions." On a related note, the NAB has also expressed its support of a FCC ruling waiver which would allow type acceptance of the Harris AM stereo system.

BIRCH BARK — The latest Birch monthlies are out for selected markets, and the race in New York looks to be shaping up a success for Malrite's WHTZ-FM (see related story). The Top 40 outlet, making a splash with 4.3 in August/September, jumped to an 8.9 in September/October and now sits with a 9.5 in the current report. In at number two was urban WRKS-FM (4.8-6.2), the recent number one in the fall Arbitron. Format competitor WBSL-FM maintained an even keel (4.4-4.1) as they've stayed with similar numbers for the past eight months. WKTU, with their accent on urban, club and crossover hits, suffered a 4.8-3.6 loss. WPLJ continued to drop, 3.5-3.2, after enjoying success with 6-pluses as an AOR. Both remaining rock stations profited from the fall-out, as WNEW-FM (3.1-3.8) and WAPP-FM (4.6-5.2) were up. WNBC dropped, 3.1-2.8, while its sister FM'er, WYNY, dipped 3.4-3.1. Adult contemp competitor WPIX-FM was nearly flat, 2.5-2.4. On the talk front in the Apple, WOR last a half-point, but was still strong behind WRKS-FM, 6.2-5.7. WABC continued its slide, 3.3-2.9, while WMCA was up a tad, 1.8-2.0. Country station WKHK-FM suffered, 2.3-1.7, while format leader WHN was 2.4-2.3 . . . Chicago was led once again by WGN, although the station has been steadily declining (7.9-7.0). WGCI-FM closed in 5.5-6.3, while WBMX-FM also rose 4.9-5.6. Hits station WBBM-FM dipped a bit, 5.8-5.1, and its AM counterpart plateaued 5.6-5.5. WLS was up a full point, 3.5-4.5, and on the FM side inched up 3.9-4.1. WMAQ dropped 5.9-4.7. AOR was soft, as WXRT, after a heady fall season, dropped 5.3-4.0, while WLUP-FM slipped 3.8-3.4. Country AM'er was also down, 5.9-4.7 . . . WJR in Detroit dropped nearly two points, 12.9-11.0, without significant competition. Checking in at number two was WLLZ-FM with an 8.5-8.3, while number three was claimed by ABC affil WRIF-FM, 7.8-7.2. WWJ accrued a positive jump in numbers, 4.8-6.4, as did WWW-FM, 2.9-4.2. WNIC-FM continued its ratings upsurge. After a 4.4-5.7 jump from August to October, the station had a 6.1 for October-November. WHYT-FM, moving away evolving from its "Hot Hits" approach, dipped 4.1-3.6. Jazz was up in the Motor City, as WJZZ-FM upped 1.7-2.3. Inner City's WLBS-FM, experimenting with a "DOR" format, was up slightly, 1.0-1.3 . . . Hits are still hot hot hot in Boston. WHTT-FM nipped WXKS-FM in the Top 40 race. The CBS station leapt 10.0-11.2, and the RKO affil edged upward, 10.9-11.1. Dropping to third was AOR station WBCN as they dipped 10.5-10.1. WBZ hung in, 9.3-9.5. WCOZ-FM, which recently debuted its A/C-for-AOR switch, lost a-half-point, 5.3-4.8. AM sister outlet WHDH dropped also, 5.3-4.7, while CBS news station WEEI was even, 5.2-5.1. Talk radio station WRKO was also even at 3.3. Beautiful music station WJIB regained its respectable numbers of seasons past, 4.5-5.0 . . . In our nation's capitol, WKYS-FM flicked off the competition with a commanding 8.8-9.9 surge. WMAL was up, 8.0-8.6, while rocker WRQX sat with an 8.5-8.4, WAVA-FM was down, 6.6-5.7, while WGAY-FM maintained 6.0-6.2.

Radio: 1983 Year In Review

bitron ratings pointed to numbers gains for a more than a few "hits" station, as WLS-AM/Chicago, KHTR/St. Louis, WGCL/Cleveland and WUSL/Philadelphia posted significant increases. In New York, the urban contemporary battle raged on as WKTU regained the market lead held by talk outlet WOR and format competitor WBSL (Cash Box, April 16).

The increasing popularity of urban-type records as well as the renewed success of hits outlets sparked another debate at the AOR level. Programmers continued to maintain caution, but a few format leaders found success with Michael Jackson's "Beat It," tracks from Prince's "1999" LP, and also found a safe third-world representative in Eddy Grant (Cash Box, May 21). Black music acts which were once AOR staples, such as the Isley Bros., Sly Stone and the smattering of Motown classics were resisted by stations, however, with most program and music directors queried deferring to incompatibility with their current air sound.

Each of the black acts that made their way briefly onto AOR this past year were also heavy MTV videos, and throughout the 12 months stations were increasingly accepting of video. A live television show, Rock 'n' Roll Tonight, debuted with 50 major markets and a top rock radio station providing audio simulcast in each. Stations were also localizing their video efforts by accessing to cable outlets with their own MTV-style programs.

AT NPR, meanwhile, Mankiewicz resigned his post in the face of huge budget deficits.

As reports leaked that NPR was facing huge budget deficits, Frank Mankiewicz resigned his post and Ronald Bornstein, a former executive vice president at CPB, was named interim chief operating officer (Cash Box, April 23). One of the web's most popular programs, Jazz Alive, was cut from the schedule soon after. Personnel layoffs and budget cuts continued throughout the summer.

Network conversion from land-lines to satellite began in earnest in 1983. Region-by-region cancellation of existing telephone lines, in place for more than 50 years for program distribution, rolled out in May. A few affiliates protested as the major networks expected stations to pick up receiver dish costs themselves.

The debate over "who will pay" became heated as Mutual and RKO offered their affiliates satellite dishes at no cost, but while stations disgruntledly searched for the cash to make the technology switch, most agreed the improved signal quality and distribution efficiency overshadowed temporary financial difficulties. Both RKO and Mutual noted that a station could access other network programming, although return provisions were included in their agreement with stations should an affiliate "jump ship," (Cash Box, August 6).

Major AORs became increasingly hit-oriented as the year progressed. An evolution began at some outlets, most significantly WPLJ/New York. The station, which was the number one rock station in the country, slowly became a hits station in reaction to the expected market debut of Malrite's Top 40 station, WHTZ.

New music product were forcing programmer's hands, who was looking for ways to maintain their core while incorporating the hits people were looking for (Cash Box, July 26). Programmers predicted two styles of the format emerging, with a 25-plus demographic seeking a more traditional AOR approach while a younger audience stuck with a hits-oriented rocker.

The Spring Arbs had on paper what the industry speculated all along: Top 40 was up, up, up. KIIS-FM/Los Angeles posted a 6.0, the highest number for a music station in the market since the KHJ "Boss Radio" days, and mellow rocker KNX-FM announced a formal format switch to the CBS-FM hits formula. Urban contemporary was also up slightly in most markets, further solidifying its across-the-board appeal.

A study released by McGavere-Guild pointed to a misconception of black and urban contemporary radio especially among national advertisers. The study showed that 60 percent of the format's listeners were white and that the bulk of the black listening audience had enormous buying power. (Cash Box, August 6). The study was fodder for heated discussions at the NAB Programming Conference held in San Francisco August 28-30.

NAB's conference, which was expected by its coordinators to focus on a specially commissioned study, instead was dominated by the "threat" of MTV (Cash Box, September 10). Les Garland, vice president of programming for the music video outlet, challenged AOR radio to make video a part of their promotional mix and cited the viability of audio simulcast hooks as a positive step towards an inevitable marriage of media.

Conference attendees noted the competitive heat of MTV, with some downplaying its influence. But MTV was the talk of the convention, and a later survey found radio's resistance to music video to be lessening (Cash Box, October 29).

According to a National Association of Broadcasters study, radio profits were on the rise in 1983, striking a positive note for the industry that continued to the end of the year. Selling and buying by major radio owners was active and syndication became a healthy distribution network for national spot buyers as well.

The AOR front looked less healthy, however, as Top 40 continued to surge. The summer Arbs were considered the first official representation of expected gains, as WHTT/Boston exploded to number one in Boston and KIIS-FM overtook KABC in Los Angeles. Hits were up in Chicago and said George Hocutt, president of CRDI. That situation would change shortly — and briefly — as Motown set up their own independent distribution outlet in California.

Independent distribution was a hot topic just a week later. The Annual NARM Convention was in many respects dominated by the indie issue, as Motown disclosed they were dropping Pickwick in favor of soon-to-be-opened MS Distributing branches in Atlanta and Minneapolis, and distributors called for the creation of a war chest to lure new and major distributed labels to the indie web (Cash Box, April 23).

Speculation that the move to MS would spell the end of Pickwick Distribution proved well founded: when MS bowed its offices in Atlanta and Florida, they elected to use sites vacated by Pickwick. Explaining the switch, Motown charged Pickwick with "a breach and termination of its distribution agreement," specifically mentioning the then-recent inventory related closing of Pickwick facilities and the imposition of a new 30-day credit policy that Motown described as "totally unacceptable for retailers." Simultaneously, Motown revealed that they would bow their own distribution facility on the west coast, and would represent other labels in that market.

The $100,000 war chest, tacitly sanctioned by NARM, was to be used to aggressively recruit labels for independent distribution, including those already going through the pipeline of the majors. The proposal, which met with a mixed reaction from already existing independent labels, eventually petered out.

While the earlier departure of Chrysalis had stirred little ire among indies, the RCA/Arista deal did. In a move that was to be repeated later with other labels and distributors, Schwartz Bros. filed a $5 million suit in the Maryland State Circuit Court for Prince George's County charging Arista and RCA with a breach of contract, fraudulent conduct, unfair competition and contractual interference and conspiracy (Cash Box, April 30). The parties eventually settled out of court in a sealed agreement.

The spring also saw changes at MCA Records, where Irving Azoff, chairman of the Los Angeles-based Front Line Management was named president of MCA Records Group and vice president of MCA, Inc. (Cash Box, May 7). It was only a matter of weeks before the label began reflecting a change of identity, plucking Joan Jett from a faltering Boardwalk, and pacting Motown for distribution in July (Cash Box, July 9).

During the brief 10-week period when Motown left Pickwick and joined the MCA system, the indie scene continued to shift in less dramatic but equally barometric ways. During one mid-May week, Spring Records departed PolyGram for the independents, Faulty Records closed its doors, and Enigma Records entered earnest negotiations with several majors for a rights-of-first-refusal deal (Cash Box, May 14).

Although different in style and musical direction, each company saw itself as reacting to what one termed "a domino effect" set off by the recent defections of Chrysalis and Arista from the indie fold. But the reactions were in sharp contrast: the R&B-oriented Spring saw an uncluttered distribution pipeline via the indies, while the hard-core Faulty lamented an inability to get bills paid by distributors. "A couple of distributors went out of business on us like Pickwick, PRT, and DiscTrading," said John Guarnieri, president of Faulty. "Taking that, and the other indie distributors around who are real difficult to collect from, it just got to be ridiculous. If we don't get paid, what are we doing? So we thought rather than sticking it out for another three months with this struggle we've been having — and all that would happen would be that someone else would go out of business and we could have been in a lot worse shape — we didn't want to be in a situation where we'd be owing bands. We felt that right now would be a time when we could take care of everybody."

Conversely, Spring co-owner Bill Spitalisky saw an open field. "We don't want to put down the majors," he said, "but these indies' tongues are hanging out. Plus we get a surge of excitement from having our future in our own hands." Concentrating on 12-inch product was another reason Spitalisky cited for going independent, noting the traditional street sense of the independent distributors. "It's a fast market and the indies work much faster than the majors," he said. "You're competing with kids that are rebels and work out of garages and deliver by hand. And unless you get down to their level, you're going to be a loser in the 12-inch business, and we invented it."

The June convention of the National Assoc. of Independent Record Distributors and Manufacturers (NAIRD) in Chicago drew over 200 representatives, many of them newcomers to the organization (Cash Box, June 11). Several of the larger distributors who had shunned the specialty-oriented organization in the past were on hand, and distributors urged labels to bring proper financing and realistic expectations with them to the marketplace. But the tone was most often conciliatory and open. NAIRD chairman Jerry Richman of the New Jersey-based Richman Bros. Distributing suggested there were greater rewards for both labels and distributors if they could work together. "There are a lot of people and distributors here because things are changing," Richman said. "Distributors are considering smaller labels and are becoming more aggressive. It's not like the old easy days."

Early July proved a time of great change for both the independents and the majors. On July 1, Motown dropped its bid to distribute its own product in California and severed relations with the indies when it announced a U.S. distribution deal with MCA Records (Cash Box, July 9). A week later, Schwartz Bros. repeated their action against Arista by obtaining an injunction against distribution of Motown by MCA in their territory. Texas' Big State and Arizona's Associated soon followed suit.

Among the majors, July saw CBS Records and Sony Corp. form a joint venture, Digital Audio Disc Corp., to manufacture compact discs at the former CBS record pressing plant in Terre Haute, Indiana (Cash Box, July 2). The project gave CBS greater access to precious CD manufacturing time by making CBS a partner of one of the two firms holding the rights on the CD manufacturing process.

The next week, WCI announced that they too wished to form a new venture, this time

ON JAZZ

REVIEW & WRAP-UP — While far from a total washout, 1983 will never lay any claims to being a watershed year for jazz either musically or business-wise. While '82 saw the birth of many promising new projects — Elektra/Musician, Antilles, PolyGram Classics' jazz program, and the complete sponsorship of George Wein's jazz festival by Kool Cigarettes — '83 can make no such claims. And while labels were delighting over the return of mega-platinum product, there was little interest in developing quality catalog and reissue programs. If anything, '83 marked a subtle retreat by many of the outfits who had entered the market with great fanfare in preceeding year. With Elektra in the process of restructuring, Musician was placed in a holding pattern with little opportunity to pursue new recordings or increase its roster. Developments at Antilles were similar, with a fall-off in the number of new titles issued and the label eventually turning towards a more commercial slant in hopes of bolstering sales. Perhaps most upsetting, however, was the wholesale slaughter of the CBS catalog, which saw such mainstays as Lester Young, Miles Davis, Max Roach, Louis Armstrong and many many others victimized by deep cuts in the number of available titles. And while Columbia has pledged to make a lot of the material available via new mixed artist compendiums in '84, the loss of the familiar and historic titles was a heartbreak. Over at RCA, a company with some of the world's broadest jazz catalogs locked away in their vaults, the motto continued to be "let them buy French" as the company once again failed to issue anything from Victor, Vik, Camden or Bluebird. Ironically, the director of RCA/France's large jazz reissue program told Cash Box that the U.S. accounts for a large percentage of his program's total sales, having swallowed some 250,000 French jazz LPs as imports over the last few years. At EMI, label president Rupert Perry reports that the label still has no plans for reactivating the Blue Note catalog. The only bright notes were Fantasy's 90-record Original Jazz Classics (OJC) program, which put a lot of Prestige and Riverside titles back in the racks at a very attractive price, and the decision of Arista/RCA to sell the Savoy catalog to independents. Incidentally, Joe Fields' Muse Records has acquired the jazz portion of the catalog, and reissues are planned for '84. Opting to allow Savoy to remain with independents was a smart move: the inability of EMI, RCA, and CBS to maintain meaningful catalog programs for jazz is a strong case for allowing that product to move through the indie pipeline. If Fantasy can undertake a large, cut-rate catalog program and the branch distributed labels can't, it's time for the majors to consider wholesale licensing of their catalogs to the independents. It doesn't do anybody any good to just have the music languishing in the vaults. Here's hoping '84 is brighter.

NARAS Sends Annual Hall of Fame Nomination Ballot To Voters

LOS ANGELES — The National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences has issued its annual list of nominations to the organization's Hall of Fame.

A ballot with the names of the nominees on it was recently sent out by the Academy to the 96 members making up the Hall of Fame Elections Committee. Their decisions will determine this year's five recordings and artists to be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

The nominations include nine recordings by singers (record labels and years of release are in parentheses). These finalists are "Blue Suede Shoes," Carl Perkins (Sun Records, 1956); "Cry," Johnnie Ray (Okeh, 1951); "Heartbreak Hotel," Elvis Presley (RCA, 1956); "In The Wee Small Hours" (album), Frank Sinatra (Capitol, 1955); "Nature Boy," Nat "King" Cole (Capitol, 1948); "Rudolph The Red-Nosed Reindeer," Gene Autry (Columbia, 1949); "September Song," Walter Huston (Brunswick, 1938); "South Pacific" (album), Mary Martin & Ezio Pinza with Original Broadway Cast (Columbia, 1949); "The Tennessee Waltz," Patti Page (Mercury 1950).

The big band nominations are "After Hours," Erskine Hawkins Orchestra; Avery Parrish, piano soloist (Bluebird 1940); "And The Angels Sing," Benny Goodman & his orchestra; Martha Tilton, vocal; Ziggy Elman, trumpet (Victor 1939); "April In Paris," Count Basie & his Orchestra (Clef 1955); "Artistry In Rhythm," Stan Kenton & his Orchestra (Capitol 1945); "A-Tisket, A-Tasket," Chick Webb & his Orchestra with Ella Fitzgerald (Decca 1938); "Four Brothers," Woody Herman & his Orchestra (Columbia 1948); "I'm Gettin' Sentimental Over You," Tommy Dorsey & his Orchestra (Victor 1936); "Marie," Tommy Dorsey & his Orchestra; vocal by Jack Leonard (RCA Victor, 1937).

Classical Recordings honored are "Bartok: Contrasts For Violin, Clarinet & Piano" (album), Bela Bartok, Joseph Szigeti, Benny Goodman (Columbia, 1940); "Fantasia" - Original Soundtrack (album), Leopold Stokowski conducting Philadelphia Orchestra (Disneyland, 1957); "Mozart: Concerti Nos. 1,2,3,4, For Horn" (album), Dennis Brain; Herbert von Karajan conducting Philharmonia Orchestra (Angel, 1954) and "Villa-Lobos: Bachianas Brasileiras No. 5 - Aria" (single), Bidu Sayao; Hector Villa-Lobos conducting Cello Ensemble (Columbia, 1945).

Vocal groups recordings represented on the list include "Bel Mir Bist Du Schoen," Andrews Sisters (Decca, 1938); "Cool Water," Sons of the Pioneers (Decca, 1941); "Goodnight, Irene," The Weavers & Gordon Jenkins (Decca, 1950) and "If I Didn't Care," The Ink Spots (Decca 1939).

Also nominated by the Elections Committee were two piano solos, Fats Waller playing "Ain't Misbehavin'" (Victor, 1929) and Art Tatum playing "Tea For Two" (Decca, 1939) plus the Charlie Parker Sextet's version of "Ornithology" (Dial, 1946).

In order to qualify for Hall of Fame status, a record must have been released prior to 1958, the year the National Academy of Arts and Sciences established the Grammy Awards.

This year's Hall of Fame winners will be announced early next year, said the Academy.

PolyGram Installs CD Listening Sites

LOS ANGELES — PolyGram Records has begun installing compact disc listening environments in certain record stores around the country it was revealed recently by Emil N. Petrone, PolyGram's vice president for compact disc marketing.

The PolyGram CD environments contain a CD player with earphones, a display of some 200 titles currently available from PolyGram in the format, and an audio-visual presentation explaining the evolution of the compact disc and its superior sound qualities.

'83 Brings Label Changes

with the other rights holder on CD manufacturing, Phillips. This one was about more than CDs though, as the proposed deal would see WCI gain the controlling interest in Phillips' PolyGram Records. The merger would create two companies: a Warner/PolyGram company for territories outside the U.S., of which WCI would own 50 percent; and a U.S. company of which WCI would own 80 percent.

Displeased by the notion of a combined WCI/PolyGram operation, CBS later announced that they would entertain proposed mergers with any other major record company, even though they felt the WCI/PolyGram proposal was anti-competitive (Cash Box, Oct. 22). And although CBS was speaking out against the deal in the U.S. and Europe, they were dealt a defeat in the first round when the proposed merger was approved in Great Britain (Cash Box, Nov. 26).

Back home on the independent front, a group of indie labels organized a third independents organization during the New Music Seminar in New York (Cash Box, July 30). With a charter membership of 30 record companies, the Independent Label Coalition (ILC) was born. Tom Silverman, president of Tommy Boy Records and an organizer of ILC, said the new group would amass and dispense information on manufacturing, marketing, and piracy, and lobby for changes in how the trade charts are researched. However, he stressed that while it is an organization of labels, the ILC

By the time the fourth quarter rolled around, merchants were gearing up for an anticipated best Christmas in recent years, thanks to being armed with timely major new releases to continue the sales upturn (Cash Box, Nov. 12). As one dealer put it, "Ordinarily, we approach Christmas from a position of weakness, but this year we're in a position of strength." And this year's Thanksgiving, unlike last year's, indicated that the Christmas holiday season this time around would be especially bright due to hot product and the renewed consumer optimism (Cash Box, Dec. 10).

Throughout the year, dealers responded to the challenge of a retail product mix which included both varying recorded product configurations and new home entertainment software. On the prerecorded side, merchants praised the proliferation of extended play (EP) titles due to their typical $5.98 list price, which was seen as providing an excellent value at a lower-than-LP consumer cost (Cash Box, Feb. 19). They felt that the configuration was the perfect vehicle for breaking new acts or tiding established ones over between albums.

Similarly, the 12-inch disc format grew in strength, with dealers crediting the effect of cable music programming in stimulating new demand for the product in their areas as well as club and air play of the discs in some cases (Cash Box, June 4).

The cassette configuration, which had begun to approach parity with album sales in mid-1982, slightly surpassed album sales in some instances, and dealers were discerning varying sales patterns for albums and tapes by product genre, consumer demographic, and age of the release (Cash Box, April 16). In April, Larry Rosenbaum, president of the Chicago Flip Side chain, found that there are "a lot of people that don't buy records anymore" and stated his belief that an increase of cassette players in the home were helping bring his tape/disc sales to 50-50 on some titles. At Kemp Mill, Appelbaum reported that while his disc/cassette ratio was generally 65-35, cassettes made up as much as 70 percent of classical sales, largely due to the "tons" of budget-priced classical cassette product.

But along with the continued boom in cassette sales, remained the problem of how to package them. Just prior to the National Assn. of Recording Merchandisers (NARM) Convention, dealers decried the need for a standardized cassette package that would allow flexibility, security, and visibility (Cash Box, April 16). However, as NARM itself had learned earlier in the year from its own wholesaler and retailer survey (Cash Box, Jan. 22), opinions as to just what sort of standardization was necessary differed with individual store needs.

By the end of the year, a cassette packaging standard still seemed nowhere in sight, at least as far as the Camelot chain could foresee. The 149-store chain announced that it would begin manufacturing its own 4" x 12" package for introduction in the stores by the middle of 1984 (Cash Box, Dec. 17). The company's vice president of retail operations Larry Mundorf said that Camelot had scoped out industry trends regarding packaging and had decided that the new 4" x 12" container, which would be a plastic version of the current paper package, was recyclable, secure, and would avoid the need to refix-

Growth of cassette sales and the move by some retailers into sale of other home entertainment software caused the modifications in fixturing that Camelot was hoping to keep to a minimum (Cash Box, March 12). The key word here was "flexibility," with many retailers citing the need for merchandising units that could perform more than one function. Such a unit was the slat wall, or grooved wallboard which found favor due to the many uses of the 4' x 8 1/2' slats, which are grooved for inserting peghooks or various shelves and hangers and can be used singly or combined. "It's a real catch-all piece," said George Hill, general manager of operations at Denver's DanJay Music and Video chain headquarters. "You can use wood, metal, plexiglass or glass shelves or wire hangers for albums, 45s, tapes, video and accessories. The shelves snap in and out so easily that you can change your displays within minutes without refixturing."

Camelot's Mundorf said that his stores' record racks were being modified to handle other product. "We're widening the racks to allow handling of albums and videodiscs and cassette packagings." He added that the new racks could also contain compact disc product, and said that video and electronics product such as hardware, computer software, videodiscs and accessories were being taken into consideration in planning merchandising needs for new stores.

This new interest by record retailers in video and electronics product was reflected in the name change of Camelot's parent company from Stark Record & Tape Service, Inc. to Camelot Enterprises, (Cash Box, March 26). "Although music continues to be the lifeblood of our company, our new name is indicative of our commitment to broaden our inventory mix and to become a more diversified entity," said Camelot's executive president Jim Bonk. "During the past two years, the video phenomenon has played an increasingly large role in the growth of our business. We're marketing video game software and hardware throughout the chain, and the increased penetration of home video recorders and videodisc players opened new doors for us in several key markets. We look for that trend to continue, and with the recent home computer boom, we're equally excited about the opportunities that lie in the marketing of computer software."

When Camelot held its 14th convention at Ohio's Salt Fork State Park in July, company president Paul David announced a warehouse expansion which would double square footage from 60,000 to 129,000 (Cash Box, Aug. 6). He said that the expansion was necessary to enable handling of the new product lines already planned for as well as "any other which pop up."

But Camelot wasn't alone in looking at new product lines. "We've been very successful handling computer products through in-store departments," said Joyce Castagnola, director of advertising and marketing for the San Francisco-based Record Factory chain, where the product was introduced in November, 1982 (Cash Box, May 14). Other dealers were also considering computer wares, including the Hastings chain, headquartered in Amarillo Texas, where retail vice president Bruce Shrotz designed a new fixture for computer centers in four test stores (Cash Box,

INTERNATIONAL DATELINE

Argentina

BUENOS AIRES — The visit of teenage group Menudo from Puerto Rico caused quite a stir, as a crowd of young fans of the group gathered around their hotel and at all the places where it appeared. Its recent LP, released by CBS, is selling quite well and the two dates at the Luna Park were complete sellouts. The group's local representative, Marcelo Rey, has conducted a steady promo campaign for the past two years, with the group's own radio program on a local musical station and 15 minutes of exposure every week on television.

Leonardo Favio, once the biggest singles seller in this market, has returned to activity after several years of absence. Interdisc has released an album recorded by him and last week he appeared on stage at the Metropolitan Theatre. His hit "Fulste Mia Un Verano" in the late sixties was followed by a heavy selling album and turned him into a very popular artist, after he started a successful career as an actor and director.

Pity Ynurriagarro, manager of Leon Gleco, has returned from a trip to the United States and several other countries, where he negotiated the release rights of the albums by Gleco (released in Argentina by Sicomercana) and arranged an international tour for the artist. Ynurriagarro is also one of the heads of RPM Records, an indie label distributed through Interdisc; there has been quite a lot of speculation about the future affiliation of Gleco in this market when his current contract ends.

Local blues group Memphis has been inked by the booking agency headed by Ricardo Kleinman, who is also a successful record producer and has been a deejay for many years, and is credited with the introduction of modern rock music in Argentina. The decision of Kleinman, it was explained to Cash Box, regarding the opening of his booking agency, is that the royalties paid by record labels are not enough to pay for the expenses involved in promoting the artist; thus, a sort of integration is needed to be able to expand adequately. Kleinman is currently producing records by artists like Sandra Mihanovich, who are not represented by his company.

Speaking about crossovers, Microfon topper Mario Kaminsky has started participating in a radio program aired by one of the local stations. It has been suggested that he always had disc jockey and emcee ambitions and took advantage of the opportunity. In the meantime, he continues to release records: one of them is "Vamos A La Playa," a strong selling compilation album tagged after the hit song recorded in Spanish by Donald, a local pop singer.

Victor Heredia is unveiling his latest album on stage: the title is "Aquellos Soldaditos De Plomo" and has been released by PolyGram.

Year end festivities started this year with a cocktail party hosted by CBS at the Dos Chinos hotel with strong attendance by artists, record retailers and the trade press. CBS topper Roberto Lopez told Cash Box that the sales campaign figures have exceeded expectations during the first month of action, and that prospects were good regarding consumer response to the national promotional campaigns.

Musidisc Europe artist Alejandro Lerner unveiled his second album on stage at the Gran Rex theatre, the biggest in town, with five dates. The initial schedule considered only three stints, but the box office reaction moved Impresario Oscar Lopez, who is also producer of the record, to add the two more. The album is being released through Distribuidora Belgrano and is expected to sell in excess of 100,000 units, a mark already surpassed by his first effort.

Jairo is also back in town and has been appearing at the Opera theatre and promoting his latest album, which is being distributed by RCA. Although sales of his previous LPs have been good, the big smash for this chanter and composer is still to come in this market, in spite of all the efforts by the label.

Another social event has been the annual dinner organized by ADRA, the Booking Agencies Association, which is celebrating its 20th Anniversary. This time the event has received some backing from labels, marking maybe the start of a sort of cooperation between managers and diskerles; the show was emceed by Hernan Rapela, a well-known TV announcer, and chanter Jose Angel Trelles devoted a song to the recently abolished censorship of songs in TV channels.

EMI is taking stakes in the contemporary tango market with chanter Guillermo Galve, who has recorded a new LP with the backing of Jose Colangelo and his group. Although the tango repertoire has been usually limited to a handful of buyers, the recent promotion of artists on TV by Bergara Leumann and other producers has opened new possibilities to the genre. The same company is releasing a compilation album with songs recorded by Atahualpa Yupanqui in 1956.

TOKYO — After a serious and heated debate at the Diet (the parliament-house of Japan) which lasted over six months, a law to control so-called rental record practices was enacted on Nov. 28, 1983 and it will be effective on June 2, 1984 following the preparation period of six months from the passage of the Diet. According to this law, both copyright owners and neighboring-right-owners (artists, record manufacturers) will be awarded a permission right for the rental record-business under certain conditions. Accordingly, if anyone rents records as a business without the permission of the copyright owners, he will be punished as an offender of the copyright-law with a maximum of three years imprisonment or fine of 300,000 yen ($1,300).

TDK Co., Ltd., audio and video tape manufacturers president Hiroshi Ohtoshi claimed splendid sales for the fiscal year of 1983 (Dec. 1, 1982 to Nov. 30, 1983). According to the company, its total sales for this period were 305,000,000,000 yen ($1,330,000,000), up 16 percent over the prior fiscal year with a net profit of 51,000,000,000 yen ($222,000,000), even with the previous year.

Two record companies in Japan under the umbrella of PolyGram, Polydor of Japan and London Records, have disclosed a merger plan to take effect after Jan. 1, 1984. However, the entities of the two companies will be left as they are, according to the announcement, and enter into new cooperation. For this purpose, Polydor will take over some of the business-functions of London including planning, publicity and sales coordination.

Nintendo Corp. To Offer Home Game System In U.S.

LOS ANGELES — Nintendo Corp., a major manufacturer of commercial video games in the U.S. and Japan ("Donkey Kong," "Mario Bros.," "Popeye") plans to introduce a home video game console called Family Entertainment System in the spring.

According to Nintendo's vice president of marketing, Ron Judy, the system's graphics and playability are "far superior" to that of the Atari, Mattel and Coleco home game players already out on the market. Judy added that Nintendo's Family Entertainment System has a 75 percent market share of these types of products in Japan where it also competes with the above mentioned companies.

ASCAP Seminar Set For D.C.

NEW YORK — The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) will hold its first Pop Songwriting Seminar on January 31, 1984, at the Patrick Henry Building 601 D Street, N.W., in Washington, D.C. The workshop, which will be free of charge to all participants, is set to include Oscar/Grammy winner and ASCAP president Hal David as host. A panel of industry luminaries will feature Roberta Flack, Ralph MacDonald, Phil Ramone and Sadao Watanabe.

Major, Indie Labels Face '83 Changes

would also focus on relationships with distributors. "We're interested in the future of independent labels," said Silverman, "and we can't be strong without strong distribution." He also suggested that the ILC could act as an arbitrator between labels and distributors embroiled in financial squabbles.

On the product front, independent labels continued to address markets they felt were being overlooked or underexploited by the majors. One surprising development was the growth of independent labels catering to the heavy metal market (Cash Box, Aug. 27). Among the indies trying to fill the gap were New Jersey's Megaforce Records, Los Angeles's Metal Blade, and San Francisco's Shrapnel Records. "We started seeing that indies just weren't doing the metal scene," explained Megaforce owner Johnny Z.

The beginning of autumn was marked by the second annual NARM Independent Distributors Conference in West Palm Beach, and although the ghosts of independents past were felt in speeches and panel discussions, the presence of several new outfits brought an air of reconstruction to what some projected would be the swan song of the network (Cash Box, Oct. 15). Noted were the departures of Arista, Motown and Chrysalis — labels that had all pledged fidelity to the independent system at the previous year's distributors conference — as well as the passing of the national Pickwick distribution system. But also noted was the birth of the Minneapolis-based Navarre Distribution Corporation, the return of former distributor Henry Stone to the Miami market, the decision of Spring to opt for indie waters, and the finalization of an independent network by GRP Records.

"We're in a period of dramatic changes," said John Salstone of M.S. Distributing during his welcoming remarks. "And we must adjust. But although things have changed, some basic facts remain: what made us dynamic is still the same. We are a distribution force that knows its market and is motivated by people."

For the independents, the final switch of the year was the departure of 12-inch leader Sugar Hill Records for a pressing and distribution deal with MCA (Cash Box, Dec. 17). In the camp of major labels, the wagons were drawn tighter around the fire the next week, when MCA in turn announced that they had pacted a worldwide distribution agreement — excluding North America and Great Britain — with WEA International (Cash Box, Dec. 24).

Retailers Report 'Turnaround'

March 12). "The fixture is made to look like a desk with a computer and monitor on top," said Shortz. "Above it we have a bookcase arrangement of software. It's a real soft-sell type of approach that says to the customer, 'This could be your home!'"

As record merchants entered the computer business, videodiscs made a comeback, but videogames took a dive in many instances. Citing greater saturation of the hardware in the marketplace, a wider selection of titles and the potential for more sales rather than rentals as key factors for renewed enthusiasm, many dealers geared up for more active involvement in videodisc software merchandising (Cash Box, Feb. 12). Meanwhile, a glut of fresh videogame product as well as manufacturers' complex returns and stock balancing plans began to force dealers to be more selective in their ordering patterns (Cash Box, March 5). The glut also opened up a new cutout videogame business as old titles lost their appeal (Cash Box, June 11).

By the end of the year, dealers of videogames reported that while the product was still selling, it was no longer taking as big a chunk out of prerecorded music sales as it had only a year ago (Cash Box, Dec. 24).

When NARM held its convention in Miami Beach in April, how to stock, price, merchandise, advertise and display the new home entertainment product was discussed in depth (Cash Box, April 23). Nevertheless, improving the marketing and merchandising of records and prerecorded tapes was the predominant desire expressed by many retailers at the convention, which was dubbed "NARM Markets Music."

Various members of the retail community spoke at the convention about their involvement in and merchandising of the existing audio technologies, then noted that the potential represented by the compact disc was the most exciting prospect for the industry to date. While CDs were still working their way into the market by year's end, Laury's Records of Chicago was able to report the sale of its 10,000th disc during the week of Nov. 7. "The advantages of the compact disc are so readily apparent that almost everyone who hears the system becomes an instant convert," said Jon Shulman, the chain's general manager. "We expect our next 10,000 discs to sell even faster."

NARM was also active during the year in various merchandising campaigns, including successful retail tie-ins surrounding the Grammy Awards and the Country Music Assn. Awards. In September, NARM launched its ambitious 13-week, three-phase "Give The Gift Of Music" test campaign in Los Angeles which ended in December (Cash Box, July 23). The campaign was designed to exploit a gift-giving market which NARM research showed could increase sales by millions of dollars annually. The campaign relied heavily on TV advertising as well as extensive radio and print ads.

The only real negatives of the year for retailers came with the year-end Atlantic hike and a May wholesale price increase. The May cost change had WEA boosting suggested retail list price product of $5.98 and over by approximately 1.5 percent such that $5.98 list product rose to $3.68 base price, $6.98 list to $4.30 base, $8.98 to $5.53, $9.98 to $6.13, $10.98 to $6.74, $11.98 to $7.36, and $12.98 to $7.97. In addition, an expanded retailer volume discount structure allowed dealers a 7 percent discount if annual volume was $325,000 to $999,000 and 8 percent if over $1,000,000.

Capitol Records and Motown Records quickly followed suit. Capitol's wholesale price went up 1 percent, with a breakdown by base, consolidated, and bulk pricings showing $1.99 list price singles at $1.34 base, $1.28 consolidated, and $1.22 bulk; $5.98 list price LPs at $3.44 base, $3.30 consolidated and $3.23 bulk; $8.98 at $5.36 base, $5.14 consolidated, and $5.03 bulk; and $9.98s at $5.96 base, $5.72 consolidated, and $5.60 bulk. As for Motown, the double-album midprice line went up $1 to $9.98.

Dealer reaction to these moves was predictably bitter. "The consumer pays," said Bill Berry, president of New Orleans' three Warehouse Records & Tapes stores. "This constant raising and dropping of prices is not going anywhere or creating stability in the market, and consumers don't know what's going on."

At Great American Music Co. in Minneapolis, chain head Ira Hellicher also noted that the result of the higher costs to retailers and wholesalers would be felt on the consumer level, and complained that the increases came down "just when this industry is on a roll."

urban contemporary-styled music video programs, and in New York, WABC-TV's "Hot Tracks" program boldly went on-air against an NBC network music video show and promptly scored well in the ratings. There, New Yorkers were able to view artists who suddenly had a viable outlet for their product, including Hancock, New Edition, the Manhattans, Phillip Bailey and Rick James. The Motown artist made a point of an alleged "closed-door" policy at MTV throughout the year, but his fire may have been soothed by the success of his "Coldblooded" LP, which unseated "Thriller" from the top of the B/C album chart.

Later in the year, the Black Music Association convened in New York for the first time. Charges of racism in radio and MTV were addressed, with a panel mainly populated by well-known artists the liveliest of the meet. The international market for black music, specifically the area of west Africa, was another main topic discussed by industry personnel.

Lionel Richie completed an awesomely successful year with a sold out tour and a single, "All Night Long," that was a multi-format fall soundtrack. The subsequent LP, "Can't Slow Down," reached number one on the B/C chart in less than a month.

Radio: '83 Review

all across the CBS-FM and Doubleday chains. WHTZ/New York, after only six weeks on the air, posted a 2.0. (Cash Box, October 15).

Losing in the AOR-Hits battle were a number of rock strongholds. In 1983, WABX/Detroit, WLPX/Milwaukee, WAVA/Washington as well as WPLJ/New York were among the many stations that made the switch to Top 40. WCOZ/Boston, too, drastically changed format, altered to an adult contemporary mix after a year-long ratings slide.

The grassroots popularity of heavy metal caused even more confusion at AOR stations who began careful dayparting of certain tracks. The chart success of Quiet Riot, Judas Priest and Def Leppard left programmers wringing their hands, but a growing number featured heavy metal specialty programs, and 1984 will see the debut of a syndicated program produced specifically for the gap left by the popularity swings of so many evolving music genres.

THE RHYTHM SECTION

LEST WE FORGET — There was plenty of music to recommend this year, and dare we say the black contemporary scene had its greater share of epiphanies than the more commercially viable genres? A "Top 10," while a neat, streamlined overview, may unfairly omit a few highlights we'll share here. The sustaining splendor of Michael Jackson's "Thriller" had a certain, uh, impact on '83, although it was officially released late in '82. A wonderful album, even if it hadn't sold mega-platinum. The picture wouldn't be complete without "The Girl Is Mine" and "Billie Jean" B-side, previously in these pages. The track "Can't Get Outta The Rain," is a nearly-wordless killer . . . Another '82 release that spread its word throughout the past year was Prince's "1999." "Party over, oooops! Out of time!" Wake up (One word to the Minnesota home-boy: Sixty minutes live won't hold up, no matter how much "All The Critics Love U In New York") . . . Kurtis Blow's "Party Time?" was an irresistible jam, and the addition of the doubling punctuation said almost as much as Prince's hit . . . Might have been easy to dismiss Shalamar as a savvy borrower from Prince (once again) and British fashion, but "Dead Giveaway" blew away any reservations . . . "Zapp III," especially the track "Heartbreaker," put a wiggle in the wobble. Clinton and clan may be on the outs with the Troutmans, but this was baaaaaad . . . Side one of the S.O.S. Band's "On The Rise" LP is a classic all its own . . . The sweetness of "Yours Forever" by Atlantic Starr returned to the turntable more than once in '83, as did the uplifting "If You Ever Knew" 12" by Al McCall . . . The Temptations' "Back To Basics" wasn't the first return-to-Motown disc for the label, but it had a spark of renewed energy that made one believe 10 years hadn't passed since the last playable Temps effort. Reports that Dennis Edwards skipped out after the LP's release were a disappointment . . . Welcome back Gladys Knight, the O'Jays, the Manhattans . . . It was lifted from white funkies Liquid Liquid, but "White Lines" from Grandmaster Flash blasted through the meek toots offered by urban contemporary pretenders. It was hoped listeners and breakers alike got the message . . . The Clark Sisters snuck a euphoric gospel-dance track on the radio this past summer, bringing much light and joy with their surprise hit . . . Reggae sinuously made a dent on the charts via Musical Youth (and later Donna Summer), Monyaka and the spunky Bill Summers. As always, there were plenty of core reggae releases to warm the soul, and The Melodians' "Irie Feeling" was a gem . . . Herbie Hancock started out the decade reclaiming his jazz rep, then created a soundtrack for black contemporary with "Rockit." The funk was undeniable, and the accompanying video broke some ground . . . A bow to Lionel Richie, who put it all together on one single. A clip from the New York City story file, to illustrate: We followed a box up a busy downtown street, watching the unit bounce to "All Night Long" on the shoulders of a tough-looking kid with a tassel in his hair, as passersby of every urban description moved with the sound in the opposite direction. First a group of laughing street kids locked into serious step, followed by orange-haired cuties whose eyes widened as they barely suppressed finger snaps and a collective hip-hop, while a serious-faced arty type pulled his hands out of his pocket to clap and sing along. An older group making a slow trek up the block stopped, and started to make a face at the "noise" intrusion, then joined in with nodding heads when the familiar track reached the conscious part of the listening faculties. Way to go, Lionel.

ALL THE WAY LIVE — A number of recording artists made a strong case for going to concerts in '83. Three top male solo acts on the B/C front each spent a week at New York's Radio City Music Hall: Marvin Gaye, in sets that gained strength as the nights continued, showed courage and a sense of humor; the aforementioned Richie surprised many cynics who were anticipating a Vegas-type show and instead witnessed one of the year's top pop events; and Stevie Wonder, who toured without promised product yet played with transcendent spirit and dedication. A bit indulgent on the audience participation end, but the shows, in addition to Wonder's complete involvement in a May 7 Saturday Night Live telecast, bode well for future Morris musings . . . There were more Motown acts on the road, each of whom had product as well as national exposure on the label's TV special. Smokey Robinson threw an outdoor crowd into a frenzy this past summer, while Junior Walker, barely aware his "Blow The House Down" LP had been released, took to the club circuit with a commanding bite . . . King Sunny Ade drew packed (literally) houses wherever he played with his two-dozen-or-so African Beats. Negotiating a few steps while sandwiched between new-wavers and second generation Nigerians was a task not easily rendered and a fond memory not easily discarded . . . Also from another country came Jamaica's Itals. While press coverage for King Sunny brought the stars out in the big cities, professed third world music lovers in the celebrity category did themselves cultural damage by missing the reggae group's first U.S. appearances. Perhaps Mick and Keith would have distracted attention from the proceedings, but next time, Glimmer Twins, move l-and-l forward . . . Miles Davis opened for V.S.O.P. at this year's Kool Jazz Fest, reminding folks who came first. No need, of course, as the tribute that wrapped up the BMA convention showcase . . . Special mention, too, to Sonny Rollins, who shook us up with a collapse on stage in mid-performance and then returned in one of the reported "shows of the year." He played an equally enlightening club set later in '83 . . . The future looks bright for young Stacy Lattisaw, who displayed a growing maturity and a strong stage presence during the year . . . And one of the best live shows had to be the continuing presence (in the cities anyway) of the street breakers. Freeze!

Industry Surges Ahead Into New Areas Despite Recession

by Anita M. Wilson

NASHVILLE — The past year proved very similar to 1982 for the country music industry in many ways. While the industry began coming out of a recession, there was a wide mixture of both good and bad news with most of the labels' country divisions faring better than their pop/rock counterparts. Record labels were the hardest hit by the recession, yet several continued to venture into new media; the Nashville Network made its debut and artists drew thousands of fans to their concerts. Non-profit organizations such as the Country Music Assn. (CMA) also prospered and the CMA celebrated its 25th anniversary, while the Wheeling Jamboree celebrated its 50th anniversary.

One of the biggest stories in the country music field in 1983 was the closing of two record labels and the growing number of problems facing the independent record labels. The year started off on a bad note for the Elektra/Asylum country division when the Nashville branch was merged with the Warner Bros. office. The move was part of a nationwide process throughout the Warner Communications, Inc. (WCI) records operations, with Nashville's merger seen as a way to streamline WCI's country interests.

Major record labels were not the only ones hard hit during the year. Independent record labels had their difficulties with Monument Records hit the hardest. In April, Monument Records filed voluntary petitions to reorganize under Chapter XI of the federal bankruptcy laws. Less than six months earlier the record company had reached a distribution deal with CBS Records. While the label has maintained an open door policy, founder and chairman of the board Fred Foster is still looking for investors to help get his company going again. While independent record labels fought competitively with major labels for a place on the charts, most Indies lacked sufficient promotion and advertising budgets to compete with the major labels in penetrating various markets. Only two independent artists, Vern Gosdin and Atlanta (see attached story) reached the Top 10 on the Cash Box Country Singles charts, and their successes should provide other smaller labels with hope for the coming year.

A number of major record companies expanded into new areas of marketing and promotion. Most labels entered the video field and RCA led the way in the mini-LP pathway (see attached story) and PolyGram reissued a 16-album $5.98 series of oldies. Using product from Mercury, Smash, MGM and Polydor, PolyGram began releasing product in May as interest in oldies increased, and were aided in their efforts by the Country Music Foundation's Audio Restoration Lab. Material on the albums include product from Hank Williams, Sr., Hank Williams, Jr., Tompall & The Glaser Bros., Dave Dudley and The Statler Bros.

Nonprofit organizations and their respective awards shows rang a very positive note throughout the year. The Academy of Country Music held its 18th Annual "Hat" Awards on May 9 in Buena Park, Calif. Alabama and Willie Nelson swept the awards with "Entertainer of the Year" and "Top Vocal Group" going to the former while Nelson picked up awards for "Single of the Year" and "Album of the Year." The Nashville Songwriters Assn. (NSA) held its annual Songwriters Awards show in March with Rhonda "Kye" Fleming and Dennis Morgan receiving top honors.

The CMA observed its 25th anniversary this year with celebrations taking place in March in Washington, D.C. and again in October during the Grand Ole Opry Birthday Celebration. President and Mrs. Reagan hosted a reception at the White House for artists and industry executives the night before the taping of the 25th Anniversary show in Washington. In October, the CMA held its 17th Annual Awards Show hosted by Willie Nelson and Anne Murray.

March also brought about the debut of the Nashville Network (TNN), the only television outlet dedicated primarily to country music. The cable program offers a variety of shows including a 90-minute talk show, Nashville Now, a country dance show entitled Dancin' U.S.A., a comedy show, I-40 Paradise; Off Stage, an interview show and Nashville After Hours which showcases Music City nightlife and performances.

Increased merchandising demands became a hot issue during the year. Several venues started asking for increased percentages grossed on merchandise. Numerous groups have been plagued by this including Alabama and The Oak Ridge Boys, since both groups play in concert halls where this problem is more prevalent. As a result, managers are now making this a major issue when booking their artists into a hall.

Artists have also made headlines by starting their own in-house booking agencies, as was done years ago by such country luminaries as Tammy Wynette and Conway Twitty. With the liquidation of the Dick Blake Talent Agency this year, Ronnie Milsap, Barbara Mandrell and The Statler Brothers have all formed their own in-house booking companies with plans to expand and take on other artists.

by Anita M. Wilson

NASHVILLE — Over the past year country record labels have resorted to several new marketing tools to develop their artists and increase their exposure. The labels have ventured into the video and mini-LP markets in an effort to find a new medium through which to market their artists.

One of the major new musical outlets to hit the country music field last year was the video movement. Over the past year importance of country music video has increased, mainly as a result of the important stature it has assumed in the pop/rock industry. While country music does not have an outlet on the scale of Music Television (MTV), it has still increased an enormous amount, with a positive outlook expected for the coming year.

With a single song video averaging between $25,000-$60,000, labels are beginning to incorporate a video clause into artists contracts. Both CBS and RCA have been known as innovators in the country video field. RCA uses them as a marketing device for their sales force and also to increase consumer awareness. CBS' "Pancho And Lefty" video was probably the best known country video and was shown before selected movies, while other top videos were produced by all the major labels for such artists as Alabama, Rosanne Cash, Ronnie Milsap, The Oak Ridge Boys, Ricky Skaggs and Sylvia.

Most of the labels admit that while it seems the video business will continue to expand they are proceeding very cautiously because there aren't enough established country video outlets. Since MTV refuses to air country music videos, record labels have been searching for outlets that will make it cost effective for them to produce videos on their artists.

On the other side of the picture are the outlets who are complaining there isn't enough material to air. Country Music Television (CMT) is one of the outlets running into this problem. The channel is programming country videos 24 hours a day and have had to resort to taping segments of artists performances locally. The Nashville Network which everyone hoped would serve as a major medium to service videos will not begin airing them until January 1984 when a half-hour show is scheduled to air. Other outlets such as the Atlanta-based Video Music Channel use quality country vids in their regular rotations. Ted Turner's "America's Music Track" went on the air in October and runs every Sunday night from 8-9 pm. Several other firms recently started and are expected to make country music videos a viable market including Jim Owens "This Week In Country Music," New York's "Rock World," Network affiliate stations such as Terre Haute's "Video Plus" and Nashville's "Miscellanea."

Another major marketing medium emerged in the country music field this year to help in the development of new and developing artists was the mini-LP. RCA Records dominated the market in this new venture with three releases in January, all carrying the $6.98 list price. Included in the list of three were Louise Mandrell's "Closeup," Leon Everette's self-titled album and a second duet album from Garry Stewart and Dean Dillon, "Those Were The Days." Mini-LPs offer six tunes on a 12-inch platter.

Veterans Dominate '83 RIAA Awards

by Susan Keel

NASHVILLE — Throughout 1983 a few country artists garnered their first #1 records and while sales were generally good this year, few records were certified platinum with the majority of records certified declared gold. Two smaller record labels also reached new heights by breaking the major labels' traditional hold on the country singles charts.

The number of certifications by the Recording Industry Assn. of America (RIAA) dropped somewhat from the previous year's number, however, several artists have yet to feel the slippage due to their accomplishments in 1983. Among the albums certified gold were Rosanne Cash's Columbia release "Seven Year Ache," "Just Sylvia," by RCA recording artist Sylvia; The Oak Ridge Boys' "American Made," on MCA; and the MCA soundtrack album from Coal Miner's Daughter, featuring Sissy Spacek. Also exceeding sales of 500,000 units were the greatest hits packages of Dolly Parton on RCA and David Allan Coe on Columbia. Merle Haggard received gold distinction for his albums "Big City" and "Pancho And Lefty," the latter which was recorded with friend Willie Nelson on the Epic label. "San Antonio Rose," the joint effort between Willie

THE COUNTRY MIKE

Industry Surges Ahead

A number of artists either hosted their own annual celebrations or toured with one another on corporate sponsored tours throughout the year. Alabama drew over 37,000 people to Ft. Payne, Ala. for its Second Annual June Jam. The outdoor festival featured Alabama, Janie Fricke and Lee Greenwood with all proceeds donated to DeKalb Country charities. Willie Nelson reinstated his July 4th picnics this year with celebrations in Syracuse, N.Y., New Jersey and Atlanta, Ga. The three events attracted over 100,000 people and featured such performers as Waylon Jennings, Linda Rondstadt, Emmylou Harris, David Allan Coe and Merle Haggard.

Other country artists joined forces on three corporate sponsored tours. Alabama, Juice Newton and The Thrasher Brothers went on the Salem Spirit Concert tour, while label mates Waylon Jennings and Jerry Reed toured together on the "Give 'Em A Hand" tour sponsored by Maxwell House coffee. The 27 charity concerts began July 1 in Asheville, NC and ended in Nashville at the Grand Ole Opry.

RIAA Awards

Nelson and Ray Price also proved to be a successful pairing on this gold album.

The platinum certification, which represents sales in excess of over 1,000,000 units, was presented to only seven artists. Epic recording artist Ricky Skaggs' debut album "Waitin' For The Sun To Shine" was certified platinum in May. "Eyes That See In The Dark," by RCA artist Kenny Rogers, achieved gold and platinum simultaneously. Willie Nelson added yet another platinum album to his growing collection with the help of fellow outlaw Waylon Jennings on their RCA release "WWII." George Jones received a platinum certification for his "I Am What I Am" Epic album which contains the powerful "He Stopped Loving Her Today."

Alabama once again was one of the biggest success stories of the year. Not only did it have four albums concurrently on the charts, including "My Home's In Alabama," "Feels So Right," "Mountain Music," and "The Closer You Get," but the group's "Dixieland Delight" single attained the highest debut ever on the Cash Box Country Singles chart by appearing at #18 bullet exceeding the debut of #22 bullet formerly held by Waylon Jennings and Johnny Cash in 1978 with "There Ain't No Good Chain Gang." "Dixieland Delight" went to #1 after only seven weeks.

Kenny Rogers and Dolly Parton produced not only a number one crossover hit but also a gold country single with "Islands In The Stream."

David Allan Coe charted a #1 song for the first time in his career with "The Ride," a haunting account of a young man's meeting with the late legend Hank Williams, Sr.

John Anderson reached a new plateau in his career with his first #1 single "Swingin'."

Two of the smaller record labels, Compleat and MDJ, produced a Top 10 song each, breaking the almost-exclusive hold on the charts by the six major record companies. Compleat, based in Nashville, produced the Vern Gosdin single "If You're Gonna Do Me Wrong, Do It Right," which was the artist's first Top 10 song as well as the label's when it peaked at #8.

Atlanta-based MDJ Records used imaginative promotion to take its recording group Atlanta to a #10 position on the Cash Box Country Singles chart with "Atlanta Burned Again Last Night." Atlanta is currently enjoying success with its most recent release, "Dixie Dreaming," which is presently #5 on the country chart and has surpassed its first effort.

THE YEAR END COUNTRY MIKE — This week's Country Mike column is a recap of some of the newsmaking events of country radio in 1983. Thanks to everyone who made 1983 a successful and rewarding year.

COUNTRY RADIO INCREASES ON THE FM DIAL — The 1983 Country Music Assn. (CMA) radio survey showed that 34 percent of all country radio stations are now on the FM dial. Since 1980, that is a 73 percent increase with the total being 1,088 stations. Also worth noting is the fact that there are now 2,266 stations that program country full time in the United States and Canada.

TUNE IN TO TUNE-IN — A new marketing tool has been developed exclusively for country radio in the form of a magazine called Tune-In. It is a custom country music and human interest magazine personalized with a radio station's logo, stories, promotions and advertising. The publication is designed as a profit making and strategic image-marketing tool for the exclusive use of one station per market. Jonathan Fricke and Frank Katch are the publishers of the tabloid.

HOLLANDER HONORED — Dan Hollander, program director for WDXE/Lawrenceburg, was given the "School Bell Award" by the Tennessee Education Assn. for his program Accent, a five-minute public affairs show produced locally. The program won for best program or series produced by a local station covering local and state issues in education. This was the 15th "School Bell Award" that the station has received.

WHN CELEBRATES — On Monday, April 18, WHN/New York celebrated its 10th anniversary as the first country music radio station in New York City. A celebration was held where WHN personalities played host to more than 600 guests from the New York radio, music advertising communities. The guests were treated to dancing, prize giveaways and Ronnie Milsap as featured entertainment. Various New York City political figures, country personalities, and members of the New York Mets were also on hand for the event.

DOVER PROMOTIONS — WDSB/Dover raised over $6,000 for the Kidney Foundation of Delaware with its 1983 Kidney Foundation Country Music Festival. The event was broadcast live from the Holiday Inn in Dover, with six local country bands and three bluegrass bands participating.

NEW LIBERTY STATION — WPXK AM & FM/Washington, D.C. has been named the official Washington, D.C. Statue of Liberty restoration station. The station is the newest member of the "Liberty Radio Network" which solidifies the efforts of radio stations around the country committed to raise money for the restoration of the Statue of Liberty. As the broadcast arm of the Statue of Liberty Foundation, the Liberty Radio Network is a President-appointed commission whose goal is to restore both the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island in time for the 1986 Centennial Celebration. The station is seeking contributions from the general public and from corporations and foundations to cover the $39 million needed to restore the Statue to its original beauty.

50th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION — Jamboree U.S.A. celebrated its 50th anniversary in Wheeling, W. Va. this year with the main events starting on Oct. 1. "Jamboree Days" was held throughout the city of Wheeling in conjunction with the Wheeling Area Chamber of Commerce. The city was decorated in the official celebration colors of blue and gold and various exhibits, window displays, and memorabilia were showcased. A series of "Semi-Centennial Minutes" were produced by WWVA/Wheeling, with a different Jamboree minute airing each day for the 50 days prior to the celebration. On Oct. 15, the unveiling of the "Walkway of Stars," an honorees luncheon, and a reception hosted by the Wheeling Broadcasting Company was held. The 50th anniversary show, held at the Capitol Music Hall, included a composite of entertainment from the 50 years of the Jamborees' existence featuring artists from some of the first Jamborees as well as the artists of today.

COUNTRY COLUMN

HAPPY HOLIDAYS — For the last issue of Cash Box in 1983, would like to follow in the tradition my predecessors started five years ago and announce the New Year's resolutions offered by artists and music industry personnel. Hope you enjoy reading them as much as I did collecting them:

Dolly Parton, RCA artist — Now that I've lost all this weight and everyone seems to have noticed, I hope to never use the word diet again — bring on the pizza.

William Lee Golden, Oak Ridge Boys — I'm going to try to make as many mistakes in 1984 as I did in 1983, so that at least I'll know that I've accomplished something.

Steven Grell, GrellWorks — To work as hard for GrellWorks as I did for the NMA and Expo '83.

The Piggys, Nashville club band — We want to be the first band of 1984 to bring back 78s and eight-track tapes.

Roy Wunsch, CBS — I'm going to put a bar in my car . . . so I can drive myself to drink.

Joe Bonsall, Oak Ridge Boys — To buy a new piano and write a few good songs.

Debbie Banks, Epic Records — To increase my inner depth and spiritual awareness and to possibly run into a few UFOs.

Chet Atkins, Columbia Artist — To stop using profanity.

Deborah Allen, RCA artist — To not talk on the phone more than 12 hours a day so I'll have all that spare time to go shopping.

Frances Preston, BMI — More and better in '84.

Tom T. Hall, PolyGram artist — To become rich and famous by '85.

Teddy Gentry, Alabama — All I want is to enjoy all 365 days of 1984.

Juanita Butler, RCA Records — To get back as many bullets as I gave out over the past year.

Bobby Bare, Columbia artist — I resolve to stop dipping in front of girls.

The Maines Brothers, PolyGram artists — To do more national touring.

David Conrad, Almo/Irving — I want to slow down so I can go further.

Karen Conrad, Blendingwell/Sister John — To keep up with David.

John Lentz, Cash Box — To move to Nashville so I can attend more music business parties.

Brenna Davenport-Leigh, Cash Box — To end this confusion and change my name to Brenda Lee.

Lee Greenwood, MCA recording artist — To write a #1 song for Alabama.

Rich Schwan, Epic Records — To find out if there is a correlation between record promotion and grey hair.

Tom Roland — To stay out of Bryant Park at 1 a.m.

John Sturdivant, ASCAP — Say less . . . do more . . . help others to have a better life.

Royce & Jeannie Kendall, PolyGram artists — To remember to be thankful for the good fortune, good people, and good music that is a part of our lives now because of our success on records and our success at radio.

Charles Fach, Compeat Entertainment — In 1984 to have Compeat with top five records in the country, black and pop charts!

Eddy Raven, RCA artist — To write more songs and to find out what songs Nipper is listening to.

Jennifer Bohler, Network Ink — To keep in mind that music is much more than a business in Nashville.

Cynthia Spencer, RCA Records — To get a kiss from Billy Joel when this downtown girl sees him on Feb. 19 in Nashville.

Rafe VanHoy, songwriter — To keep over half of the strings on my guitar tuned.

Mary Ann McCready, CBS Records — I'm going to find a way to clone Roy Wunsch and Rick Blackburn for everyone who works, and Irving Waugh for everyone who has eyes and ears.

Jeff Cook, Alabama — To try to improve as a musician and as a fisherman.

Tammy Wynette, Columbia artist — That '84 will be the best year I've ever had.

Kay Shaw, Golden Era — To get Belle Meade Beach on national TV in time to win an Emmy Award.

Jerry Kennedy, PolyGram — To cut a record Joe Polidor likes.

Kathy Mattea, PolyGram artist — To be as big as Dolly Parton in '84.

Dave Wheeler, RCA Records — To get three brand new gold artists on RCA.

Martha Haggard, PolyGram — To make a smooth conversion from "roller" to "ice" skates this winter and to be entered in the Guinness Book of roller skating records.

The Judds, RCA artists — Naomi — Sometime in 1984 I promise to tell Wynonna about the birds and the bees. Wynonna — In 1984 when momma tells me about the birds and the bees, I promise to act surprised.

Cynthia Leu, Columbia Records — To have something about Columbia Records in every issue of Cash Box magazine.

Jerry Reed, RCA artist — I don't make New Year's resolutions, I just try to make each year a better one.

Lynn Schultz, Capitol/EMI/Liberty — To help Frank Mull reach his full potential.

Bill Medley, RCA artist — To work, to laugh, to love . . . and not necessarily in that order.

Bob Heatherly, RCA Records — To never throw a party next to a major movie star's room in a hotel.

Larry McFadden, Lee Greenwood Ent. — To try harder to look more like Tony Tamburrano than Con Hunley.

Vivien Sheldon, Network Ink — I will make 1984 the year country music breaks in Europe.

Ronnie Milsap, RCA artist — I resolve to be more patient and to put more of myself into my work.

Richard Sterban, Oak Ridge Boys — To sing better than I've ever sang before.

Kathy McClintock, Oak Ridge Boys Ent. — I would like to run the mile in 7 minutes.

Jerry Flowers, The Jim Halsey Co. — To change my first name so people will stop introducing me as Jerry Bailey.

Arthur Braun, Dick James Music — Faster and smoother negotiations with Gary Harrison.

Joe Galante, RCA Records — To find out the person who has so much time to waste in Nashville that all they do is start rumors without any basis in reality.

Connie Bradley, ASCAP — To be able to be at 12 different places at the same time.

Joe Moscheo, BMI — I promise to return my phone calls within a week. And personally, I resolve to 1) Get a direct line to all publicists, 2) Go scuba diving in the Caribbean and 3) Borrow Roy Wunsch's quote when he is not using it.

YEAR-END POLLS

CASH BOX

Without a doubt, 1983 belonged to Michael Jackson and "Thriller." Not only has "Thriller" become the biggest seller in the history of Epic — racking up sales in excess of 15 million copies worldwide — it has also spawned six smash singles including "Beat It," "The Girl Is Mine," "P.Y.T.," "Human Nature," "Billie Jean," and "Wanna Be Startin' Somethin'." Needless to say, the editors of Cash Box had little problem determining who this year's awards for Top Male in both the Pop and Black Contemporary categories and in both the LP and Singles sections should go to.

Charting for over 53 weeks, "Thriller" remains perched in the top position on Cash Box's Pop Album chart and in the Top Ten among the Black Contemporary album picks making it hands down the #1 album for the year in both of these areas.

In addition, there are no signs of the record losing any of its momentum as it continues to post strong sales among retailers and steady airplay throughout the nation during the holiday season.

If "Thriller" 's phenomenal success proved one thing, it is the resilience of the record industry and the desire of the American public and people around the world for that matter, to invest their money in music. Almost miraculously, this reassurance overtook us all at a time when it was most sorely needed.

On the singles charts, Jackson also had two #1 songs during 1983, "Billie Jean" and "Beat It," which ranked #3 and #7 respectively in our Year End survey. The last group to do this was the Bee Gees in 1978 with "Stayin' Alive" and "Night Fever" which were the #1 and #2 songs of 1978.

The #1 overall pop single sung by a female in 1983 was Irene Cara's "What A Feeling" from the soundtrack to Flashdance. This was the third year in a row a #1 Year End Pop Single came from the soundtrack to a major motion picture. Last year Survivor won with "Eye of the Tiger" from Rocky III and in 1981, "Endless Love" by Lionel Richie and Diana Ross was the #1 single.

Other soundtracks released this year include "Stayin' Alive" (the sequel to Saturday Night Fever) on RSO, and "The Big Chill" on Motown. "Yentl" reconfirmed Barbra Streisand's ability to continue to please crowds both at the box office and on vinyl. (As of Dec. 24, 1983, "Yentl" held the #13 position bullet on Cash Box's Pop Album chart). The soundtrack to Rumblefish also gave Stewart Copeland a chance to show off his considerable composing talents sans the Police.

Fully 37 percent of this year's Top 100 Pop Singles were by artists from foreign countries, mainly England. While the U.K. has always been a major source of talent for America's A&R people, they seemed to turn increasingly to Europe this year. Europe proved to be an exceptional source of popular music and provided some of the fresh new sounds America was crying out for this year. The European influence on American bands was yet another factor pivotal to the record industry's turnaround toward the latter part of this year.

By far the most dominant European export to arrive on the American music scene this year was Britain's Boy George, the flamboyant leader of Culture Club. Clad in rainbow-colored kimonos and enough makeup to drive up the price of Revlon stock, Boy George emerged in the U.S. with sensitive, melodic music that captivated America's youth. Culture Club garnered four of Cash Box's Top 100 Pop Singles Awards for 1983 — "Do You Really Want to Hurt Me?," #10; "Time," #23; "I'll Tumble 4 Ya," #63; and "Church of the Poison Mind," #75 — selling millions of records for Epic and earning Culture Club the respect of the entire industry, not to mention Cash Box's #1 Adult Contemporary Group and #1 New Group Awards for the year in the Pop Singles category. The band's first and second albums, "Kissing to Be Clever" and the recently released "Colour by Numbers" also ranked #26 and #51 in Cash Box's Year-End Pop Album compilation.

Eurythmics, Cash Box's #1 New Duo for the year in both the singles and album departments also hail from Britain. Its single "Sweet Dreams" ranked #14 on the Top Pop Singles of the year chart while the album of the same name registered at #62 for the year.

The U.K.'s Duran Duran received a tremendous amount of chart recognition this year with all three of the band's LPs finding a place in our Year End Poll: "Rio," the #19 Pop Album of the Year; the rereleased "Duran Duran" the #60 selection of 1983; and the just issued "Seven and the Ragged Tiger" the 63rd most popular record of the year.

The men from down under, Men At Work, also enjoyed chart success in 1983 running away with the #5 and #10 Pop albums of the year, "Business As Usual" and "Cargo." This, easily made them Cash Box's #1 Top Group on the album charts and the only group with two Top Ten albums in our Year End survey.

The amount of records sold this year and the chart success of such groups as Men At Work, Duran Duran, Eurythmics and Culture Club would most likely never have been attained in 1983 without the widespread acceptance of a new medium and record promotion vehicle called music television, MTV. MTV and other music-video programming gave these new groups the added visibility they needed to become household names to America's record-buying public. MTV did more for breaking new talent in 1983 than probably any other single variable.

The phenomenon of Dance Oriented Music also affected chart position and record sales to a tremendous degree over the past year. Next to MTV, the country's numerous dance clubs which seemed to pop up overnight did wonders for introducing new records from bands such as the Talking Heads, Cash Box's #1 Top Pop Mixed Group among all album entries; the Mary Jane Girls, who gave us the #1 Pop Album by a female group, the Pretenders (voted the #1 Mixed Group in the pop singles category); and Thomas Dolby, who won the Pop Album Award for Top New Male.

Michael Sembello, Adam Ant, The Human League, The Fixx, the Motels, U2, Big Country, Spandau Ballet, Missing Persons, Price, A Flock of Seagulls, The Stray Cats, and Bananarama all deserve mention for producing credible dance-oriented music this year and rising high on the Cash Box Year End charts.

Another trend is the growth of heavy metal groups. Def Leppard's "Pyromania," was #2 among all pop albums this year. In fact, the album has sold well over 5 million copies to date making it the largest selling nonsoundtrack title ever released by PolyGram, and prompting us to name Def Leppard the #2 Top Pop Group for the year in the pop album sector. Quiet Riot's "Mental Health" also came in at a solid #16 on the Year End Pop Album chart, giving it the #1 album by a new group award. Loverboy's "Keep It Up" settled down at #21 and Billy Squier's "Emotions in Motion" made the list well over a year after its release.

Some heavy metal groups such as Black Sabbath, Survivor, and AC/DC, however, failed to make high marks on the charts this year with their new releases.

Other artists in the pop category who failed to meet their previous chart successes include Juice Newton, Chris Cross, Diana Ross, Neil Young, and Joan Jett.

The number of acts returning to the charts, on the other hand, was quite impressive. Robert Plant, for instance, issued Cash Box's #1 AOR album by a male this year, "The Principle of Moments." Bob Dylan received chart action for the first time in nearly five years with "Infidels" as did Yes with "90125" and Kiss with "Lick It Up."

The performer that took the biggest jump back into the limelight this year, however, was unquestionably David Bowie. Powered by a string of highly visible videos and a very successful concert tour, Bowie was able to recapture the attention of his older fans and gain a whole slew of new younger ones. "Let's Dance" was Cash Box's #4 Pop Single for the year. The album by the same name was the #9 Pop Album of '83. Based on this chart information, Bowie was named the #3 Top Male in both the album and singles categories in our Year End Poll.

Another major surprise of the year was Linda Ronstadt's "What's New" LP, a compilation of older hits from the swing era that went platinum and was #22 on Cash Box's list of the 100 most popular Pop Albums of 1983.

Eddy Grant's "Electric Avenue," which finished up at #9 on Cash Box's Year End Singles chart did wonders to help popularize reggae, following in the wake of the commercial successes the Police have had using that style.

Among the "old reliables" to turn in above average performance in this year's Year End Pop Album and Singles roundup were: Bob Seger, Jackson Browne, Billy Joel, Olivia Newton-John, Willie Nelson, Kenny Rogers, Journey, Styx, Pat Benatar and Elvis Costello, among others.

Lionel Richie and the Police also had exceptional years with Hall & Oates and Stevie Nicks not far behind. Richie ended up with both the #8 Pop Album of the year by a male performer, "Lionel Richie," and the #28 entry, "Can't Slow Down." He also had the #13 and #23 Pop Singles of the year, "All Night Long," and "You Are." The Police was recognized as the Top Group in the singles category after earning the #2 overall most popular single of 1983, "Every Breath You Take." The group also had the 45th biggest single of the year, "King of Pain." Their album "Synchronicity" was the third most popular LP by a group this year.

Stevie Nicks' "The Wild Heart" was clearly the most popular album by a female artist during 1983, and Hall & Oates easily retained the title of most popular duo this year in singles and for the album "H2O."

"Toto IV," the album that swept last year's Grammy Awards finished at #25 in Cash Box's Year End tabulation of the most popular albums of 1983.

The runaway winner on the Black/Contemporary charts this year outside of Michael Jackson and Lionel Richie, was DeBarge on the Gordy (Motown) label which took the #1 Top Group, #1 Top New Group and #1 Top Mixed Group kudos in this category. Other artists making Motown's 25th Anniversary year one of the label's best ever were the Mary Jane Girls, Rick James and of course, "The Big Chill" soundtrack.

The #1 Country Group Award was claimed by Alabama this year, the #1 Country Male was Willie Nelson, and the #1 Country Female, Anne Murray. Kenny Rogers and Dolly Parton mutually accepted the #1 Country Single and Adult Contemporary Duo Awards for their duet "Islands in the Stream" which was Cash Box's #11 single overall on the pop charts this year.

The gospel charts this year were dominated by none other than Amy Grant, who will probably become the first singer to earn a platinum album for a gospel record.

The #1 jazz solo artist on Cash Box's charts this year was George Winston, who recorded on the highly successful Windham Hill record label. The #1 jazz vocalist is Al Jarreau; #1 Group, The Pat Metheny Group; #1 New Artist, Peter Erskine; #1 New Group, Shadowfax (also on Windham Hill); and #1 Compilation LP, "Casino Lights: Recorded Live At Montreaux Switzerland."

the end... IS JUST THE BEGINNING! with artists like...

Deborah Allen

Her RCA debut, "Baby, I Lied" Top 4 Country! Top 10 AC! 39★ CHR and BREAKER! From her Top 20 Album "CHEAT THE NIGHT"

Gus Hardin

She debuted Top 10 with "After The Last Goodbye" and followed with two Top 20 hits from her Mini LP, "GUS HARDIN." Billboard's and Cashbox's New Artist of '83, her new single, "Fallen Angel" has just been released.

The Judds

The most refreshing and important duet this year! They are shaking up the industry and waking up Radio and Retail with their first single, "Had A Dream," from their introductory Mini LP, "THE JUDDS: WYNONNA AND NAOMI" being released in January.

David Wills

With three Top 20 singles this year, including the current hit "Miss Understanding" David will begin 1984 with his first Mini LP, "NEW BEGINNINGS," and his next single "Lady In Waiting."

the end of the year doesn't even slow us down...

RCA RECORDS...BUILDING THE LEGENDS OF TOMORROW.

AROUND THE ROUTE

by Camille Compasio

As of this writing, negotiations for the possible sale by Williams Electronics, Inc. of some of its coin-operated assets to Bally Mfg. Corp. are still in progress. Nothing has been finalized up to this point and, with the holidays so close at hand, an announcement might not come until after the first of the year.

State Association News: The Michigan Coin Machine Operators Assn., at its recently held Board meeting, voted to oppose a currently pending bill (SB 227) that would legalize gray area games. The association is exercising every effort to defeat this bill on the grounds that, if passed, it would place gray area games in the same category as other amusement devices, such as pins and videos, thus causing legitimate games to come under close scrutiny as possible gambling devices. Among guest speakers at the meeting was Herb Beitel of the National Coin Machine Institute, who discussed the problems facing operators across the country with regard to gray area games. Newly elected officers of MCMOA are Terry Meier, president; Pat Cleary, vice president and John Roszatycki, secretary-treasurer . . . As '83 comes to a close, WAMO, the Wisconsin state organization, reports membership to be at its highest level in years — just under 100!

Bally Debuts 'NFL Football', First RCA Video Disc Game

CHICAGO — "It took a combination of NFL films, RCA and Bally to create a whole new kind of game, based on strategy rather than quick reflexes," said Robert E. Mullane, chairman and chief executive officer of Bally Manufacturing Corp., in describing the firm's newly debuted "NFL Football" game. "Video game players across the country will soon be living out the armchair quarterback's dream."

Bally introduced "NFL" at a press conference on December 5, which was held in the Chicago Bears locker room at Chicago's Soldier Field and covered by the press corps representing all levels of the media.

In the play theme, two players pick offensive and defensive strategies or one player can match wits against the game itself. A computer then instantly selects from 400 plays on the RCA videodisc and actual NFL film footage pops onto the screen. Players hear the tv sportscaster's play-by-play and full crowd noises as well. More than 15,000 feet of film footage from Chargers-Raiders contests were edited to select the action-packed footage. Regionalized versions pitting the Cowboys against the Redskins and the Jets versus the Dolphins are slated for early next year.

This is the first game licensed by the NFL and the first to use the RCA CED videodisc.

What you see on Bally's "NFL Football" is Chuck Muncie turning the corner or Nolan Cromwell making a crunching tackle, all as the instantaneous result of play selection. What you don't see is the advanced electronic technology that puts the action on the video screen. "The game processes close to one-and-a-half billion bits of data, many times more capacity than the original Univac computer which was so massive it filled a whole room," Mullane explained. Three powerful microprocessors direct the action — two Intel Z-80s each with 128K memory, plus another microprocessor in the Texas Instruments Voice Synthesizer.

Radical Roms

Nichibutsu U.S.A. is currently marketing its new "Radical Radial" video game, which offers the excitement of a driving game with a unique twist in that the 'vehicle' is a tire rather than a car. The player maneuvers the 'tire' through a challenging course, the objective being to score points and avoid the deadly adversaries.

In the game play, there are such obstacles as "allens," "worms" the "mushroom" and the inevitable "oil spill" which can cause slip and slide havoc.

During the course of action there are barrels and logs to jump over and for this the player can push the jump button. Going through the tunnel provides additional challenge. Bonuses are awarded according to the player's skill and accomplishments.

Further information about the game may be obtained by contacting Nichibutsu U.S.A. at 15407 S. Broadway, Gardena, California 90248 or phoning the company at 213-538-2162.

Bally Bows 'NFL Football'

One of the Z-80s runs the game board, the other controls the RCA CED videodisc player, introduced in August and being now used on an arcade game for the first time, according to the factory.

This Random Access Videodisc player itself has several additional microprocessors to provide the interactive capability this game requires. "Since the RCA CED disc contains twice as much information as currently available laserdiscs, it is superior for our purposes," said Mullane.

Bally's "NFL Football" has two different sound sources, the game sound from the film footage on the disc and computer-generated sounds like the fight song that plays after a touchdown and the "get your cold beer here" sounds from the stands. It also has two different video sources, the disc for game action and computer-generated graphics like prancing cheerleaders and the five-second clock governing play selection time.

In a game between two players, the "30-second" clock is speeded up to five seconds as one strategist selects an offensive play while the other picks his defensive alignment. Single players compete against the game itself, rather than against a human opponent. The computer instantly calculates the probability and degree of the play's success against the selected defense, adjusting for field position and other variables.

The resulting play, one of 400 on the RCA CED videodisc, pops onto the screen, complete with the TV announcer's voice and full crowd noise. Computer-generated graphics then move the football down the field as cheerleaders prance and the players make their next quick decision.

"The excitement and player involvement are terrific," Mullane said. "They stomp their feet, pound the cabinet, cheering their team on. We think it'll be a social game, a new kind of video game from the mostly isolationist games of the past."

The screen action on the game is actual NFL Films footage, with the most interesting plays edited from over 15,000 feet of NFL film from the last three years of Charger-Raider games.

"We picked the Chargers-Raiders matchup because they've had spectacular game action over the past three seasons and also because their uniforms have remained unchanged," said David Grossman, director of video sales for NFL Films, which is headquartered in Mt. Laurel, New Jersey. He said that this is the first arcade game to be officially licensed by NFL Properties. Slated for next year are new, regionalized editions of the Bally game featuring the Dallas Cowboys against the Washington Redskins and the New York Jets versus the Miami Dolphins.

Bally's "NFL Football" marks the first use of RCA's new Random Access Videodisc player in the amusement game market as the result of an agreement between RCA and Bally. "The RCA CED Videodisc player offers technical advantages especially well suited to 'Bally's NFL Football,'" said Mullane.

This game will also be the first that is equipped with a currency acceptor, as Mullane pointed out. It will take not only one-dollar but five-dollar bills as well. "This ends the customer's inconvenience of having to go to the cash register for change," he explained. The game will be priced at fifty cents per play.

Games Score Big At Cities Expo

CHICAGO — Coin-operated amusement games proved to be one of the most popular attractions at the November 27-29 Congress of Cities and Exposition, which was held at The Rivergate in New Orleans. The Amusement Game Manufacturers Assn. sponsored a booth containing a variety of popular games, including a video jukebox, several video games and an electronic quiz game, which were provided by a local distributor.

The games, which were in constant play throughout the three-day event, gave city officials, who were delegates to the convention, an opportunity to experience for themselves their challenge and entertainment value.

Community leaders visiting the exhibit were also handed copies of the Industry Fact Sheet and a pamphlet of clippings from the Harvard Conference on Video Games, as a further source of enlightenment.

Veatch Honored At Special Luncheon

LOS ANGELES — Norwood Veatch, co-founder of Central Distributors and owner of Carousel International, and operator of more than 3,000 kiddie rides, celebrated his 50th anniversary in the coin-operated entertainment business at a ceremony in his honor held at the New Orleans Hilton during the AMOA '83.

Veatch entered the industry in 1934 as an employee with the Automatic Phonograph Company. After a stint in the Navy during WW II, he helped found Central Distributors in St. Louis. In 1962 he bought out his partners in Central, Charlie Kageles and Anthony Koupal. Today the distributorship represents primarily Bally/Midway and Valley products.

In 1971, Veatch started Carousel International which manufactures some 30 different kiddie rides. Carousel also operates approximately 3,000 kiddie rides on location at K-Mart and other discount stores.

The golden anniversary party was organized by Bally/Midway executive vice president Stan Jarocki, and two of Veatch's sons, Norwood, Jr. who serves as president of Carousel International; and Earl, president of Central Distributing.

This 876 page book provides a complete survey of Cash Box's popular music singles charts over a 32-year period. Information that was previously available only through a search of the weekly charts themselves, has now been completely integrated via artist and song-title entries. Especially noteworthy is a week-by-week listing of song-chart positions making it possible to determine the exact position of a recording for any particular date.

The CASH BOX Singles Charts, 1950-1981

In addition to the main artist and song-title indexes, there are several unique appendixes, including: a chronological list of #1 records, the "Top Ten" records of each year, the records with the longest chart run, the most chart hits by artist, the most #1 hits by an artist, the most weeks at #1 by an artist, and most weeks at #1 by a single record.
