1992 SUMMER CONSUMER ELECTRONICS SHOW

CES IS A BLOWOUT SUCCESS!

Many people took advantage of the Summer Consumer Electronics Show being open to the public on Saturday, May 30 and Sunday, May 31 to fulfill their dreams of seeing the future of technology right before their eyes.

Not only were all of the big names in the electronics industry present, but the public was very pleased to be able to play the upcoming video games and meet the editors of their favorite video game magazines.

WOW! Look at that crowd! The people are awaiting their turn to take on Ken Williams at the Street Fighter II: Championship Edition!

Of course, EGM was there in full force to give away free issues of our latest mags and anyone could enter to win a Street Fighter II: Champion Edition arcade game!

SEGA POWERS UP!

As expected, Sega pulled out all the stops and debuted a great line-up of titles that included Sonic the Hedgehog 2, B-Bomb, Greendog: the Beached Surfer Dude, Chakan and Batman Returns. In peripheral land, we found Sega's answer to Nintendo's Super Scope 6, The Sega Menacer. This gun comes with six games and three-interlocking modules like a stock and binoculars. Sega also showed off the Sega CD in a series of demos that showed exactly what this system can do!

NINTENDO DROPS PRICE OF S-NES!

At the show, Nintendo announced that the price of the Super NES would be dropped to a surprisingly low $99. At this price, you will receive the Super NES unit and cables, but one controller and Super Mario World will be missing. Expect Sega to possibly follow suit with price drops on the Sega Genesis.

T.T.I. ON THE BALL

Turbo Technologies had an impressive showing of new Super CD-ROM games like Loom and Prince of Persia. T.T.I. also announced that its new TurboDuo was going on sale October 10, 1992 at a price of $299 and the base TurboGrafx-16 will be going for $69 this fall. The Duo will be packaged with five hot games, and is completely compatible with your existing games!

NEW CHANGES

While reading this supplement, you will notice the addition of technology pages in most of the sections. These are here to give you a quick overview as to what is in the works. For example, Camerica's Aladdin project is very innovative because it will cut the price of NES cartridges nearly in half! Read more on this and other incredible technological advances in the accompanying sections.

While there were a lot of games to choose from, we felt that Vikings, by Interplay, offered a new concept in video gaming. Cute graphics with a hilarious storyline helped Vikings win this award!

S-NES PRICE DROP ANNOUNCED!

First and foremost, Nintendo has once again put 16-Bit gaming within everyone's reach! Starting sometime soon, the price of the Super NES will fall to an astonishingly low price of $99! At this price, you will receive the S-NES unit and all cables with only one controller, and no game will be packed in. At this price, the Super NES will be more wide spread.

Nintendo had a spectacular lineup of games from its company and licensees! Although there were many games that we have showed you before, many of the great surprises include a new Super Scope 6 game called Battle Clash, Mario Paint, a video paint program that uses a new mouse designed for the S-NES, and a whole slew of Batman titles!

The Super NES CD-ROM was, as expected, nowhere to be found. However, Nintendo did wow everyone with some hot new titles like Super Mario Kart, an innovative racing game similar to F-Zero which stars the Mario characters. Capcom showed Mystical Quest, and Interplay's two original titles were Claymates and Vikings. Naturally, the Konami booth was bustling with sounds of Batman Returns.

Nintendo may just become king of the 16-Bit machines with the extreme price drops and an upcoming CD-ROM unit!

Need we even say it? Sonic the Hedgehog 2 took us by surprise with its incredible animation and exceptional game play. Throw in good graphics with a tough challenge and you have a great game!

Just as we predicted earlier, Sega had a great show with plenty of new titles. Summer CES proved to be the time for Sega to strut its stuff. Plenty of new games were out on display for everyone to look at.

Included in the batch of Sega games were titles such as the long awaited sequel, Sonic The Hedgehog 2, the movie to game conversion of Batman Returns, Chakan: The Forever Man and Streets of Rage 2 just to name a few.

Sega also had an awesome display of the Sega CD (not Mega CD), which was showing some incredible animations and footage from future CD games.

Of the third party licensees, Arena had many a treat for Genesis owners such as the football conversion of Super High Impact and Terminator 2: The Arcade Game. Taito showed their conversion of Hit the Ice and Electronic Arts pitched in with their Tony La Russa Baseball.

This was a significant improvement over the Winter CES for Sega overall. The games were showing quite a bit more potential and the clincher was the appearance of the Sega CD. The moves made by Sega in the next few months are critical, as the Christmas season is on its way and the systems bring out their best to compete against one another. We'll have to see what happens.

ALIEN 3™ Arena

Back last March, EGM had the world exclusive with the first pix on this super hot cart. Now, four months later, thanks to the people at Acclaim/Arena, EGM gets a special behind the screens follow-up, in-depth, look at all of the changes and improvements that the developers have built into this spectacular movie-to-game. As you know, your mission is to rescue hostages from the alien infested realms of the prison space station.

Save the struggling hostages from a fate worse than death!

You are out of ammo and the aliens are still lurking. Find a weapon, quick!

You are low on energy, but this flame thrower should get you through.

These pods will impede your progress unless you can kill them quickly.

Being stuck down this dingy hole is no pretty picture.

You are outside and your gun has full ammunition. You had better hurry!

Incredible cinema pictures will take you through the game.

Don't give up now! Innocent people are counting on your success!

Alien 3™ and © 1992 Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp. All Rights reserved.

SONIC THE HEDGEHOG 2 for GENESIS

Sega

EGM is the first magazine to bring you these awesome pix of the long-awaited sequel to Sonic the Hedgehog. The game is in the very early stages of development, but it looks hot already. The same basic elements that made the first cart a hit have been revamped and refined. The game play is smoother and there are plenty of new techniques to master. Springboards will launch Sonic into the air and strategically placed rebound boards will send him back to the ground. There are a vast number of new loops and effects. Believe it or not, this version is even faster than the original! The most significant addition to this great cart is the introduction of Sonic's sidekick Twotails. His younger companion idolizes him and tries to mimic his every move. Twotails can be used during game play to help Sonic get through difficult situations and adds a new dimension to the game play. Throw in fantastic split-screen two-player simultaneous action and over 35 levels and Sega's got another winner.

As you can see, most of the classic Sonic-look has been retained, only more intense.

One of the new twists in this cart is the special ribbon loop. Don't stop running!

SONIC THE HEDGEHOG 2 for GAME GEAR

Sega

Sonic is also back for his second adventure on the Game Gear. Now you can bring high-speed action with you wherever you go. Get ready for more of the action that you expect from a Sonic game. There are more animal friends to rescue and more rings to collect than ever. There are loops and springboards all over the place. Sonic also has plenty of other adventures in store for him. Some of the levels have you hang gliding, railcart riding and racing through underground tunnels. Sonic 2 offers faster game play than before and more detailed graphics. It is one of the hottest games we saw at CES for the Game Gear, or for any portable for that matter!

With it's lightning fast game play and detailed graphics., Sonic 2 was one of the best portable games at the show.

This cart should be available around the Christmas buying season of the year.

THE MENACER

Sega

Here is the big summer CES surprise from Sega! Now, Sega has its light gun out to challenge the Super NES Super Scope 6! First of all, It has incredible pinpoint accuracy from the gun to the monitor. There is also a binocular viewing sight and a sturdy stock for increased aiming performance! Think this is a great gun? Well, there is also a six-in-one cartridge included in the package. At the present time, only four of the games are completed. As you can see, these carts look hot! You can blast tomatoes from Toe Jam & Earl, be in the heat of battle in Frontline, defend your base in Space Station Defender, or shine a flashlight and take out the bugs in Pest Control.

ENVIRONMENTAL DETECTIVE

A new twist on the typical, run-of-the-mill action-adventure cart, the Environmental Detective is a new game being developed by a leading group of European programmers who want to combine good game play with educational overtones. Cast in the lead role of the Ozone Kid (or O.K. for short), you must travel the planet, gathering trash and saving animals within a colorfully animated horizontal world. The progress you make in each of the game's multiple levels of play not only cools the rising temperatures of the world (we're talking major greenhouse effect here), but also makes each round a much nicer place to live! Not yet secured by a U.S. publisher, the interesting blend of action and education should help the Environmental Detective find a home stateside very soon.

PREDATOR 2™ Arena

Crime is on the rise and the Predators have returned. They are collecting trophies and just killing for a challenge. You must stop this menace from taking over the city in this challenging shooter.

The most innovative product for the NES that we saw was the Aladdin System from Camerica. This unit could change the way we purchase video games.

While the Genesis, Super Nintendo and TurboGrafx-16 had impressive displays of the latest games, the NES did not have much to show.

Maybe it is because of age, but the old workhorse is definitely showing signs of aging against its 16-Bit counterparts. However, there were some games that we thought we should highlight and you can read all about them in the following pages.

The NES was always a system known for peripherals. When Camerica introduced its Game Genie a while ago, people discovered that they could have more fun with their old NES games.

Camerica is at it again with a Game Genie for the most popular hand-held of them all. The Game-Boy gets a breath of fresh air thanks to this new machine. You can read more about it in the next couple of pages.

By far, the best thing to come along in a long time happened by rubbing a lamp. The Aladdin System is a whole new way to create NES titles. The reason many new NES carts are so expensive is because of the big buck MMC chips thrown in. The Aladdin has these chips built in so programmers need only worry about the basic program chips on the main cart. This procedure could slash game prices nearly in half!

TOXIC CRUSADER Bandai

GAMEBOY GAME GENIE

Due to popular demand, Camerica is introducing a Game Genie for use with the portable GameBoy!

Simply insert a cartridge into the unit, plug it into the GameBoy and you are all set. The passwords are entered with the keypad.

A codebook will be released on the same schedule as the NES version.

Thus, dig that GameBoy out of your drawer and breath some new life into portable video gaming!

THE ALADDIN SYSTEM

Camerica is on the verge of a video breakthrough with the Aladdin System. What it consists of is a master cart that stays in your NES containing all of the MMC chips needed for top games!

The games themselves are on thin cards that contain only the program chips. What this system allows programmers to do is cut the cost of producing games because the expensive chips are in the Master Unit.

Let us hope that the big 'N' gives Camerica the go-ahead with the Aladdin.

Fantasy Star Soldier gets the vote as one of the most intriguing new shooter we have seen. Based off of Super Star Soldier, the sprites have been replaced with comical characters.

Turbo Technologies had plenty of surprises in store for us. To begin, T.T.I. is going to be introducing the TurboDuo on October 10, 1992 at a suggested retail price of $299! At this price, you receive five games, Y's Books I & II on a CD, Dungeon Explorer on a chip, and Bonk's Adventure, Bonk's Revenge, and the incredible Gate of Thunder...all on one disc! The base TurboGrafx went down in price to a very competitive $69 dollars, as well.

Turbo Tech. had a pretty impressive set-up at its booth. Many games were on display that were totally original in idea and game play. Spring Ninja was a very unique concept in an action-shooter combo. Bonk was bigger than life in his latest addition with the tentative title of Bonk 3. Bonk could grow to nearly half the size of the screen and could shrink to just a few pixels high. Time Cruise was a pinball game with tons of secret areas to locate for big points.

One thing immediately noticeable was the shortage of TurboChip games. Let us hope T.T.I. does not dump the cards completely, in favor of the CDs. Many devoted TurboExpress owners would be left with a useless item.

T.T.I. may just get back on its feet due to the large selection of upcoming games we have seen.
