In The House With Mr. Smith

Def Jam recording artist L.L. Cool J can easily make an argument for being one of the most important artists to take rap to a wider audience. All of his albums have garnered platinum or multi-platinum sales, and his track "Mama Said Knock You Out," earned him a Grammy for Best Solo Rap Artist in 1991. Now he's a co-star on the NBC-TV Monday night sitcom In The House, which has consistently won its time period. And the guy who became at 16 the first major artist released on the legendary Def Jam label has just released a new album, Mr. Smith, which comes during the 10th anniversary year of the label. Cash Box urban editor Gil L. Robertson IV reports that the album and L.L.'s perspective on his career are knockouts.

Bowie & Nine Inch Nails

David Bowie remains an icon of pop/rock, but his show didn't have the sizzle that was anticipated when he began his recent U.S. tour with budding icon Trent Reznor and his Nine Inch Nails. Pop writer Steve Baltin reviews a recent Los Angeles presentation of the Bowie/NIN show.

Music Licensing Orgs & NLBA Agree On Cocktail & Copyright Act

THE NATIONAL LICENSED BEVERAGE ASSN., representing the retail alcohol beverage hospitality industry, and the performing rights organizations BMI, ASCAP, and SESAC, reached an accord regarding the music licensing legislation to amend and clarify the U.S. Copyright Act.

As a result, the cost of doing business would improve for the thousands of bars, restaurants, liquor stores and other small retail establishments that play radios or televisions for the enjoyment of their customers, while a more efficient and economical system will benefit songwriters and publishers.

The agreement encompasses changes in the Copyright Law, clarifying which types of businesses are eligible for exemption from music licensing liability for the performance of music over radio and television. As amended, the Copyright Law would establish clear and verifiable standards so that both the copyright owners and the rights and obligations. The exemption contemplated in the new legislation is calculated on the combination of the size of the establishment and the type of equipment used.

Representatives of all concerned including Jim Simpson, NLBA president; Marilyn Bergman, ASCAP president; Frances W. Preston, BMI president/CEO; Bill Velez, president/COO, SESAC, all expressed pride and pleasure with the agreement.

1st Fed Anti-Bootleg Felony Indictment Handed Down

CHARGES HAVE BEEN BROUGHT against Keith J. Taruski, the first person to be indicted under the new federal anti-bootleg statute. Taruski was indicted by a grand jury of the U.S. District Court, District of Connecticut, on charges of trafficking in sound recordings of live musical performances, illegal importation of bootleg CDs and conspiracy to commit these crimes.

Taruski was arrested in early August when law enforcement, accompanied by members of the Recording Industry Association of America, raided four establishments in Old Saybrook, CT, and confiscated 50,000 alleged bootleg CDs and a million alleged fake CD insert cards. This represents the largest U.S. seizures ever in these two categories of illegal products.

Under the new federal anti-bootleg statute, Taruski could face a jail term of up to five years and $250,000 in fines if he is found guilty. The statute, which was created in December 1994, is the first federal statute that criminalizes the unauthorized manufacturing, distribution or trafficking in sound recordings and music videos of "live" musical performances and also provides for the seizure by U.S. Customs at the point of importation into the United States, of bootleg recordings or music videos manufactured outside the United States.

HITTING A VEIN: With the Yankees out of World Series contention it was up to James Blood Ulmer to play an October homestand. Jazz guitar is one of those instruments that is attempted by many, but rarely sounds like it isn't someone's annoying sibling trying to push its way into playing with the bigger kids. Columbia's artist Ulmer is able to take the six-string and integrate it into the standard jazz set-ups without sounding out of place. With almost a week of gigs at the Knitting Factory, he and his adjustable quintet of players, which included a member of the World Saxophone Quartet, made what is normally an ungainly beast into a purring cat. Only during the encore did all of them on the 23rd swing together. For the rest of the time it switched from a trio to a foursome, with results that made the hour fly by. Part of this was due to the leader of the band giving plenty of room for the others to spread their wings. The non-stifling atmosphere translated through the whole room.

COUNTRY'S KISSIN' COUSINS: Recently indie-rock has found a large storage house of material to plunder in the vaults of country music. What was a long time considered an embarrassing antecedent to rock, has now been embraced by musicians and public. New York saw a truckload of bands come through on the weekend to what were all packed shows. Son Volt, whose debut album Trace is out on Warner Bros., is led by former Uncle Tupelo member Jay Farrar. The act's show at Tramps on Friday aimed for that same heartfelt area The Byrds did in its later era. Though the band provided moments it was the opener, Sparklehorse, which captured more lonesome strains. The Richmond-based group whose debut Vivadixiesubmarinetransmissionplot on Capitol, felt as though it was truly digging deep, but without being maudlin. Wileo who is the other part of the Tupelo split has aimed for more catchy tunes with its album AM on Sire-Reprise. This played an acoustic set at Maxwell's on the 25th with probably the finest of these groups Freakwater. Janet Bean, drummer for Eleventh Dream Day, and Catherine Irwin have combined to make some of the most aching music to be heard in this genre in the recent past. With its fourth release Old Paint on the Thrill Jockey label, these two Louisville natives has shown its continued depth, partially due to its unpretentious embrace of the music from the hills of coal. This cannot be said about Will Oldham's Palace Music which hails from the same town. Though his album Viva Last Blues on Palace/Drag City has been very successful, his live shows on this current tour have garnered nothing but bitter remarks, most of which are justified if only for the attitude which he exudes to the audience. A return to the roots of this American music has overall been a relief from the over-hyped "new" music. With a great deal of room left to explore in those once scoffed caverns there is still plenty of ore to be brought up, and maybe those indie miners can find those thick veins.

PLEASED TO MEEK YOU: It's Hard To Believe It: The Amazing World Of Joe Meek, out on Razor & Tie, shows the value of the CD as an instrument to bring hard-to-find seminal music back into the hands and the minds of the public. Mr. Meek was a producing genius who bridged the British gap between '50s rock and The Mersey Beat. His techniques were truly ahead of their time and are best remembered in the hit Telstar by The Tornados. The label threw a party at The Fez on the 30th to celebrate the much-acclaimed compilation and had an all-star line up—which included Marshall Crenshaw, Dennis Diken, Janet & Tricia Wygal of Splendor, and the producer of the album Rob "Rice & Beans" Kemp—play a sweet sixteen of the producer's songs. There was no doubt where Mr. Meek's spirit was that evening.

IF THE OLD SHOW-BIZ ADAGE, "Leave 'em wanting more" is indeed true, then L.A.'s Oingo Boingo pulled off one of the greatest farewells one has ever seen with the first show of its sold-out four-night engagement at The Universal Amphitheatre (and, the band could've sold-out at least 10 nights easy, and maybe more. That's how hot this ticket was in L.A.).

The Danny Elfman-fronted band previously announced that this year's annual Halloween shows would mark the band's swan song after 17 years. Given the community vibe that normally accompanies the Boingo Halloween dates, this was much more than a normal concert. The audience full of fans, who ranged in age from early teens to '30's and above, held up signs that said "Thanks" and "We love you" as the band played for more than three hours long, doing material dating all the way back to its first EP.

In addition to the normal fivesome, Boingo reunited with its original horn section, driving the crowd wild with the occasional sax solo. Much of the concert's good-time vibe came from the familiarity fans had with the songs, as the band laced the latter half of the concert with hits that have appeared on the radio for years, including "Who Do You Want To Be Today" and the closing "Dead Man's Party."

After Elfman thanked the fans for their years of support, something he had to do repeatedly, the band ended the last of the numerous encores with a brilliant version of "Only A Lad" that had the crowd dancing all over the Universal aisles.

SUPERCHUNK HIT L.A.: Pittsburgh kids the Karl Hendricks Trio opened the evening's festivities with their occasionally unique brand of indie rock. The Spinanes followed and half of the balcony observed their not very eventful set while the other half mooned over Liz Phair, there to see her pal Rebecca Gates (Spinanes) and the Chunk. Phair is in town for "quite a while," recording her new album. She observed that drummers (as mates) are "quiet, but very intuitive." By now, it's no secret which half of the balcony audience I was a part of.

Truly exemplary of the DIY ethic, (Vocalist/guitarist Mac and bassist Laura own and operate their own label, the superb Merge), Superchunk may well be considered originators of the power punk pop sound that exploded out of Chapel Hill, NC in the late '80s. The band's shows are an amalgam of energy, hooks, melody and mayhem. The crowd went ape, not bad considering all the industry folk there. Also in attendance were Robert and Ben from the fabulous Ben Folds Five, fellow Chapel Hill kids. Catchiness for days, sweat, enthusiasm—who says indie rock can't be fun? (By Laura Schlosshardt)

WILLIAM S. BURROUGHS' CLASSIC, Naked Lunch will be coming to audio soon courtesy of Warner Audio Video Entertainment (WAVE). The 80 year-old author, who's been a major influence on many of today's biggest rock stars, including Kurt Cobain, Tom Waits, Bono and Bob Dylan, will read the work himself. The collection, which will be available the middle of this month, will be on two cassettes or three CD's.

Having come from the streets of L.A. it's only fitting that Van Halen returned there to join the elite, including Jimi Hendrix, Phil Ramone and B.B. King, among Hollywood's RockWalk. The ceremony came at the end of the group's recent U.S. tour in support of its number one selling album, Balance. The ceremony involved the group's members placing their handprints and signatures in cement. Pictured (l-r): Van Halen's Eddie Van Halen and Michael Anthony; Rick Shoemaker, Warner/Chappell Music President; Dave Wiederman, RockWalk Industry Advisory member; Alex Van Halen; Les Bider, Warner/Chappell Music Chairman/CEO; Van Halen's Sammy Hagar; Russ Thyret, Warner Bros. Records chairman; Ray Scherr, RockWalk Industry Advisory member and Jim Berk, NARAS Foundation Executive Director, Jim Berk. Give yourself five points if you can remember the name of the guy missing from this picture. Hint: think Vegas.

L.L. Cool J. Returns to Center Stage

Gil L. Robertson IV

WITH THE RELEASE OF HIS NEW ALBUM, SIMPLY TITLED MR. SMITH, rap superstar L.L. Cool J, asserts his identity like never before. With a recording career that has spanned much of the history of rap music, L.L., has consistently remained a player in a music arena not known for artist longevity. Having risen to the top in the world of rap/hip-hop, L.L. has ventured on, expanding his talents and fan base with a starring role on the hit NBC-TV show "In The House." Working opposite screen veterans Debbie Allen and Michael Warren, L.L. plays Marion Hill, a former football player forced to take in boarders after his career is side tracked by an injury. As he's already proven with his music, L.L.'s a hit in his new career as a TV star. It's no secret that the camera likes him and viewers have responded in kind, giving his new show the highest ratings in its time slot. L.L. appears quite comfortable with his role as an actor, exhibiting great control of his character and showing a surprising aptitude for comedic timing.

Although he enjoys his new job, L.L. makes no secret of the fact that music is his first love. Rapping since he was nine, L.L. has been making his own music since age 13. Signed by rap megagiant Russell Simmons when he was only 16, L.L. became the first artist with product issued under the then fledgling Def Jam label. Entitled "I Need A Beat," the single's phenomenal success launched not only his career, but played a crucial role in Def Jam's rise as a major music force. From that point a stream of hit singles have followed: "I Need Love," "I'm Bad," "Going Back To Cali," "I'm That Type Of Guy," and "Mama Said Knock You Out," which earned him a Grammy Award for Best Rap solo in 1991. With a catalog of five platinum or multi-platinum albums, L.L.'s position as the most successful solo male performer in rap is already assured and with the release of his new album Mr. Smith, he seems to be positioning himself to reach even greater heights of superstar status.

Produced by a crew that includes Jean Claude Olivier and Tone, Easy Mo Be, Chad Elliot, ChySkillz and Rashad Smith, the 11 tracks on this new album represent a growth for L.L. on several fronts. The first single "Hey Lover," a duet with Boyz II Men, debuts this week at #30 on the Cash Box Top 100 Pop Singles chart. Although the record keeps the rough edge flow found on L.L.'s previous work, it does make an obvious appeal to attract a more mainstream audience as well. L.L. views the record as a continuation of his evolution as a performer. He says, "Although this record continues along the same sound that my fans expect from me, I do take some chances with regards to how I decided to interpret some of the material. Its equally important that I continue to grow as an artist. The producers and I took some chances with this record that take me in to some areas that I haven't visited before. Nothing on this album affects the flow or continuity of the project."

The release of this album is a top priority for Def Jam, not only because it's L.L., but also because the release coincides with the company's 10 year anniversary. The label has planned an aggressive marketing plan to ensure that the record reaches the largest audience possible. At radio the first single has already been positioned to attract huge airplay from urban, mix show and college formats. The label's strategy at radio is to first appeal to the stations and jocks who have shown a commitment to hip hop before branching out to other formats. At radio, listeners will have the chance to win copies of the album before its release and a nationwide contest will be held for one winner to get an all-expense paid trip to Los Angeles to spend the day on the set with L.L., have dinner with him and win a cash prize. The video to the single (which is already in high rotation on video outlets), emphasizes L.L.'s greatest assets. First, that he's the sexiest performer alive and second, that he can still roll through the streets of his old hood kicking the dopest lyrics around.

Def Jam is also taking advantage of L.L.'s hit show to offer the album maximum exposure. Look for the "Hey Lover" video to be showcased at the end of his show in late October and throughout the fall TV rating sweeps period. Def Jam also plans to coordinate the airing of other videos of L.L.'s past hits at the end of his show.

At retail, the label field team has already begun saturating the market with postcards and singles. The art work for the album was designed to be simple but yield a strong impact at the retail marketplace. In store album posters and flats are scheduled for prominent placement at retail outlets across the board and Mr. Smith album snipes will be posted immediately before the album's release in New York, L.A., Chicago, San Francisco, Oakland, DC, Baltimore, Atlanta, St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland and Philadelphia.

At the media level, listening events have already been held in key regions around the country to an enthusiastic response. Expect to see special segments about L.L. on BET, E! Entertainment

TV, "Entertainment Tonight," MTV News and other electronic media outlets. Major consumer and trade publications will be running features and cover stories on L.L. to increase exposure about his new record and Def Jam will be purchasing advertising space to augment that exposure. On the Internet look for information on the music and video for the album as well as his catalog of releases. L.L. will take part in a limited promotional tour and he says that he has plans to go out on the road later in '96.

As L.L. prepares to balance the demands of his careers in TV, music and as a husband and father, he remains characteristically calm about the whole thing. Its important to remember that he's been doing this a very long time and is keenly aware of the demands of the entertainment business. He says that he's taking it all as it comes and intends to continue to put his all in to whatever he commits to. "I love what I do and wouldn't trade doing it for anything else in the world. It can get hectic, but that's alright with me because I know that there is a time and place for all things to occur. What's happening in my career right now is great because I know that a time will come when it will pass, which is why I'm enjoying myself and success now."

REVIEWS By Gil L. Robertson IV

THE WINANS: Heart & Soul (Qwest 45888) Producers: Vari-ous

The Winans return with another strong collection that further demonstrates why they rank as one of R&B's premier groups. Throughout this release the Winans deliver solid vocals, backed by crisp production and a socially relevant message. Although urban radio has been reluctant to support secular music the Winans have broken form and enjoyed success on a variety of formats. There are a number of single possibilities to choose from with this project, which will hopefully give this album a long life at the top of the charts. Standout tracks: "Paradise," "Count It All Joy," "Please Believe In Me," and "Standing on Promises."

INTRO: New Life (Atlantic 82662-2) Producers: Kenny Greene and Byrant Reid

Intro's sophomore disc is a great follow up to its multi-platinum debut. On this new project, the group showcases great vocal maturity as it tackles a variety of R&B formats that allow the members to stretch as performers. The production and song selection is strong and should add to this group's appeal on pop and adult contemporary formats. With so many group's returning to the marketplace with new efforts, Intro has nothing to fear because this project is a winner all around. Congratulations, fellows. Standout tracks: "Strung Out On Your Lovin'," "New Life," and "My Song."

DOUG E. FRESH: Play (Gee 444069-2) Producer: Doug E. Fresh

This is some of the best hip-hop that I've heard this year. The music is fierce and the vocal flossing is right on the money. Production wise these guys experiment with a variety of styles and make them all work. This is legitimate good-time music that you can have fun with, instead of dealing with empty frontin' and lyrics. Not only will urban radio jump up on this across the board but this record has a good chance of attracting sizeable support from pop, alternative and college formats. Standout tracks: "Where's Da Party At?," "Take 'Em Uptown," "Freaks," and "Keep It Going."

PICK OF THE WEEK

MARIAH CAREY: Daydream (B) (Columbia 66700) Producers: Walter Afanaseff

Mariah is back with another collection of well-crafted songs that will only add to her esteem as one of contemporary music's most respected and commercially successful vocalists. As one would expect, everything about this disc, down to the art work, is first rate. The vocals are of course superb, the song selection is both funky and timeless, and the producers do a good job of balancing various genres on the album, which will certainly further add to its appeal. Radio formats across the board have already embraced the first single "Fantasy," as they will with every single that's released from this album. It's just that good. Standout tracks: "Fantasy," "I Am Free," "Forever," and "Melt Away."

Rap Single Reviews

By Gil L. Robertson IV

■ FROST: "Smile Now, Die Later" (Ruthless 1504-2)

Frost's smooth lyrical flossing and some excellent background support makes this track a winner. The record delivers just the right vibe for the fall/winter season, and I predict that the radio airwaves will be filled with this song.

■ JODECI: "Love U 4 Life" (MCA 3524)

Another winner from Jodeci! This track is filled with smooth, powerful vocals that will make it a winner on the radio airwaves across the board. As usual, the group's harmonizing is in order and the production is crisp and supports the group well.

■ WON-G: "On A Friday" (MS Distribution 0001-2)

Radio programmers look out! This debut track from the Haitian rapper is a solid, highly danceable track that will for certain fill the dance floors. The vocals here are executed well and the production and lyrical content is sharp and current.

Live Reviews

Shirley Bassey: The Goddess of Muse Descends on Los Angeles

By Gil L. Robertson IV

CONNOISSEURS OF GOOD MUSIC WERE OUT IN FORCE, last Saturday (October 28) night for British song stylist Shirley Bassey making her first local appearance in three years at the Wiltern Theatre. From the moment her orchestra began playing the strains to her biggest hit "Goldfinger" on through to the final notes of her last number "I Am What I Am," Bassey held the audience captivated with a vocal charm and authority that's increasingly rare in the world of live performances. Coming out on stage in a sexy tight fitting white dress, that left little to the audience's imagination, Bassey revealed that at nearly 60, she's still got the body to match her considerable vocal gifts.

Bassey in her flight with her songs.

After a rousing opening delivery of her signature tune "Goldfinger" (which earned her the first of six standing ovations) Bassey traced her musical history in song with a repertoire that offered a careful balance between old standards and new. As a vocalist, Bassey's strengths have always been her ability to give each song just the right amount of nuance and emotional interpretation needed to get to the core of the song. Her ability to connect with the audience on a given song was played out time after time, especially with the songs "I Who Have Nothing," "Never, Never, Never," and "Dio Come Ti Amo." Also the attitude and humor that she displayed on her versions of "Big Spender," and "Kiss Me Honey, Honey," were crowd pleasers. After more than an hour and a half of belting out timeless melodies, and two encore performances, Bassey retreated backstage and the venue lights were turned on signaling the end to what had been a fantastic evening of entertainment.

David Bowie/NIN

By Steve Baltin

THE GREAT WESTERN FORUM, INGLEWOOD, CA—David Bowie's 1983 "Serious Moonlight" tour remains one of the greatest concerts I've ever witnessed, a magical experience where one of rock's most innovative and alluring performers swept the sold-out crowd off its collective feet. Since that time, however, Bowie's other performances have fallen into the disappointment category. But since it is David Bowie I keep going back, and expecting it to be good.

David Bowie

With his current Outside release reuniting him with Brian Eno, the results being Bowie's best studio offering since Scary Monsters 15 years ago, and the much-ballyhooed tour that join The Thin White Duke with Trent Reznor's NIN (hailed as one of the most compelling live acts since U2), this live Bowie experience held out the promise of greatness.

After a brief opening set by Nothing/Interscope artist Priek, NIN took to the stage with the lights still on and tore into an hour-plus set that reaffirmed the greatness exhibited on last year's hugely successful Downward Spiral tour.

Revamping and sealing down that show, Reznor and band offered the same explosive energy that characterized last year's tour. Mixing up hits, "March Of The Pigs," "Closer" and "Down In It" with more obscure tracks like "Sanctified," NIN sent the crowd, the majority of whom were clearly there to see Trent, into a continuous frenzy. Featuring Reznor on guitar much more than before, the set stayed at a constant attack level, avoiding any slower moments until the promised collaborative venture with Bowie.

After a long musical interlude in the dark, which resembled the Dead's famed "Space" periods, only with a modern feel, Bowie made his first appearance of the night. Being touted as the highpoint of the tour, the joint summit between two generations of rock theatrics lived up to the hype, with a strong version of NIN's "Reptiles," a killer take of Bowie's "Scary Monsters" and the night's greatest moment, a duet of NIN's beautiful "Hurt."

The image of Bowie and Reznor standing side by side on the dimly lit stage trading vocals on the agonizing melancholy and anger of the song almost made the entire night worthwhile. At the end of the song Reznor waved goodbye, the curtain came up and Bowie took his turn in the limelight.

Mixing obscure oldies such as "Andy Warhol," "The Man Who Sold The World" and "Look Back In Anger" with a wealth of material from the new album, including the title track, "Heart's Filthy Lesson" (the lead single) and the lovely "Strangers When We Meet" (a pure pop gem along the lines of "Modern Love"), Bowie remained true to his vow to not perform the classic hits.

One thing that can be maintained about Bowie is that he is an artist in an age of rock stars. Constantly pushing the envelope to redefine the boundaries of what rock music is about and can be about, Bowie seems to have at least pleased himself. And after the amount of pleasure he's given so many fans for so many years, it'd be selfish of us to begrudge Bowie his fun.

Artist Profile

Geraldine Fibbers Tell No Lies

By Steve Baltin

THERE ARE THREE BUSINESS PERSPECTIVES when it comes to releasing prerecorded musica product: 1) There's the gold merchandise, the wonderful material that is a sure seller. 2) Take a chance on the middle of the line product that has a chance to sell and 3) Give the public something so good they have no choice but to eventually respond.

For Virgin Records, the L.A.-based quintet the Geraldine Fibbers are definitely an example of rule number three. Totally unique in sound, blending many different styles to come up with something kind of like country/punk, the Fibbers' brilliant debut album, Lost Somewhere Between The Earth And My Home, has been lavished with critical praise since its late summer release. Spin gave the disc a nine out of 10 rating, while the L.A. Times heaped four stars upon the record and the Village Voice rewarded the Carla Bozulich-fronted act with a glowing extended review.

Geraldine Fibbers

Yet, in a recent phone interview from the road, Bozulich said "I don't really expect to break big or anything...I like to do this for my life and I'm able to do that right now, so I'm very happy and I'm very proud." That way of thinking represents an indie mentality, but the Fibbers are now a major label act. How does Bozulich reconcile that train of thought with her band's major label status? She said, "Well, that would be interesting if it (success) happened, and I know that's what our label wants. And I think to some degree we want it too, because it makes you nervous when you realize how far in debt you are." She continued, however: "I don't wanna use that as a gauge to decide if what I'm doing is valid or not."

Having been through the hype machine once (although Ethyl Meatplow never made it big, the band was certainly a known commodity), Bozulich knows to take it all, including the laudits, with a grain of salt. When asked about the band's unique style, she said, "I'm very aware of the fact that it doesn't sound like anything else. And I think that's sort of a double-edged sword...because, really I just think there's a lot of people that aren't looking for something new, they're looking for more of what they know they like."

Unfortunately, most people around music believe the same thing as Bozulich. But the Fibbers offer a ray of hope in the commercial marketplace. The record is starting to receive airplay on the very influential L.A. station KROQ, and the band played a successful show, in Bozulich's words, "It was really fun," at this year's CMJ Conference.

However, all that major label/CMJ/KROQ/reviews stuff can be put aside. For anyone who's heard Lost Somewhere Between The Earth And My Home the Fibbers record isn't about sales or reviews. It's about something much more valuable the art of music.

In this sound alike age, very few records come along that can actually move people, that can remind fans my age of what it once meant to hear Led Zeppelin or U2 for the first time. On "Dragon Lady," "Get Thee Gone" and "Lilybelle," the Geraldine Fibbers accomplish that most rare and remarkable feat. And the fans who have heard the record agree.

Bozulich said, "A lot of people do come up to me and say that the music moved them. That means a lot to me."

REVIEWS By Steve Baltin

DAVE MATTHEWS BAND: "Ants Marching" (RCA 64457-2)

Though the follow-up to the hit "What Would You Say?" is just now coming out as a single, the song has been all over radio for over a month now. There's no stopping the North Carolina group's breakthrough record, Under The Table And Dreaming. In fact, if not for the steamroller that is Hootie, this might be the success story of the year. A rock band with jazz overtones that can play its instruments cracking the top 20 is a welcome sign indeed for commercial music. This engaging energetic number will do nothing to slow down the band's breakneck success.

JILL SOBULE: "Good Person Inside" (Lava/Atlantic 6059-2)

Sobule has already had a great year with the charming "I Kissed A Girl" single and "Supermodel," which got an added boost from its appearance on the Clueless soundtrack. Her latest single, from her eponymous Lava debut, has the same spirit of quirky fun that has brought new fans into the fold. Whimsical, with a good alternative hook, "Good Person Inside" should keep Sobule on the Modern Rock and Triple A airwaves for a time longer.

NO DOUBT: "Just A Girl" (Trauma/Interscope 6378)

Yet another act coming out from behind the Orange Curtain—Orange County, No Doubt's lead single has a rich blend of styles, from techno to punk, that has quickly captured the attention of listeners. As a result, Trauma, which broke Bush in the states, and subsequently entered into an agreement with Interscope, appears to be on the verge of another success story. Delightful, energetic and winning, "Just A Girl" offers an introduction to a band worth getting to know.

DIANA ROSS: "Gone" (Motown 1390-2)

The sophomore single from "Lady Soul's" new Take Me Higher album finds the singer attempting to tap into the lucrative soft R&B market. The results should be exactly what everyone involved hoped for, as this tender ballad that often finds Ross in a speaking voice will likely find a spot on urban outlets, as well as adventurous CHR stations.

PICK OF THE WEEK

MELISSA ETHERIDGE: "Your Little Secret" (Island 7054)

A preview of the dynamic Etheridge's upcoming album of the same name, this fiery rocker with the blues base has been immediately embraced at all formats of radio, successfully continuing the singles success she had with her breakthrough album, last year's Yes I Am. Featuring the singer/songwriter's infamous snarl on the song's seductive chorus, "Your Little Secret" encapsulates all of the traits that have catapulted Etheridge into the best-bet category among pop/rock acts. And with VH1 all over this track, and two upcoming specials on the channel, expect this album to break out big.

■ CYPRESS HILL: III (Temples Of Boom) (Ruffhouse/Columbia 66991)

Though largely a rap act, Cypress Hill have tapped into the alternative/Lollapalooza market with its melodic pro-weed ditties. Not surprisingly, the record's first single, "Throw Your Set In The Air," has jumped out on the pop charts. The album will quickly follow suit. This 15-song collection, including the bonus track, "Everybody Must Get Stoned," finds the group slowing down the tempos consistently, creating an alluring sound that could be described as ambient rap. The CD's opening track, "Spark Another Owl," sums up the style with its slow grooves. On "Stoned Raiders," the trio segue the ethereal into a haunted house feel, while "Illusions" kicks off with a sound out of India. The focus on Cypress Hill tends to be on the band's lyrics, but as the impressive III... shows, this is a band that can mix up its styles well and knows how to craft a tune that seeps into the consciousness.

■ TEARS FOR FEARS: Raoul And The Kings Of Spain (Epic 67318)

The only similarity between this group and the one that recorded the brilliantly dark album The Hurting is that the act shares the same moniker. In the ten years since "Change" introduced Tears For Fears to America the group has undergone a metamorphosis that has brought Roland Orzabal and the current incarnation from the depths of despair into the sunny pop beacon that appears on this 12-song collection. The lyrics still make the periodic foray into the darkness, like on "Sorry," which begins "What's the matter with your life/Did someone come and shoot your wife/Just as you planned," but the cheerful melodies on the title track and "God's Mistake" overpower the serious thoughts of the words, giving the disc a decidedly upbeat feel. Few acts can successfully make such a drastic change well, but to its credit, T.F.F. has made its strongest album since The Hurting.

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: Tapestry Revisited: A Tribute To Carole King (Lava/Atlantic 92064-2)

One of the top-selling albums of all-time, as well as a record chock full o' hit singles, Carole King's landmark Tapestry is a natural choice for the first album to be the subject of a tribute. The question is, though, do we really need Eternal doing "I Feel The Earth Move," Amy Grant covering "It's Too Late" and the Bee Gees performing "Will You Love Me Tomorrow?" The answer in reality is a resounding no, but its nice to see a compilation record for adults. The last couple of years have seen a glut of alternative collections, while the pop market has been all but forgotten. Featuring a blend of the old (Rod Stewart, Manhattan Transfer) and the young guard (Faith Hill, All-4-One), as well as a variety of styles, Tapestry Revisited is a noble effort.

The L.A. quartet Greta is back after three years with the follow-up to its Mercury debut, No Biting. Once one of the must-see bands on the L.A. club scene, Greta has slipped back into the pack during a long hiatus. Give the band a lot of credit though for recognizing what's most important in the long run. Many acts rush a second album, creating shoddy work, because they can't stand to see their name out of the limelight. This Is Greta! shows a band that wisely took its time, and has grown immeasurably because of it. The 11-song disc displays strong hooks throughout, particularly on the melodic pop of "Some People" and "Silver Blue." While this collection may not put Greta back at the top of the promising bands food chain, it shows the potential for self-preservation and a long life because of it.

Seger has had a sterling career, ranking among the top echelon of rock in the late '70s and early '80s, and is still capable of scoring chart success, as evidenced by last year's double platinum Greatest Hits collection. How relevant he is today is a big question mark. His last studio effort came out four years ago, a lifetime in the quickly changing world of rock. With his latest 12-song effort, the first record of his career he's produced himself, Seger attempts to address the concern by taking on many of today's headlines in song. On the record's title track, Seger sings, "It's a mystery/It's a wonder/How we keep from/Sinking under." Musically, he provides his usual mix of up-tempo rockers ("Lock & Load," "Manhattan") and slower rock ballads ("By The River," "Golden Boy") as well as a cover of Tom Waits' "16 Shells From A 30-6" that completely misfires. The question of relevance lingers on artistically, as some of the topical tunes seem forced, but expect decent commercial success for one of rock's longest running chart machines.

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: Inner City Blues: The Music Of Marvin Gaye (Motown 0452-2)

This album couldn't come out at a more appropriate time, with the recent racial tensions spotlighted by the O.J. verdict. On the landmark What's Going On collection, Marvin Gaye established himself as a sort of musical Martin Luther King, a seer and commentator of the injustices in the world around him. And 24 years later, Gaye's music, as done by a multi-racial group of performers, including his daughter Nona Gaye, Madonna with Massive Attack, Digable Planets, Bono and Neneh Cherry, is as timely now as then. While the songs of What's Going On make up a large part of this 10-song disc, there was much more to Gaye's legendary career than his social commentaries. On songs like "Ain't No Mountain High Enough" (one of many hits with Tami Terrell) Gaye showed he could have pop fun with the best of 'em, while the seductive "Let's Get It On," done here by Boyz II Men, remains one of the great go bump in the night tunes of all-time. There are 10 strong performances here, especially Bono's "Save The Children" and Speech's take on "What's Going On." But this CD is about the long lost talent that is Marvin Gaye. And what this disc proves more than anything else is what a truly unique and important artist the world has lost.

Film Reviews

Paramount's Home For The Holidays, A Tasty Dish

By John Goff

 Director Jodie Foster and star Holly Hunter get it together on home-based set of Home For The Holidays.

JODIE FOSTER'S SECOND TIME in the director's seat shows her taking on a family's Thanksgiving. Despite the popular belief of filmmakers, there are families who enjoy getting together for the holidays, enjoy each other's company and get along. Of course, you have to understand that filmmakers, like TV newscasts and tabloid papers—what the hell, all papers—subscribe to the fact that bad news sells better than good news; good news travels fast, but bad travels faster and sells more.

Not to say that Home For The Holidays is bad news, it's not. It's good and bad; functional and dysfunctional, an entertaining mix of real and over-the-top people, but most of all it's laced with emotions on the edge with edgy and touching performances.

Foster, guiding screenwriter W.D. Richter's script—based on Chris Radant's short story—nicely through a few days of the holiday season works wonderfully with her actors, who are all top level talents. She, along with production designer Andrew McAlpine and director of photography Lajos Koltai, keeps the action, look, and feel, tight, focused, almost claustrophobic in close relation to the characters' feelings. Occasionally they step outside for a breath of fresh air just as the feelings occasionally boil over; and in the end at least one person has come to a better acceptance of her own situation in life and in family. That they all have a more relaxed life outside of the family atmosphere itself is almost subliminally noted in a final montage showing them all to be content in their chosen situations, away from the family.

It's a lovely piece of work with familial teams being chosen for either support or adversarial episodes, love and respect. While there is bickering and misunderstanding, one-upsmanship and icy prodding going on, there still remains a wonderful sense of family that both touches and repels.

Holly Hunter is the center-post, the one all the rest of the family attempts to spiritually bond and/or ally with, the one initially dreading the return to the family situation, the one being tested. She's solid in the role. Robert Downey, Jr. is the gay brother who comes to the dinner in support of Hunter. He works with a freneticism which masks his character's desire to be elsewhere and a desire not to care. It's a triple-layered performance, well thought through and exceptionally executed. Mom and pop are Anne Bancroft and Charles Durning who, together, offer up an almost Norman Rockwell portrait of a husband and wife who've come to terms with each other and lifestyle situations beyond their control, outside their walls; Bancroft retreats to chain smoke in her pantry and Durning goes into the basement to watch old family films. They're wonderful.

Rounding out the family is sister Cynthia Stevenson in a rock-solid portrayal of the self-styled rock of the family and Geraldine Chaplin as the requisite dotty old spinster aunt, though her impression of the role is beyond requisite. She's delightful and touching as she steps out of her world and into the others'. Dylan McDermott, Steve Guttenberg and David Strathairn turn in solid support.

Producers were Foster and Peggy Rajski. Executive producer, Stuart Kleinman.

Paramount's Vampire Has Wildly Mixed DNA

By John Goff

IF DNA TESTS WERE RUN on Vampire In Brooklyn you'd find such wildly disparate types as Abbott And Costello Meet... (fill in the blank), Airplane, Dracula, Blackula, The Mummy, Vampira, Charlie Chan, Saturday Night Live, Amos N' Andy, Saturday Night Fever, Interview With The Vampire, name a Wes Craven Film ('course, he's the director here), any number of films and/or TV shows I'm sure are missing here. The one thing truly missing is originality. Maybe those involved consider the leap from the north pole of absurdity to the south pole of reality without a connecting bridge of at least a nanosecond of adjustment "originality," no writer I know does. But then, this is filmmaking in the '90s and most film execs in the '90s, to paraphrase a classic line from a classic—Originality!?! We don't need no steenking Originality!.

Eddie Murphy in seduction mode while Angela Bassett is apprehensive; which she should have been after her first read of this.

What producer/story by (co-credit)/Star (3 roles) Eddie Murphy needs is a boxoffice winner, and in trying to hit that he has blown up a box of nails which has exploded outward and hit everything in sight. No winner here. It appears as if director Craven worked on one film while Murphy worked on three others, and writers Charles Murphy and Michael Lucker & Christopher Parker worked on several others. Then there's the story by credited to Murphy, E. J. Vernon Lynch, Jr. and Murphy, C. J. Murphy is the last vampire from a Caribbean island who comes to Brooklyn to find his female soul-mate, half-vampire Angela Bassett who's a cop in love with partner Allen Payne.

Looking Forward To The Rest Of The Year?

By John Goff

SEEMS LIKE, IF YOU HANG IN long enough, this always happens. Year end. Another 365 gone.

Gone where?

Who knows, pal. Wherever old days go, I suppose. They just came and went. Sort of like wispy breezes. Sort of like...well, like movies.

Ah, but like a year, the best is yet to come...?...I don't know where I heard it. Somewhere. It was impressive at the moment. At least it stuck long enough for me to use it here.

So what is the best that's to come? Well, with the understanding that the term "best" is relative—relative to what, you figure, and make it easy on yourself—I'll dig into the year's wrap-up press info packages buried here under all the superfluous material accumulated on my desk... Just hold on. It's here somewhere...

Ah! Yes!

Universal's rolling some Casino dice, loaded with Sharon Stone and Robert De Niro.

Ah, but if vampire Murphy (sporting a wig with a plainly visible netting), can just get her to dance with him, she'll be his...O.k., Murphy ain't Travolta at the disco, but he's good at capturing loose cobras with his bare hands at Brooklyn voodoo-themed dancehalls (that's another story—The Cobra Woman?). They dance, she does, then doesn't, then gives him a stake... Hey, it's a mess!

Murphy has talent, there's no denying that. He shines comedically as Preacher Pauly and shows how to totally submerge himself as street hood Guido, but his central character, the vampire Maximilian is alternately hip, slick & cool and then steps outside for what amounts to a stage whispered 'aside,' near melodramatic, comment. It's almost as if Murphy walked onto the set in the morning and Craven and others asked: "What do you feel like being today, Eddie; hip? slick? cool? funny? boring?" And, depending upon how dinner the night before or that morning's breakfast went, he did it.

Bassett plays it straight, as if she believes she's making a serious movie; as does Payne. Kadeem Hardison is Murphy's assistant, a ghoul (he's called), grotesque, parts rotting off, talking zombie, mouthy chauffeur, who's working on two different other movies, whirling like a dervish. John Witherspoon bicycles (in industry parlance) from stage to stage with a running commentary of unconfirmed exposition. Zakes Mokae, as a voodoo escapee-owner of the nightspot, is the only one who manages to bridge the disparate gaps with any kind of credibility.

Makeup runs from the slick to the tacky, the latter usually appearing application-rushed. When it's good, as with the growth-protruding, prior to IV use, fangs, it's excellent—credit Kurtzman, Nicotero, Berger EFX Group—but there are also sequences where the progression of looks are either not justified, or, perhaps, something pertaining to story (God, that nasty word again) has been edited out.

Executive producers are Marianne Maddalena and Stuart M. Besser; producers, Murphy and Mark Lipsky.

Relative to the past! To what's gone before! Relative to the worst, or best, that's sprinted through the sprockets earlier this 1995 year; and making some guesses based on the ingredients of the soups being served up.

There we go. Now, are we all clear?...

Considering that the Holiday (November-December) Season is considered Digital boxoffice—That's when studios try to make more noise more often about their movies than Toys-R-Us feels the need to shout about Barbie Dolls and K-Mart flips the Blue-Light switch. When the BIG question of patrons becomes, "Do I dare hide out two hours in a darkened theatre from the reality of merchants trying to get in my pocket? Is it cheaper to open my pockets to the movies and let them feed me a good dose of non-reality along with the fattening popcorn? Where the hell do I feel safest?!"

Since there is no "safe" place anymore, let's ask, "Where can we be entertained?"

Alright, I personally am looking forward to bonding with MGM/UA's newest James Bond-er Goldeneye introducing Pierce Brosnan as "Bond..James Bond." That franchise never seems to fail at entertaining. My favorite Bond personage remains Sean Connery. Hopefully Brosnan can bring some of the fun back after the pall of intensity that last fellow invested in it.

Across town, in the Valley, Universal's shaking up and rolling out Casino, Martin Scorsese's take on Las Vegas. Even when Scorsese gives you reality, he entertains with it; and here he's re-teamed on the script with Nicholas Pileggi (they did Goodfellas together), and their other partners in crime from that one, front-of-camera talent Robert De Niro and Joe Pesci. Dressing up (or undressing, perhaps) Las Vegas for the boys is Sharon Stone, supporting are James Woods, Don Rickles and Alan King. Set for U's Christmas platform is 12 Monkeys, a "post-apocalyptic future" tale with Bruce Willis coming back in time to 1996 to save the world from itself (Listen... Y'hear any echoes from past future flicks?). But it's action, with Willis and his action-following audience, Brad Pitt, who damn near commands "Opener" status at this point in his still-rising career and Madeleine Stowe. There's strength behind the camera also with writer David Peoples (Unforgiven and Blade Runner). Can't sell this one short just because of a couple of echoes.

Pierce Brosnan from UA's Goldeneye in a typical Bond quandry: This is my weapon, this is my gun—this is for business, this is for fun.

Balto is from Steven Spielberg's Amblimation animation arm for Universal December release. If there's an animation entity who'll be able to give Disney a run for the buck (not Bambi—the folding green buck) it would be Spielberg and his sensibilities in that area. Although he's listed as co-executive producer only, along with Bonnie Radford, you can bet his influence resonates (speaking of echoes) through that entire production. Balto also has a score by James Horner (An American Tail and Apollo 13).

Disney's leap into computer generated animation, Toy Story, will it have the same appeal?

Walt Disney Pictures isn't exactly sitting still over the holidays, or any other time for that matter. Their Toy Story, set for late November release—which will draw through the entire holiday season, is a comedy-adventure and Disney's first full-length feature to be created entirely through the use of computer animation. For marquee value names there are the vocal talents of Tim Allen and Tom Hanks toplining, and three new songs by Randy Newman, but will it have the same humanity past Disney product has appealed to universal audiences with?

And lumbering out of the Disney pipeline through Hollywood Pictures/Cinergi Productions will be the limited release (in order to qualify for Oscars) of Nixon, Oliver Stone's take on Richard Nixon with Anthony Hopkins impersonating the former president. Stone directs/co-writes/co-produces. At last, we'll finally get the Truth!

Columbia/TriStar is in there pitching with Robin Williams in an FX-laden (I'm supposing here, y'understand) character from a board game entitled Jumanji. That's entertainment. In a bid for Prestige, Columbia, through Castle Rock, is offering up The American President starring Michael Douglas and Annette Bening. Behind the camera you're looking at Rob Reiner's direction with Reiner and Robert Redford producing. And also from Castle Rock for Col, in the vampire sweepstakes—and hopefully with more focus than the one in Brooklyn—is Dracula: Dead And Loving It.

Could be a good one if producer/director/co-writer Mel Brooks is on top of his game again. He's got Leslie Nielsen as his bat-man, and if there's anyone who knows how to have fun with satirical nonsense, it's Nielsen.

Sense And Sensibility is listed as a "Romantic Comedy" and stars Hugh Grant (who wasn't possessed of either of the title's traits earlier in the year), Emma Thompson and Alan Rickman. The Juror closes out the 1995 Demi Moore sweepstakes.

Twentieth Century Fox seems to be taking it easy toward the end of the year here but has a good chance in the action arena with Broken Arrow starring the hotter-than-reentry John Travolta and Christian Slater as Stealth Bomber pilots. In addition, the script is by Speed writer Graham Yost who says that Arrow bears a strong resemblance to the already proven Speed. It also sports everybody's action guru John Woo as director.

Leslie Nielsen as the batty one in Dracula: Dead And Loving It.

And looking into the female market at 20th is Waiting To Exhale toplining Whitney Houston and Angela Bassett.

And at Paramount... Earlier, screenwriter Joe Eszterhas and producer Robert Evans sold them some fake Jade and Eddie Murphy sucked their blood as a Vampire In Brooklyn. At this writing they're hoping Home For The Holidays, directed by Jodie Foster with Holly Hunter starring will bring in enough to put a turkey (sorry to use that word but it is almost Thanksgiving) on the table. The dishes (elements) are there but will they be able to serve up a complete dinner? I personally wouldn't bet the gravy stains on the tablecloth they'll fill the chairs at the $ table.

Nick Of Time sees Johnny Depp stepping into something more mainstream than he's been in before; a "suspense-thriller" whose filmed length matches the time frame for the events on screen. Sounds like a nail biter with John Badham directing the Patrick Sheane Duncan and Ebbe Roe Smith screenplay. Could be a delicious dessert, instead of another Depp fruitcake.

And the big "WHY?" of 1995 comes from Paramount in the re-make of Sabrina. Well, there's Sydney Pollack producing/directing. The big question on the minds of everyone who remembers the original is: "Can Harrison Ford, Julia Ormond and Greg Kinnear(?) stand in for Humphrey Bogart, Audrey Hepburn and William Holden? Hey, if Greg Kinnear(?) can pull this off, how about re-doing Stalag 17, Bridge On The River Kwai and—Al-right! Get this!—Golden Boy!? Whattaya think? Wouldn't that carry a punch, Pal!?!? Yesssss!!! And we can get Courtney Love for the Barbara Stanwyck vamp role, change the sensibilities of the piece for the '90s. Love oughta be hot after she does Althea Flynt for Oliver Stone in the Larry Flynt bio-pic, don't ya think?

Christmas shopping sounds like a good idea. For 1997, maybe.

Enjoy your turkey. See you next month for a total year-end wrap. Ham for Christmas, anyone?

Stealthily comin' at ya are Christian Slater and John Travolta in 20th's Broken Arrow as stealth Bomber pilots.

REVIEWS By Hector Resendez

■ THE BARRIO BOYZZ: *How We Roll. (EMI, 35706) Producers: Pete Ganberg and Joe Jacket. R&B/POP.

The Barrio Boyzz have undoubtedly made their mark in the Latin music industry. With two platinum Spanish-language albums behind them, the next natural step is to cross over. Mainstream, they have with their How We Roll album. With recruited expertise by Daryl Simmons, Mass Order, Peter Mokran, Full Force, Kenny Whitehead, and Fat Joe, Barrio Boyzz have truly realized a dream come true. They have arrived exactly where their hard work and aspirations have brought them. Selena would've been proud.

■ LALO Y LOS DESCALZOS: *Dejando Huellas (WEA Latina, 10921) Producer: Eduardo Enriquez. MEXICAN REGIONAL.

One of the more popular Mexican regional groups, Lalo y Los Descalzos releases their latest production since their inception in 1990. Prior to that the group, known as El Tiempo, enjoyed early hits like "Cada Día Más" and "Juana La De Tijuana." With this album, the group emphasizes ballads and romantic cumbias. The single promo, "Rivales," is a duet with Lalo and Lorenzo Toppano, vocal director for the group. It has been receiving heavy airplay in Mexico and the Southwest.

Puerto Rican vocalist-composer Niño Segarra is one of Salsa music's most popular artists. This compilation album features some of Segarra's most widely known selections. There's the top favorite "Porque Te Amo" followed by hit after hit. Salsa fans will enjoy featuring this collection of hits at their next dance party.

■ ARTIE THE 1-MAN PARTY: *A MOVER LA COLITA (Scotti Brothers, 78048) Producer: D.J. Juanito.

Produced by D.J. Juanito, A Mover La Colita is a crackling fusion of techno, house and Latin influences. It is Latin-pop fusion at its best. Calling it 'Latin house,' it incorporates pop dance music with the sampled sounds of merengue icon Wilfredo Vargas' "La Colita." Quite an ingenious production by this twenty year-old DJ/composer/arranger who lives in L.A.

Is L.A. the boomtown for the next generation of Latin jazz and salsa bands? By the proliferation of local groups, it would definitely seem so. Even N.Y., centric Paquito D'Rivera couldn't argue with the numbers, especially if he were to meet Johnny Blas. This multi-talented musician writes, arranges, and plays a number of instruments, including congas. A Night In L.A. is the perfect title for a work that captures the soul of this city's Latin community. From jazz, to cha cha cha, and stretching easily into a classic charanga, Blas and his talented eight-piece band swing with the greatest of ease. Of special delight is "A Little Latin For Charlie" which Blas wrote for his longtime source of inspiration, Charlie Parker. There's a little bit of Latin here for all of us. Gracias, Johnny!

News From U.S. & Latin America

ARISTA/TEXAS ANNOUNCES NEW

SIGNING: Mariachi vocalist Nydia Rojas has been added to the Arista/Texas roster this past month. A private celebration was held for media and friends at the famed Cielito Lindo Restaurant in Los Angeles early in October.

Rojas brings Arista/Texas her highly acclaimed talent and style as a rising mariachi vocalist. Currently a member of the all-female Mariachi Reyna de Los Angeles, Rojas has cultivated a passion for the music of her family's native Mexico and will combine these unique elements with Latin Pop on her debut album for the aggressively expanding indie label Arista/Texas. The record is scheduled for an early 1996 release.

"Nydia represents the brightest possible prospect for the future of mariachi music," observes Arista/Texas vice president and general manager Cameron Randle. "She is gifted beyond her years." Still in high school, the 15 year-old has definite aspirations as well as remarkable accomplishments to her credit. She has studied with Heriberto "El Cura" Molina, one of the original members of the great Mariachi Varas de Tecalitlan. José Hernandez, musical director and founder of the all-female band Rojas currently performs with, has also tutored her.

In addition to singing, Rojas also reads and writes music and is adept on the guitar, the violin, and the vihuela (an instrument used in mariachi music), and has studied acting, modern dance and folklórico dance. "With music, my goal is not to be famous but to stay true to my roots. My music is my responsibility to share the richness of the Latin culture with both new and old audiences. I am deeply moved when I see during a performance, that my singing has made someone cry. Nostalgia for the Mexico they left long ago overcomes them. I hope my music will always take them back."

Rojas joins the ranks of a label committed to taking regional music to a national and international audience. The label broke ground with the success of its other regional artists, debut success La Diferencia, upcoming Tejano country cross-over artist Joel Nava and conjunto accordion legend Flaco Jimenez.

NEW YORK LATINO MAG ON CUTTING EDGE: Where does one turn when seeking what's happening on the Latin scene? Aside from this column, try New York Latino magazine. Its publisher and editor, Alfredo Alvarado, has been trying to fill a media gap with his quarterly magazine. "Our philosophy is to write about the people in the Latino community who are doing cutting edge work—whether it be in music, literature or other fields," said Alvarado in a recent interview with EL Daily News reporter Yndira Roperto. There are plans to have the magazine available at counter racks in local record stores as well as at mega-stores like Tower Records and Barnes & Noble.

News From The United Kingdom, Ireland & Europe

By Hal Levy

PIECE OF THE PIE: John Garrett, head of the Rank Organization's casino and bingo operations, let out with a blast at the government's inactivity in its promise to liberalize the 1968 Gambling Act that put a waiting time of 24-hours for casino "members" and 48-hours for bingo "members" before they could play at the boards of tables after joining. The law also prohibited advertising. The casino and leisure industry conference complained they were competing with the National Lottery with their hands tied behind their backs. The law was supposed to have been amended some nine months ago but no action has been taken. The industry wants abolition of the cooling off period, permission to advertise, amending the liquor drinking hours and allowing more gambling machines in the clubs. Garrett pointed out that the UK earned more than £550 million last year from foreigners and gave employment to people rather than computers.

THE BIG BUILDUP: Paula Yates Geldof just can't keep her name and pictures out of the public eye. After ditching hubby Bob earlier this year, Paula went the whole enchilada and showed off her new, enlarged chest, together with her newly-capped teeth and vivid colored hair and boyfriend Michael Hutchence of INXS to the media, and then complained about the attention they paid to her. Helping stoke the flames is her new Paula Yates: The Autobiography, published by Harper Collins with page burning descriptions of lovemaking with Hutchence. She wrote the book because "she needed the money," and she's getting it with newspaper and magazine serialization together with booming bookshop sales. Now she's walked off the set of BBC's Have I Got News For You after an on-camera cat fight with Ian Hislop, editor of the magazine Private Eye. She said she was tired of his cheap, sexist gags.

IT WON'T GOA AWAY: The music, a blend of hard electronic rhythms with traces of the music of the Far East and India, Goa Trance music is spreading through the UK and Europe. Picked up by English musicians in Goa, a former Portuguese colony in India, which has been attracting hippies and dropouts since the early '60s, the music, mainly instrumental, is a flow of mixed music that has its highs and lows and often goes on for eight hours or more. In Goa, dance and music parties sometimes run continuously for up to a week and the music goes right along all the time.

INDUSTRY OBSERVERS ARE WORRIED that when Philips sells off its stake in PolyGram's music division, the company's remaining markets in consumer electronics will be troublesome. Philips has reported disappointing third quarter results last week with major blame being put on its German subsidiary, Grundig, which is reported to have lost hundreds of millions of dollars this year. Blame is placed on a downturn in the German market for their product as well as in Italy and Spain, their major export markets, both countries are suffering from currency problems.

I'M TIRED: Scott MacLeod, the bass player who joined Oasis on its American tour, replacing Paul McGuigan, who quit because he was exhausted, has, in turn, quit because he was exhausted, and MacLeod has been replaced by—who else?—McGuigan, who joins the group on its European tour.

RE-COMMITTED: Miramax Films is set to do the sequel to the 1991 hit, Alan Parker's The Commitments. Miramax is trying to get the original cast for the sequel.

IT ISN'T A HOG, IT'S A BEATLE: All major pressing plants in the UK and Europe are being hogged by the Beatles anthology album and single which is due out the end of this month. Other groups are waiting on line for its pressings. It is also reported that the Dutch pressing plant has armed guards patrolling the plants to prevent pirates from getting their hands on copies before release date.

WE HAVE OUR RIGHTS: The International Federation of the Phonographic Industry has asked the European Commission to protect copyrights from the threat posed by new digital broadcasting technologies. The industry fears illegal copying could prevent them from making a profit and recovering their costs and monies which come from royalty fees. They want new rights to allow them to charge for the making of copies.

COMING SOON TO TV: Sega, the video games giant and Fujitsu, Japanese computer manufacturer will join forces in providing multimedia services to TV. Starting next March, users of Sega's Saturn, the 32-bit video games machine, will be able to access Fujitsu's PC network via television. Later in the year the service will expand to allow access to new services including games and shopping.

HIT 'EM WHERE THEY DANCE: The 18-25 year olds are found at the clubs and advertisers are following them there. Sony Play Stations have been placed in The Ministry of Sound and the room with the computer games' consoles are packed with players, hopefully leading up to great sales in the Christmas market. Other sponsors are getting into the play as the 18-25 year olds usually have disposable money and they don't watch much TV or read newspapers or magazines. But they do go to clubs and current sponsors include liquor, perfume, designer label and even gourmet food companies, all hopeful of hitting their targets while they're at play.

TV OR NOT TV: Actors Robson Green and Jerome Flynn of the TV series Soldier, Soldier, have a single coming out next week. The 1964 hit, "I Believe," with Green and Flynn has pre-release orders of 600,000. Their first effort, "Unchained Melody," backed by "The White Cliffs Of Dover" has sold almost two million copies.

HOW LOW IS HIGH? A bid of £22 million a year for the UK's last television license was the winner for Channel 5 Broadcasting, the consortium consisting of MA1, a broadcasting and financial group; Pearson, the media company; CLT, the Luxembourg-based broadcaster and Warburg Pincus, the big investment bank. The shocker was, Channel 5's bid was almost £15 million lower than its leading rival. Coming in with the top bid was UKTV with £36 million. UKTV is a consortium headed by CanWest, a Canadian international broadcaster. Coming in at £22 million was Virgin Television, the Associated Newspaper Group together with Richard Branson. The UKTV group, together with Virgin are expected to seek judicial review of the decision. However, High Court approval is needed for a full judicial review and in the past, all such requests have been denied. The Independent Television Commission awarded the license because they felt Channel 5 TV offered the best programming. Target date for debut is January 1, 1997.

UK SINGLES: Hitting the water for the first time is Coolio featuring L.V.'s "Gangsta's Paradise." Also new in the water is Meat Loaf's "I'd Lie For You" in second spot. Being splashed in third is Simply Red's "Fairground" while backstroking into fourth is Def Leppard's "When Love And Hate Collide." Smokie uses the breast stroke to get "Living Next Door To Alice" into fifth kicking water at Eternal's "Power Of A Woman" in sixth. Trailing in the wake is Shaggy's "Boombastic" on seven and jumping in at eight is "Everything But The Girl's Missing." Michael Jackson is floating on nine with "You Are Not Alone" and swallowing everyone's water is Josh Wink's "Higher State Of Consciousness" in tenth. In Europe Jackson's "You Are Not Alone" is still number one single while top album goes to Simply Red's Life.

Jazz Notes

By M.R. Martinez

The MCA Music Entertainment Group (MMEG) recently acquired the jazz catalog to the seminal label Commodore Records. Pictured celebrating the acquisition are (l-r): Bruce Resnikoff, exec. vp/gm of special markets and products, MMEG; Zach Horowitz, COO, MMEG; Milt Gabler, founder of Commodore; Andy McKaie, vp of catalog development & special markets A&R, MMEG (see story below).

RIM SHOTS: The jazz universe is reaching a historic nexus. History is being recycled, celebrated and, with each passing moment, created. Well, back from the ozone. Let's talk about the deal that brings the history of the legendary Commodore Records to the MCA Music Entertainment Group (MMEG). Last week Tommy LiPuma, president of the MMEG-owned GRP Recording Company, announced the acquisition of the label. Created by legendary producer and Rock and Roll Hall of Fame inductee Milt Gabler, Commodore has been a ground-breaking label that has amassed a catalog that features the likes of Billie Holiday, Coleman Hawkins, Jelly Roll Morton, Fletcher Henderson, Bud Freeman, Teddy Wilson, Jack Teagarden, Pee Wee Russell, Albert Ammons, Lester Young, Jess Stacy, Red Norvo, Gene Krupa, Sidney Bechet, Eddie Condon, Willie The Lion and Stuff Smith.

GRP, which has been aggressively resurrecting jazz labels harboring wildly desirable catalogs (the label brought back Impulse Records and Blue Thumb Records), plans to release the majority of the catalog as compilations, which will include rare tracks that will provide insights into the Commodore artists' skills as innovators and improvisers.

Among the first releases is a two-CD set compiled by Gabler which will serve as a retrospective of his career as the owner of Commodore and the major domo A&R exec at Decca Records.

"The Commodore catalog has long been considered a cornerstone of recorded jazz history," LiPuma commented. "We are extremely proud to be the 'keepers' of this important American Music legacy, and look forward to introducing new audiences to music that has not been released in many years. We also feel that this serves as a 'coming home' for Milt, whose most impressive work was done with many of Decca's most renowned artists."

Gabler worked with artists such as Bill Haley and The Comets, Louis Jordan, Holiday, the Mills Brothers, the Andrew Sisters, Louis Armstrong & Ella Fitzgerald and Bing Crosby.

Gabler says of the deal: "I am happy that this music will be in good hands at MCA, who have proven their respect for preserving the integrity of music and dedication to creating packages of the highest possible quality. I am also excited that this music will continue to be heard and enjoyed by new generations of music fans."

MORE RIM SHOTS: Anthony J. Wilson, the most recent winner of the BMI/Thelonius Monk Institute of Jazz Composers Competition winner, and the 27-year-old son of the legendary big band composer/leader Gerald Wilson, will perform his work "Karoake," and receive his award at the ninth annual Thelonius Monk International Jazz Competition, set for Monday, Nov. 20 at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington D.C.

Wilson's "Karoake" won out over more than 100 submissions to the annual competition, which has helped spawn the careers of people like Joshua Redman, Marcus Roberts, Joey DeFrancesco, Ryan Kysor and Jacky Terrason, all of whom have moved on to major label record deals.

Wilson's composition won for its use of guitar, bass, drums and saxophone.

Skoal Music Rocks The Smokies

By Wendy Newcomer

SKOAL MUSIC WILL SPONSOR one of the largest concerts of 1996 at Forks of the River Entertainment Show Park in Newport, TN on July 6. "Rock The Smokies" will present some of the top country and rock acts, including Hank Williams Jr., Travis Tritt, The Charlie Daniels Band, Little Feat, .38 Special and The Marshall Tucker Band.

The concert will be produced by Pace Concerts Southeast's Steve Hauser, and Corlew & Associates' David Corlew. Nashville-based Hauser and Corlew are seasoned veterans at producing mammoth concerts. Hauser has produced for the Rolling Stones, Pink Floyd, among others; Corlew's past productions have included many concert tour dates as well as the Charlie Daniels Band Volunteer Jams, numbers I through XV.

More recently, Hauser and Corlew teamed up to produce "Rock the Rockies," a Skoal Music-sponsored concert held May 28, 1995 at Denver's Stapleton Airport that featured Bad Company, John Berry, Tanya Tucker and Hank Williams, Jr.

In connection with the concert, U.S. Tobacco Sales and Marketing Company is currently conducting a nationwide retail promotion and print ad campaign enabling adult consumers to obtain a free ticket to "Rock the Smokies."

Country Fest Expands Lineup

THE PREVIOUSLY ANNOUNCED LINEUP for the Fruit of the Loom All-Star Country Fest (with headliners Alan Jackson and Alabama) has been expanded to include Pam Tillis, Patty Loveless, Hank Williams, Jr., Tracy Byrd, Lee Roy Parnell and The Charlie Daniels Band.

Fruit of the Loom will host the largest one-day ticketed concert event in history on Saturday, July 13, 1996 at the Atlanta Motor Speedway, one of NASCAR's premier racing facilities.

Expected attendance for the extravaganza is estimated to be over 200,000. In addition to performances from the previously mentioned artists, the day-long festival features activities for the entire family, including on-site camping facilities, an arts and crafts fair, a carnival area for children and a merchandise mart. The event is being produced by Warner/Avalon.

As seems to be the trend of late for concerts of such a colossal nature, Fruit of the Loom is not selling tickets for the event. All 200,000 tickets are available exclusively through special Fruit of the Loom product promotions. Beginning in January of 1996, Fruit of the Loom will introduce the first promotion, a limited-edition customized CD offer, into mass merchandise.

Single Reviews By Wendy Newcomer

■ TRISHA YEARWOOD: "On A Bus To St. Cloud" (MCA C-11201)

Any lover of no-doubt-about-it, good music will appreciate this melancholy song written by Gretchen Peters. The introspective nature of "On A Bus To St. Cloud" is supported by heavenly strings and an unadorned, simple arrangement. Yearwood has again chosen material that is more than worthy of her legend-bound pipes.

■ BLACKHAWK: "Like There Ain't No Yesterday" (Arista ASCD-2857)

From the very first note of a BlackHawk song it is obvious who is singing. This stamp of individuality is something that very few groups can claim. Without taking away from the other two members of the trio, BlackHawk can thank lead singer Henry Paul for most of that recognizable quality. "Like There Ain't No Yesterday" fits in the same groove as "Sure Can Smell The Rain" or "Goodbye Says It All"—it is extremely catchy and suits the harmony-based root of BlackHawk.

McEntire's voice is magical when she sings pure country songs. With "Ring On Her Finger, Time On Her Hands," she has taken the Lee Greenwood hit (written by Don Goodman, Pam Rose & Mary Ann Kennedy) and reaffirmed its classic status. By the time each verse crescendos into the chorus, the effect is chill-bump inducing.

■ LISA BROKOP: "She Can't Save Him" (Capitol DPRO-10303)

Brokop has yet to have a signature song. "She Can't Save Him" contains a powerful message about alcoholism and its effect on the family—so powerful that Brokop has also recorded PSAs for Al-Anon and Alateen in conjunction with its release. Who knows if this will be the one for her? Brokop's heavy-duty voice definitely matches the intensity of the song.

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ TY HERNDON: "Heart Half Empty" (Epic 78073)

Certainly one of the most expressive, interpretive singers to be heard on the radio in a long time, Ty Herndon has another hit on his hands. This time he's aided by new Epic artist Stephanie Bentley, whose own project will be coming out in early 1996. Bentley more than holds her own with Herndon, and the two of them blend like they've been singing together forever. If Herndon can stay focused on his career and keep picking well-written songs, he'll surely entertain audiences for years to come.

Album Reviews By Wendy Newcomer

Tippin's nasal twang is perfect for the "working man" songs that gave him a niche to hold on to. However, too much of anything tends to dull the senses. Though the title of the album suggests otherwise, Tool Box astutely focuses instead on songs about love and relationships. Whether light-hearted ("A Real Nice Problem To Have," Billy Swan's "I Can Help") or sensitive ("Everything I Own"), Tippin's project boasts a majority of cuts that reveal a new, welcome side of an entertaining artist.

■ PAM TILLIS: All Of This Love (Arista 18799-2)

Early in her career, Pam Tillis made a name for herself through songwriting and demo singing. She has done it all, from an '80s new wave album (that was actually quite good) to an established career in country music. For her fourth Arista album, Tillis adds the title "producer" to her musical resume. "The River And The Highway" (written by Gerry House and Don Schlitz) is worth a hundred listens; lyrically alone, it is a masterpiece. Tillis' voice only enhances the tenderness and poignancy of the song. Other gems on the album are "Sunset Red And Pale Moonlight," the swing-styled "You Can't Have A Good Time Without Me" and the Bruce Hornsby cover, "Mandolin Rain." All Of This Love is a project that proves the lady knows her stuff in the control room as well as the vocal booth.

■ CLAY WALKER: Hypnotize The Moon (Giant 9-24640-2)

Although Clay Walker's Hypnotize The Moon is still riding the success of its debut single, "Who Needs You Baby," the album appears to hold quite a few winners. The strongest and most radio-friendly songs on the album seem to be ballads ("Loving You Comes Naturally To Me," "Love Me Like You Love Me," the title cut). Up tempo songs such as "I Won't Have The Heart" and "Only On Days That End In 'Y'" are not bad, but not especially memorable either. The most striking thing about Walker's sound is the vocal control he exercises over each song. While he is still a young artist, his phrasing is uncharacteristically polished for someone his age.

PICK OF THE WEEK

Lonestar's live album released earlier this year confirmed that these guys are the real deal. After showing some slow but steady progress with its first single, "Tequila Talkin'," the quintet has made a formidable impression on radio. Lonestar is produced by Don Cook (who also produced The Mavericks and Wade Hayes) and Wally Wilson, a pair who have the magic touch when it comes to cultivating talent. Not since Diamond Rio has a band displayed such promise. Lead vocalists John Rich and Richie McDonald give Lonestar its original, distinctive sound. Highlights of the band's debut studio album include "Heartbroke Every Day," "Does Your Daddy Know About Me," and "I Love The Way You Do That." For lack of a worthier description, Lonestar sounds like your typical bar band (the night before they are discovered by a talent scout and propelled to worldwide fame).

VARIOUS ARTISTS: Common Ground (Word-Epic 7014708023)

A joint effort by Word Nashville and Epic Records Nashville has yielded Common Ground, self-described as "country songs of faith, love and inspiration." Common Ground is a brilliant marketing plan in that it combines the two fastest rising forms of music, country and Christian. Some of country's top artists are represented in this collection, which includes previously released songs and new material. Old favorites like Shenandoah's "Sunday In The South" and "Same Ol' Love" by Ricky Skaggs are included, as well as new songs/album cuts by Patty Loveless ("Handful Of Dust"), Ken Mellons ("Dr. Jesus") and Ron Wallace ("Left Hand Of God"). The album's first release is "She Stays," a duet by Ricky Van Shelton and Andy Landis (currently at #7 on the Cash Box positive country singles chart). Common Ground is a welcome addition to any CD collection or positive country radio playlist.

Five New Jukes Introed By NSM-America

CHICAGO—"We've said that our approach was to give distributors and operators enough options in jukeboxes so that they could address just about every location," stated John Margold, senior vice president of NSM-America, in describing the lineup of machines featured by the company at the recent AMOA convention.

While the new models come in a variety of styles, each is equipped with the noted NSM HyperBeam sound system and the "super-fast" 100 CD player/changer that changes CDs on an average of 2.2 seconds between plays.

The lineup of machines, all styled to catch the eye and enhance the location, includes the Digital Thunder floor model and wall model, both featuring a bank of speakers visible beneath a decorative grill assembly for attracting attention. The Performer 2000 is also available in both floor and wall-mounted configurations, with classic cabinetry design. Other models include the Nostalgia Gold and the Emerald Ice wall-mounted machine. Emerald Ice is the factory's first in a designer series for style-conscious locations. The cosmetics feature a combination of greens, aquamarines and blues which keep changing through timed back lighting for a beautiful shimmering effect.

NSM also introduced its new M.U.S.I.C. program which incorporates a number of "how-to" booklets and other promotional tools to assist operators and locations alike.

Further information may be obtained by contacting NSM-America, 1158 Tower Lane, Bensenville, IL 60106.

New 'Value' Kiddie Ride Line From EMT

CHICAGO—The new EMT Value Line from EMT Kiddie Rides represents a lower-priced group of kiddie ride products that contains all of the safety and durability features characteristic of higher-priced, value-added lines of EMT kiddie rides.

Among the entries in this grouping are the Ferrari, a sleek-looking car that gives the young rider the full enjoyment of a real automobile; and the Turbo, which is a sporty, sparkle-finished, mint green colored automobile that provides an equally realistic play experience.

Marketing manager John Tracy pointed out that the Value Line offers a price alternative to kiddie ride operators. "Operators will get the durability they need plus the safety features all operators are concerned about," he noted. "This combination provides operators the basic ride without any compromises on quality or durability—a ride that looks like it should cost more."

EMT also offers a Standard Line of kiddie ride products which includes the following models: Jeep, Kid Burger (hamburger ride), Mercedes, Jumbo (the elephant), Nesse (the Loch Ness monster), Dozer, Santa Fe and Music Lion Swing (a likeness of Disney's Lion King).
