

Had enough of ninja swordfights on Planet Zark? Wondering why it's always up to you to defend the universe against foreign terrorists with bad breath and giant radioactive amoebas?

Reclaim your brain! Get Puzznic

- it's the fast-paced puzzle that'll give your mind a heavy duty workout.

Puzznic seems easy — move and match geometric shapes to wipe out all the puzzle pieces. Trouble is, you've got to match the shapes in just the right order — or you won't blast one puzzle and get to the next. Rack up bonus points for matching multiples — if you're really fast, you beat the clock and start some chain reaction action. And when you finish the first 160 puzzles, the fun's not over. You also get Gravnic, the bonus game that lets you play against gravity.

So dump the fake stun gun. You've got a few more hours before the universe goes terminal.

Pump up your brain cells with Puzznic. When you pop back into those ninja pajamas, you might just have a fighting chance.

Actual Nintendo Entertainment System' screens shown.

Don't let nasty elevator cubes squeeze you into a corner!

Pick Password to resume your game after each completed level.

Plan carefully or you'll be caught with extra shapes.

We're Looking for a Few Good GamePros

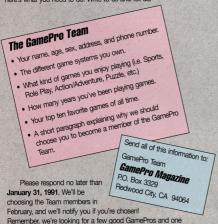

By the GamePros

Hey, GamePros, we need you! We want to recruit 250 talented, devoted, and even fanatical gamers to join our new GamePro Team. And have we got big, big plans for the Team. We'll ask the Team members to become a part of the GamePro staff by helping us rate and evaluate the newest game titles. If you're a gamer who really cares about the quality of the new carts coming out, if you've got an eye for graphics, an ear for game sounds, and the ability to discern just how good a video game really is, then you may be just the kind of person we're looking for.

If you're selected to become a member of the Team, you'll be asked several times a year, via mail, to help us evaluate games based on their graphics, sound, gameplay, fun factor, and challenge. We'll publish these ratings for use by other gamers, and also use them to determine which games will receive awards from GamePro Magazine.

And what's in it for you? Well, first of all you'll become a charter member of the GamelPro Team. Each team member will receive a brand new, totally unique GamelPro Team t-shirt and hat. You'll also get a special certificate to show that you're a member of the GamelPro Team. At some point in the year the names of all of the team members will appear in GamelPro Magazine. And finally, you'll receive discount coupons for savings on GamelPro merchandise.

If you're interested in applying for membership in the GamePro Team here's what you need to do. Write to us and tell us:

What You Think About the Ratings

I just bought the October GamePro last night, and I saw the rating system with which you are experimenting. I think it's a great idea, and using it I've already figured out which Nintendo title I'm going to buy this winter. Last night I memorized the rating blocks, so I don't have to keep looking back to see what everything means. I think that every game magazine should have a rating box for every game that's in the mac.

Brad Windsor, Port Union, NF

I think your new game rating system is cool – easy to understand and easy to use. Good idea!

Mark Wolstenholme, St. Alberta, Canada

I just read the October issue of GamePro and I think your new system of game rating is a great idea. I have been waiting for you to get a game reviewing system. It really helps me to know as much as possible about a game before I buy it. That way I won't go and spend $50.00 to find out that I don't like it. Keep up the good work.

Brian Hartley, Columbia, TN

I love it! Finally a rating system I can turn to when I'm going to purchase a new game. I only wish you'd had this system sooner. I love your magazine. Thomas Parker, Attapulgus, GA

I think your new rating system is great. It helps me decide which games are best. But I also think you should add a "Top 20" page which lists the best 20 games of each system. Maybe the readers could choose them in a monthly poll? Gilberto R. Diaz East Orance. NJ

(So far, not much mail on the new rating system, but what we have received has been entirely positive. Come on, Game-Pross We know you've got a little constructive criticism for us. Write us and let us know, no holds barred, how we can make this rating system really work well for you. Also, see the Letter from the GamePros to find out how you can holp GamePro Rate the Games. — Ed)

To SFX or Not To SFX

I just have to know everything about Nintendo's new 16-bit system, the SFX. I 12 GAMEPRO Magazine want to purchase the new system, but when I called the consumer hotline at Nintendo they told me there are currently no plans to bring the system to America. Is it coming to the U.S.? If so, when? How much will the SFX cost in the U.S.? I read that the SFX will have lots of fantastic games, including Super Mario Brothers 4. Any information at all would be welcomed.

Michael D. Serve, Kettering, OH

(Although Nintendo has not confirmed that the SFI is coming to the U.S. we believe the system will be in the United States no later than Christmas of 1991. Based on the cost of the system in Japan, we expect that the SFI will cost approximately $170. Yes, Super Mario Brothers 4 is going to be available for the system. To find out more about other titles in development see the November and December ProNews, and keep an eye on future issues of GamePro for the latest SFX news. – Ed)

I'd like to give my two cents on the long awaited SFX. I don't think it will be as hot as everyone expects it to be. First off, both the Genesis and the TurboGrafx-16 have a huge head start. Secondly, its price will be too much for your average video game fan, which is probably 60% of the NES users (in other words - people who like video games but aren't into them as a hobby and aren't willing to pay hundreds of dollars for a collection). Also, the SFX's starting line up of games isn't big enough to turn many heads. Finally, I suspect that other systems as good as the SFX will arrive by the time it's released. For example, Konix has their Multi-System in Europe, Sony might make a 16-bitter, or maybe another unknown might pop a system with scaling and rotating, a high meg count, and lots of fire buttons (in my opinion these are the most important aspects in a system). Then again, the SFX might rock the video game soene as its predecessor, the NES, did. Who knows?

Danny Tjandra, Castro Valley, CA

(Both Michael and Danny have fairly strong opinions about the advent of the SFX, and we just know that lots of other GamePros out there will want to put their "two cents" in also. Write in and tell us what you think about the SFX.— Ed)

Some Questions About Long Rumored Games

I've been looking at photos of Shadow Dancer for the Mega Drive, and I would like to know if this game will be available for the Genesis?

Sean Gibson, Bronx, NY

(Shadow Dancer, the sequel to Revenge of Shinbohi, is coming for the Genesis. See the December issue for a Short ProShot on this title and look for a ProView soon. The game should be on retail shelves by the first quarter of 1991. – Ed)

I own an NES and I keep hearing rumors about Tecmo Bowl II coming out soon. Is this true? John Combs. Columbus. OH

(We've heard the same rumors, so we checked with Tecmo. The bad news is that although there were plans for a Tecmo Bowl II, featuring updated player resters, those plans have been scrapped. The good news is that Super Tecmo Bowl, an entirely new game, is in the works and planned for a Spring release. —EiJ

How about A ProClassic That's not Nintendo?

I'm writing in regards to the ProClassic section that you feature in your magazine. Why is it that you review only classic games for the Nintendo? What about the other systems?

The TurboGrafx-16 and the Genesis systems, for example, have a relatively large number of games that have been around for quite a while now. People who own these systems and have older games that they have yet to complete may need to look at some tips for these games. If you don't reveal any hints, how can these players accomplish anything?

And let's not forget about the Master System and the Atari systems! These systems have been around for a very long time and have plently of classic games. You must understand that fans of both systems play with them as much as Nintendo fans play with the NES – maybe even more. Consequently, Sega and Atari gamers may need classic game reviews and tips to help them finish an old game. I would like to see some reviews for other systems besides Nintendo. I hope that after reading this letter you will be tempted to do this.

Modems, Phone Lines, and Video Games

By the Whizz

Hang Up Your Hang-ups

Personal computer gamers definitely have connections, telephone connections that is. With a modem they can play head-to-head over regular phone lines or hook up with major online services such as Compuserve, Genie, and Prodigy to access networked multiplayer games and games forums. Even USA Today's Sports Center has opened up its phone system to online gamers.

However, if you're a video gamer looking to dial a game, you've had to put your phone-phreaking on hold. But that may soon change.

The NES Network

NES owners may be able to tap into online gaming some time later this year. Last June, Nintendo of America announced plans to develop the first national network designed exclusively for the NES in the U.S.

According to Nintendo, the NES Network will allow one-on-one video game competition between players around the country, and system users will have exclusive access to hot game tips, previews of upcoming games, game reviews, shopping services, and electronic mail. They'll even be able to carry on remote one-on-one chats or group conferences.

Selecting from a library of new video games designed to incorporate NES Network capabilities, long distance players will choose between competing simultaneously on games such as Golf via an online link up transmitting match scores to rival game players for remote competition on games requiring longer play-times.

Although still undergoing a finetuning process, the NES Network package is expected to include a modem, a special controller, and a special communications cartridge, which will enable players to connect to the main NES Network computer. The modem plugs into that little socket built into the bottom of the NES and links it and your TV to regular telephone lines. The package will reportedly cost $100.

Additionally, you may be able to play the stock market as well as games with the NES Network. In fact Boston, Massachusetts-based Fidelity Investments has signed a letter of intent to research the possibility of providing network users access to a wide range of online financial services including home banking, portfolio management, stock market information, and real-time trading of securities and mutual funds.

Japan Calling

Nintendo of Japan already supports its own online services. Over 100,000 Japanese users play the stock market from their NES decks via a banking and investment network.

Japanese online gaming facilities are still somewhat limited at the present time, but the potential definitely exists. Nintendo has created the Super Mario Club to enable 2500 kids who own modems to connect to a Nintendo network, play prerelease versions of potential titles (for the Famicom, the Super Famicom, and the Game Boy), and rate them (see ProNews, this issue, page 124).

The Tele-Genesis: Please Hold

Sega's Tele-Genesis modem surfaced briefly in the U.S. over a year ago, but never actually saw the light of day beyond the pages of video games mags. The 1200 baud Tele-Genesis is roughly nine inches long and connects to the nine-pin expansion port in the back of the Genesis. A cord with a dual line connector plugs into the telephone jack.

Sixteen-bit gamers in Japan have had access to a modem for the Mega Drive (the system from which the Genesis was cloned) for a while. But up to now MD modem owners have been relegated to using the device primarily for home banking via a special Sega online network called SNN.

However, that will change, SNN will soon feature special online games and a new games preview section. Also Sega in Japan is ready to release several Mega Drive carts that support two-person play via modem including a dungeons-and-dragons-type adventure, a baseball cart, a football cart, and a peewee golf title called Putter Golf as well as new versions of CyberBall and Phantasy Star II.

Right now Sega of America doesn't know whether it will ever release the Tele-Genesis here. There's just no apparent demand for it. No bucks, no glory.

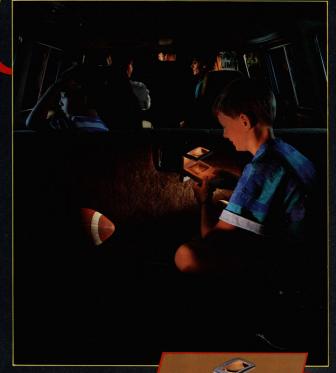

NEC's Telecommunications Booster

TurboGrafx-16 owners keeping an online gaming vigil should also keep an eye on developments in Japan. NEC and Hudson are joining forces there to make an interesting push for online gaming.

By the time you read this, the NEC Telecommunications Booster should have made its debut in Japan. This modem for the original PC Engine, the CoreGrafx, and the SuperGrafx (with an adapter) is a 1200 baud device that simply attaches to the port in the back of the system unit. To go online you need Hudson's specially-designed communications system TurboChip.

Although there no games programmed for modem play right now, the Telecommunications Booster will reportedly support multi-person play. However, the TB's real ear grabber is the fact that gamers can use the modem to connect to existing Japanese online networks such as ASCIINet, NIFIY-Serve, and NEC Home Electronics' own PC-VAN, which features a special gaming section called the PC Engine Club.

The PC Engine Club is an electronic bulletin board that features information about upcoming games, tips and tactics, personal opinions, and gaming conferences. But NEC and Hudson hope Japanese Telecommunications Booster owners will also connect with PC-VAN's public domain software feature called PDS.

Back to BASIC

The Telecommunications Booster has a special version of Hudson's game-designing BASIC interpreter called Hu-BASIC hardwired into it. In addition to regular BASIC programming commands you get a special graphics editor and music tools as well. You can program with Hu-BASIC using the regular PC Engine controller if you're inhumanly patient, but the TB features a special connector on its back panel which enables you to plug in a standard NEC 8081 keyboard.

NEC and Hudson are encouraging kids to design and program games and then upload them into PDS. Then, vidjots all over Japan can log on to the network and play the games or download them into the Booster's 32K RAM, which is designed for that purpose.

In fact, Hudson may periodically check out the most popular games and give their creators prizes. Additionally, it may even award the author of the most popular game of the year a contract to produce the game for Japanese home systems. That's incentive!

If all that sounds like a bit much for a game system to handle, remember that the PC Engine was designed to be the brains of a modular home entertainment center that could support all sorts of nifty peripherals. In fact, a printer, a photo reader, and a touch tablet have already appeared in Japan.

Online Video Gaming: A Long Distance Call

If Nintendo reaches out and touches U.S. gamers online, can modems for 16-bit systems be far behind? Yes. The problem is one of numbers. Nintendo lists its installed base in the U.S. at 25 million people. The number of Sega Genesis and TurboGrafx-16 owners combined are no where near that figure. Considering the cost of setting up a nationwide network the numbers just aren't there to support Sega or NEC online services right now.

Now that we've put the online bug in your ear, hear us out: don't call up Nintendo, NEC, or Sega to pester them about their gaming networks - you'll just get a busy signal.

Baseball season is still at least three months away. Or is it? With Power League III for the PC Engine you can start your own 10- to 120-game season, complete with play-offs and a championship round anytime!

Play Ball

From the moment the first ball is pitched this game is exciting. The in-game graphics are sharp and clear. They're also very detailed, from the varied skylines to the animated scoreboards. To add to the realism each player even has his own jersey. The music is excellent and wellcomposed. Digitized voices call out everything from strikes to home runs, although they aren't very clear.

Power League.

Unlike most baseball games, Power League III uses a camera's eve view of the field. When the ball is hit really high the camera follows it as it gets smaller and smaller When the ball streaks across the field, the camera again moves in order to follow it. It's this special view that truly makes the game fun to watch. Maybe that's why Hudson Soft included a special

> PROTIP: Since the camera follows the ball, make good use of the "radar" screen that appears in the lower right-hand corner. Otherwise you might lose track of some of your fielders.

Watch Model

The camera tracks the flight of high balls.

As far as the gameplay is concerned, Power League III has a few unexpected qualities that, again, set it apart from other video baseball games. First of all, fielding is easy to handle since the controls are set up in a very logical manner. For example, to throw to second, you just press Left instead of Up. Of course, if you still have trouble Power League III offers automatic fielding. You'll never miss a pop fly again! When it comes to batting, this cart excels once again. Not only can you swing from anywhere in the batter's box, but you can also bunt in three different ways!

When the game is finally over, make sure you stay tuned for the news. Hudson's very own sportscaster comes on camera with the final score, some brief stats, and possibly a few instant replays!

Options - Time Out!

You certainly won't have to worry about running out of choices with this cart. There are twelve basic teams to choose from. Each individual team has its own strengths and weaknesses. Some teams have great batting skills while others can whip the ball from base to base with the greatest of ease. Some teams can pitch fast-balls that top 170 km/h! No matter which team you choose, though, you'll find that you can manipulate the roster (each team has over 20 members) in a number of different ways.

PROTIP: If you want a hard-hitting team, try the Cark, Litons, or the G-Jans. They each have five players with averages of 300 or better.

The computer keeps tabs on every batter's performance during the game. The batter is 2 for 3 so far, with a single and a triple.

PROTIP: Overall, the Orivers have the fastest pitchers. Unfortunately, all but one of them is right-handed.

PROTIP: Against human opponents, you can't do better than to use submarinestyle sidearm pitchers. The batter usually has a harder time identifying their pitches due to the way they move.

Statistically Speaking

Stats are a very important part of Power League III. They're simple to understand though the game is in Japanese. At a glance you can find out how fast your fielders can throw and how fast the quy on second can run. This information can be very important when you're down by three runs.

However, statistics aren't very useful if you can't act on them. In Power League III you can change pitchers, fielders, batters, and runners in mid-game. Now you aren't stuck with that weak left fielder who can't throw the ball more than five feet! You can also send in unused players and change the positions that each player plays. Of course, if you change too much, you might end up with an uncoordinated team.

One of your final options as the "manager" of a team is to change the names of up to six players. And, if you have back-up ram (the Japanese counterpart of the TurboBooster Plus), you can save the new names for use in future games. PROTIP: Use the "Change Runner" oution often just to check the speed of the runners, even if you don't plan to change them. At least you'll know whether or not they have a good chance to steal a base. PROTIP: Change your pitcher after he throws 35 pitches. Once he reaches that point, he'll be slow and unable to throw curve balls very well.

Baseball just wouldn't be the same without the many different stadiums each team plays in. Power League III offers you is probably the ugliest stadium in baseball history. Of course, due to its size, it's also the easiest stadium to hit home runs in. The final ballpark, Hu Stadium, is the newest and the biggest of the three. You have to be good to play here.

PROTIP: Beware of the extremely high walls in Hu Stadium. Just because it looks like you hit a home run doesn't mean it will be a home run.

PROTIP: In Rokkohsan, grounders have a tendency to drift. Don't plan on standing in place waiting for them to come to you.

A close call at third hase.

Three for Four

Power League III is the first baseball game to offer a four-player simultaneous play mode. With a multi-player adaptor (the Japanese TurboTap) and a few additional controllers, your friends don't have to sit around and watch anymore! During a four-player game, two people are on each team. One person controls the pitcher, and the other controls the fielders. During batting teammates automatically switch off. This set-up works really well and makes the game even more fun to play!

PROTIP: When playing with four people. watch for the signal denoting whose turn it is to bat. It's all too easy to strikeout while waiting for someone to swing.

Final Score

Between the flashy graphics and fantastic sound lies a truly great baseball game. Hudson Soft has definitely created one of the best sports games available to date. But now it's up to NEC. Will Power League III ever reach American shores? We hope so.

Most professional sports are just a step away from being legal mayhem. Take football and boxing, for example. If you take away the rules and penalties and the sophisticated strategies, what do you get? Nawwww, not the New England Patriots and Buster Douglas' trainers. You probaby end up with something like Pigskin and Pit Fighter, this month's hot sports coin-ops.

Pigskin (Bally/Midway)

Before football there was rugby. Before rugby? Pigskin! Now you can return to the wacky sports world of 621 A.D. to play a totally barbaric game of prehistoric rugby. You lead a six man squad in an all out assault on the goal. No first downs, no time outs, no rules - you just grab the ball and go!

This game is fast with no holds barred. As in real-life rugby you can run with the ball and pass it to an open player. To score you run the ball in or kick it across the goal line. Defense? Try kicking, tripping, eye-gouging, and elbow smashes - and those are some of the tamer moves in this game. Additionally, obstacles such as mud pits and trap doors make every play a hilarious adventure.

You can play the computer or your buddy at Regular or Pro play levels. You can also pick several offensive and defensive strategies, but it's awfully hard to tell what works during the onscreen pandemonium. You can't take this one too seriously, but it's good fun. This is classic

PROTIP: Hit the Pass and the Punch but footbrawl. tons simultaneously to make a flying PROTIP: Periodically press the Team buttackle. ton to change your team's strategy and keep the other guys off balance.

Pit Fighter (Atari)

By now you've heard of virtual reality. Are you ready for video reality?

Pit Fighter is an awesome beat-em-up that uses digitally processed graphics for the knuckle-busting graphics. This coinop's look is totally unique, even the crowd scenes are composed of digitized photos, and do those people look jacked up!

That's because the action here is brutal. In fact you score bonus points for brutality. You can fight solo, or three players can play simultaneously. Become one of three masters of street fighting, each skilled in a different fighting form. Your opponents are slimy low lifes such as Chainman Eddie and the Angel.

Keep your eyes open for weapons such as knives and pipes, but you can also toss crates, oil drums, chairs, and even motorcycles at the goons. Oh yeah, they throw all those things at you, too.

Win three matches in a row and you automatically enter a Grudge Match where you fight other paying players in a free-forall, or you face a digitized twin of yourself in a mano-a-mano showdown. Keep winning and you battle the Masked Warrior. Feeling the pits? Try Pit Fighter.

PROTIP: Hit all three buttons simultaneously to make your player's Super Move. PROTIP: Hit your opponents when they're down to rack up Brutality points.

TECMI BOW

By Gideon

This month's featured game is truly a ProClassic – it was voted the number one sports game by GamePro readers in our recent Sports Games Survey, It easily beat out Punchoutt, Blades of Steel, and Double Dribble without even breaking a sweat! So, for those of you who still don't know about the hottest gridiron action around, strap on your helmet and tighten your cleats, 'cuz it's CRUNCHTIME!

Popular Poppa

Tecmo Bowl is a faithful adaptation of the monster four-man areade hit of the same name. It retains all the fast action, fun graphics, and excellent playability of the arcade version, but adds a couple of unique features that separate it from its predecessor.

EPRO Magazine

Tecmo Bowl for the NES features three different play modes: One Player, Two Player, and Coach Mode. In the Coach Mode you're the big kahuna of your team as you call the plays and watch the computer battle it out against your opponent. You can focus all your attention on a surefire winning strategy, and if the play lays an egg on the field you can always blame your players!

Play against the computer, against a friend, or sit back and coach from the sidelines.

This game is endorsed by the NFL Players Association so you get to play with the actual squads of your favorite NFL teams! Become Jerry Rice and catch a game-winning long bomb, or slip into Lawrence Taylor's shoes and go for the blitz! The players onscreen actually perform as well as their real-life counterparts. For example, Indianapolis' Albert Bentley doesn't cut against the green as well as Los Angeles' Bo Jackson. Having > the actual NFL players' names and talents at your fingertips adds a touch of realism that you just can't get from other NES football games!

Hire Joe without having to pay his salary!

It's Not Regulation, But It's Close...

Tecmo Bowl has several characteristics that separate it from professional football. You'll immediately notice that time is extremely limited in this game. Quarters are only FIVE minutes long and you have NO time outs. In fact, the game clock ticks down at such a haphazard rate that it's essential to keep an eye on it. Don't worry about balancing your running and passing plays – always go for the score! PROTIP: Take your time when you're on ottense. The ball clock doesn't start running until after you hike the ball. Study the delense formalount at your leisure and locate your receivers.

On Either Side of the Ball

Tecmo Bowl's only drawback is the lack of play options. There are only four offensive and defensive plays to select from. The patterns differ among the teams, but basically you can run left or right, and pass short or long. The most you can do to vary your play options is to run in the reverse direction, or option for a quarterback draw when the defense is wide open.

An extremely limited menu of plays hampers the appeal of an otherwise excellent game.

On offense, you'll need quick reflexes as you drop back into the pocket and select the open receiver. As soon as your QB releases the ball you become the chosen reciever and must manuever into the path of the ball and fight for maximum vardage! Both the receivers and running backs have the ability to straight-arm oncoming tacklers and knock them aside for extra yardage.

PROTIP: Immediately drop the quarterback back in order to have enough time to search out the open receiver.

PROTIP: Repeatedly press Button A to straight-arm oncoming tacklers before making contact.

Select any one of the 11 defensive players to control before the offense hikes the ball. Unfortunately, you're stuck with your selected player throughout that play. Learn to recognize pass and run formations as best as you can or you'll eat dirt far away from the action! On defense, vou're also able to stiff arm and throw aside opposing blockers. A well timed diving tackle enables you to take down any player, regardless of how big or how fast he's running.

If you want to make it to the Tecmo Bowl Championships it's essential that you have a great kicking game. A pulsating power meter controls how far you kick the football. Try to time your kick so that you nail a bomber each and every time.

PROTIP: Time it out when you kick off. It's best to press the button just as the meter passes the halfway mark.

A Video Hit!

Tecmo Bowl features large, clear characters that make it is easy to discern all the players on the field. The controls are very easy to learn and gameplay is extremely responsive. A catchy theme song and attractive graphics during the half time to put the game aside and continue your winning season whenever you like.

Check out all the video highlights!

If you're ailing for fast-paced, arcade football action. Tecmo Bowl may be the perfect prescription for you! Although newer football games may have more features and better graphics, the appeal of Tecmo Bowl remains true. Find out what thousands of GamePros already know - Tecmo Bowl is a lot of FUN!

Hey, GamePros! The following is an index to all of the products (hardware and software) reviewed in the 1990 issues of GamePro. To find what you're looking for simply look up the name of the game or product. After the name you'll find a symbol that indicates which system the product goes with: (N = Nintendo, G = Genesis, T = TurboGrafx-16, A = Atari, GB = Game Boy, L = Lynx, Arc = Arcade Game), what kind of a feature it was, the month of the issue the review is in and the page number. Hope this helps all of you who are wondering when your favorite game was reviewed!

meldac

Over one hundred years ago during the mighty Shogun Era, the Lord of Darkness sent his fearsome army to terrorize the Japanese countryside. Using the Dark Lord's powerful magic, his evil minions spread famine, plague, and pestilence wherever they went, leaving the peaceful population hopelessly oppressed. It's up to you to recruit a lethal Mercenary Force from a hand of deadly warriors and free the country from the Dark Lord's ruthless reign of terror. Now Nintendo® Game Boy¹⁷⁰ players can get mercenary with Meldac's completely new type of action/shooting game, MERCEMARY FORCE. Voted one of the top 10 game introductions in 1990 by Japan's Game Boy Club Mazazine. Mercenary Error bridgs superior graphics and incredible stereo.

one of the top 20 game introductions in 2.990 by Japan's Game Boy the Magazine, Mercenary Force brings superior graphics and incredible stereo sound to Game Boy™ software. So if you have a head for strategy and a body for action, what are you waiting for? Let's Get Mercenary!

Meldac of America, Inc. 1801 Century Park East Suite 2210 Los Angeles, CA 90067

SPECIAL FEATURE

Ever wonder what it's like to play defense against Michael Jordan or to try and stop a Charles Barkley runaway dunk? Or perhaps you've had the urge to get in front of a Los Angeles Lakers lightning fast break: In Lakers vs. Celtics for the Sega Genesis you'll get your chance to live out these and other basketball fantasies without breaking a sweat.

Is this how Chris Berman got his start?

Lakers vs. Celtics is an amazing, realistic simulation of the 1989 NBA playoffs, which features the eight teams that made the quarterfinals: Los Angeles, Boston, Detroit, Philadelphia, Chicago, Portland, Phoenix, and Utah. It also includes the Eastern and Western Division all-star teams. You can play a single game headto-head against a friend or go solo with your favorite team in the playoffs. There's a password mode for the playoffs, so you can continue from where you left off after you've completed a game.

You control all the NBA players, even the bench babies.

Gimme the Ball! Gimme the Ball!

If you were counting on another "all offense, no defense" basketball cart (and believe me, there are more than enough of those around), forget it! This cart makes you play tough D, move the ball around, and clear out the lane for the rebound.

You control one player at a time, but you can shift control to another teammate by pressing the B button. You can tell which player you command because his sneakers turn black. The rest of your team is computer controlled and performs the way you'd expect NBA pros to perform: They'll try to get open for a pass or set a pick so you can take a shot. On defense, however, the computer-controlled players on your team tend to play a little "soft." You're much better off trying to shift control to a player closer to the man with the ball, rather than relying on the computer to guard the man for you.

Just as in the NBA, making a steal or blocking a shot often leads to a fastbreak slam dunk. By pushing the A button when vou're on defense, vou can make your player jump for a rebound or a block. By pressing the C button when your defender is close to the ballhandler. you can attempt a steal. Stealing is the most important defensive weapon you have, so try it as often as possible.

Two other realistic additions to Lakers vs. Celtics are player fatique factor and player fouls. Yep, your guys can foul out of the game, so be careful. Your players also tire out if you don't give them an occasional breather. Hey, they're athletes, not supermen. Even Michael Jordan sits during a game (although not for very long).

Pushing isn't nice.

A Lean, Mean Scoring Machine Every team has its own style of play. One style is not necessarily better than the other. The key word here is "execution." You can be just as successful on offense with the Boston Celtics' slower paced half-court offense as you can with the Los Angeles Lakers' never-pause-for-abreath, fastbreaking style. If you maneuver, move the ball around, and hit the open shots, you'll come out a winner!

There are four ways to take a jump shot in Lakers vs. Celtics. To take a standard jump shot when you have a man wide open press A down slowly and then release it. Miss many of these babies, and it's Bench City. To give a defensive player a pump fake before taking a shot, give the A button a guick tap, then press A again to take the shot. To shoot over a defender, press the A button and release it at the top of your jump. This is the type of shot that separates the NBA elite from the NBA regular ioes.

The fourth way to shoot the ball is the real crowd pleaser - the Take It to the Hoop Slam Dunk. If you have any doubt as to the realism of Lakers vs. Celtics, try a dunk or a lay up with an NBA superstar. such as Michael Jordan, Magic Johnson, or Charles Barkley. These guys have all the moves of their real life counterparts!

Alpha Phi Jamma

To say Lakers vs. Celtics is a good sports game is like saving King Kong is a large monkey. It's great, wonderful, superlative, fantastic... wait let me dig out my thesaurus... radical, awesome, exceptional... I'm sure you get the picture. This is truly the most accurate recreation of roundball for any video game system you can even recognize your players. Lakers vs. Celtics is an adrenaline-boosting, fast-paced sports masterpiece, Grab yourself a Genesis controller and pull up a chair, Lakers vs. Celtics is on the tube. and it's showtime!

Money Players - Isaiah Thomas is a superstar point guard with great speed and quick hands. Joe Dumars came to the forefront during last season's playoffs as a devastating outside scorer. Team Overview - The Pistons are the 1989 NBA Champions, and deservedly so. The team is extremely balanced with a great starting five and three quality backups on the bench. All Piston starters had scoring averages in double figures last season. Mark Aguirre and John Salley provide scoring and shotblocking off the bench.

Kevin Johnson runs the Phoenix fast reak

Team Overview - The Suns offense is dominated by Chambers and Kevin Johnson. Johnson is an ideal guy to bring the ball up court- he's a top assist man and a scoring threat, too. Eddie Johnson is one of the best sixth men off the bench in the NBA. Mark West is a top shot blocker.

Money Players -David Robinson leads the blocked shots, steals, rebounds, and points per game. Need we say more? Terry Cummings is another quality scorer for the Spurs. Team Overview - The Spurs offense revolves around Robinson in the middle. He's one of the top centers in the NBA, and you'll see why as you watch him perform his magic. There isn't much help available on the Spurs bench, so try not to have any player foul out.

Money Players - Clyde "The Glide" Drexler is the main man on the Trailblazers- he can dunk with anyone and is an exceptional three-point shooter.

trailblazer . Team Overview - The Trailblazers are a well-balanced scoring machine. Any one of the starting five can have a big game on any night. Their balance on offense led them to the NBA Championship last year. This team is good at stealing the ball, but not very good at shot blocking.

Money Players - Larry Bird and Kevin McHale lead the scoring for the guys in green. McHale is also a great shotblocker.

Newcomer Reggie Lewis provides some speed in the back court.

Team Overview - The Celtics play a slow paced half court game, a far cry from the Lakers revved up court running. Come crunchtime, Bird and McHale are always there. But this is an aging team, and speed is not their forté.

Money Players -Michael Jordan is THE money player in the NBA and in this cart, too. Sure, you could make a case for Magic Johnson, or perhaps even Charles Barkley. but for years Jordan has single-handedly dragged the Bulls into the playoffs. During the 1989 season, a talented teammate, Scottie Pippen, finally emerged to lend a hand. Jordan is the league's premiere scoring threat. Pippen is an excellent ball stealer and outside scoring threat, as well.

Team Overview - The Bulls' offense is rather simple to master. Get the ball up court, and get it into Jordan's hands. Pippen is a good alternative, especially if Jordan is triple-covered. Grant is effective within 12 feet of the basket. Limited help on the bench from Stacey King, Hodges, and B.J. Armstrong.

Money Players - Charles Barkley is the main man on the Sixers. He's a six-foot, six-inch, 253-pound man-monster who is always among the NBA leaders in rebounding and scoring. Hershey Hawkins is a streaky outside shooter who is unstoppable when he heats up.

Team Overview - The Sixers fared far better last season than NBA experts expected, which was probably because of the emergence of Hawkins as a scoring threat. Rick Mahorn is known as one of the league's top defenders, and combined with Barkley, makes a fearsome frontcourt. Ron Anderson is a good sixth man, but there isn't much more help on the Sixer's bench.

Now comes Ultimate Basketball, a cart that definitely borrows many of the better qualities from Double Dribble, but adds a few new twists of its own. Like Double Dribble, Ultimate Basketball has a one or two player option, but it also has a two-player cooperative mode for an extra challenge.

D-FENCE!!! D-FENCE!!!

The biggest knock on DD was its lack of defense. The offense was great, plenty of slam dunk close ups and fast breaks up the court. But basketball without defense is like playing a game of "Around the World."

Ultimate Basketball adds that missing ingredient. By playing solid defense, you can make your opponent take low percentage shots or keep him from shooting entirely. You can block slam dunk attempts, or steal the ball,

You Can't Tell a Player Without a Scorecard

There are seven teams in the Ultimate Basketball League: NY. Dallas. Houston. Los Angeles, Detroit, Chicago, and San Diego. Each team has a full roster of 12 players, and each player is rated for defensive ability, shooting ability, and speed. There's also a stamina bar for each player, overusing your players can wear them out. The numerical ratings play a big part in your team's performance. High defensive ratings enable you to steal the ball more easily, high shooting ratings make more of your outside jumpers swish through the net, and top speed numbers help you outrun your opponent.

He's an excellent ballstealer and great at making the driving lay up. James Worthy is unstoppable when he's hot - and he gets hot pretty often.

Team Overview - The Lakers have a balanced starting five, with the bulk of the offensive output produced by Worthy, Johnson, and Byron Scott. Orlando Woolridge is a decent sixth man off the bench, and Vlade Divac is a rebounding/shot blocking monster. The Lakers are great at the fast break on offense.

PROTIP: Dallas is an outstanding shooting team. They have the best chance of successfully hitting three-point shots.

PROTIP: Using the Dallas team, take your three-point shots from the near right corner. This spot has the highest success rate.

Yo, Ref... Get Your Eves Checked!

A big factor in the outcome of a game are the zebras – and I don't mean the four-legged variety. The referees in Utitimate Basketball are the blindest bunch of guys ever to wear the white and black. I could swear I once saw a Seeing Eye doop behind the visitor's bench.

The seemingly arbitrary calls of the referees are usually just annoying. At their worst, however, they severely hurt the gameplay of Ultimate Basketball. Refs call just a few fouls: traveling, back pass (back court violation), time violations (for not inbounding the ball in time, not passing the half court line in time, or not shooting the ball in time), pushing, charging, and blocking. The randomness of the calls only involve the latter three.

During the game, your opponent (computer or human) will probably go after your player with the ball in basketball video games. If you run into him, you'll be called for charging or pushing. In real basketball, a defensive player must be in a set position, with both feet planted on the floor, for an offensive player to be called for charging. In Ultimate Basketball, a defender may cut in front of you, and you'll get nabbed for charging. Sometimes you'll feel as if the opposition has the refs on its payroll.

Pushing? You're kidding!

PROTIP: Avoid charging calls against your team by passing the ball to your teammates. You can only be called for charging if you move.

Swatting and Stealing

The key to success with Ultimate Basketball is playing great defense and hitting a lot of three-point shots. You'll need the three-pointers to make up for the advantages the computer has over you. And you'll need great defense to keep those advantages from becoming a major factor.

The computer has the ability to intercept your inbound pass and turn it into a quick two points. The computer usually does this right under your basket: Before you can even blink, he's slammed home the basketball. However, if you can get a defender near the basket you can make the computer miss the easy slam dunk.

PROTIP: Make the computer miss a slam dunk attempt by pressing the B button as he goes up for the shot. This technique sometimes works if your defender isn't on the closeup screen.

Another advantage the computer has is an uncanny knack for getting a re-bound. It's almost as if it has a built-in homing device. On defense, you should always control a quick player with a good defensive rating. It gives you a better chance of getting to the rebounds before the computer or stealing the ball back if you don't.

Roundball Roundum

Ultimate Basketball's good points far outweigh its problems. Once you get a feel for the frantic pace of this game, you'll find yourself hooked. If you enjoyed Double Dribble, slam dunk a copy of Ultimate Basketball into your NES. It's NES roundball at its best.

LICENSED BY Nintendo' your opponent (a typical basketball goal) and to punch your competitor's lights out (an untypical basketball goal).

You can choose from four different teams (Chicago, Los Angeles, Brawl State, and Natural High) and eight different players. The team you choose is inconsequential - it just determines the color of your uniform. However, each player has different strengths. The difference between the players is not so great that the outcome of the game would be dramatically affected if you chose, for example, Blade instead of Moose, but there is a noticeable difference.

These guys all have one thing in common they're nasty!

Teamwork

Arch Rivals is a two-on-two contest. You always control the player you selected at the beginning of the game, the computer guides the actions of your teammate with some exceptions. When your teammate has the ball you can make him shoot it or pass it by hitting the A and the B buttons, respectively.

Trying to take on the opposing team solo is a big mistake. A key to success in Arch Rivals is knowing where your teammate is at all times. You'll need to know how close the other team is to punching him when he's dribbling the ball, if he's open when you have the ball, and how well he's guarding his man when the other team is coming up the court.

PROTIP: Regularly passing the ball back and forth between your two players is a good way to avoid having the ball taken away. However, sometimes your oppo-nent decks your teammate for no reason. Don't pass the ball to him when he's on the floor.

It helps to have a teammate - especially when you're laying on the floor.

PROTIP: The computer team often tries to bring the ball straight up the court without dodging your player. You can get the ball and score an easy basket if you stand in the way and punch the b dler as he dribbles into you. Now, take the ball and stuff it through the hoop! The computer programming is such that he will do this same exact thing several times in a row, and more than once during the game. It's a great opportunity to build a big lead!

Hev! Hev! Crash and Burn!!!

The most frequent way to land on your face is when your opponent decks you with a right to the face or dive tackles you. But even when the other team is no where near, there are dangers. The near-sighted referee parades the sidelines, he'll always stumble into you if you get too close. The occasional spilled soda can trip you up as well.

Check out the game tips during half time.

Arch Rivals is based on the popular 1989 coin-operated game and has many of the little extras that made the arcade version a hit. Cheerleaders urge vou on after every basket, and angry coaches stalk the sidelines, just waiting for an excuse to chew out their teams. However, there are some glaring omissions - the team mascot bulldog who loves to grab players as they streak by, the ability to grab a player by his shorts to trip him up, and digitized sound - but otherwise this game is pretty faithful to the original. Arch Rivals makes for a nice afternoon diversion if you're looking for something fast-paced and easy to play. This cart is not for b-ball diehards or sports simulation nuts. Forget about strategy and shooting the ball, or in this case, forget about rules altogether and just punch your opponent's face in!

All the players have the same moves, basically jump shots, layups, dunks, and rebounds, but how well they perform these skills, according to LJN, is based on their 1989 statistics. This appears to bear out. Good outside shooters like Chris Mullins and Tom Chambers hit from long range more consistently than inside players like Roy Hinson and Brad Daugherty.

PROTIP: Always follow up your shots to grab the rebound in case you miss.

Free throws require timing

PROTIP: You can cheat on the computer in Horse. Don't duplicate its fancy moves; just beliep over to the X and take the shot

One-on-One is where this cart really struts its stuff. In this no-holds-barred half-court showdown, you choose your player, your opponent, and a skill level from 1-3. You can play up to 99 points or to four time limits from two to twelve minutes long.

PROTIP: If you're ahead in the One-on-One contest, foul to eat time off the clock.

The hoops action here is excellent. Players move quickly and crisply all over the court. You can can jumpers, bomb away from three-point land, slam dunk, and go for steals. The computer ref calls charging, blocking, and traveling.

PROTIP: On defense take up a basic position inside the paint and always stay between your man and the basket. To steal the ball keep running into him.

The Tournament is basically an extendency of One-on-One. You pick eight players – four who you control and four opponents – and arrange match-ups. In the semi-final round you again choose the pairings and pick your players.

THE GAME TRAIN 112 NOD RD. #17 CLINTON,CT 06413 Challenge is quick, but In Your Face is frantic. In fact the players move twice as fast. The action here is totally non-stop. Your opponent jumps around and runs vou down. He's constantly on the go, so vou'd better get on vour horse if you want to earn bragging rights.

PROTIP: To steal from the computer, keep running into its player until you come up with the ball.

PROTIP: To make a jump pass, press B and then hit A.

Faster Than the Eve

As in All Star Challenge, the action moves vertically on a half-court. In Your Face's actual play area, however, is twice as big, so the screen scrolls up or down and left or right to follow the players around the court. You'll probably find the

You can play four players - Jones. Small, Pelle, and Carr. Jones is tall and slow, but he can slamma jamma. Small is, uhh, small and quick, and he's got a good outside shot. Pelle has good height, average speed, and a nice jump shot. Carr is also small with good speed, and he can bomb away from the next county.

Two-on-two takes teamwork.

Go for It

Both games are fun, but in different ways. You can enjoy All Star Challenge quietly in an airplane or in a roomful of people without disturbing anyone. No way with In Your Face. This game raises your blood pressure several notches, and compels you to use all the body English you can muster. You'll probably use all the expletives you know, too.

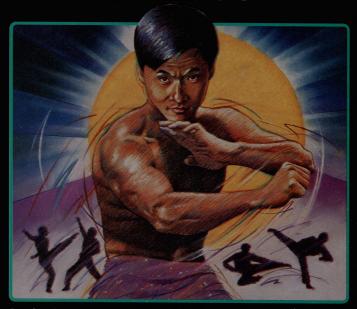

The thumb-burning action in this game may be better served by Hoops on a regular-size, color TV screen, but it's still a kick in the pants.

I'm in heaven! Pure Piaskin heaven! If vou're a fanatic about football, grab yourself a copy of Electronic Arts' John Madden Football and join me at the pearly goalposts.

Forget everything you can recall about the football video games of the 80's - John Madden Football makes them look prehistoric. John Madden Football combines fantastic graphics with exciting, challenging gameplay. Add to this 16 NFL-based teams that possess all the strengths and weaknesses of their 1989 counterparts and you've got a great mix of simulation and hard-hitting action guaranteed to satisfy the most diehard Monday morning quarterback.

After you select your teams, you'll get a run down of their strengths and weaknesses.

San Francisco - Pluses: Big money QB, spectacular receiving corps, bruising double fullbacks, quality defensive front seven. Minuses: Some holes in secondary, bad punting puts 'D' in a hole.

Philadelphia - Pluses: The most athletic quarterback in the league, a dominating front four on defense, aggressive cornerbacks. Minuses: Weak running game, inconsistent kicking game.

Minnesota - Pluses: All-pros everywhere, big play receivers, awesome pass rush, great safety run play. Minuses: QB is a poor passer, offensive line underachieves.

Los Angeles - Pluses: Passing Machine, smothering offensive line, money kicking. Minuses: No deep pass defense, no pass rush, second class running game.

Denver - Pluses: Golden-armed OB, three quality receivers, powerful, slashing back; great pass coverage. Minuses: Soft defense against the run, short-ranged kicking game.

Houston - Pluses: Smart, mobile quarterback who complements backs, veteran safeties, good kicking game. Minuses: Weak linebacking against the run, immobile offensive line, weak at the corners.

Buffalo - Pluses: Punishing running attack. real man offensive line. Minuses: QB had off year, uneven secondary play, no push from pass rush.

Cincinnati - Pluses: Crafty QB, running game's 1-2 punch, great defensive backfield. Minuses: Uneven defensive line talent, linebackers' skills slipping, poor special teams play.

Atlanta - Pluses: Updated, smart passing game, bad boy linebackers, quick cornerback play. Minuses: Slo..o...ow running backs, no outside pass rush, pass coverage's soft underside.

Kansas City - Pluses: Best secondary in football, dominant fullback, great offensive line play. Minuses: Receiver talent not there. linebackers lack speed, still looking for a QB.

Pittsburgh - Pluses: Good pair of receivers, offensive line opens holes, sharp secondary, great kicking game. Minuses: Soft run defense, no pass rush hurts secondary, QB strong, but not a star.

New York - Pluses: Tough, clutch quarterback, smart, veteran linebacking, rock solid kicking game. Minuses: Aging running game, secondary talent lacking.

Washington - Pluses: Wealth of aerial weapons, strong running game, overachieving defensive line, offensive line, Minuses: aging defensive backfield, weak inside linebacking, popaun kicking.

Chicago - Pluses: Multipurpose running game, good coverage at the corners, topnotch kicker. Minuses: No real quarterback. thin at the wide outs, no leadership at safety.

Miami - Pluses: Cannon-armed guarterback. quick wide receivers, improving secondary, good kicking game. Minuses: No pass protection, still no running game, soft left corner.

Ouarterback Options

John Madden Football lets vou choose a Playoff, Regular Season, or Sudden-Death Contest. The Playoffs come equipped with a password feature that enables you to save your place after the completion of each round. Regular Season is a single game against a team of your choice. Sudden-Death is also a one game deal, except you only play until someone scores.

JMF also lets you determine the length of each quarter, 5 minutes or 15 minutes. Five minutes per quarter games give you more than enough time to learn all the nuances of your team's offense and defense.

Air Madden

John Madden Football has a lot of nice features that you won't find in other piaskin video games. Just as in any NFL contest, in JMF there are players constantly shuttling in from the sidelines. You can choose your set; the group of players who will run your play. A "Big" set is good for running plays - you need those big guys in there opening up holes for your back. Choose the "Fast" set for passing situations - quick receivers who can get you big gains. There are six sets in all - a different group of players for any situation.

Players constantly shuttle in from the sidelines - just like real football.

The passing game is truly unique. Passing Windows is a great feature that enables you to focus on your receivers and throw to the guy who is most open. When dropping back to pass, hit the C button to call up the Passing Windows. Three small boxes appear at the top of the screen, showing you a close-up of receivers A, B, and C. To throw the ball, simply hit the button corresponding to the receiver you want. Once the ball is thrown, a yellow circle appears on the field to let you know where the ball is headed. You must take control of the receiver and get him near that spot. Quarterbacks are rated for passing ability: the better their ability, the more likely they'll throw the ball accurately.

John Madden Football features an extremely realistic passing game.

PROTIP: Get a feel for the passing game by practicing with short tosses such as the screen pass.

Another special feature of JMF is the ability to audibilize at the line. Yep, that's right, if you don't like the other guy's set up, you can call an audible just like any smart quarterback would. There are three different audibles to choose on offense or defense.

Don't like the way the defense looks? Call an audible at the line of scrimmage.

Crunch Time!

A great defense will make the other team's offense do things it doesn't want to do. "D" is the key to success in John Madden Football. You take control of any player on the defensive squad. You may perfer to play on the line and ty to nail the OB or take a spot in the backfield and ty to pickoff an errant pass. By tapping the B button, you can switch to another defender closer to the guy with the ball.

The important control to remember when you're playing defense is the Crunch button, Button A. The Crunch button makes your defense intimidating by enabling you to jar the ball loose on a completed pass or force a fumble.

A swarming Chicago defense blocks LA's punt in th endzone.

PROTE: Here's a formation on defense the computer has a hard time beating. Choose a "Dime" formation, "Cover" set, and "EB Biltz." Now, tap the B button once to gain courte of the left corner-back. Move the corner-back up to the line. When the ball is snapped, charge in and that quarter-back! Most teams have last corner-backs, so you'll be in your opponent's backfield before he can blink. This defense works best with Kansas City, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Buffalo, LI, and Atlanta.

A blitzing cornerback nails the OB!

PROTIP: The computer almost always runs a "Halfback Counter" as its first play of the game.

Team skill levels run the gamut in JMF, so there's a good chance you'll find a team suited to your playing ability. The only knock on JMF is that once you've mastered the game, the computer is easy to beat. You can compensate for the computer's weak play by choosing a weaker team and giving the All-Madden team to the computer.

No penalties for showboating in the endzone in this game.

Have Your Cake and Eat It Too John Madden Football has the right balance of strategy and action to keep ance of strategy and action to keep gamers engrossed for months. You'll get a kick out of seeing how your favorite NFL teams perform under your command. Except for the one noted flaw and the fact that you can advance a fumble (unlike in the NFL), John Madden Football is the most ambitious football cart to date. Helmets off to the folks at Electronic Arts for satisfying every football fan's dream.

John Madden Football by Electronic Arts ($49.95 - Available Now,1 megabyte).

The first byproduct of the multi-million dollar deal inked between Sega and Joe Montana has finally surfaced here at the Game/Pro test labs. But surprise, surprise, this is not the wonderful, detailed game for the Sega Genesis that we told you about back in September 1990. Sega Master System Joe Montana Football has been completed first (a loud resounding cheer emanates from Sega Master System works nationwide).

But stifle those hurrahs for a sec... first let's check out the cart. After all, anyone can sign a celebrity athlete and just dump his name on a lousy game.

Joe Montana features one or two player action and three skill levels. JM includes all the NFL teams, although none of the players are actually named. Each team is styled after its NFL counterpart, although pro football fans won't notice much similarity. The main difference between the teams is the plays they can use on offense.

Take the Field

JM uses a horizontal perspective during game play. This view is similar to the original Master System football cart, Great Football. The advantages to this perspective are that it allows you to see far enough up field to check on your receivers, and it also allows you to cover receivers on defense.

Sure, Joe looks great on video – but can he use a control pad?

After selecting your teams, choose heads or tails and flip the on-screen coin. The kicking game for your team is executed automatically. Just tap a button to boot the ball downfield.

You can choose any NFL team.

Getting Offensive

Once you get the hang of your team's offense, no computer defense will be able to stop you. There's a wide variety of plays to choose from -17 in all. Most of your plays are passing formations, but since executing a successful running play against the computer is difficult, you probably won't miss the run options.

There are plenty of options on offense.

Passing is easy in Joe Montana Football, Just call a formation, hike the ball, and look for an open receiver. To pick a receiver hit Button 2. Then hit Button 1 to throw the ball. The ball is automatically launched towards the receiver, and your receiver never has to come back for the ball.

Finding an open receiver is easy in this game.

PROTIP: Running plays (such as Off Tackle) are more likely to be successful if you maneuver your quarterback behind the running back, let the running back move upfield past oncoming tacklers, and toss the ball to him (like a screen pass). Trying to run the ball like they do in the NFL (pitching or handing off the ball to a back ind the line) doesn't work in this game. PROTIP: You'll find that every team has a few plays with high success rates. Try the following formations to rack up the yardage: BIG END AROUND - The QB scrambles to the top of screen as the receiver scrambles to the bottom. When the OB is about to be tackled, toss the ball across the field to the receiver. Good for 5-15 yards. PRAY FOR RAIN - Also known in offensive coordinator circles as the Big Bomb, the Hail Mary, and Going For Broke. Scramble towards the bottom of the screen as you keep an eye on the receiver who's second from the bottom. If the defender is playing behind the receiver, throw the ball for the long completion. If the defender is under the receiver, don't throw, just run up field for a big gain. ORVILLE'S RIGHT - This play is similar to the Big End Around. The OB scrambles to the top of the screen, the receiver runs to the bottom. Throw the ball when the defenders get close to the OB. SEAM SPLITTER - This play nets you 20+ yards if it's executed correctly. Throw the ball only if the receiver is clos-

Blitz and Pray

Of the many football games I've played, this is one of the most difficult to play defense in. When the skill level is set to Professional, you'll be lucky if you can stop the computer one time out of three.

er to the QB than the guy covering him.

Score and you can do an end zone jig.

Your problems on defense begin with your choice of formations. There are only six standard football video game defenses: Prevent, Goalline, etc. None of them are designed to stop a pass play. There are formations that will give you a better chance against the pass, but when the computer is rolling, it's like trying to stop Joe Montana and the 49ers with a high school football team.

Blitzing isn't a very good option because your defender is too slow to catch the QB before he heaves the ball. And your opponent can switch from receiver to receiver too quickly for you to cover them all. Your best bet may be hanging around the line of scrimmage waiting for the QB to run. At least you can switch to another defender by tapping Button 1, so if a pass is thrown you still have a chance to make a play.

Joe Knows Football

Mr. Montana's only contribution to Joe Montana football (other than the applying his name and likeness to the package and the opening game screen) is in the form of play suggestions. Joe, based on the down and the number of yards required for a first down, will suggest a formation to you, both on offense and defense. Joe's suggestions tend to follow logical football rules – pass on long yardage downs, run for short gains. Unfortunately, going against standard logic tends to work better than being predictable.

Detailed stats for both teams appear at the end of each quarter.

Joe Montana Football, like many of its counterparts, plays better as a two-player, head-to-head clash. Master System owners who already possess Walter Payton Football (the last SMS pigskin release), will find JM different enough to

After a year and a half in the making, NES Play Action Football is finally here.

NES Play Action Football allows up to four players to compete head-to-head (two vs. two, one vs. one, or two vs. the computer). Or, you can play solo against the computer. Also, since the cart sports an NFL Players Association license, the eight teams feature actual NFL players.

Fumbles and Touchdowns

Was Play Action Football worth the wait? Yes and no. As expected, NES Play Action Football is definitely a cut above previous NES football carts. After all, Tecmo Bowl. John Elway's Computer Quarterback, and NFL Football were all released several years ago.

With 24 offensive + reverse versions of each play and 16 defensive plays, Play Action Football features more formations than its competition. Individual teams have their own offensive plays geared to their offensive capabilities. Add to this, "real" NFL players who are rated according to their individual abilities speed, tackling, power, blocking, hands, passing, and accuracy - and you get a fairly detailed, realistic football simulation.

NES Play Action Football has an incredible number of offensive options.

But there are flaws. If you're a perfectionist they could ruin the game for you. The biggest problem is the defensive controls. Like most football games. you control one defender at a time and you can switch your control to another player at the tap of a button. Play Action Football has this same option; you can switch to the defender nearest the ball carrier by hitting the A and B buttons simultaneously. But, the defensive switching is sluggish. You can rarely switch to a defender that is downfield from the ball carrier. By the time you've taken control of a closer defender, the ball carrier, who usually has better speed than your defenders, has sprinted by and you're left in the dust. This glitch allows plenty of breakaway runs for touchdowns and short passes that suddenly turn into long gainers. It also makes covering kickoff and punt returns an adventure.

There are more defensive formations in this cart than any previous NES titles.

PROTIP: Unless your kicker has an extremely powerful leg and is able to kick the ball deep into your opponent's end zone, you should deliberately kick the ball short during a kickoff. A short kickoff forces one of the other team's big. lumbering linemen to run the ball backwhich makes for an easy tackling target.

The other problem with Play Action Football is the play of the computer team. The computer-controlled team often does stupid things during the game receivers run patterns out of bounds and potential tacklers run away from the ball carrier. These aren't game-threatening flaws, they're just annoying.

PROTIP: The Forty-Niner Onside Kickoff-Touchdown Trick: Here's a neat trick against the computer that works 33-55% of the time. First, select San Francisco as your team. When you kick off, aim for the far side of the field (top of the TV screen) and kick a short, onside kick. Once the ball is kicked, quickly tap the A and B buttons to switch to Ronnie Lott, the defender on that side. Tap the A button repeatedly to make Lott run fast toward and the football. Lott is very quick. He can usually scoop up the football before the opposing team gets to it and then sprint for a touchdown untouched.

On the plus side for Play Action Football, it's fun to control the ball carrier on running plays and kickoffs use your blocking to your best advantage. Offense control, on the whole, is very realistic and allows for plenty of innovation. On the defensive side of the line, controlling a dominating player, such as Mike Singletary of Chicago, is a blast. You'll rack up the QB sacks with a speedy linebacker under your command.

PROTIP: A good defense for the Chicago team is the "Zone- 4 Deep." When the ball is snapped, switch control to Mike Singletary (by hitting A and B), then charge in and nail the QB.

PROTIP: The "Quick Pass" to the tight end, the middle receiver, is almost always a big gainer. Computer defenders don't cover the tight end 90% of the time. If they do. the left receiver is open.

You'll see a bird's eye view of the field on passing plays.

NES Play Action Football will satisfy those of you with Tecmo Bowl Fever that malady that strikes football video gamers waiting for a worthy pigskin sequel. In four-player mode, this cart really cooks, as a solo contest it's above average and definitely worth a look. We'll call it a strong playoff contender with stars at the skill positions that has some glaring weaknesses.

Skates are hot right now, and whether you like your skate gaming arcade-style with lots of action, or you prefer roller derby-style gameplay you're in luck. Konami's Roller Games transports you to a futuristic skating adventure, and Jaleco's War on Wheels features authentic roller derby. Read on...

By Johnny Arcade

V.I.P.E.R., a vicious terrorist gang, has infiltrated Roller Games - the hottest sport around in the 21st century. These nasties have corrupted several Roller Games teams and abducted the commissioner. Things don't look good unless you and your team of red hot skaters can stop VI.P.E.R.

Rules of the Game

Skate into the middle of non-stop, one player arcade-style action, sort of a Double Dragon on wheels! Four stages scroll vertically and horizontally, and two stages auto-scroll left to right.

You choose from three teams of skaters - the Thunderbirds, the Hot Flash, and the Rockers - each suited to beat a particular stage.

PROTIP: The star of the Hot Flash is Rolling Thunder. She can jump farther than any other skater. Ice Box, star of the Thunderbirds, packs some punch. The Rockers' California Kid has ability in between the other two.

You step into the skates of the star of each team. Each star skater can punch, jump, jump-kick, and use a special Patented Punishment Move.

PROTIP: You can only use three special moves per area against middle or end bosses. Hit A and B simultaneously.

A skater's life bar is replenished at the end of each area. Begin with three lives and earn extras at 20,000, 50,000, and 80,000 points. The game features an endless continue option which puts you back at the beginning of the stage where you died.

To defeat each stage your skater has to skate hard and fast, and leap over. dodge, or destroy all obstacles - anything from oil spills and racing grevhounds to bad guys and gals from the three evil teams

Skating the Stages

Here's a sneak peek at what lies ahead. In Stage 1, Downtown, skate through the mean city streets as you battle bad guys known as the Bad Attitude.

PROTIP: Avoid the Billy "Bomb" Barders in Stage 1-2 by skating alongside of the sidewalk. They can't touch you!

Stage 2 is the first auto-scrolling stage. Watch for barrels, bikers, bombs, and everything but the kitchen sink PROTIP: In the laser field keep jumping and you'll avoid most of the blasts.

PROTIP: At the end of the Stage 2 there's a chopper that drops bombs. Stay to the back rail of the freeway and you'll just have to jump a few bombs.

You're smack in the middle of an Automobile Processing Plant in Stage 3. The Maniacs rule here and they're one mean mob. You'll have to dodge everything from oil slicks to wrecking balls.

PROTIP: Stage 3 requires lots of iumping. The Hot Flash is a good team here.

PROTIP: In Stage 3-2 time your jumps across platforms with pipes carefully to avoid torrents of sewage.

PROTIP: In Stage 3-2 and further on in the game be careful not to bounce off the walls and into oblivion

PROTIP: Beat Stage 3-2's middle bosses by standing next to the door, grabbing them as they come out, and throwing them into the water.

PROTIP: At the end of Stage 3 first jumpkick the grey boss four times and then use your Patented Punishment Move on the purple boss.

Stage 4 is an auto-scrolling freeway scene. It's packed with Moon Doggies. Moto-Crushers, Birds of Parasites, and cracks that lead to nowhere PROTIP: When the roadway splits into two levels take the upper path. It's easier to jump than dodge rolling barrels.

PROTIP: Skate along the middle line of the road to avoid the Moto-Crushers and when they pass you dodge up to the back rail of the road to avoid their bombs.

PROTIP: Stay in the bottom half of the screen while jumping the barrels thrown by the Muck Truck.

The action gets hot and steamy in Stage 5's Jungle River. The Violators quard this area. You'll also have to dodge rolling logs, Slicky Slides, Bird of Parasites and Fish Faces PROTIP: Watch out for birds and bad guys to pop out of the bushes.

PROTIP: Skate along the Stage 5-2 wharves slowly or you'll end up in the water.

In Stage 6 you're inside V.I.P.E.R.'s pit. Leap conveyor belts to avoid venomous needle points. The final area features a climactic Double-Dragon style battle with the big boss.

PROTIP: In Stage 6-2 the Hot Flash is best at jumping the tricky conveyor belts.

If you loved Contra, Super-C, Double Dragon, and Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles: the Arcade Game, then Roller Games fits your style. Fast and furious arcade action, combined with state-ofthe-art "Ultra" graphics, make this a cart for action/adventure fans everywhere.

By Johnny Arcade

Slammin', jammin', bone-bruising tackles. An elbow in the eve and a knee to the, well, er midsection. If you think this sounds like big-time video wrestling, you're wrong. It's War on Wheels, the first NES cart to feature tough 360° vertically and horizontally scrolling roller derby skating, complete with brawling players and garbage-tossing fans. One Player takes on the computer. Two Players go head-to-head in simultaneous skating action. A password feature helps you tackle a 35-game season in a guest to make the playoffs and the championship.

Come Out Fighting

If you're a fan of roller derby as vou've seen it on T.V. then you're probably familiar with the rules - or lack of rules - that makes it the unique sport that it is. For the uninitiated here's a little rundown.

First off, pick your favorite team from a field of eight, such as the Los Angeles Illegals and the New York Nasties. Your sauad consists of eight men and eight women skaters.

PROTIP: The computer is tough and doesn't make a lot of mistakes.

Team Work

Each of your players has a hefty repertoire of dirty tricks and nasty moves that would put Hulk Hogan to shame. Besides skating forwards and backwards, your player can also punch, block, kick, and deliver a nasty eye gouge.

PROTIP: Making the different moves reguires several combinations of buttonpresses. Use a controller with an easyto-reach Select button or you'll get all tangled up.

Once your four players hit the ovaltrack, the action is non-stop. You control one of your four team members, the attacker, and the computer controls the remaining three, the jammers. At the horn vour attacker and the opposing team's attacker take off. Whoever's attacker passes an opposing jammer first becomes the scoring team for that round.

PROTIP: Use every dirty trick to become the scoring team, especially when you're playing the computer.

There are three periods in a game, a total of nine rounds. Once an attacker passes a jammer the clock starts to tick off one minute and thirty seconds. A team scores a point each time its attacker passes one of the other team's jammers. The round ends when the clock runs out or a team scores four points.

If you're the scoring team, you go all out to pass jammers, knocking down any opponents who get in your way. Of course, the opposing team's attacker is trying to trip vou, punch you, and even knock you over the rails.

PROTIP: In higher rounds of each game the track is packed with grates and holes. Jump continuously.

PROTIP: The best delay tactic is to grab the other attacker and swing him for 4-5 seconds.

PROTIP: When the opposition becomes the scoring team, do anything it takes to slow down the attacker. Try to skate ahead of him and then turn around and skate backwards as you punch, trip, or block him. If he gets ahead of you, it's hard to catch up again.

PROTIP: Any player whose energy level goes to zero just lies on the track until the end of the round. This is great for the scoring team (the player is easy to nass).

Fanatic Fans

Both teams are ready to brawl with the slightest provocation. If an attacker gets thrown into the rails, the action switches to a close-up view and both skaters start gouging and mauling each other.

PROTIP: The losing skater must be replaced by one of the jammers. If the jammer is far behind, the attacker can skate unopposed.

Rabid fans are also eager to get in on the action. They'll yell unsavory comments and toss garbage onto the track to trip up your skaters.

PROTIP: If your skater can beat up a fan, they stop throwing garbage.

Wild Wheels

War on Wheels shines as a two-player title. Against the computer, well, you'd better be good. Of course, with practice anything is possible! The graphics are average, but original gameplay and the fact that it's the very first cart based on authentic roller derby make it a good choice for derby fans and sports fans alike.

Remember the last time you knocked heads with Bionic Lester? He's the skater who left you with a concussion and a fear of "boppers" in Skate or Die's Pool Joust. Now, Lester's dropped a new challenge into your mailbox: Ski or Die. What kind of idiot would accept an invitation like that? You.

Get Chillin'

Ultra's Ski or Die is a snowbound copycat of Skate or Die, just swap the skateboards for a snowboard, skis, and an inner tube. Like Skate or Die, one to six players vie for victory in any or all of five events – the Acro Aerials, the Snowboard Half Pipe, the Inner Tube Thrash, the Snowball Blast, and the Downhill Blitz.

Kiss the Sky

There are two parts to the Acro Aerials event. First, build up as much speed as humanly possible on the ramp, then try to perform a dazzling assortment of midair tricks such as the Spread-Eagle and the Back-Scratch. Make a safe landing and you're sure to pull in high marks from the judges.

PROTIP: The Acro Aerials is a great place to use a joystick equipped with rapid fire.

Slip Slidin' Away

In the Snowboard Half Pipe, a variation on Skate or Die's Freestyle, you speed through a snow-filled channel where you have to jack up your velocity and pull as many cool moves as possible. But watch out for the Chainsaw Totin' Bunnies obstructing your path.

Half-pipe snowboard style.

Totally Tubular

The only two-player simultaneous event, the Inner Tube Thrash, has two objectives: 1) Beat your opponent to the finish line; 2) Grab a Fork, a Lawn Dart, or a Pocket Knife to flatten his hopes early and often.

Here's Snow In Your Eye

The Snowball Blast sounds like every kids secret fantasy, bit dozens of brats smack in the face with well packed snowballs. Actually, it's just another aimand-fire shoot-out with the usual assortment of enemies, bonus items, and special targets.

PROTIP: Snag the Shovel at all costs. You get extra time, which is vital for clearing the level.

Slope's Up!

Take an ordinary looking mountain, plaster it with twisted trails, throw in a broken bridge for good measure, and you've got the Downhill Blitz. To capture this event you must zoom to the finish line in minimal time, catching air along the way every chance you get.

PROTIP: Avoid crashing. The seconds you save translate into bonus points at the end of the race.

PROTIP: in the Blitz, the longer you hold down A, the farther you jump. Watch the skier's shadow to determine where you'll land.

Skate or Ski?

And now for the freezing question: Is all this fun in the Winter Wonderland worth the price of admission? If you've already played Skate or Die, the answer is probably no. But if you want a fairly fun group game, the answer is yes.

All of the events except for the Snowball Blast are near-duplicates of contests from Skate or Die. Some are slightly improved, like the Acro Aerials which features more involved scoring than the High Jump. The Inner Tube Thrash, on the other hand, is less challenging than the Downhill Jam because it has fewer obstacles. Finally, the Snowball Blast is a lame idea that isn't nearly as gripping as the Pool Joust.

I came, I saw, I skied, I lived (sort of).

Wayne Gretsky is one of the coolest hockey players on ice, and now he's going to slap an NES cart your way. THQ's Wayne Gretsky Hockey is the NES version of the popular personal computer game of the same name. Actually, the Great One only shows up on the box art and on the roster of the Los Angeles team, but you do get hockey action based on pro hockey strategy and 10 National Hockey League teams with actual team rosters.

You can play against the computer or a friend. Additionally you and a friend can join the same team versus the computer. There are practice, normal, and play-off games. However, "play-offs' doesn't mean "tournament." It's just a regular three period game with a sudden death, overtime tie-breaker. Other game options include four time periods up to 20 minutes long and three speeds

Say "hi" and "good-bye" to the Great One.

Graphics on Ice

Don't expect the alitzy look of Blades of Steel. The graphics here are just average You get an overhead view of the horizontally scrolling action, but even though you don't see the entire rink all at once, the game's easy to follow.

Old-time Hockey

You have to play this cart to appreciate it. The onscreen action is fast and smooth After a while your players seem to glide across the ice PROTIP: You're a fast skater, but you must use angles to intercept opposing players, not speed.

Now, Blades features fun, arcade style hockey, but Wayne Gretsky's requires you to really dive into the sport. If you don't understand the relevance of the Blue lines or the Neutral Zone, you'll get called for Offsides and Icing more times than you can shake a hockey stick at. But even if you've never checked out hockey before, the documentation provides enough detail for you to follow any NHL match from now on.

Teamwork is essential. Even though you can switch control to any player any time, don't try to do everything yourself.

Pro hockey action!

Your computer teammates are no slouches. They set up passes for you. play defense, and score, too! PROTIP: Hit B to call for a pass, but catching it isn't automatic. You have to be open and you have to go get it. PROTIP: You'll score more frequently if you shoot for the corner of the goal rather than dead on.

Do the Crime. Do the Time Unlike some hockey carts, Wayne Gretsky Hockey, to its credit, doesn't glorify fighting by forcing you to throw punches

Into the penalty box!

Charging, tripping, high sticking, hooking, slashing, and spearing are other true-tolife penalties that dump you into the penalty box. Also, penalty calls go both ways when you play the computer.

PROTIP: If you tan A gently when you check an opposing player, you can some-times cream him without drawing a

Nice Hockey

Gretsky's features realistic hockey, but it lacks a few niceties. A multi-team tournament feature would bump up the overall challenge, and it's a shame you can't substitute players to recreate your favorite hockey lines.

If you're a Blades of Steel fan consider Wayne Gretsky's a step up into the actual sport of hockey. If you're a bonafide hockey nut, this could be the cart for you.

Dropkick! Hulk Hogan has the Ultimate Warrior woozy. He's going for the cover. One...Two...Wait! The Warrior reverses with a Small Package. One...Two...THREE! It's all over for Hogan, folks! We've got a new champion of the NES wrestling world, and it's WWF WrestleMania Challenge... or is it?

Ready to Rumble

The Ultimate Warrior stunned the WWF with his dramatic upset of the Hulkster, and now Acclaim has pulled a surprise of its own by unveiling a new and improved sequel to WWF WrestleMania, WWF WrestleMania Challenge.

This time you have eight wrestlers -Hulk Hogan, Brutus "The Barber" Beefcake, Ravishing Rick Rude, Big Boss Man, Hacksaw Jim Duggan, Andre the Giant, Macho King Randy Savage, and the Ultimate Warrior - instead of six, and each mauler has an extra move (eight total compared to seven in the original).

Team up with Andre the Giant.

But the most obvious change is the addition of a tag team option and a threeman team "Survivor Series" in which you must defeat every member of the opposing team. Now, one or two players can participate in nearly every imaginable combination, either together against the computer or in a versus mode.

PROTIP: The Ultimate Warrior's special Bodyslam called the Power Throw tosses a rival right over the top rope.

Go for the Glory

Would-be champs may guest for either the individual belt or the two man tag team title (which requires two players). In both tournaments, you are forced to use a generic grappler known simply as "Yourself" as you face off against all eight superstars. Also, your rematch opportunities are limited. In a one event challenge. you can play your WWF hero and rematch as many times as you like.

PROTIP: If you iump out of the ring, the count to reenter doesn't begin until you hit the floor, so jump as far as possible off the cornerpost for good hang time. Also, try climbing any of the four turnbuckles to reset the clock before the official counts you out.

PROTIP: To win by a countout, climb one of the neutral corner turnbuckles and press B to jump out of the arena. When vour foe follows you to the floor, scale the cornerpost a second time to reset the timer. At this point your count should be two to three seconds behind your opponent's, Now, jump back down, slug it out on the floor, and don't let your opponent back into the ring; victory is yours.

Big Splash Or Wipeout?

WWF WrestleMania Challenge is a Jekyll and Hyde video game if ever there was one, but it's a welcome improvement over WWF WrestleMania. On the plus side, the new, behind-the-ring scrolling graphics permit action outside the squared circle, the tag team options add to the fun, and you no longer have to worry about a time limit. However, on the down side, one of the stamina bars disappears when the screen shifts too far to one side and winning a championship is too easy. Also, a four player capability via the N.E.S. Satellite or the Four Score would have made this game even more eniovable.

WWF WrestleMania Challenge wins a bout but not the title. As they say, you can't take the belt on a disqualification.

"Ladies and Gentlemen Welcome to Caesar's Palace! In the red corner. weighing in at 1951/2 lbs., the heavyweight champion of the world. James 'Buster' Douglas!" Well, so what if Buster Douglas no longer holds the title. He beat Tyson once, and now it's your turn to take control of the ring and determine the fate of the champ's prize belt. Who knows, maybe you'll even help Buster win his title back.

This first boxing cart for the Sega Genesis puts you in the ring as Buster Douglas or one of four other up-andcoming boxers out to claim the title. If vou're an arcade fan vou'll discover that more than just Buster's face looks familiar in this cart. Based on Final Blow of coin-op fame, Knockout Boxing features the same toe-to-toe boxing action that made Final Blow a contender in the arcades. You get all the excitement of being in the ring, without packing all the cuts and bruises of the real thing!

A Ringside Seat

Your perspective on the action is from a side-view ringside seat. The boxers themselves are some of the largest characters vou've ever seen on a video screen - unfortunately bigger is not always better. Your boxers are big but they can only move forward and backward in a line. A little less size and a little more mobility would have been a good trade off.

Climb into the ring against the computer or go head-to-head against one of your friends. The computer has three difficulty levels, so you can practice your moves against easy opponents before you take on the really mean boxers. The game is best as a two player contest; the arcade-style fighting makes for knockout action. If you don't feel like getting pummeled you can always take a ringside seat. Just select Spectator Mode, grab your favorite refreshments, sit back, and enjoy the bout.

The Blow by Blow

Once your bout begins it follows standard boxing guidelines. Each round is 1:30 long. Pick the number of rounds (1-12) you want to fight. You win the bout by scoring a KO (knock your opponent to the mat for a ten count), a TKO (knock your opponent down three times), or a Decision (both challengers survive to the end of the bout and the ref picks the victor).

Victory is yours!

Both you and your opponent have a damage bar. When either of you connects it saps energy from the other's bar. The damage bar increases if you dodge blows. If the meter reaches zero, you're in danger of getting knocked out.

You'll need some fancy footwork and smooth moves to take down your opponent. You can jab, throw fast or slow straight punches, or toss hooks and uppercuts. Although, once again, your boxer can only move back and forth and crouch to dodge blows. Even though he packs different punches you often feel more like a "rock 'em, sock 'em robot" than a real fighter.

PROTIP: A good boxing strategy is to lead with a bunch of jabs to the face. When you find that they're connecting and driving your opponent back, go with the straight punch. Drive him to the ropes and beat him there!

Come out swinging when the bell rings. On offense choose your punches wisely. One misplaced shot can leave you wide open for a knockout punch from your opponent. Use the high jab to keep your opponent off guard and set him up for your devastating right punch. He may block it a few times, but if you keep at him one will surely land.

You've also got your knockout punch. This is delivered a lot slower than your other punches but if you land it, it's bedtime for your opponent. You can throw this punch high or low and from both sides, but use it wisely. It takes a long time to deliver, and it can leave you wide open for a counter punch if you don't connect.

PROTIP: Knockout nunches are a sure thing in the championship rounds. If you score vou'll knock your opponent down with one or two punches. They're less effective in the challenge rounds.

A good defense is also key. You've got to raise and lower your guard according to your opponent's style. Remember, a tough shot to the gut can take just as much out of you as a blow to the face. If you're low on energy, jump back and take a break. You can even move into the "bear hug" position with your opponent so that you're too close for either of you to land a punch - a great way to take a breather.

A Tough Lineup of Challengers

Choose your favorite boxer from a list of five really mean characters. Once you make your choice you face a bout with each of the other boxers. Defeat all four and vou're the champ. But the fighting doesn't stop there. Once you're the champ the other four boxers will challenge you once again to try and take vour title away.

Each boxer has definite fighting styles, weaknesses, and strengths. The biggest, but not necessarily the baddest, is Buster. At age 29 he's still in his boxing prime, and he's tough to knock down. Keep a strong lookout for his crossing knockout blow - it'll really knock you off your feet.

Next on the lineup is Dynamite Joe. He's a tough competitor and quick on his feet. The veteran of the lineup is Fernando Gomez. He doesn't have the bulk of the first two, but his experience gives him confidence to throw his punches. If you're looking for someone with some bulk to throw around, take a look at King Jason. He's the fastest one in the crowd - always dancing and moving around the ring.

PROTIP: King Jason is a coward. He moves a lot but mostly towards his corner. With a couple of big punches you can drive him into the ropes and finish him there - be aggressive.

Last, but certainly not least, comes Kim Nang. He's by far the feistiest boxer in the group. He'll come right up to your face and punch your lights out if you're not careful.

PROTIP: Kim Nang is really nasty. He's the most aggressive fighter out there. When you're fighting Kim make sure you keep him away from you by using quick labs keen him an arm's distance away from vou at all times.

If you succeed in besting all four boxers and surviving their second assault at your title, you face the toughest bout of all - Iron Head.

PROTIP: Iron head is tough, but he can be beaten. Use your defensive moves against him - his punches really hurt. It's very hard to hurt him since he regenerates his health quickly. Use big punches when you can - it's about all that works. Keep him away from your face with quick jabs followed by straight punches.

A Split Decision

James "Buster" Douglas Knock-Out Boxing may not be the strongest contender to ever climb into the Genesis ring, but the arcade-style action packs it with enough punch to satisfy Genesis fans hungry for some sparring. And, hey, they just called it "Knockout" Boxing they didn't say who got knocked out!

Tengen. This awesome driving simulator for the Genesis features a realistic threedimensional view from the driver's seat of a high performance sports car. Arcade speedsters already know this one from the Atari coin-op of the same name, and it features the same colorful polygon graphics and wheel-spinning driving.

starting line and when you reach the fork in the road, choose either the Stunt Track or the Speed Track. The speed track is definitely the easier of the two since you don't have tricky obstacles to worry about, although the Stunt Track is much PROTIP: Stav steady on the the center yellow line for the entire race and simply swerve out of the way of oncoming cars. This way, you avoid cars running up behind you, too.

If you make it to the finish line, and beat the posted time, you compete in a challenge lap against the Phantom Racer. a ghost car. If you crash or run out of offroad time (you only get 10 seconds), you lose the race! This might sound easy. but it's quite tricky since you race the Phantom on the Stunt Track

PROTIP: The quickest path to the Championship Lap is to drive the fastest time

Check out the speed stretch.

If you take the Speed Track, you try to stretch the limits of your car's speed potential on 90 mph turns and long straightaways.

PROTIP: Pay attention to speed limit signs at turns. They're very accurate.

On the Stunt Track, you rocket off ramps, jump a draw bridge, and even turn a loop! Make sure that you pay attention to the speed limit signs for these stunts, or it could be disastrous.

PROTIP: Make sure your speed is slightly under 60 mph when you reach the drawbridge. Exceed 60 mph and you'll flip your car!

PROTIP: For rapid deceleration w losing control, run off the road. It slows you down much faster than your brakes.

Getting in Gear

Before you begin your wild ride, you choose your transmission, either an automatic or a manual. With the automatic you can concentrate on driving not shifting gears. If you're good enough, opt for the manual tranny. You shift gears by pressing Button C as the clutch and hitting Up or Down to work the gears.

Tracking the Phantom

After you've selected your transmission, you're ready to race! Take off from the an on the Speed Track. There a too many ways to mess up on the Stunt PROTIP: Since the Phantom Racer is, well, a phantom, you can drive into or through him, so drive as if you're the only car on the road. A good strategy is to draft behind him and then blow by him just as you near the finish line.

PROTIP: For a change of pace, make a Uturn during the Practice mode and go backwards on the track. It's like an entirely new race!

um, the world's finest volleyball players push both mind and body to the limit as they vie for the number one position world champions. This isn't Olympic commentary - it's Olympic-style Super Volleyball for the Genesis!

This compelling and realistic sideview cart for one or two players comes complete with a generous list of play-options and 16 international teams.

PROTIP: Holland and Russia are two of the toughest competitors.

If you prefer, design your own team and assign each player a specialty, such as a powerful serve or spike. Choose between the Watch Mode, a Normal game, or a World League game, the latter being the most difficult.

Don't worry if you're a volleyball novice. Simply head to the option screen and take advantage of the Ball Speed and Handicap features. Use the Handicap feature to start either one or both teams off with a lead (10 points max). The Ball Speed feature (slow, normal, or fast) is a handy option when you need to tone down the action during warm-up.

Taking flight for the save.

Serving Up Some Trouble

During a game you have six players on the court (you only actually see five) and two players on the bench. To substitute a stronger player into the game simply press Button C.

You may miss on your first few service attempts, but once you've got the timing down on the toss/swing you can blast killer-serves, such as the Jumping Spike and the Drop Serve - guaranteed point earners! Don't hit the ball until it turns pink or you'll miss it and lose the volleyball, the winning score is set at 15. In order to win a game you must win three of the five Match-Sets. In the Normal setting you can play in single game rounds. Win and you go on to play another team. In the World League you complete seven games and, gameplay stats determine the champions. Fortunately in the World League setting you can earn passwords.

Super Volleyball is a highly accurate simulation of top-notch, competitive volleyball, and the action is fast and furious. It would, however, be even better if the Center player moved faster and, also, if the entire court could be seen during service rather than just one side at a time. Overall these are two minor glitches which shouldn't dissuade you from getting your hands on this cart - it's worth it!

TURBOGRAFX-16 PROVIEW

By Slo' Mo

Jack Nicklaus, the Golden Bear, is a golf legend who's destined to play on for decades in the minds of linksters everywhere. In fact, he may even play on longer than that now that he's been immortalized in computer software, a Nintendo Entertainment System cart, and now an NEC TurboGrafx CDROM game.

Par for the Course

Jack Nicklaus Turbo Golf by Accolade plays a solid round of video golf, but there's not much in the actual gameplay to distinguish it from other golf games on the leader board.

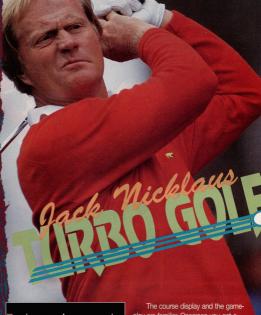

Fore!

You can play solo or with either a human or a computer partner. You can also put together threesomes and foursomes of your choice for Stroke Play, Match Play, and Skins, where you set cash prizes for each hole.

Accurate iron shots are critical.

PROTIP: Challenge a computer player to learn how to play holes. But remember they aren't perfect of the hole anytime.

has 10 seqce by 10 to each segment play are familiar. Onscreen you get a main window with a behind-the-golfer view of the course, a power meter to control tee shots and putts, and an info window that displays distance to the hole, par, and your club and its distance rating. You can display an overhead view PROTIP: The computer always picks the appropriate club to tee-off at any hole.

PROTIP: The computer lines up tee shots directly at the flag without regard to hazards or O.B. Always check the overhead view

To play a shot, you gauge three button presses on the power meter to hit the ball, taking into account wind direction and speed. And before you hole out you'll likely hit roughs, sand traps, trees, water, out of bounds areas, and golf cart tracks just as in real golf.

You can keep stats, too.

PROTIP: To hit putts straight-on, always position the marker slightly to the right of the hole.

Of course, you record your score and keep a running account of some stats such as your farthest drive and the number of total putts.

Computer players can be pros or patsies!

Going for Disc-tance

However, what enables Turbo Golf to come in under par is the massive amount of course data in its CDROM golf bag. For sheer variety, hardcore golfers will find that Turbo Golf's CDROM data capacity blows Power Golf (see GamePro February 1990). Arnold Palmer Golf (see Game-Pro February 1990), and even the Neo Geo's Top Player Golf (GamePro November 1990) off the course.

PROTIP: Overswing on all holes excent the par 3's.

You get five 18-hole golf links that according to Accolade are exact duplications of real-life courses. The names are impressive: Castle Pines Golf Club in Castle Rock, Colorado; Royal Troon Golf Club in Troon, Scotland; Kemper Lakes Golf Club in Hawthorn Woods, Illinois; Australian Golf Club in Kensington, Australia: and St. Creek Golf Club in Nagova, Japan, Hardcore golfers would even sell their video game systems to play these places! You can even take a 360 degree look-around from anywhere on the course.

You also get nine computer players with golf skills that range from terrible to expert. Naturally, the ultimate challenge is to take on the Golden Bear himself

Jack advises you on each hole.

The CDROM also struts its stuff between holes when Jack Nicklaus shows up to share a hint about the hole. Too bad Accolade didn't opt to use Jack's real voice. Also, the sound effects are crystal clear, and some of the four tunes are actually catchy.

PROTIP: When Jack says use a 3-wood to tee off, stick with the driver.

Course Handicaps

Turbo Golf reveals its heritage from the earlier versions for the PC and the NES in two somewhat bothersome ways. When you're on the course, the onscreen colors have the bright red red, blue blue, and green green look that resembles PC and NES versions of the game, not the muted, natural looking tones common to 16-bit video games such as Power Golf.

When they say "green" they aren't kidding.

But what's sure to drive video gamers nuts at first is the slow screen-refresh rate that methodically repaints the display stroke by stroke between shots. Coupled with the NEC CDROM drive's sometimes painstakingly slow data reading rate, impatient duffers might feel like wrapping a golf club around their TG-16's during a bad round. Veteran PC golfers, on the other hand, will find waiting for hardware to catch up with their tee shots all too familiar but it's very much like playing behind a slow foursome in real life golf.

Jack Up Your Game

If you own a TurboGrafx-CD unit and you love golf, go for it. Besides Turbo Golf's literally the only game in town. You'll definitely log long hours with it not just because of the poky play but because it serves up an entertaining, top notch round of video golf, and the variety of courses will compel you to tee up time and again.

You can't really call professional wrestling a sport, but you have to admit, it's a dynamite show.

Even though the goofy, gaudy, gladiatorial spectacle is really just one step removed from the Three Stooges, there are still moments when you catch yourself wondering: "Is it real or fake?"

Such outrageous theatrics haven't gone unnoticed: bia-time wrestling matches are always packed to the ceiling with wild and crazy fans. Now you, too, can go nuts with Battle Royale from NEC head butt to get you off, you can count the cash you earn depending on how much mayhem you manage per match.

You play one of five wrestle maniacs - the Sumo Master, the Executioner, Mongo Kan, Spitfire Spike, or Meat-Eater. Each guy has his own unique moves - ten in all. However, none of the moves are real knockouts, so to speak - no Atomic Drops, Body Slams, or Back-breakers.

slick but choppy. It's kind of a kick to watch the characters mug for the camera with hip pumps, gruesome grimaces, and muscle-flexing, but during matches the wrestlers sashay around the ring.

Gimpy Gameplay

Battle Royale loses a few points on gameplay. It's one of those carts where you keep mashing on the controller and you wonder whether or not that's doing any good. The gameplay is about as sluggish and muscle bound as the Sumo

> Master looks. Some moves require you to press the directional pad or Select and both buttons simultaneously - a real fingertangling exercise when some neo-neanderthal's beating your brains out. PROTIP: If you pin an opponent against the ropes, try to kick him out of the ring.

PROTIP: Don't get sandwiched between two other wrestlers!

PROTIP: You don't have to chase opponents; they'll come after you.

PROTIP: If you get tossed out, there's a control pad- and button-pressing sequence that will get you back into the ring.

Wrestling with a Dilemma

Battle Royale is a light-hearted, goodlooking game, but it won't present much challenge to hardcore gamers. Its saving grace is the TurboTap feature: five people can jump into the ring to knock each other senseless. That's actually fun, but it has more to do with you and your friends' attitudes than the game itself. Oddly enough, that's Battle Royale's biggest plus and the main reason to add it to your collection. This is a great party game. It's easy to learn, and like real-life professional wrestling doesn't take much brain-power to get into.

If you've got a severe case of wrestle mania, you might like this cart.

Battle Royale by NEC ($61.99 - Available Jan. '90, 4 megs).

Rough Rasslin'

The object of Battle Royale is as simple as that of the real thing; throw all the other players out of the arena. In a one-player tournament vou compete in individual one-on-one matches. Beat four opponents and they double up against you. In an actual battle rovale, vou're in a rock 'em, sock 'em free-for-all against four other wrestlers. If it takes more than a good PROTIP: Spitfire Spike is the most wellbalanced wrestler. Beginners should start with him.

PROTIP: Running into the ropes propels your wrestler half way across the ring to knock down an opponent.

Mean Looks

Similar to real wrestling, Battle Royale goes for the alitz rather than the gameplay. The graphics are nicely-detailed and sharp-looking. However, the animation is Welcome to the Battle Royale.

If you go to sleep dreaming about video games--don't Freddy's back and he's taken on a terrifying new form. You and your friends must search the neighborhood for Freddy's bones. When you enter the fateful house on Elm Street, you'll confront when you enter the dietor house are the meet, you recombin monsters and spooks that would give even Freddy a fright! But, beware. The farther you go, the deeper in trouble you get. Until, at last, you face the most feared horror legend of all time... Freddy Krueger  himself! Will you be the one to put an end to Freddy's reign of terror? Dream on.

The Song Empire faces two dire threats. From within - Gao Qiu, the minister of War. A man who has usurped the power of the throne from a weak, but just Emperor. His corrupting touch has infected every level of the Kingdom. Honorable men are hunted and exiled while the wicked are rewarded with positions of authority.

From outside the borders - The Mongol Horde waits for the perfect opportunity to invade. But these are the days when tigers walk as men. Join the band of outlaw heroes as they unite to defend the honor of the Empire from the evil tyranny of Gao Qiu and the might of the barbarian armies.

Tecmo Bowl

Dear ASK THE PROS.

I've had the NES game, Tecmo Bowl, for two years - maybe longer. Anyway, what team do think has the best shot at winning it all? Also, do think you can give me some passwords that put me in the championship with the teams you recommend? Thanks!

PW Fitzgerald, Moonachie, NJ

Dear PW.

We consulted the handy-dandy GamePro Hot Tips: Sports Games book for some answers to your Tecmo Bowl questions. The best teams to make a run at the championship are:

The New York Giants - One of the most powerful teams in Tecmo Bowl, the Giants have the top defensive player in the league, Lawrence Taylor. Not only is Taylor a ferocious tackler, he's extremely agile. Even if he misses a tackle he can get right up and catch the runner from behind. An especially effective defense using the Giants is to select "Pass #2" defense, choose Taylor as the player you control, and blitz the quarterback. You'll usually be able to sack the QB, nail the runner in the backfield, or hold the offensive team to a short gain. The Giants click on offense when they mix runs with short passes over the middle to Mark Bavarro, their tight end (Pass Play #1).

San Francisco 49ers - Called the Team of the Eighties by many, the Niners have an almost unstoppable offense that features the strong throwing arm of QB Joe Montana Some Niner offensive plays even feature four receivers. Roger Craig heads up a strong running attack. On defense the safety. Ronnie Lott, is one of the better players to control. He's quick and a ferocious hitter.

New York Giants: 24AFFDAD San Francisco: 1DAFF7A6

Bases Loaded II: Second Season

Dear ASK THE PROS.

I've had Bases I gaded II for about a month but I still can't beat my dad. He always takes New York, and they seem to be the best team. Is there any team that stands a chance against the NY squad?

Todd Wiley, Indianapolis, IN

New York is definitely one of the best

Dear Todd.

teams in BLII. They're loaded with power hitters and they have great pitching. But they are beatable - we guarantee it. Give the Jersey team a try against the guys from the big apple. Jersey has some of the best pitching in the league, and they're the fastest team on the basepaths - the top three guys in their lineup are all switch-hitting speedsters. Make sure you jugale the lineup so Weir is leading off, he's the fastest of the three. Use Rubin as your starter for five or six innings, then put in Skaja if your dad has trouble hitting curve balls. Skaja has the best breaking pitches in the league. Finish the game up with Seitz, who possesses a blistering fastball and a nasty curve, too.

A NEW LEVEL OF HIGH SPEED EXCITEMENT

Hey, sports fans! For a change of pace this issue we're going to take a short look at ten carts selected by GamePros in the 1990 sports game survey as the top sports titles around. Some of them are classics, and some were just released in the past year. Either way, they're standouts for any sports game fan!

#1: Tecmo Bowl (Nintendo) By Tecmo

One or Two Players (simultaneous)

Grab your shoulder pads. You're going to need all of the protection you can get once you step onto the Tecmo Bowl field for bone-crunching gridiron action as player, coach, and spectator rolled into one.

In Tecmo Bowl you square off against a league of computer teams. Your goal is a winning season and the chance to play in the Tecmo Bowl. The game also lets you go head-to-head against a friend with the team of your choice, or just sit on the sidelines and call the shots as coach.

Since the game is licensed by the National Football League, you get 12 different teams, each representing a real NFL city, with actual player rosters. A team that has a strong passing game or a great defense in real life has similar skills in Tecmo Bowl.

Once your team leaves the locker room and jogs out onto the field you'll call all of the shots...plus do all of the hard world From the opening kickoff to the final gun you're the coach...as well as the quarterback, the linebacker, the center, and the rest of the squad.

Tecmo Bowl also has crowd noises and voice effects. When you check out some of the newer football titles, you'll see better graphics, but strategywise Tecmo Bowl is always going to be a classic. In fact, we've chosen it as this month's ProClassic, so see page 28 for more about the game.

#2: Mike Tyson's Punch Out (Nintendo) By Nintendo

One Player

Step into the ring as Little Mac, a 17-year old fighter from the Bronx. You're ranked number three in the minor circuit, but your goal is to work your way up through the rankings so you can challenge Mike Tyson, alias Kid Dynamite, in a dream fight

First you'll have to win 14 other bouts against palookas like Don Flamen-o, Piston Honda, and Super Macho Man in the minor, major, and world circuits. Each bout is three three-minute rounds of action. If you're knocked down three times, you'll get a Technical Knock Out (TKO). Go down for a count of ten and you're "outta there," Knocked Out (KO). If both fighters battle to the end of all three rounds, then the ref picks the winner.

The action in the ring is tough. You'll have to use right and left punches as well as uppercuts to knock your opponent down. To stay on your feet, it takes fancy footwork and the ability to read your opponent's moves! Just remember, if you've never faced Mike Tyson, you won't know whether you're World Video Game Champion material, or just another burn who could have been a contender.

#3: Blades of Steel (Nintendo) By Konami

One or Two Players (simultaneous)

An older game, this classic ice hockey cart seems as popular as ever. And why not? What other title enables you to tear down the ice at breakneck speeds and then feel the thrill of victory as you slap the puck past the goalie for a score!

One or two players face off on the ice. One player action features Exhibition or Tournament modes. Exhibition play enables you to pick your favorite team and square off against a computer team for one game. Tournament mode enables you to become one of eight Canadian or American teams and play the other teams in tournament action.

The game play has all of the glamour and the excitement of real ice hockey. Competition begins as your team skates out onto the ice and lines up for the opening face off. You control each team member, including the goalie. Mount an aggressive offensive attack, do some hard checking, and even provoke a fight. Yup, that's right, the action is authentic right down to the brawls between opposing team members. Get ready to put your opponents on ice!

Run, Jump Stab & Seize!

Huge Bosses stretch so large they can't fit on one screen!

Use jumping skills to climb giant cliffs & tall towers.

Seize enemy vehicles, including a hovercraft!

Stab enemy Robots & Aliens

Power-up a complete arsenal including the awesome Wave!

You get all this plus much, much more!

Do You Have the Strength to Save the Countries of United Earth from War-Crazed Reprogrammed Robots?

The lives of trillions depends on you – Low G Man, the most skillful warrior alive. If you can handle the responsibility, you'll have a deadly armor-piercing spear, an electro-magnetic disruptor pistol and a super-human jump (up to 13/4 screens)!

If You Fail, You & Your Buds are Dust!

So don't. But just in case you'll have infinite continue & a password. You'll get rapid action, detailed scrolling backgrounds, lots of surprises, infectious music, heavy power-ups, multiple levels, and gigantic Bosses.

Are You Worthy of the Prestigious Title "Low G Man"?

Everyone can play Low G Man, but only a few can master the skills to save the CUE.

If you're ready for a game that gives you everything and only asks for your extreme concentration, then watch for Low G Man.

#4: Track and Field II (Nintendo) By Konami

One or Two Players (simultaneous)

This sequel to Track and Field enables you to compete in classic track and field competition – 13 different events in all – in three different modes, including Olympic competition.

The Training Mode enables you to practice your skills and warm up in the 12 individual events. When you've reached peak conditioning you're ready for the Olympic Mode. Pick your favorite of ten teams (including the USA, France, the USSR, etc.), As captain of your squad you guide your team to the last three days of competition - the Olympic finals! The competition events in the Training and the Olympic modes include Fencina, Triple Jump, Freestyle Swimming, High Dive, Clay Pigeon Shooting, Hammer Throw, Taekwondo, Pole Value, Archery, Hurdles, and Horizontal Bar. And if you're really good, you might even get to try some unusual events like Hang Gliding.

The third game option is the Versus Mode. Here you match up against a friend in events such as Arm Wrestling or Taekwondo, It's the thrill of victory, and, well, mostly the agony of defeat!

#5: Double Dribble (Nintendo) By Konami

One or Two Players (simultaneous)

This title pits teams of five players against one another in full court, straighton, old-fashioned hoops. There are four different teams, each with their own special abilities. You can take on the computer or a friend. If you match up against the computer, you can set the skill level to easy, medium, or difficult.

Actual game play is divided into four periods – you choose from 5-, 10-, 20-, or 30-minute periods. You control the on-court action as you run, jump, shoot, pass, make free throws, guard, steal the ball, and make some wicked dunk shots. Of course, this isn't a free for all. Refs call a tight game, including penalties for travelling, blocking, and pushing, and you'll have to follow the rules!

Win by scoring the most baskets. The scoring is standard – two points from inside the three point line and three points from beyond it. And if your team is having a bad day, hey, you can just settle back and enjoy the half-time show – complete with pom-pom-waving cheerleaders and your very own mascot!

#6: Bases Loaded (Nintendo) By Jaleco

One or Two Players (simultaneous)

Jaleco's Bases Loaded is the most popular baseball cart to date. And why not? If you're looking for authentic baseball action, this one's a hit since it puts you in the dugout, on the mound, in center field, and just about everywhere else except the stands.

Pick from two different modes of play, if you decide to enter the pennant race in the Pennant Mode, you're up against the computer in a 132-game series, if you just need a quick baseball fix, go head-to-head against a friend in onegame competition.

Choose your winning team from 12 different squads. Each of the teams has a line-up of 30 players, including 12 pitchers. Every team is unique – each pitcher has his own EFA, and individual personality, including being right- or left-handed. Your starting lineup is set, but you get to pick your own pitcher. Once the game starts you can substitute players throughout each nine-inning agme.

Since you're a player as well as a manager you'll have to do a little more than exercise your managerial brilliance. You'll also have to show your stuff on the field! Hey, what are you waiting for? Get out there and play ball!

#7: Tommy Lasorda Baseball By Sega of America

One or Two Players (simultaneous)

This was the first 16-bit baseball cart on the market, and it set a high standard for 16-bit sports fans right off the bat.

Take the field as any one of 26 major leave teams. Although the game uses real-life city names, the players and stats are specific to this cart. If you're in it for the long hault, you can use the password mode to tack your team all the way to the World Series.

Players in the game have stats that indicate their skill level. They're rated according to batting average, homeruns, running speed, and fielding and throwing ability. Pitchers are rated by ERA, curvethrowing ability, stamina, top throwing speed, and the distance a hit pitch will travel.

Use the option screen to decide how tough to make your computer opponent. You can also select whether or not there'll be fielding errors and determine how the wind affects hit balls. The game covers just about every detail, right down to umps who shout "safe" or "out." Batter up!

> #8: Pro Wrestling By Nintendo of America

One or Two Players (simultaneous)

Here it is, the one, the only, the original NES cart (there's a Sega Master System version also) that made so many gamers fond of that bone-crunching, body slamming sport called wrestling.

You're a wrestler in the Video Wrestling Association, and you're out to beat the Great Puma and win the WMA crown. The problem is you've got five other wrestlers to pin to the mat before you can even by to dig your claws into the Puma.

The Wrestlers you get to choose from are Fighter Hyabusa, Starman, Kin Corn Karn, Giant Panther, the Amazon, and King Slender. Each wrestler has 12 standard moves and a special move of his own. Once the action gets going you can make your wrestler move all around the ring, as well as in and out of the ring. He can even jump up and then plummet down on top of your opponent.

Your goal is to pin your adversary and avoid being pinned! If you succeed in beating all five of your worthy opponents then you get your shot at the Great Puma – by far the toughest of all of the wrestlers. The Puma has all of the skills and the moves of the other six wrestlers, and it's going to take all you've got to pin him to the mat.

#9: Baseball Stars (Nintendo)
By SNK

One or Two Players (simultaneous)

Baseball is big in America and maybe that's why there are three, count them, three baseball carts in our sports top ten. Baseball Stars is also very American – putting you in charge of absolutely everything, including the money! Yup, in this cart you'll have to learn to do more than simply pitch, hit, and field the ball. You'll also have to create your own teams and leagues, sign up new players, trade with other teams, and even send some players packing when they don't measure up. Talk about realistic!

On the field Baseball Stars features traditional baseball game play, where you get to make all of the right moves at the plate, on the mound, and in the field. Its up to you to hit a grand slam, throw a strike, or snag the fly ball that retires the side. Become an all-star – or strike out – it's all up to you.

And, hey, if you don't like the way your team is playing, put on your manager's hat and change the batting order, put in a reliever, or move your players around. If you're still not happy with your team, search for a new player, make a trade for a not rookle, or even start over and build a new team from scratch.

That's baseball alright – American style!

#10: R.C. Pro Am (Nintendo)
By Nintendo

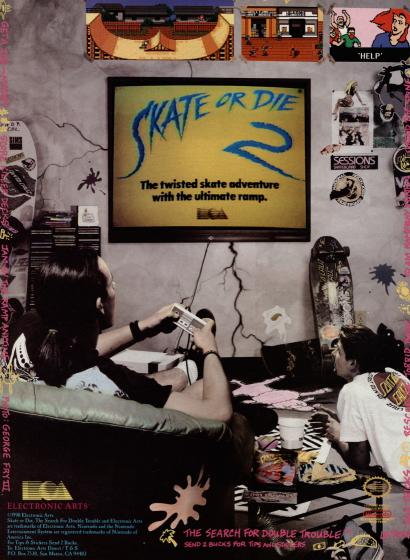

One Player

You may not consider radio-controlled car racing a sport, but there are a lot of gamers out there who'll disagree with you! A surprise Number Ten winner in our top ten survey was this classic cart from Nintendo – featuring radio-controlled car racing where anything can and does happen.

As you step up to the starting line your NES controller becomes your R.C. controller and in a flash you're maneuvering around the track at top speeds. In each race you fight with three other cars for the number one spot. The action features 48 different races on 24 tracks.

The tracks are packed with curves and straightaways. Nasty hazards you'll run into include pesky rain squalls, oil slicks that make the track slippery, barriers that pop up to smash your car, skulls who steal your ammo, and mud puddles that really bog you down.

To make it past all of these obstacles you'll have to grab special Tune-Up items you'll find along the tracks. These enable you to power-up your cars with speed, souped up engines, super tires, and other goodies. If you're good enough, you'll even find yourself controlling a powerful 4-Wheeler or an Off-Road vehicle. And you thought radio-controlled cars were just for kids!

GamePro's "Hot Tips: Sports Games" Book Hits the Market

The first COLOR sports video game book has hit the retail market. Game-Pro's Hot Tips: Sports Games is a 2004-page trade paperback crammed with color screen shots, passwords, and over 750 super tricks, and tips. Over 75 sports titles are covered for the Nintendo Entertainment System, the Sega Genesis, and the TurboGrafx-16. Also available is Hot Tips: Adventure Games, another full color strategy guide featuring over 940 tips and tactics for over 120 action/adventure titles. Both books have a suggested retail price of $9.95. Sounds like ideal stocking stuffers to us (hint, hint).

The Super Mario Club: A Good Idea or Restraint of Trade?

Nintendo, always looking for a way to predetermine which NES titles will be hits, has created the Super Mario Club in Japan. The club has been developed as a way to rate potential titles for the three

Nichard annual Contract Contract

Nintendo systems (Famicom, Super Famicom, and Game Boy).

The Super Mario Club will have a membership of approximately 2500 kids, all who will own the forthcoming Nintendo modern. Members will be connected to Nintendo via the modern and will be able to play prereleased titles for the various game systems. SMC members will then rate games on a 50 point scale. A passing grade is 35 or better.

Distributors and dealers will also be connected (at their option) to Nintendo via modem. Nintendo will provide the ratings to every retailer connected via the Nintendo network.

The possibility of the Super Marco Club arriving here some time soon has Nintendo licensees shuddering. Poorly rated games can still be produced at the discretion of the manufacturer, but unlike the current system (Nintendo currenty rates games on a 40 point scale and discloses the ratings only to the licensee), ratings will be disclosed to retailers and distributors. A poorly rated game should have almost no chance to survive in the market.

On the positive side, something like the Super Mario Club could force licensees to produce high quality titles. But should we really leave the decision as to what quality is up to so few gamers?

Nintendo plans to start accepting games for the Super Famicom for rating purposes on November 19, 1990, with results becoming available Christmas. In January 1991, they will start accepting 8-bit game submissions, with results available February 1st. Game Boy titles will be rated starting March 11, 1990 with results being announced in April.

Tengen's $5 Rebate Program

Tengen has announced a $5 consumer rebate program for their NES, Genesis, and T-16 titles. Tengen displays and rebate cards will only be available at video retail stores. Currently there are over 42,000 video retail stores carrying Tengen video games nationwide.

Sequelmania

You don't mess with success - especially in the entertainment industry. And video games are a part of the entertainment industry, so why should they be different? After becoming the #1 selling Turbo-Grafx-16 title of all time, Bonk's Adventure is a cart begging for a sequel. Good news. Bonkites, that bald-headed cavedude will be back for the T-16 sometime in 1991. Also on the sequel horizon is a new Teenage Mutant Turtle movie slated for March 1991. No word from Konami on whether they have a game planned for it, but we'll bet the ranch that they do. Other future video game sequels include: Shadowgate 2, Mega Man 4, Tecmo Bowl II (Super Tecmo Bowl), Déjà Vu II, Super Mario 4, Double Dragon III, and Gradius 3 to name but a few.

ROLLERBALL

The pinball game of the '50s meets the technology of the '90s! RÖLLERBALL brings you two exciting new games in one. SKYSCRAPER—A four-screen, vertical-scrolling pinball tour-de-force guaranteed to challenge any player, beginner or pinball wizard! MATCHPLAY—Fast-paced bead-to-bead competition with a few twists you've never seen before! The electronic pinball game with true pinball flipper feel and ball action! The only thing it won't do is TILT!

Watch for our games at the Nintendo World Championships.

THE ONLY TRUE DRIVING SIMULATION — AND #1 ARCADE HIT!

NEW!
FOR PLAY ON GENESIS!

Hard Drivin' is so real you'll feel like you're burning up the road in a high performance car. Two tracks provide plenty of challenge — pat the pedal to the metal on the Speed Track or get airborne on the radical Stunt Track!

Jump a drawbridge! Do a vertical 360° loop! The true 3-D screen display will have you hanging on for dear life! If you lose it, you get to see an instant replay of your accident!

Like the incredible arcade hit, this Hard Drivin' is looking for a few hard drivers.

No license, or cars, required.

The Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles Have Mutated Again.

like Tora the Polar Beast will frost your shell nly this time it's no accident. As Ultra® transforms your favorite arcade game into a hard hitting new adventure for the Nintendo Entertainment System."

With eight original arcade levels, plus two never before seen shell squashing stages and a ton of new enemies, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles® II - The Arcade Game™ is unlike any sewer war the turtles have ever fought in.

Fortunately two can play at this game, double teaming Shredder's 700 Foot Soldiers who will fight you every step of the wayfrom the Central Park Snow Route to the stone cold Rock 'N Roll Quarry.

Of course to crush invincible enemies like Tora and Shogun, you must master radical new attack moves which Splinter has programmed into the game.

So grab the adventure that's hotter than a radioactive meltdown. But be warned. You might turn green, grow a shell and suddenly start craving jumbo pizzas with extra pepperonis.

In the never before seen Ninja Castle, you'd be wise to chaose a partner before you pick a fight.
