Cover Story

Blind Melon Brews Up Soup

It's been three years since Capitol recording act Blind Melon has released an album, although the band hasn't been resting on the success of its platinum plus, self-titled debut album. Constant touring has expanded the band's fan base, and also made the second album's release a marketplace event. The album debuts this week at #13 on Cash Box pop album list. Karen Sidlow talked with band member Rogers Stevens about the new album, and also chatted with Capitol executives about the marketing and promotion of Soup.

The Re-invention of Capitol Records

Capitol Records chief Gary Gersh is in the third year of his mission to take the company boldly back to where it has been before—on the cutting edge of music and consistent chart success. The label honcho talked with Cash Box pop editor Steve Baltin about the philosophy that has been launched to return the label to its previous stature in the industry, and also about some of the acts that could propel it there.

Death Row Hits Time Warner With Racketeering, Extortion Suit

DRAMA CONTINUED MOUNTING in the Death Row Records/Warner Music Group maneuvering with a racketeering and extortion suit being filed by DRR against Time Warner; chairman Gerald Levin; WMG chairman Michael Fuchs; political activist C. Dolores Tucker and the National Political Congress of Black Women.

Further drama saw Interscope Records' president Jimmy Iovine walk off the stage at WMG's Washington, DC convention in a protest over what he perceived to be surreptitious dealings by Fuchs after stating, "I want you to understand that my silence speaks volumes to the emotions I bring to this convention today." At that point Iovine and DRR chairman Marion "Shug" Knight and other Interscope and Death Row heads left the proceedings, presenting a united front in their belief that Fuchs had gone behind Interscope's back in a play to take DRR away from Interscope.

The week before, charges swirled around a report that would see Interscope lose Death Row to a new distribution company headed by Tucker who, it was rumored, would control lyric content. Tucker has been an outspoken critic of rap lyrics and TW, and has charged that they have "created a cesspool of pornography and violence and a drug culture," in referring to Interscope.

Death Row's suit, filed in U.S. District Court, accuses the defendants of wire fraud, conspiracy, intentional interference with contracts, unfair business practices and extortion.

Interscope filed a similar suit against Tucker, though it did not name Fuchs, Levin, TW, WMG or the NCBW.

Cash Box Names Weissman Legal Counsel

GEORGE ALBERT, PUBLISHER of Cash Box magazine, has named Donald Weissman legal counsel for the publication. The Woodland Hills, CA-based attorney has negotiated and litigated a variety of entertainment issues, and has represented an array of celebrity and corporate clients for the past 20 years.

Having stepped out of a major law firm in the early '80s, the Southern California-native now runs a boutique legal practice. "I like having a small shop, with just a handful of associates," Weissman says. "It makes for less politics and more concentration on the work."

In addition to entertainment law, his office also handled insurance, real estate and medical malpractice cases. But he carved out a hard-earned reputation as a tough litigator and negotiator in the entertainment law arena. "I've represented several celebrity clients, but not on an ongoing basis," Weissman explains. usually, I'm the attorney they call when there's questions regarding a point of litigation or about a particular kind of contract. I'd say that 50 percent of the referrals are from other attorneys."

Born and raised in the San Fernando Valley of Los Angeles, Weissman earned his undergraduate degree from what is now Cal State University at Northridge. He graduated in 1975 with his law degree from Loyola University in the Los Angeles area. He has taught law courses on various campuses, and remains on the faculty at La Verne-San Fernando Valley School of Law in Woodland Hills.

R.E.M. Not Sweet On Hershey Or Kit Kat

ROCK GROUP R.E.M. has filed suit against Hershey Foods Corporation for trademark and service mark infringement, unfair competition and related claims. The action by the band is in response to a Kit Kat/R.E.M. concert promotion that ran on the radio.

■ Sandra Trim-DaCosta has been promoted to vp of marketing for the GRP Recording Company. In her new job, Trim-DaCosta will supervise all marketing activities for the Impulse!, GRP and Bluc Thumb labels, along with overseeing press, media and video campaigns for all the company's artists. She joined GRP in 1993 as director of marketing, and prior to that spent 17 years at Columbia Records. ■ American Recordings has named Marc Geiger to the post of vp of marketing/new media. The long-time A&R and alternative marketing executive will now be responsible for artist development, product management, marketing and new media functions in his expanded role. Geiger launched his music career in San Diego working as an air personality, a record store manager, and then as a concert promoter with Avalon Attractions. He came to American in 1991. American has also named Dino Paredes to an A&R position. Prior to joining American, Paredes served as A&R director at Priority Records, where he spearheaded the label's move into the rock music arena. ■ PolyGram Holding, Inc. has announced a pair of new appointments. Janis Firstenberg has been named vp of royalty systems accounting at PHI. In her new job, Firstenberg will continue in her duties as head of PolyGram's royalty department and will serve as the North American user project manager on the company's international TRACS royalty accounting system. She will oversee royalty activities for the Motown, A&M, Island, PolyGram and PolyGram Canada labels. She first came to the company in 1987 as MIS manager of royalty systems. At PHI's merchandising arm, Great Entertainment Merchandising, Inc., Eric J. Bender has been named an attorney in the legal affairs department. Bender will be responsible for drafting and negotiating merchandising and licensing deals for GEM's artist roster as well as other properties. He was formerly a legal consultant for both GEM and PolyGram Diversified Entertainment, Inc. ■ Chuck Nankivell has been named product manager at Sony Wonder. In his new role, Nankivell will be responsible for helping execute marketing plans for Sony Wonder's Sesame Street video, audio and book-and-tape, development of packaging, point-of-sale materials and solicitation of tools for the product's complete line. He will also be involved with the Random House Home Video line distributed by Sony Wonder. He previously has served as manager of Sony Music Special Products, a post he held from November, 1993. ■ Peter Robinson has been promoted to sr. director of A&R at RCA Records. Robinson joined the company in 1993 as manager of East Coast A&R, and was later promoted to assoc. director of A&R/East Coast. ■ Zoo Entertainment, a division of BMG Music, has announced a pair of appointments. Bill Burrs has been named Midwest regional marketing manager and will move from the company's St. Louis branch to the Chicago office. Burrs had been working as Midwest regional marketing manager at the St. Louis office, and before joining Zoo was a promotion assistant to Van-O at the Midwest Music Alliance. Ken Anthony has been named national director of adult promotion for Zoo. Prior to joining the company, Anthony logged a varied background at AOR stations. ■ Ron Rutledge has been named studio manager at A&M Recording Studios. He will be responsible for overseeing all daily activities at the studio, which houses five recording studios and six mastering studios. Rutledge joined A&M in 1994 as traffic manager before being promoted to his new job.

TRIPLE X MUSIC: Scores written for blue movies are regular fodder for comedians making light of those films' clichés. The soundtrack to Stranger Than Fiction's movie Porn is anything but the norm. The film made about the sky industry which includes Screw magazine's Al Goldstein and academic critic Catherine MacKinnon, is made by the same people who produced the documentary about abuse rocker G.G. Allin. They asked a number of bands to write original songs revolving around the theme of porn who included the Melvins, Guv'nor, Mudhoney, Strapping Field Hands, Boss Hog and The Cows. Also Hammerhead featuring Kat Bjelland from Babes In Toyland and Halo of Kittens which includes former Pussy Galore, and now Free Kitten Julia Cafitz plus Tom Hazelmeyer of Halo of Flies and president of Amphetamine Reptile records. Am Rep is putting out a series of seven inches limited to 2000 and will release the whole project sometime in the fall. You'll have to go to the back of the store to buy it.

YOUNG-ISH TURKS: Pogoing out of the demi-scene in Columbus, Ohio come The New Bomb Turks. They've been proclaimed the keepers of the punk rock flame, and that blaze could be seen in force at the Mercury Lounge on the 16th of August. The Turks sweated through their set with practiced ease. Lead singer Eric Davidson jumped all over the stage and then broke the fourth wall and headed into the crowd without missing a note. There was no body surfing since that act comes well after this genre's concert experience. Davidson did, on the other hand, do some traditional punk gesticulating with the microphone and its stand. He also showed the true quality of his voice as he sang the Culture Club hit "Karma Chameleon" solo like a choir boy. Their newest album Information Highway Revisited is out now on the German-based Crypt label.

STAGE FIREWORKS: There are a host of bands claiming to be the kings of the footlights. Only The Jon Spencer Blues Explosion can lay rightful claim to the title. Whether they are doing a twenty-song medley, or just kicking the jams out of their individual numbers, no one tears up the boards like this trio. It could be Russell Simmins' hurricane-like drumming, Judah Bauer's ability while playing guitar to sound like a whole band by himself, or maybe it's Jon Spencer's growly deep voice and his wizard-like maneuvers on the theremin. Whatever the reasons may be, they should not be missed. The Blues Explosion currently have a release out on Matador of remixes by such personae as Moby and others. They are now touring the east coast and have a date at New York's Academy on August 31st. Accompanying them will be the bluesman R.L. Burnside off the Fat Possum label. Make sure to bring an extinguisher.

FULLY LOADED: Indie rock has made inroads into the airwaves since the beginning of the 90s so it only makes sense that it should start being seen on the big screen, which is where Mike Galinsky and Suki Hawley have put it in their film Half-Cocked. The story line revolves around a house of slackers living in Louisville, Kentucky who steal a van loaded with musical equipment. None of them can play, but that doesn't stop them as they proceed to play a spree of different places. Made on a shoestring budget of $40,000 the film has shown at the Berlin Film Festival and a number of more alternative venues. While the makers are still looking for a distributor, the music is already out. The soundtrack is overrun with indie bands, many of whom appear in Half-Cocked, including Dischord's Slant 6, Freakwater on Thrill Jockey and Merge's Polvo. It is being released by Matador with the vinyl having four extra tracks.

Cash Box WEST COAST

By Steve Balin

"THIS IS A GREAT NIGHT," exclaimed Julie Ritter, the former co-lead singer of popular L.A. group Mary's Danish before getting up to read her second poem of the evening at a round-robin reading/acoustic music group hosted by Borders' book store in West Hollywood. The event united Ritter, who recently released a spoken word album on New Alliance Records with three other leading female poets, Linda Albertano, Liz Belile and Beth Borrus. The hour-plus performance prompted the very witty Belile to dub the evening, "Chicks With Guitars."

Each performer had their own style about them, with Belile filling the duties of unofficial moderator, in addition to delighting the crowd with her sense of humor. Borrus went for a more straight-forward approach, choosing not to say much before each work, while Albertano combined elements of both.

The evening's finest moments came courtesy of Ritter, who broke the crowd's heart with her first poem, a work about a friend of hers named Jennifer who killed herself. Near the end of the work, she received the highest honor from a spoken word audience—the collective gasp. Her two acoustic works were equally impressive, with the second number stunning the audience. All that needs to be said about her second number is that Belile, when asked to close the evening, said, "I don't wanna follow that." With Mary's Danish, Ritter made a name for herself, but her talent goes far beyond what we've seen previously. This is a woman with a stunning voice.

Kudos go to Borders for allowing everybody involved to escape from the normal routine evening and witness a great night.

SAY WHAT YOU WILL ABOUT Terence Trent D'Arby, but the man knows how to keep an audience entertained. D'Arby, who recently released ... Vibrator on Work/Columbia, came into L.A. with his superb five-piece band and rocked the packed American Legion Hall for nearly two hours.

Opening with the record's title track, D'Arby put on his usual energetic show, complete with limber gymnastics and lots of prancing around. He focused on the newer material, though fans who wanted to relive the glory of D'Arby's sensational debut, Introducing The Hardline According To Terence Trent D'Arby, got their fill thanks to stellar versions of "Wishing Well" and "If You Stay."

Lost in the controversy of D'Arby's outspoken personality and flashy stage presence is a great singer. At the Legion Hall D'Arby reminded fans of that with his strong sounding vocals, which, have no fear, still included his trademark high notes. In addition, D'Arby's tight backing band also covered his back vocally, supporting him well.

D'Arby has grown as a performer, and with him his audience has grown. The normally youthful Legion Hall which, for shows like Foo Fighters, featured wall-to-wall sweaty teen-agers was instead inundated with people who would qualify as yuppies, if there was still such a label. Proving D'Arby's mettle was the amount of musicians out to see the show, including Alice In Chains' Mike Inez. They were not disappointed. (By Tony Ruiz)

Continuing with our baseball motif—we just love themes in this column, remember the odd pairings match-ups—we spotlight RCA recording artist Bruce Hornsby, who hooked up with members of the front-running California Angels for his new video, "A Walk In The Sun." Maybe some of the Angels' good fortune—they currently lead their division by ten games at press time—will rub off on Hornsby, who's been out of the leading man role for some time. Shown here, back row (l-r): Hornsby; Rex Hudler, California Angels. Front row (l-r): Mark Langston, Gary DiSarcina and Chili Davis, Angels.

Blind Melon's Soup: A Sip of Sophomore Success

By Karen Sidlow

Blind Melon

SOPHOMORE JINX? Maybe not. Capitol recording act Blind Melon seems poised to top its previous success. It's been almost three years since the world was introduced to five guys from Smalltowns, USA who somehow found common ground in Los Angeles, CA. Recognizing that the City of Angels wasn't so serene, they still made the sojourn to this music mecca to seek fortune, fame or just to experience the creative chaos of a new environment.

In the early 90's the fivesome, made up of vocalist Shannon Hoon, guitar players Rogers Stevens and Christopher Thorn, bassist Brad Smith and drummer Glen Graham, headed to North Carolina to write some tunes. Next they ventured to Seattle, WA's London Bridge studio to record what was to be their inspiring multi-platinum self-titled debut album then, for the last three years, major tour stops at clubs, theaters, arenas, and an appearance at Woodstock '94.

The fact that the band's first release sold well and most likely was heard by millions of people with several million more experiencing them live, there's little doubt a lot of folks are anxious to imbibe the sounds they offer on their second effort, Soup, which debuts this week at #13 on the Cash Box pop album chart.

And what exactly has changed over the past few years? To start with, the obvious thing would be that all five members actually have a few dollars in their pockets. Add to the list the visual changes, noticeable when a few members received pretty severe haircuts and obtained several more tattoos. But even more personally, two of them got married (Thorn and Graham), though not to each other, and one of them became a loving father (Hoon).

But the question burning in everyone's mind has to be: Is the world ready for a second helping, this time a hearty slurp of Soup, from the sweet small town boys that call themselves Blind Melon?

Guitarist, Stevens took some time to illuminate for Cash Box, in a lighthearted amusing way, his take on where the band plans to go from here. Surely the most frequent inquiry would be how he anticipates Soup will be received. He freely commented, "What am I supposed to be thinking? [jokingly] Am I supposed to be thinking I'm a 'rockstar' or something? [laughs] Well, anticipation is a very strange thing because you can sit around and speculate, and I'm sure there are many business speculators in their offices riding around in agony wondering what this (record) is going to do. It's out of my control now. We made a record that we're happy with and we think is really good and there's nothing else we can do about it."

Reminded that the quintet's debut was an overwhelming success, Rogers explained how he feels about the new set of songs compared to their 1992 release. "That's what was going on then, and this is what is going on now. I think, placing them side by side, this one stacks up a bit higher for me."

During a recent conversation, Denise Skinner, Capitol's vp of marketing operations, goes a bit further in discussing ideas about the new release: "The marketing strategy is a lot easier (than their debut, because of the built in fan base) and the band has delivered a brilliant record. What a marketing dream! The ideas are limitless as far as what we can do with this. Because of more recognition, there's more things we can do that (will) get people excited."

The first single from Soup is the opening track, "Galaxie." Rogers talks about the video and it's director. "It's basically your average heavy metal band driving around in a car video with really cool visuals going on all around us."

Skinner then elaborates on the label's plan for exposure of the new video. "Jake Scott shot it and Timothy Leary is in it. It's a very cool video. MTV seems to be very excited about it, they (gave) us a world premiere."

Then there's the radio end of the campaign. Tim Devine, vp of A&R at Capitol, laid the cards on the table. "The plan with this album is to go back

Capitol's Gersh: Re-Honing The Cutting Edge

By Steve Baltin

"YOU COME IN HERE AND YOU THINK, 'Okay, we're gonna try and be a little bit smarter, a little bit younger and a little bit faster.' Everyone says, 'Well, it'll take you three years to turn it around really,' and then you look up and it's a year, year and a half later, and you realize it really takes about three years. We're two years into that. You're already seeing the results of what two years has brought us and I think we're on course to really set this label up for a strong future," says Gary Gersh, president of Capitol Records, about the changing face of the label.

Over the course of its storied history, the famed round office building on Vine St. in Hollywood, which still attracts sightseers in bermuda shorts and straw hats, has been home to Frank Sinatra, the Beach Boys, Linda Ronstadt, Duran Duran, the Steve Miller Band, Wings, Pink Floyd's legendary Dark Side Of The Moon album, and of course, the Beatles.

However, the most recent band to make the list is Duran Duran, who broke at the beginning of the '80s. The late '80s and early '90s saw marginal chart success for the label, but it was a sharp contrast to the heyday of Capitol.

Apparently the company's corporate brain trust agreed, and went for a change in the form of Gary Gersh, the A&R man who brought Counting Crows, Robbie Robertson, Maria McKee and Nirvana, among others, to Geffen.

Gersh's reputation as an A&R man, which he downplayed during the interview ("I don't know what my reputation is, and I don't know anything about that stuff"), was an obvious factor in bringing him in as the president of Capitol. The label's down-time came from missing out on the cutting edge of music. While competitors soared with the grunge movement, or whatever the fad of the day was, Capitol was left in the rock dust, relying on Capitol Nashville, reissues, the Blue Note label, and a strong urban side, including the massively popular M.C. Hammer, to keep the label's reputation afloat. What a difference two years makes.

Following the outstanding success of Blind Melon's debut—which was signed under the old regime, but released in 1992, and Radiohead's "Creep," from last year—the label is re-establishing itself in 1995 as one of those companies navigating the cutting edge. While the label is not yet dominating the charts, Capitol has held a foothold on Modern Rock radio this summer and made

REVIEWS By Steve Baltin

■ JANET JACKSON: "Runaway" (A&M Records 00073)

The lead track from Jackson's forthcoming Decade, which probably no one knew was coming out and will likely outsell you know what—then again, hasn't the soundtrack to the Mighty Morphin Power Rangers? There are moments on this song when it's impossible to tell Janet's voice from that of her famous brother. What that says I don't know, I just thought it was interesting. The Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis-produced track marks a departure for Jackson, as she returns to a more innocent style. It's a new Jackson single, and as long as the name

"Janet" is on it, look for radio to accept this with open arms.

■ DILLON FENCE: "Queen Of The In-Between" (Mammoth 6044-2)

Dillon Fence is a band from the college town of Chapel Hill, NC that writes pop ditties like seasoned pros. The band's Living Room Scene has been relegated to the .99 cent bin while much less deserving bands stand at the top of the used record store food chain. However, if Dillon Fence continue to record tracks like this, there is no question the band will rise at least to the $1.99 bin. And from there, look out.

■ TOM PETTY: "Higher Place" (Warner Bros. 18702)

This is the most positive sounding track yet from Petty's reverending Wildflowers CD. Following in the footsteps of the album's previous hit singles, this jangly pop tune should resurrect a lot of interest in the record. Not quite a rocker in the vein of "American Girl" or "Need To Know," it features the most guitars Petty has used in some time. Radio should jump all over this, including Top 40.

■ DRIVIN' 'N' CRYIN': "Telling Stories" (DGC 4770)

Someday Drivin' 'n' Cryin' will become a part of 20th-century folklore, as the college band that should've. Since the early '80s, this Georgia act have been primed to follow in the footsteps of state-mates R.E.M., only a funny thing happened on the way to stardom. Apparently stardom saw Drivin' 'n' Cryin' first and kept ducking into an alleyway. If nothing else though, the group are a testament to perseverance. And you know what, this is the best song the band has released in some time. A lovely straight-ahead folk-pop tune, it will grab listeners in the cockles of their hearts and hold on for some time. Maybe now?

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ SOPHIE B. HAWKINS: "As I Lay Me Down" (Columbia 7280)

Whaler may not have made that big a splash on the charts, but no one appears ready to give up on the golden-haired Hawkins. The interior sleeve of the promo single features testimony from ten different radio personas about the phenomenal out-of-the-box response Hawkins' new single has received. After one listen it shouldn't be hard to convince people of the irresistibly seductive appeal this song possesses. Hawkins takes a sweet approach to winning over listeners with the warm friendliness in her voice. If this isn't the track that gets Hawkins all over the airwaves again, someone needs to institute a random drug testing policy for radio personnel.

REVIEWS by Steve Baltin

■ THE BODEANS: Joe Dirt Car (Slash/Reprise 45945-2)

Anyone who asserts themselves as a music expert of the last decade is familiar with the BoDeans, a band so respected by their peers that they joined Peter Gabriel, U2 and Maria McKee in guesting on Rock 'n' Roll Hall Of Famer Robbie Robertson's debut solo album in 1987. Not bad company for a group the general public is utterly clueless about. A two-CD live set might seem like an overwhelming place to get started, but look at the commercial success that awaited Phish's recent Live, proving that cost is not always the determining factor in whether fans buy a disc or not. This CD is a gold mine of tracks for

AAA, including the beautiful "Paradise," the rocking "Idaho" and the festive sing-along track, "Good Things."

■ SEAWEED: Spanaway (Hollywood Records 62009-2)

This Tacoma band writes in their bio about the glories of growing up punk kids there during the late-mid '80s. They really shouldn't sell themselves short like that, though. There may be punk moments, like on "Common Mistake," and while the energy is apparent throughout, Seaweed show an ability to write melodies that escapes many bands thought of as punk these days. Seaweed have accomplished the best of both worlds, making enough noise to sell records, but making it worthwhile noise. Other standout tracks on a CD that seems a perfect fit for the revamped AOR and Modern Rock outlets include "Magic Mountainman" and "Crush Us All."

■ EDWIN McCAIN: Honor Among Thieves (Lava/Atlantic 92597-2)

McCain is a Southern boy whose sound reflects that. Very genial in its approach, Honor Among Thieves has the type of direct roots rock that audiences love these days. As such, there's not much in the line of variety to be found here, with a few notable exceptions, including the bluesy "Russian Roulette" and the up-tempo pop of "Guinevere." The record's first single, "Solitude," which features Darius Rucker from Hootie & The Blowfish, will bring fans in. Those lured in by the song will not be disappointed with the rest of the 12-song CD.

■ SWEETWATER: Superfriends (EastWest Records 61773-2)

EastWest marks the third label this decade for the Seattle quartet Sweet Water, the first being a Seattle indie, followed by Atlantic and now EastWest. While the reason for the jumping around is not clear, the Kerouac-esque band may have found a home. On their Dave Jerden (Jane's Addiction, Alice In Chains) produced CD, the group combine elements of pop, punk, funk and rock to create an infectious sound fused with raw energy. The standout is the lead single, "Superstar." If this song doesn't get your feet tapping, make a reservation at the local cemetery, cause there's something seriously wrong with you. However, that doesn't mean you can hit the fridge or the bathroom during the rest of the CD, cause there aren't any lag moments on this 12-song collection. But, damn that "Superstar" is a great song.

■ VARIOUS ARTISTS: Empire Records Soundtrack (A&M 0384-2)

Empire Records is a teen film with a strong pedigree, namely director Allan Moyle (Pump Up The Volume) and star Liv Tyler (if you have to ask, don't bother reading on). Couple that with the phenomenal initial response that's greeted the record's first single, the Gin Blossoms' "Til I Hear It From You," and you have a soundtrack that looks like a sure thing. As far as originality goes, there isn't much in the sense that the producers have assembled the standard blend of big-name acts (The Cranberries, Toad The Wet Sprocket, Evan Dando, etc.) with up-and-comers (Ape Hangers, Drill, Lustre). However, that doesn't have an adverse effect on this 15-song collection which, track for track, is in the upper echelon of soundtracks. One noteworthy thing about the artists assembled is the inclusion of three unsigned bands (Martinis, Please and Coyote Shivers). The fact that Please was produced by Jerry Harrison, while Daniel Lanois handled the duties for Coyote Shivers probably didn't hurt. In addition, there's some top-heavy label boosting here, with Ape Hangers and Lustre both set to release debut albums for A&M. Yet, all those issues aside, this is a delightful record to listen to, with multiple radio-friendly tracks to carry on the Gin Blossoms' success.

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ MY LIFE WITH THE THRILL KILL KULT: Hit & Run Holiday (Interscope 92591-2)

Only one band can challenge the Cramps for the title of "world's tackiest, strangest and hilariously band." And here they are, the glorious My Life With The Thrill Kill Kult. On their fifth album, the band have outdone themselves, recreating on record the essence of '60s B-movies. Welcome to the story of Krystal Starlust, a girl in search of an escape from her apple-pie way of life. The 15 songs here are woven together exceptionally, each playing a part in furthering the exploits of Krystal. It's hard to get beyond the playfulness of the concept (can't wait to see the videos off this one, do we sense an accompanying film?), but there're also good songs throughout. Among the highlights are the B-52's-sounding "Glamour Is A Rocky Road," the sultry "Portrait Of The Damned" and "The Doris Love Club." In its own gloriously demented Thrill Kill Kult way this CD may be the most accessible thing the band has ever done.

REVIEWS By Gil L. Robertson IV

JAY SPENCER: Blue Moon (Motown 314530551) Producers: Various

Saxophonist Jay Spencer is back with a collection of urban-tinged jazz tracks that will, for certain, add to his popular appeal. Spencer demonstrates much growth throughout this disc, tackling material that lends credibility to his jazz sensibilities. This disc touches on a good mix of music genres which should enable it to find a comfortable niche on traditional urban formats as well as in select jazz markets. Standout tracks: "I Want U," "Cherish The Day," "Close To You," and "If It Feels Good."

THE DOVE SHACK: This Is The Shack (RAL 527933-2) Producers: Various

This disc is a prime example of why politicians are attacking certain forms of rap music. Officer Furhman has nothing on these fellows, who use the n-word more times than I can count. The lyrics on this record offer nothing socially redeeming. Conceptually the disc works well, with great music execution and smooth vocal styling by the rappers. The problem here is their choice of lyrics. There are plenty of better ways to deliver a message or express a sentiment than the manner used on this disc. For their next record I would suggest that these fellows learn a few. Standout tracks: "Crooked Cop," "Ghetto Life," "East Side Party," and "The Train."

REG E. GAINES: Sweeper Don't Clean My Street (Mercury 528322-2) Producer: Reg E. Gaines

With his second collection of highly original and socially relevant prose, Gaines delivers the same straight from the gut sentiment that made his first disc a critical favorite. Although many have tried to duplicate his tough-but-whimsical lyrical styling, few can match the fervor he brings to his material. Gaines' strength is that he's able to make a moral tale sound fun and not preachy. This disc is a strong sophomore effort that will hopefully gain more commercial acceptance than his first. Gaines has definitely got a message worth listening to. Standout tracks: "Cab (I Just Wanna Catch A Cab)," "Suspect (For Tap)," "B.A.G.G. Lady's Blues," and "Berlin Suite Movement One: To Beat The Heat."

PICK OF THE WEEK

TOSHI KUBOTA: Sunshine, Moonlight (Columbia 67250)

This is a great collection of tracks that demonstrate the vast diversity of R&B. Throughout, Kubota proves that he's obviously done his homework as he cleverly combines the styles, flavors and attitudes of R&B into a mix that is refreshingly real. From the upbeat tempos to the mellow slow jams, Kubota captures his music's essence and creates an atmosphere of delight for listeners. This project is strong in its international appeal and should also do well, ironically not with urban radio, but on more mainstream formats. This is an excellent domestic debut for an extremely talented and highly knowledgeable performer. Standout tracks: "Sunshine, Moonlight," and "Funk It Up."

THE RHYTHM

By Gil L. Robertson IV

Mercury Recording artist Brian McKnight had a chance to meet with basketball star Michael Jordan at Brian's recent Polygram Group Distribution performance in Chicago. McKnight's new disc, I Remember You, arrived in stores August 8 and includes "Crazy Love," which is on the Cash Box charts.

SINGER/SONGWRITER BOBBY DEBARGE SUCCUMBS TO THE AIDS VIRUS: On Wednesday, August 15, Bobby Debarge passed away at the Hope Network Hospice in Detroit, Michigan from complications of AIDS. Best known as the lead singer for the group Switch, Debarge was a noted songwriter responsible for hits like "They'll Never Be," "I Call Your Name," "Love Over and Over Again," and "Best Beat." As the eldest brother of the talented singing Debarge Family, Bobby produced that group's debut project for Motown. In 1987 after the break up of Switch, and the departure of both El and Bunny from the popular group, Bobby rejoined the Debarge line-up recording "You Babe" for the independent Stripped Horse label. At the time of his death Bobby was celebrating twenty years in the music business with the release of his solo debut disc from the A&E label called "It Ain't Over", featuring the single "Good Times." Debarge was 38 and leaves behind a wife, two children and host of family and friends.

STEVIE WONDER TEAMS WITH MUSIC BOULEVARD for in-store promotion on the Internet at WWW.Musicblvd.com. Wonder will become the first featured artist to participate in the in-store promotion for Music Boulevard, the Internet's unprecedented 24-hour multi-media music store. The full scale promotion will highlight Wonder's latest release, Conversation Peace, as well as his entire Motown catalog. The campaign will also support his commitment to American Express Charge Against Hunger, with a portion of all Music Boulevard Stevie Wonder sales being donated to the charity.

DIS 'N DAT: Mega-producer Gordon Chambers just completed production chores on the new Toni Braxton disc. Gary Valenciano, one of the Philippines' hottest stars was recently in town to celebrate the release of his first domestic release "Out Of The Dark." Look out for the hot new CD-ROM from the Malaysian artist known simply as Zuriani. On Thursday, October 26, 1995 at the New York Sheraton Hotel & Towers, Cathy Hughes, owner/CEO of Radio One, Inc., will be honored at the Fourth Annual Salute To Excellence Awards Dinner. Proceeds will be donated to Piney Wood Country Life School, an African-American boarding school in Mississippi. For further information contact Kenneth Reynolds, 213-938-2364. The artist formerly known as Prince announced this week that he will be selling his Los Angeles home and Glam Slam night club to permanently reside in Minneapolis. On September 26, Underworld/Capitol Records will release the soundtrack to Dead Presidents, the much anticipated sophomore film produced and directed by Albert and Allen Hughes of Menace II Society fame. The 14-track disc features 12 R&B crossover classics, including old school '70s hits by such legendary artists as Isaac Hayes, James Brown, Curtis Mayfield, Al Green, Sly & The Family Stone, The O'Jays, The Spinners, and Barry White. Also featured is Underworld recording star Jesse and their recent signee Trina. Super vocalist Chaka Khan, whose new Warner disc is expected early next year, is currently making chart noise with her recordings for the new Crooklyn soundtrack as well as the new Jazzmatazz Vol. II disc.

By Gil L. Robertson IV

Capitol recording artist Channel Live and Character Productions' Charles Ferrar and Troy Taylor join forces in the creation of the platinum teen Brandy's chart-topping remix of "Best Friends" for Atlantic Records. The remix, which is currently on the Cash Box charts, features rhymes by Hakim and Tuffy of Channel Live, beats by The Characters and R&B styling by Brandy. Pictured (l-r): Tuffy of Channel Live; Troy Taylor of Character Productions; Charles Ferrar of Character Productions; Hakim of Channel Live; and Neron Thomas, an artist signed to Ferrar and Taylor's Diezel Records.

RUSSELL SIMMONS GEARS UP FOR SUMMER RUSH, the first fundraiser for the Rush Arts Foundation. On August 26, Russell Simmons and high fashion model Veronica Webb will host Summer Rush, to benefit Simmons' new not-for-profit educational and artistic program. Designed for socially and financially at-risk children, the program facilitates Simmons belief that the arts are a much needed resource for the development of young minds, and that children should not be deprived of this education due to extreme governmental budget cuts to the arts. The monies from this fundraising effort will benefit Arts Connection, Bridge Street Preparatory and Studio In A School.

DIS N' DAT: Luther "Luke" Cambell is filing bankruptcy, as you should have already heard by now, but it's not on some old mismanagement-of-funds shit. He has been handling his business, but a couple of crooks in his office were trying to do him Famous Amos-style. Fortunately, he caught on before the shit got too wicked and hopefully, the Florida prison system will catch a couple of extra heads before all is said and done. Snoop Doggy Dogg was given a September 6th trial date for his murder case in Los Angeles Superior Court. Under California conspiracy law, Snoop is catching a first degree murder case because the killing shot was fired from a car that Snoop was allegedly driving. Finally, 21-year old Rapper Nasir Jones, better known as Nas was arrested in New York for illegal possession of a .357 magnum and driving without a license. Nas was at the wheel of his $80,000 Lexus when he was pulled over by police—who were said to be acting on a tip. Nas' story? He said he was carrying the gun in case of an attempted car-jacking, like Latifah. No Limit Records will release a compilation entitled Down South Hustlers, which features UGK, ESG, Dayton Family, King George, Master P., Partner In Crime, Mia X., 20-2-Life, Magnolia Slim, Joe Black, Underground King. On September 7, Rappages Magazine will present a $10,000 check to the Minority AIDS Projects in memory of the late rap entrepreneur, Eric "Eazy E" Wright. For more information contact Laura Cathcart or Shelly Sumpter at (213) 845-9918.

Rap Single Reviews

By Gil L. Robertson IV

■ DIAMONDS IN THE ROUGH: "Shake Your Fanny" (Streetwise 2001)

This lively track from the quartet's debut disc is full of high energy and old school high jinx. The lyrical styling here is appealing and the music jams in all the right places. This track should enjoy wide regional airplay.

■ TAG TEAM: "Funkey Situation" (Bellmark 74505-2)

The Tag Team is back with another funky fresh track that's bound to fill the dance floors. The vocal flow on this record is fresh and high with personality. The music has an easy flow groove that's great to dance to and should insure this disc plenty of attention on several urban formats.

■ MARY J. BLIGE: "You Make Feel Like A Natural Woman" (Uptown 3529)

Mary J. delivers a fine rendition of this Aretha Franklin soul classic that will certainly add to her reputation as one of her generation's premiere vocalists. Radio will love this one across the board.

ON STAGE

Budweiser Superfest: Tale of Two Concerts

By M.R. Martinez

IRVINE MEADOWS APMHITHEATER, IRVINE, CA—It wasn't quite the best of times, nor was it quite the worst of times. But it certainly wasn't the best Budweiser Superfest, that annual urban music rite of summer held in major venues around the country. This 16th presentation of the event in Southern California was to feature three platinum selling acts -- headliner Boyz II Men with TLC and newcomer Montell Jordan.

Only two of the three acts showed, with TLC bowing out, reportedly due to one of the trio's singers becoming ill.

Boyz II Men

While disappointment didn't linger, the show might have been better if new Motown legacy Boyz II Men had delivered on their promise of being the premier young R&B vocal musicians that have earned two multi-platinum album awards in recent years. But those smoothed out harmonies and the vocal riffing during the hour plus set was obscured by pyrotechnic staging, poor sound and some trite posturing by the vocal quartet.

There weren't nearly enough moments like the group's rendering of Babyface Edmunds' "Water Runs Dry" and the normally moving "End Of The Road." Trouble was in the air, however, when the show opened with flames shooting up from the stage, fireworks cascading from the rafters, the muddy sound of the group's acapella intro and the young singers resorting to stage antics usually employed by some of their lesser talented contemporaries.

The Boyz closed the show with a sing-along on "End Of The Road," which engaged the mostly teenaged/young adult, culturally-diverse audience, but was an annoyance for those who had come to see them sing. This show could have been choreographed by magician David Copperfield. There just wasn't enough Philly Soul.

If the Boyz show was an embarrassing extravagance, Def Jam recording artist Montell Jordan delivered a minimalist set that was performed to prerecorded tracks. The hip-hop singer was joined on stage by dancers, and a 30-minute opening set could have been an extended segment on "Soul Train."

The All-Starr's Cross Time, Color Barriers

By John Rhys

GREEK THEATRE, LOS ANGELES, CA—As I walked from the parking lot to the entrance of the Greek Theatre, I was thinking of the disparaging remarks I had heard about Ringo Starr throughout the day. It occurred to me, "I don't really give a damn what anybody says, Ringo always made me smile." so he's not Louis Bellson; who cares. He's a living part of musical history. without Ringo, the Beatles would not have been the Beatles.

The Greek was three quarters full when I took my seat. I looked around surveying the crowd. a row behind me and to my left were three young girls, perhaps 10 to 12-years-old, directly behind me were four ladies in their late to mid 30s and to the right and in front of me sat an elderly couple, their knees covered with a blanket. The divergence of ages, colors and nationalities at this concert was amazing.

When the lights went down, the theatre was by then full. There was no ballyhoo, just the seven musicians that came on stage—keyboardist Billy Preston, organist Felix Cavaliere, bassist John Entwistle of The Who, Mark Rivera on percussion and sax, Zack Starkey on drums, Randy Bachman on guitar and Grand Funk Railroad and The Pack veteran Mark Farner also on guitar.

The first number of the night was, ironically, "It Don't Come Easy," upon which time Starr himself came on stage, bringing forth a wild greeting from the audience. He introduced the band after that opening and then took his place next to son Zack and Rivera.

Each band member took a turn introducing music from their stagemates illustrious songbooks, literal cornucopia of chart-topping titles—ranging from Preston's "Nothin' From Nothin'" and Farner's "I'm Your Captain" to Entwistle's "Boris Is A Spider," Bachman's "Takin' Care Of Business" and Cavaliere's "Good Lovin'."

Starr came down from the drums to lead the audience in a very famous song. "Everyone knows the words," Starr said. "Even unborn babies know the words to this song." The he launched into "Yellow Submarine." A sea of memories washed over me as half the audience was singing and crying at the same time.

It was fitting that the show closed with "A Little Help From My Friends." And on this night, Ringo and his All-Starrs had a theater full of them.

Blink Gives a Glimpse To Nashville

By Angela Thune

Blink

MUSIC CITY MIX FACTORY, NASHVILLE, TN—After a long and exhausting trip from New York to the country's "friendliest city," (talk about extreme differences), Blink, a Dublin-based alternative band, is making an impression in the states with a seven-stop mini tour promoting their album, Map Of The Universe. The twentysomething quartet came to town with four top 10 singles and a top ten album on Lime Records, a subsidiary of EMI. The group has won a slew of awards and achievements, including "Best New Band of the Year" and nominations for "Best New Act" and "Best Modern Rock Act" in the Irish National Entertainment Awards. It's hard to pinpoint their sound, but imagine walking in on an all-star jam session featuring the Sex Pistols' Johnny Rotten playing with members of The Cure and Soundgarden.

Opening their set with "Is God Really Groovy??" (already a smash hit in Ireland), Blink delivered a dose of thrash techno minus the sterility that so often accompanies European pop acts. Multi-talented keyboard player Robbie Sexton was exhausting to watch. Switching from guitar to keyboard and slamming out cool rhythms, Sexton provided a visual aerobic workout. A real treat was the fourth song in the set, "Happy Day," with a cheerful melody that belied the intense message of the lyrics.

"It's Not My Fault," another Irish hit finding its way into the American radio waves, was as entertaining to watch as it was to listen to. Funky-sounding bassist Brian McLoughlin and super-charged drummer Barry Campbell created a rhythm section that defined the song's infectious hook.

While the venue was not very crowded, Blink's performance was a crowd pleaser. They captivated the audience, no small feat considering the fact the band is still relatively unknown in the United States.

Blink's onstage performance was in stark contrast with their offstage personalities. At one point in the show, lead singer Dermot Lambert began seriously abusing his guitar, only to follow with a modest and almost-shy "thank you" after the song. Although quirky and eccentric, Blink showed true musical professionalism and indeed sounded as incredible as the album.

■ FOURPLAY: *Elixir (Warner Bros. 9 45922-2). Producers: Fourplay.

This quartet of veteran jazz visionaries return for another episode as the collective known as Fourplay. Pianist Bob James, guitarist Lee Ritenour, drummer Harvey Mason and Nathan East on bass craft smooth lilting grooves over the course of this 11-composition album. One of the most finely-integrated examples of this smooth groove is on the track "Dream Come True," where Ritenour creates dulcet tonality on the guitar, interspersed with rapid fire fretboard runs. The group goes uptempo on "Play Lady Play," and then gets into some introspective moodiness with the Phil Collins composition "Why Can't It Wait Until Morning," on which Collins guests as a vocalist. This album goes into even deeper moodiness on the song "Magic Carpet Ride," where James sets sights to inner landscapes before the band kicks in with a spright groove. Another treat on this album is the R&B standard "The Closer I Get To You," where singers extraordinaire Patti Austin and Peabo Bryson shine on this romantic gem.

■ THE ALAN BROADBENT TRIO: *Pacific Standard Time (Concord Jazz). Producer: Nick Phillips.

Broadbent's piano work has always been tasteful, full of swing and intelligent lyricism. He integrates composition and improvisational passages so smoothly you hardly notice the departure to the different sonic territories. In a trio setting here, the pianist has a lot of room to exhibit his broad lexicon of ivory dialects. And long-time trio collaborators Putter Smith (bass) and Frank Gibson, Jr. (drums) are in perfect sync with his approach on each song. This album represents the first time the trio has performed together in six years. There's only one Broadbent composition ("This One's For Bud," a tribute to Bud Powell) and the remainder are standards like Cole Porter's "Easy To Love," "Django" by John Lewis, the Morey/Church tune "Someday My Prince Will Come" and "I've Never Been In Love Before" by Frank Loesser.

■ YELLOWJACKETS: *Dreamland (Warner Bros. 9 45944-2). Producers: Yellowjackets.

This quartet continues to mine creative energies that will appeal to fans of fusion, New Adult Contemporary sounds and accessible jazz. Ferrante remains ever steady as a hitching post in this band. His keyboard work has become more confident as he demonstrates here that he need not be the centerpiece on each track. Long-time collaborator Jimmy Haslip on bass slips in and out of ethereal tonality and funky grooves as easily as the wind slides over an aerodynamic car. Reedman Bob Mintzer has listened to the articulate minimalism of Wayne Shorter, and on several tracks here achieves the same attitude. It's impossible to stand still listening to the track "Blacktop;" it's difficult to avoid a pleasant daydream while listening to the eclectic, shimmering "Summer Song." The band covers a lot of ground in between. Drummer Will Kennedy seems to find the proper foundational underpinning on each track.

■ KEVYN LETTAU: *Universal Language (JVC-2048-2) Producer: Mike Shapiro.

Although the multi-lingual Lettau is surrounded by several stellar sidemen, she more than holds her own vocally among these well-known players. Lettau's choice of material for this album has shown that she has gained a firmer grip on her musical identity and has selected accordingly. People like Russell Ferrante and Mitchel Forman (keyboards), Alphonso Johnson (bass), Alex Acuna (percussion) and Gary Meek (reeds) supply vigorous work on several tracks, and producer/drummer Mike Shapiro keeps things tight. Notable songs include: "Universal Language," "Underneath The Face Of The Moon" and "Beatriz."

Columbia's Desperado Proves Less Is More

By Zachary Rivers

In Columbia Pictures' Desperado Antonio Banderas and Salma Hayek prove happiness is a warm gun.

WRITER/PRODUCER/DIRECTOR ROBERT RODRIGUEZ must have felt like the proverbial kid in the candy store when making Desperado, his follow-up to the acclaimed low-budget (very low-budget) film, El Mariachi. After filming the 1992 movie for a reported $7,000, Rodriguez was given the opportunity to do the sequel Hollywood style, complete with big name stars like Antonio Banderas (Philadelphia, Interview With The Vampire). Rodriguez has left no stone unexploded, no corpse unbloodied and no sex scene unexplicit in this over-the-top cartoon that pays homage to the spaghetti westerns Sergio Leone made famous.

Banderas stars as the Mariachi with no name, a vigilante dressed in black who carries around a guitar case full of guns, and seems to be constantly entangled in blood baths, though he swears to his best friend, played by the always wonderful Steve Buscemi, that it's not his fault. Buscemi sets up the story by walking into a dingy bar and recanting the tale of the Mariachi to the bar's customers and bartender, played by Cheech Marin.

After finding out the information he was seeking, Buscemi takes the info back to Banderas, who sets out to the town of Santa Cecilia to find Bucho. Bucho, played by Joaquim de Almeida, is the man the Mariachi believes is responsible for shooting his hand, thus ending his guitar playing days, and killing the woman he loves. Along the way, the Mariachi meets a little boy (Abraham Verduzco) that serves as the obligatory symbol of lost youth and innocence and Carolina (the stunning Salma Hayek), a woman so sexy she can cause a traffic accident just by walking down the street.

Rodriguez doesn't have much to offer in the line of originality or plot development. In fact, be prepared to turn to your neighbor and say "huh?" when the out-of-the-blue ending conks you over the head. What he does have to offer is a sense of humor and one highly-stylized movie. In Banderas and Hayek, Rodriguez has maybe the best looking couple to appear on screen this year, a point he drives home during their one sex scene, a drawn-out sequence that features lots of unusual camera angles and numerous slow-motion shots. Banderas, in his first attempt at carrying an action film, seems a little too meek and playful to carry the burden he is supposedly seeking to eradicate through vengeance, especially next to the willful Hayek, who is sensational in taking Carolina beyond two-dimensional. Yes, she is physically stunning, but much of Carolina's abundant sex appeal comes from the headstrong attitude Hayek gives her. As Bucho, de Almeida is sufficiently smarmy and sleazy, while Buscemi is hilarious in his time on screen.

However, all of them pale to Quentin Tarantino's cameo, a scene that is close to worth the price of admission by itself. As a pick-up guy that goes into Marin's bar, Tarantino lights up the screen with his explosive goofiness.

Rodriguez has done a credible job following in Tarantino's footsteps by mixing humor and gore, though he should've watched for a few more lessons in story development. Rodriguez can be forgiven the excesses of Desperado given the circumstances that went into making the movie, namely that he had money this time. Hopefully though, he's worked it out of his system. This is not a movie that we need to see again. Yet, given the lack of action competition, look for this to come out of the gate strong, perhaps even debuting at number one.

The Columbia release was produced by Bill Borden with Elizabeth Avellan and Carlos Gallardo serving as co-producers. The movie's exceptional music, one of its biggest strengths, was done by Los Lobos.

UA's Lord Of Illusions: Call It Delusional

By John Goff

Scott Bakula and Famke Janssen should have hidden from the camera in this thing.

What he should do with a good portion of his salary from this one is hire a top notch psychiatrist and get some help for those things. After this sewage spill stinks up a wide release of theatres, he's gonna need some help somewhere. And consider, this is from the man who, last year, was reportedly "sickened" by the violence in Pulp Fiction and Interview With The Vampire and called out to fellow writers for some good guy stories.

Story?...Forget it, looks like Barker was as sickened by coherency as he was those movies. Sensibilities?...I haven't been this insulted in a theatre since the idiotic Judgement Night.

Technically, make-up and effects are top notch. But who gives a damn when you have to turn your head away from the screen because of the unpleasant sights.

Scott Bakula stars, looking for a jump to the big screen. He'd do well to take a Quantum Leap back to when he agreed to do this and amend the obvious mistake. Famke Janssen's lucky she's already filmed her James Bond shot in the upcoming Goldeneye.

Quick payoff and merciful death, unless there are more Manson followers buying movie tickets than we know about.

JoAnne Sellar co-produced with Barker. Steve Golin and Sigurjon Sighvatsson executive produced.

THE MAJOR ILLUSION to Lord Of Illusions is how something like this ever got made.

Writer/director/co-producer Clive Barker—who takes auteur credit—has made a fairly lucrative career out of writing out his nightmares and having them get to screen (Hellraiser, Candyman).

STAGE/SCREEN EVENT

Dreyer's 1928 Classic Jeanne D'Arc Given Einhorn Live Score

IT'S PEACEFUL OUTDOORS at the John Anson Ford Amphitheatre. Well, except for the occasional intrusion of a helicopter clattering overhead. With those exceptions, you're not aware of the nastiness of the world outside this quiet canyon theatre ringed by evergreens and pale palm tops, their slumping tan stalk-trunks skirted with drooping ash-colored fronds. Quiet. Peaceful. Why can't life always be like this?

The lights dim and, for the first time in the 75-year history of the performance space, a movie is shown. Further, it's accompanied by a newly written oratorio, inspired by and written to the accompanying images and action on screen, but able to stand alone as a musical performance piece. It's the work of composer Richard Einhorn who fell in love with the film, Carl Theodor Dreyer's 1928 silent classic La Passion de Jeanne D'Arc and was musically inspired to create the work which he calls Voices Of Light.

Portions of the libretto were taken from the actual trial transcript and as The Maid's recorded words are sung, Einhorn combines the wonderful voices of soprano Trudy Ellen Craney and mezzo soprano Michelle Fournier for an haunting effect. Male soloists were Ray Hornblower, tenor, and Norman Goss, baritone. The music was directed and conducted by Lucinda Carver.

The wonderful sounds fit so seamlessly with the film itself, and the film is so singular that an audience forgets the screen is suspended above the orchestra and chorus. For over an hour we sit unaware of an orchestra operating live in 1995, performing in accordance with a motion picture created in 1928, depicting a portion of history from 1429, illustrating man's inhumanity toward mankind through ignorance for the furthering of one group's own agenda. We're reminded once again that humanity's persecution of itself for selfish reasons hasn't changed in, at least, the last 500+ years. That's disheartening; but the music is wonderful and the sheer passion of the film is thrilling.

Actually, it's riveting from a creative standpoint when we take into account Dreyer used only three or four locales, all within walking distance of the other and limited the piece to a 24-hour period, largely the inquisition of Joan prior to her burning at the stake. And, he accomplishes this with lingering close-ups, few dialogic cards between scenes, simply the passions of the actors, the luminous camera work of cinematographer Rudolf Maté and the editing.

Joan, or Jeanne d'Arc, is portrayed by Maria Falconetti, whom Dreyer took from France's Comédie Francaise, the leading group of that country's performers at the time. Interestingly, this was Falconetti's first and only film role. Dreyer said at the time, "I found in her face exactly what I had been seeking for Joan of Arc; a rustic woman, very sincere, who was also a woman who had suffered." And the performance is very moving.

The film ignited a controversy even in 1928, over church censorship—it's to be remembered that Joan's fight to free France in 1429 was over religious censorship even then—and the film was banned in Britain for its alleged anti-British attitude, 500 years after the fact. How much do we learn from history? Better still, how much attention do we pay and how much credence do we give to all that has gone before?

At any rate, the controversy has provided those who will seek to address these dilemmas through beautiful and moving pieces of work—the film and the music. Those are to be appreciated as works of art, creative conceptions, set apart from the reality of the world.

Leaving the theatre and the peace of the canyon, grateful that if life can't always be like this at least there are moments, the melodies and the images linger, the shards of conscience of darker questions as to why so little has changed over the years are left in the shadows of the evergreens and dusty palms. The freeways and traffic beckon. Back to the real world.

to square one, meaning super-serving the college and alternative markets well before moving into the pop arena. To that end, we have shipped a 10-inch, 4 song vinyl EP, featuring 'Galaxie' as well as several demo tracks from the new album, exclusively to college radio, prior to the commercial alternative single release."

Even though the label is pushing full-speed ahead with "Galaxie," there are many other tracks on the record that are memorable and that touch upon a variety of subjects.

Some may recall the song "2x4," which was featured in their Woodstock set. Then there are some personal pieces that delve into the f-word, Family. "Vernie," the third tune on the record was written about frontman, Shannon Hoon's grandmother, and the birth of Hoon's child inspired him to pen "New Life."

There's even a song that didn't make it to the debut but found its way onto this release. Rogers explains how "Walk" got new legs. "'Walk' was a song that was sort of an in-between song that fell down a very large crevice and we ended up falling down in that crevice ourselves and we brought it back up."

Rogers also mentioned that the brief tune was produced by bassist and 'hair man extraordinaire,' Brad Smith.

A few songs on the record speak of death in a diverse, astonishing set of events. "Skinned" is an attempt to dissect the mentality of serial killer Ed Grein and "Car Seat (God's Present)" was sparked by Hoon's reaction to the horror of Susan Smith, the South Carolina woman who drowned her two children.

Rogers speaks about another morbid occurrence—this time, suicide—that inspired the scribing of "St. Andrews Fall." "It must have been about 1993 and it was in Detroit, and it was right outside of the St. Andrews Hall, which is a venue in downtown Detroit. I think it was kind of a younger girl and she stood up there for a long time. It was really sick because all these people we're standing around yelling 'jump.' It was pathetic."

But the entire album does not deal with the moribund. There are also uplifting, playful songs on the release. One of them is "Mouthful of Cavities," which feature the vocals of Hoon along with Jena Kraus. Rogers said, "I met Jena actually in New York and we became friends and she started hanging out with the band and then she said 'I can sing' and that's what she did."

And if the 14 songs on the record aren't enough to tide the public over, the band is talking about doing some recording at various outlets while on the road with the possibility of using them as B-sides. Tracks may include new original material or selected cover songs.

Speaking of recording, the band called upon Rick Parasher to shape their debut at London Bridge studio in Seattle. This time they arranged for the infamous Andy Wallace to produce their second effort which took form at Daniel Lanois' New Orleans-based Kingsway Studio. Rogers talks about their wise production decisions. "We wanted to change, we wanted to use someone else. (Andy) came to New Orleans (and we had) never met him before. I held up a sign that said 'Andy Walrus' and he walks off the plane and looked me in the eye and said, 'I am the walrus.' And I thought, 'Okay, that's good.' He's like the headmaster of rock and we've heard lots of (the) records (he's produced) and they all have certain qualities about them."

With their new record just available in stores, what lies ahead for Blind Melon? "We're gearing up to do more of the same, to tour and burn ourselves out as we did before." Rogers honestly puts his career into perspective. Skinner gets a little more detailed about the band's schedule. "They are going to be doing some European festivals in late August and then they will be back (in the United States). We're looking to do the (David) Letterman Show either on the 21st or 28th of September. They're either going to start the tour right before the Letterman date or right after it. It will probably be a six week tour (of) small theaters."

There's also talk of a Blind Melon home video in the future. The audio and visual offering could feature some of the not-as-well-known clips that coincide with tracks from the first release. Also various snippets of footage of behind-the-scenes footage of the band could be marketed to the public.

Considering the success of the band's initial effort and positive response to hundreds of live shows, it's hard to believe that the line-up has remained the same. "We've tried to fire everyone, but no one would leave." Rogers says sarcastically, making us think that these five guys were just meant to be together.

multiple appearances in MTV's all-important "Buzz Bin."

Gersh credits MTV with playing a huge part in the success of the debut album from Spearhead, a record that, after a year, has started to take off. According to Gersh, "...We've made a great video for the track ('Hole In The Bucket') that's out now; MTV loves it, they've been very supportive and the leaders of this." He added, "We've had our biggest sales week six weeks in a row."

The surprise response to bands like Smoking Popes, whose "Need You Around" has been a staple on Modern Rock all summer, presents a quandary that every label head would love to experience: Too much of a good thing. With a new Blind Melon album just out (see adjoining story), the much ballyhooed Foo Fighters record (Dave Grohl's new band), the Radiohead album going strong, the very hot Clueless soundtrack, Capitol runs the risk of stepping on its own toes when it comes to radio. According to Gersh it is a concern. He says, "Our job is to try and space them out so we can deal with them effectively over time. They could be a problem if we weren't having very true conversations with the managers and with the artists about what we need to accomplish to get them in at the time in which their record needs to go to radio. The job isn't getting the record out, the job is delivering it with the proper amount of set-up...We're pretty focused on our radio promotion schedule."

However, they are not sitting back and reveling in the summer of '95. The label has a slew of releases planned for the fall covering a wide range of styles and age brackets. Among the artists that will make their way into the crowded alternative field are P., a new band featuring Gibby Haynes from Butthole Surfers and Johnny Depp (yes, that one), Sparklehorse, which Gersh describes as "pretty incredible," Mazy Star, last year's surprise success story for the label and a Cocteau Twins e.p. Capitol will also have a major presence in the AAA and classic rock field, with a double live album by Bonnie Raitt, a new Bob Seger CD, John Hiatt's debut for the label, a new Tom Cochran project, formerly of Red Rider, a new album by Heart that Gersh has been very involved in personally. The record, which was produced and arranged by Led Zeppelin's John Paul Jones, is a "live greatest hits" that features two new songs. Gersh served as Executive Producer on the project.

In addition, the label is working on firming up its niche in the urban marketplace, with new projects from A.C. Alone, the Brand New Heavies, through Capitol's deal with Delicious Vinyl, Dazzy D., Mad Kobra and Pharcyde. The label has also strengthened its profile in the urban arena through the deal with the filmmaking Hughes brothers' Underworld Records deal, which has yielded product from singer Jesse Campbell and will also release the soundtrack to the Hughes' film Dead Presidents, set for an early fall release. Capitol has also taken on some dimension in the rap/hip-hop market with the Station Identification album by the KRS-1-produced duo Channel Live.

Despite all that, the label's two biggest projects may once again come from old standbys Frank Sinatra and the Beatles. Gersh says, "The Beatles' anthologies will come out this Christmas, which is probably the most massive campaign we've ever undertaken."

While it may seem like a heavy release schedule, Gersh says, "We're putting out 40% less records than the label we took over." Maybe it sounds overwhelming because of the amount of priority names on the list. How do you keep all those people happy?" According to Gersh, "Juggling the balance of when records get worked is probably the most important job I have."

Gersh is definitely involved in every aspect of the label. In addition to working with the promotion and marketing staff, he works, in his words, "very, very closely" with the A&R staff. He says of that, "I'm very supportive of what they do. They do a great job, but I work with them very closely on what we decide to sign and how we're making the record."

Is there a certain criteria that Capitol looks for in its acts? Gersh says, "No, I don't think about it like that," and adds, "We need to have great artists and if a great artist walks in the room...we're gonna sign it...We're gonna continue to make a strong effort to signing great talent and making great records, making the A&R process the Number One most important thing for us in terms of how our label will grow—based on how good the records are, not based on anything else."

No, they're not arguing over who can make love the longest. British superstars Elton John (l) and Sting recently got together at the Hard Rock Cafe London to announce the release of the twelfth installment of Hard Rock Cafe Signature Series T-Shirt, "Sting By Sting." Proceeds will go to the Elton John AIDS Foundation. Scientists have yet to prove that wearing the shirt will make you last twice as long in bed.

Mercury recording artist Martin Page performed with his band last week at New York's Bottom Line. Page was there supporting his debut album, In The House Of Stone & Light, which spawned a hit single with the title track. That's why they all look so happy. Either that, or the pizza had just gotten there. Pictured (l-r): David Leach, Executive V.P., Mercury Records; Page; and Ed Eckstine, President, Mercury Records.

Elektra's Buffalo Tom kicked off their tour at NYC's Irving Plaza before hitting the road with Live. Buffalo Tom's new album is entitled Sleepy Time. The group will be on the road with Live until the beginning of September, then they have to get home for their naps. A contest involving a toll-free phone number and reportedly enabling the candy manufacturer to build a mailing list of R.E.M. fans, ostensibly was never authorized or approved by the group. The band charges they never knew of the advertisement until it was broadcast over an Atlanta, GA radio station.

R.E.M. has consistently chosen not to lend its name and image to all commercial, advertisement, sponsorship or promotional tie-in requests. They charge that in spite of all this, and with the presumed knowledge of the band's stance on commercial sponsorship, the candy maker deliberately proceeded without even seeking approval; that which they could not buy, they took. The fact that the promo didn't leave a sweet taste in the group's mouth caused them to file suit.

Xing Gets ASCAP Performance License For Internet

IN RESPONSE TO THE CONTINUING DEMAND for ASCAP licenses by new online services, ASCAP (American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers) announced that it has issued its performance license for computer transmissions of music to Xing Technology of Arroyo Grande, CA.

Xing will use the ASCAP performance license with its newly announced StreamWorks Internet audio/video network to deliver real-time live and on-demand music programming to listeners on the World Wide Web.

StreamWorks employs state-of-the-art compression and communications technologies to deliver what Xing's president, Howard Gordon calls, "the industry's highest standard of audio and video quality."

Cema Distribution Makes Changes

CEMA DISTRIBUTION has made several key executive changes and strategic organizational realignments, announced company president/CEO Russ Back.

Gene Rumsey has been promoted to sr. v.p., national accounts, and will report directly to Back; Michael Roden has been named sales director, national accounts and will report to Rumsey.

Kathy Callahan was upped to sr. label director where she will have sales and marketing responsibilities for the Capitol, Blue Note, and Angel labels.; Jon Burk has been promoted to label director; Bill Burks was appointed label director with responsibilities for Virgin, Capitol Nashville, EMI Latin, Ardent and the Christian music labels.

Members of the group Capitol recording group Spearhead and Zap Mama took five after performing "To My Ba-Bay" at the Glastonbury Festival in Somerset, England. The track was composed by Spearhead's Michael Franti and Zap Mama for the Miramax film Blue In The Face soundtrack, which is due out Sept. 19. Spearhead is currently headlining a national tour that ends Sept. 14. Pictured in the back row are (l-r): Ras I Zulu, Spearhead; Marie Dauline, Zap Mama; Franti; Cecilia Kankonda, Zap Mama; Sabine Kabongo, Zap Mama; David James, Spearhead; and Sally Nyolo, Zap Mama. LATIN by Keith Thomas, who also did the arrangement. There are 5 new songs in English, 2 new songs in Spanish, and 5 of the singer's greatest hits in Spanish. There's a duet with David Byrne. The 13 song collection truly serves to demonstrate Selena's versatility.

IRENE FARRERA: Alma Latina (Redwood Records, 9502) Producers: Irene Farrera & Nina Korican. INTERNATIONAL/LATIN/ VENEZUELA.

This impressive project by Venezuelan singer-songwriter, Irene Farrera, should not be limited to NAC, World, Folk, and/or New Age programmers. Almost all of the selections have great pop appeal potential. Farrera's rich, smoky voice coupled with an obvious passion makes her songs truly distinctive. With songs of sadness and joy, Farrera never ceases to leave the listener with a story or message. Few artists can interpret the songs from influential Latin American composers as Farrera does, especially when it comes to classic love songs.

CHICO O'FARRILL AND HIS AFRO-CUBAN JAZZ ORCHESTRA: Pure Emotion (Milestone Records, 9239) Producer: Todd Barkan. LATIN JAZZ.

Cuban composer-arranger Arturo "Chico" O'Farrill's career began in the Forties. His latest album, Pure Emotion, perhaps offers an overview of this musician's legendary place in the jazz field. O'Farrill's intention was to bring only the best into the studio. His son, pianist Arturo, solicited some of the "newer guys" while the elder pulled in some of his veteran aces. The result is one incredible journey that is sure to bedazzle the mind. From the opening number, the riveting "Igor's Dream," (written for his cat), to the classic bolero "En La Obscuridad," to the eclectic 30 year-old song, "Variations On A Well-Known Theme," O'Farrill displays his creative brilliance as never before.

PICK OF THE WEEK

WILLIE ROSARIO: Sorpresas (Tiffany Records, 0070) Producer: Willie Rosario. SALSA.

Known affectionately as "Mr. Afinque" and "El Mago," Willie Rosario's style of Salsa is unmistakable. Since 1959, he has been pleasing true followers of the genre. The album "Sorpresas" is the long-awaited production by one of Tropical music's best-loved artists. The first promo single, "Quien Rayos Me Mandaria?," sung here by Rico Walker, is certain to delight dancers everywhere. Cheo Andujar sings the next selection, "Picl y Seda," which can easily be the next hit for Rosario. For that matter, radio programmers should just go down the list of selections because all are hit-bound material. At the end, you'll find the instrumental jazzy number, "My Best Friends," a habit which he customarily has kept for most of his recent albums. Here's another Gold album, Maestro Rosario, vayá!

News From U.S. & Latin America

Tiffany Records' Willie Rosario.

WILLIE ROSARIO SIGNS WITH NYC'S TIFFANY RECORDS: Willie Rosario is without doubt a giant in the Latin music industry. It was in 1959 when Rosario first formed his own Salsa band. He was the first to introduce the baritone sax to the genre. His career spans over 33 musical productions, includes numerous Gold albums, the Premio Agueybana award and a Grammy nomination. He has helped launch the careers of singing talent like Primi Cruz, Gilberto Santa Rosa, and Tony Vega. Rosario is currently touring the U.S. and Caribbean.

Today, Rosario continues his incredibly well-respected career with New York indie, Tiffany Records. President Peter Paul Ortiz landed this incredible victory as he did with another Latin living legend, Joe Cuba and the Steppin' Out Again album.

Rosario, popularly known as the "Magician" and "Mr. Afinque," has rapidly been turning heads with his first promotional Salsa single, "Quien Rayos Me Mandaria," from the album Sorpresas. For more info on one of Latin music's most exciting productions to date, call Tiffany Records at 800-672-2069.

SELENA AND THE WORLD'S GREATEST MARIACHI: While the late singer's album, Dreaming of You, continues to break sales records at incredible and unprecedented levels, others must also be acknowledged. Reference is made to those who have played a critical role in Selena's current success. One such person is an artist who has made more tremendous in-roads into the cross-over netherlands as perhaps any other artist. It just hasn't been that well-publicized. (No personal offense to any PR agents).

We speak about José Hernandez who produced, arranged and co-performed with Selena on two songs, "Tú Sólo Tú" and "Hace Siempre" for the major motion-picture Don Juan de Marco with Marlon Brando, Faye Dunaway and Johnny Depp. Those original recordings have not been, nor probably will never be, heard by the mass consumer. Nevertheless, you have been hearing the album version of "Tú Sólo Tú" and "El Toro Relajo" with Hernandez' world-reknowned Mariachi Sol de México. A versatile artist, Hernandez wrote his first movie soundtrack for The Gringo. This was followed by A Million To Juan and The Centerfold. The innovative Mariachi even performed in Aaron Spelling's miniseries Texas. Kudos to José Hernandez and his Mariachi Sol de México! You'll find Hernandez and four of his albums on the EMI Latin label.

REDWOOD RECORDS' NEW RELEASES: The Oakland-based Redwood Records presents Venezuelan-born singer/songwriter Irene Farrera in her first release for the label. Entitled Alma Latina (Latin Spirit), Farrera immediately takes your breath away with a vocal style that The Oregonian newspaper called "a gorgeous Pan-American sound." Not a bad call for Oregonians. A trifle understated, but not bad. Farrera is unequivocally Latin America's best known secret! Her vocal stylings are earthy, raw, yet delicately sensuous. She is truly Latin America's artistic hope for the next millennium.

With a history spanning over twenty years, today Redwood Cultural Work is a non-profit organization directed by women who believe that uplifting, hopeful music develops community and builds alliances across our differences. Their Redwood Records label presents an annual season of concerts featuring a diversity of performers. They also commission the creation of new multicultural music, direct artist-led educational activities and produce the Redwood House Choir. For more information and a free catalog, call 510-835-1445. INTERNATIONAL

News From The Commonwealth, Ireland & Europe

By Hal Levy

WELL, THE MUSIC MAVENS, both English and Irish, have egg on their faces this week. Virtually all the newspapers predicted that Oasis and their single, "Roll With It," would top the charts when Blur voted to release their single, "Country House," on the same day. When the major outlets reported first day results, Oasis was leading by more than four to one, the outcome was pretty clear. But with the six-day selling period running from Monday to Saturday, and Saturday representing more than a quarter of weekly sales for singles, the fat lady didn't sing until Saturday night and Blur ended up some 10% ahead. Both singles hit more than 200,000 each and the total was almost half a million. Single sales have been growing since last year, up from the lows hit in the late 1980s, and today's figures, according to some industry analysts, represent a rebirth of the UK music market with wholesale sales for the year expected to reach £1 billion (today's rate of exchange is $1.533 to the English £, but the rate is changing daily, with the dollar getting stronger). Blur's victory is even more sweet as they hit number one on the charts for the first time. However, Oasis is taking comfort in the fact that Food, Blur's label, a subsidiary of Thorn-EMI, went all out on an expensive promotion campaign, whereas Creation, (Sony) their label spent a minimum amount. So while Blur ends up with the glory, Oasis will be pocketing more money. The next meeting of Blur and Oasis is September 1 when Blur and Oasis' Noel Gallagher join other top groups in recording an album for the charity group, War Child, with all proceeds going for Bosnia relief.

THE SCOTTISH OPERA CHORUS has called off strike action over pay and working conditions. The settlement reached with management includes an extra week's vacation and a tentative pay raise of 2%.

THORN EMI'S FIRST QUARTER pre-tax profits are expected to show a one-third gain from £16.2 million to more than £60 million. Thorn EMI's 12 month profits are looking at £520 million pre-tax, up from last year's £423.6 million. Trading was at £14.11. Current interest in the market is the group's rental arm, which the company plans to demerge in the next 18 months. This, together with the looming digital TV is expected to boost Thorn EMI into the Top One Hundred Companies list on the FT-SE exchange.

SOMETIMES IT JUST DOESN'T PAY to get popular. St. Michael's Abbey Choir, in Hampshire, sold more than 10,000 CDs of Gregorian chants. Now, Fr. Mangus Wilson fired them, citing a cutback in parish services.

TAKE THAT'S ROBBIE WILLIAMS, who left the hit group last month, has landed on the bed on Channel 4's Big Breakfast for a trial run, taking over Paula Yates' (Geldof) job. Gimmick of the early morning show is the interviewing of guests while sitting on the bed in a bedroom set. From there he goes into a cameo role in the UK's soap, EastEnders. Meanwhile, Yates, who is dating INXS singer Michael Hutchence has been signed by publishers Little Brown to write a novel about—early morning television.

FORGET ABOUT WET T-SHIRT NIGHTS in the clubs. The latest London craze, given the hottest summer in a century, is Brief Night, stripping down to the boxers or jockey shorts (Y-fronts, as they're called here) to beat the heat. It started out in gay clubs, but there are reports that it is spreading (or shedding) to straight venues all over London.

PAUL MCCARTNEY'S 18TH ANNUAL Buddy Holly Week is set for September 7-8 in London. This year's event celebrates Holly's 59th birthday. Confirmed thus far are The Crickets (Holly's old band), The Outlaws, Mike Berry and Carl Perkins. Surprise guest artists will be announced later in the month.

WHILE IRELAND IS HOT for international feature film makers, it's cooling down on the music video scene. It's not the lack of interest on the part of Irish and international video producers that's slowing down the scene, it's the boom in films that's causing the problems. From a couple of films four years ago, there are now some 28 features shooting or in pre-production with more in the pipeline. What it means is that crews who got their training on videos are now working on features, and video producers have to beat the bushes for experienced help. While Bon Jovi and the Dutch group, Caught In The Act have managed to line up Irish video production companies, other groups are looking far afield, as far as Eastern Europe.

ADD ANOTHER STAR to the music and film stars living and/or moving to Ireland. Sir Andrew Lloyd Webber's new cottage is Kiltinan Castle in County Tipperary. And Marlon Brando has said he wants to return to Ireland, buy a home and become an Irish citizen.

LATER THIS MONTH Ireland's Independent Radio and Television Commission is to take out newspaper ads seeking applications for a new independent national radio station that will be in direct competition with state-owned RTE Radio. Estimated costs for start-up range from US $3.5 to $5 million. The previous license holder of the only commercial national radio station, Century Radio, ceased operating some four years ago after two money-losing years. Among those reported interested in the license is Virgin's Richard Branson.

THE UK'S TOP TWO this week are, as expected, newcomers; Blur's "Country House" in 1st place and Oasis' "Roll With It" in second. Original's "I Luv U Baby" moves down to third and Take That's "Never Forget" goes from first to fourth followed by TLC's "Waterfalls" dropping from fourth to fifth. Newcomer Clock's "Everybody" is sixth, coming in ahead of JX's "Son Of A Gun" in seventh place. New on the charts is Madonna's "Human Nature" hitting eighth and Seal's "Kiss From A Rose" in ninth place with Corona's "Try Me Out" rounding out the Top Ten Singles.

TNN Names Dick Clark Prods. For New Series

By Wendy Newcomer

TNN: THE NASHVILLE NETWORK has named dick clark productions, inc. to develop, produce and direct its new 90-minute, weeknight primetime entertainment variety series. The program will debut on or before January 2, 1996 in TNN's 9-10:30 p.m. (Eastern time) period. Kevin Hale, vp/gm of TNN, unveiled plans for the show at a press conference on August 17 at Nashville's Wildhorse Saloon.

"Over the past four months, TNN has undergone an extensive process of evaluating production teams and concepts for our nightly primetime series," Hale said. "We have been impressed by the high level of interest in the creative community in helping TNN develop the premier country music television showcase and by the exceptional proposals made to us. While all the production teams we reviewed were strong contenders, dick clark productions is the one that showed the clearest vision, parallel with TNN's, of a nightly television series that will reflect the vibrance and diversity of today's music coming from Nashville."

"We are very happy to be working with The Nashville Network, producing a program which focuses on the hottest form of music today," said Dick Clark, head of the production company. "Dick clark productions is proud to continue its longtime involvement with the ever-expanding world of country music and we look forward to presenting a great showcase for today's top talent."

Hale noted that TNN and dick clark productions will immediately begin development of the new series. "While conducting our search for a production team, we have also been compiling an extensive and impressive list of potential hosts. TNN will now work with dick clark productions on the selection of a host—a person with a deep knowledge of country music, the respect of the artists and the industry, and the personality to keep a 90-minute nightly series fresh and interesting night after night," Hale said.

CMA Bows '95 Noms

THE COUNTRY MUSIC ASSOCIATION ANNOUNCED the final nominees for "The 29th Annual CMA Awards," to be broadcast on CBS Wednesday, October 4. Leading the pack with six nominations, including Entertainer of the Year, is Arista Nashville's Alan Jackson.

"This year's slate of nominees is a wonderfully diverse mix of the different styles found within today's country music format, from the traditional sound of Alan Jackson to the bluegrass influence of Alison Krauss to the ultra-contemporary Mavericks," said Ed Benson, CMA executive director.

Nominees are as follows:

Entertainer of the Year: Brooks & Dunn; Garth Brooks; Vince Gill; Alan Jackson, and Reba McEntire.

Male Vocalist of the Year: John Berry; Vince Gill; Alan Jackson; John Michael Montgomery; and George Strait.

Music Video of the Year: "Any Man Of Mine," Shania Twain, directed by Charlie Randazzo/John Derek; "Baby Likes To Rock It," The Tractors, directed by Michael Salomon; "I Don't Even Know Your Name," Alan Jackson, directed by Piers Plowden; "The Red Strokes," Garth Brooks, directed by Jon Small; and "When Love Finds You," Vince Gill, directed by John Lloyd Miller.

RCA's Alabama Celebrates 15 Years

FIFTEEN-YEAR MUSIC CAREERS are extremely rare, not to mention 15 years with the same label. Country supergroup Alabama and RCA Records commemorated both feats August 16 at Nashville's historic Union Station Hotel.

"Since I first met Alabama 15 years ago, I have always been impressed with their dedication, sincerity and caring about every facet of their careers," said Joe Galante, chairman of the RCA Label Group RLG/Nashville. "You don't continue to sell platinum on each LP and still sell out concerts across the country unless you have worked for and received the love of the fans and the respect of the industry. They have and continue to be musically distinctive."

On May 31, 1980, Alabama released their single, "Tennessee River," Every single released on their RCA debut album, My Home's In Alabama, became a #1 hit. Fifteen years and 17 albums later (including three greatest hits collections) the band is still going strong. Their latest single, "She Ain't Your Ordinary Girl" reached #1 this week on the Cash Box country singles chart.

In addition to being named the Academy of Country Music's Artist of the Decade for the '80s, they are the Country Music Association's only three-time winners of the coveted Entertainer of the Year trophy ('82, '83, '84). Alabama also holds the record for the number of consecutive American Music Awards wins in one category. As songwriters, they have been the recipients of numerous BMI awards and own one of the most successful independent publishing companies in Nashville, Maypop Music Group.

BNA recording artist Kenny Chesney performed the national anthem and cheered on the Kansas City Royals with the royalty of radio and baseball at a recent home game at Kauffman Stadium. Pictured (l-r): KBEQ staffers Randy Miller and Mike Kennedy; former Cub's pitcher and Kansas City resident Rick Sutcliff; Chesney; KBEQ's T.J. COUNTRY MUSIC

Album Reviews By Wendy Newcomer

■ DON WILLIAMS: borrowed tales (American Harvest Recording Society 57703-2)

The singer of such country classics as "Amanda," "Tulsa Time" and "I Believe In You" has returned with an album of some of his favorite cover songs. Williams puts his trademark stamp of soothing understatement on each and every cut. Stylistically, he stays pretty close to the original songs, which is a smart thing to do if you're singing "Lay Down Sally" or "Peace Train." The album's first release is a cover of Peggy Lee's hit, "Fever." borrowed tales may not take "young country" radio by storm, but Williams has never depended on current trends to make him an international star.

■ CARLENE CARTER: Little Acts Of Treason (Giant 9 24581-2)

With such a famous surname, Carlene Carter has either been taken for granted or underestimated in years past. Her debut album on Giant, Little Acts Of Treason, should thrust her into the spotlight. The cutesy, rockabilly songs are all present and accounted for—"Hurricane," "Come Here You" and "He Will Be Mine." And why not? Carter excels in this area. But this time, she also explores more serious topics like addiction and family heritage, as heard in "Change" and "The Winding Stream." Look past the spunk and verve and you will find an accomplished songwriter who's not afraid to exorcise a few demons for the sake of honest music.

■ BLACKHAWK: Strong Enough (Arista 18792-2)

This trio's second Arista project looks like another gold mine for hits. Lead singer Henry Paul uses the permanent cry in his voice to give BlackHawk its distinctive sound on cuts such as "Almost A Memory Now" and "Hook, Line And Sinker." One of the best songs on the album is "Cast Iron Heart," written by Dennis Linde. It has the punch of the group's debut single, "Goodbye Says It

All." Strong Enough (due out late September) is further evidence that BlackHawk covers all bases—from power ballads like "Almost A Memory Now" to the kinetic energy of "Big Guitar." These guys are the cream of the crop in country/rock.

PICK OF THE WEEK

■ ALABAMA: In Pictures (RCA 66525-2)

At a time when bands were considered too "rowdy" for country music, Alabama came on the scene and brought with them a degree of respectability. They were hip enough to fit in with the "Urban Cowboy" format that was so popular in the early '80s and savvy enough to ride it out. "In Pictures" is full of potential greatest hits like "Say I," "My Love Belongs To You" and "Sunday Drive." With the legions of Alabama spawns out today, some might be tempted to write the boys off as history makers who are history. Musically, they aren't breaking new ground. Still, Alabama's 15-year career has been undeniably full of a multitude of hits and very few misses.

Single Review

■ Gil Harvey: "Borrowed Angel" (Song-1)

Production-wise, Harvey's version of the Mel Street classic stays pretty close to the original. His vocals are ultra-traditional—no watered-down pop music here. "Borrowed Angel" is currently at #76 on the Cash Box country singles chart and is a tribute to the juke box, stone country of thirty years ago.

Indie Spotlight

Cumberland Mountain Band Climbs To The Top

THE BOYS FROM THE CUMBERLAND MOUNTAIN BAND have been making waves in a sea of country bands. Their stunning five-part harmony, together with years of playing with A-list entertainers, make this group a band to watch.

The country music industry has taken notice of these five guys. The Cumberland Mountain Band has received the top award from the readers of the Country Post Magazine for Chicagoland's "Most Favorite Band"—quite an accomplishment, considering CMB beat out over 200 other bands for this award.

The latest accomplishment for CMB is the release of their second album, Dancin' Fools, produced by Jeff Huskins of the band, Little Texas. The album was recorded at Reflections in Nashville, TN. CMB has been nominated for "Band of the Year," "Song of the Year," and their producer for "Producer of the Year," by radio stations across the U.S.A.

CMB has gained valuable exposure as the opening act for some of country's most popular artists. They have shared the stage with such acts as Kathy Mattea, Rodney Foster, Sawyer Brown, Little Texas, John Berry, Waylon Jennings, Eddy Raven, B.J. Thomas, The Desert Rose Band, Lee Greenwood, Johnny Lee, Western Flyer, Hank Flamingo and others.

Five entertainers make up the Cumberland Mountain Band. Individually, they have a rich variety of musical experience; everything from touring Europe with Razy Bailey to performing with Roy Clark, The Charlie Daniels Band, Crystal Gayle and Emmylou Harris. As a group, they bring their musical skills and genuine showmanship together to construct a truly entertaining performance. The recent debut of their single, "Dancin' Fools," (#84 on the Cash Box country singles chart) indicates that this band is ready to climb to the top.

"CBS This Morning's" weather reporter and entertainment editor Mark McEwen was surprised on-air recently with a plaque commemorating the ten million copy sale of Garth Brooks' collected Hits album.

Word group Point of Grace, national spokespersons for Mercy Ministries of America, took a moment off the touring path recently to spend some time with TNN Country News. Pictured here in the house which serves as the focus of a song from the group's new release are (l-r): Shelley Phillips, Terry Jones, Point of Grace; Linda Hilliard, director; Nancy Alcorn, president/founder, Mercy Ministries of America; Heather Floyd, Denise Jones, Point of Grace.

Sparrow recording artist Steven Curtis Chapman recently joined conductor Rod Huff (r) and The American Boychoir to record "Spirit Of The Living God" and "Amazing Grace" for the recent release, Hymn, produced by John Vanore and John McCracken.

Album Review

■ KEN HOLLOWAY: He Who Made The Rain (Brentwood Music 007)

Ken Holloway's second album is bursting with unforgettable songs—no filler here! He Who Made The Rain's strongest asset is the quality material; the finest songwriters in country and positive country are represented, including Holloway himself. RCA recording artist Lari White makes a special appearance on "I'm Not Gonna Fall To Pieces," one of the album's best songs. Holloway's voice is graceful on the ballads ("Don't Wanna Go Alone" and "Rich Kids") and boisterous on the two-steppin' cuts ("Good Lovin'" and "Hoedown").

COIN MACHINE

ALG Skeds September Shipment Of Orbatak

CHICAGO—Orbatak, with trackball controls, is the new computer-generated title from American Laser Games and it will be among the featured products in ALG's booth (#337) at AMOA Expo '95.

Players begin by selecting one of six characters which morph into different colored balls. The orbs face off in an arena, trying to force each other off the edge or smash the opponent until their sphere breaks and the character within is squished. Players renew their spheres by directing characters into an energizer spot which materializes when an orb is demolished. All of the action is accompanied by some terrific sound effects.

"Orbatak has universal appeal," stated Jim Jarocki, vice president of coin-op sales and marketing at ALG. "With the hands-on, intuitive feel of the trackball, anyone can play it and enjoy it right off the bat without having to learn any multiple control moves."

During the play process, four different arenas vary the challenge and these include a square with one or two openings, a bowl-shaped arena with the hole in the bottom, a square with bumpers that loft the spheres and a square arena with teleporting spots which transport spheres diagonally to opposite corners of the ring. Orbatak rewards players with bonus points for hard hits and combo moves like multiple hits bouncing off walls.

Game characters reflect their colors as orbs: Anvil is blue and orange; Cobalt, silver; Cicada; brown and green; El Gecko, green; Kongo, black and yellow; and Maida, purple and gray. Squished characters produce bodily fluids that reflect their orb color. Winning characters show off with special victory animations.

Orbatak is a one- or two-player game. Two players can select the difficulty level for the overall game, pushing to more difficult game play as skill improves. They can also opt for an enclosed arena where the objective is to smash and squish. One player can win a bonus round by defeating all six computer-controlled characters and take on Grendell, a character whose black orb generates a smash-fest to the death with no arena escape.

The game's attract mode has an interactive element to draw player attention. When someone touches the trackball, a screen with a 3-D globe pops up with the Orbatak title circling the equator. The Orbatak name will rotate left or right around the globe, corresponding with the general direction and speed that the trackball is moved.

The game is based on 32-bit/600 megabyte CD-ROM technology. Orbatak is available in a dedicated 25" screen cabinet, as a hardware/software OEM kit, or as a conversion for ALG's CD-ROM system.

Further information may be obtained through factory distributors or by contacting American Laser Games, 4801 Lincoln Road NE, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87109.

EXPO '95 Offers Widerange Seminar Program

CHICAGO—Among the highlights of the annual AMOA convention is the comprehensive educational program that is offered, free of charge, to all registered attendees. This year's format will focus on four separate categories of topics: management, marketing, family entertainment centers and technology.

The individual management seminars will include: "Management & Leadership Skills," "Banking & Finance In The '90s," "Alternative Financing," "How To Delegate Work & Ensure It's Done," "Total Quality Management," "Business & Tax Laws Impacting The Commercial Amusement Industry," management expert Tom Peters' "Liberation Management Seminar," "The Game Of Work: Profitability Through Productivity," and "Location Contract Negotiations."

The marketing series will include the following topics: "How To Work With Media," "Operators' Roundtable: Small to Medium Operators," "Leagues: Pool, Darts & Beyond," "Operators' Roundtable: Large Route Operators," and "How To Increase Your Visibility With Elected Officials."

On the subject of family entertainment centers, the individual sessions will focus on: "FEC Research, Development, Business Plan and Location," "FEC Selection and Site Set-Up," "FEC Daily Operating Procedures," "Budgeting and Equipment Options For A 'High-Tech' FEC," and "How To Do Business with FECs." Also included as an option will be a tour of New Orleans' famed Celebration Station.

The technology seminar topics will include: "Put A PC In Your Business," "Jukebox Technology: What Is The Future?," "National Amusement Network, Inc. (NANI)" and "Debit Cards & The Commercial Amusement Industry."

The full seminar program will take place on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 21-23 on the Second Level of the New Orleans Convention Center.

Clarion Intros Party Jockey Karaoke Player With 'Pocket Music Card'

'Party Jockey Music Card'

CHICAGO—Clarion Sales Corporation, headquartered in Gardena, California, recently introduced its Party Jockey karaoke system, featuring a Pocket Music Card which contains a wide variety of music selections for consumer or commercial use.

The Party Jockey employs built-in speakers and amplifier and measures only 24-inches high, 14-inches wide and weighs 29 pounds. It features a built-in equalizer with bass and treble control and a built-in digital 16-bit reverb processor for echo. It also features independent volume control for music and for voice.

The accompanying pocket-sized Party Jockey Music Card stores anywhere from 140-400 songs and has enough ROM (Read Only Memory) to hold the equivalent of 20 CDGs (Compact Disc plus Graphics), but it weighs less than four ounces. It cannot be scratched, won't skip and is not affected by magnetic fields, shock or heat.

The Party Jockey video features an on-screen menu which clearly shows the song list and game selection and uses sweeping lyrics which are easier for the singer to read while singing. It can be plugged into most cable-ready TVs or monitors. For additional amplification, it can easily be connected to a home or commercial stereo system. It has two mike inputs, a head phone jack, preamp and video outputs/inputs. A television connector cable is included along with a song book, microphone, wireless remote control and protective case.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Austin Liu, Clarion Sales Corporation, 661 W. Redondo Beach Blvd., Gardena, CA 90247.
