The Boys (l-r): Sterban, Allen, Bonsall and Sanders

COVER STORY

The Oak Ridge Boys: They've Got Their Sights On The Long Haul

THE OAK RIDGE BOYS have long been a staple in the country music diet. Four-part harmony, and lyrics which are part swooning, part catchy have kept them strong for three decades now. Yet as country music has broadened its tastebuds for contemporary, across-the-board themes and musical styles, the Oaks have realized that they, too, better add a new lick here and there.

For The Long Haul, their second RCA release and 21st album to date, Oak members Richard Sterban, Steve Sanders, Joe Bonsall, and Duane Allen not only share lead vocals, but they also take a lead in the production. Joining veteran producers Jim Cotton and Joe Scaife, the Oaks decided to add some new twists, while keeping their familiar harmony secure. The guys added some Jamacian flair in the single "Gimme Some Of Your Love," as well as some standard gospel influences ("Standing By The River") and soulful leanings ("The Power Of Goodbye"). One of the most unusual numbers on the album, "Come On Rain" features Bonsall on lead and a driving rhythm in the background. For long-time Oak devotees, The Long Haul continues to showcase plenty of their characteristic harmony with a collection of songs penned by Troy Seals, Roger Murrah, Dennis Linde, Don Von Tress, Tony Arata, and others.

Prince

DIAMONDS AND PEARLS AND ANYTHING ELSE HE WANTS TO BUY: Prince and his Paisley Park Enterprises have sewn up a startling deal with Warner Bros. Records and Warner/Chappell Music that represents over $100,000,000 in funding. And that doesn't include home video, TV, films, book publishing or a zillion other things. What it does include is a pair of labels (Paisley Park being one), Prince's own albums, and mucho publishing stuff. Not only that, but Prince has now joined Warner Bros. as a vice president, with an L.A. office and everything. This is what it sounds like when doves laugh.

COURY RESIGNS: Geffen Records general manager Al Coury has decided to retire after 35 years in the business. He claims his reason is to spend more time "for myself and my family." Coury will continue to advise Geffen Records as a consultant. He founded and has headed Geffen's promotion department since its inception in 1985, and became general manager in 1989. Over the years, he held executive posts at Capitol, RSO and Network.

NOTES AND TOMES: Bill Graham Presents: My Life Inside Rock and Out, the autobiography (with Robert Greenfield) of the late giant of rock concert promotion, will be published on Oct. 25 by Doubleday. The fat volume includes interviews with dozens of Graham associates.... Words About Music: A Treasury of Writings, a compilation of musings about music by, among others, George Bernard Shaw, Franklin Roosevelt, George Gershwin and Madame Bovary, has been compiled by John Amis and Michael Rose ($27.95, Paragon House).... The New Grove Dictionary of Opera, a four-volume extravaganza edited by Stanley Sadie, will be published on Dec. 3, just in time for holiday gift giving to opera fans who deserve several hundred of your holiday gift giving dollars.... Sinatra: The Man and His Music; The Recording Artistry of Francis Albert Sinatra 1939-1992 by Ed O'Brien and Scott Sayers, a chronicle of the more than 1,500 recordings made by the big guy, is available from Austin's TSD Press ($39.95 cloth, $24.95 paper).... America's Music: From the Pilgrims to the Present by the late Gilbert Chase has been issued in a revised third edition ($24.95, University of Illinois Press).

DOING GOOD: NARM and Rock the Vote have begun a month-long voter registration drive. What, you haven't registered yet? Call (800) 962-VOTE silly.... 10,000 Maniacs, who are using currently unemployed ex-E Street Band drummer Max Weinberg on a quickie pre-album release tour (regular drummer Jerome Augustyniak was hurt in a bicycle accident; the album, Our Time in Eden, is due momentarily), will stage a pair of benefits for AIDS aid and other good causes: Sept. 17 at Philadelphia's Mann Center (with Jeffrey Gaines, Live, Shaun Colvin and Happy Rhodes) and Sept. 23 at Carnegie Hall (with Michael Penn and Robin Holcomb).... And Clint Black, Lisa Stansfield, Curtis Stigers and Elvis Presley's jacket (the latter is to be auctioned off, the others are to sing) will be featured at the Sept. 17 City of Hope Music and Entertainment Industry dinner, which will honor BMG chairman and CEO Michael Dornemann.

Super Bowl To Field Jackson Half-Time Show

RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL and the National Football League have partnered to present Michael Jackson during the half-time show of Super Bowl XXVII, which will be played at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Ca., Sunday, Jan. 31, 1993. The game and show will be broadcast on NBC-TV network in the United States and also presented in 70 other nations. The half-time show will serve as a platform for Jackson's efforts on behalf of the "Heal The World" campaign, which promotes peace, racial harmony and hope for the world's children. "I can't think of a better way to spread the message of world peace than by working with the NFL and being a part of Super Bowl XXVII," Jackson said.

NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue said, "The half-time performance presents a unique opportunity for both the NFL and Michael Jackson to send a message of hope and encouragement to people around the world, including the citizens of the Los Angeles area where the game will be played." Calling the planned event "the ultimate marriage of sports and entertainment," Arlen Kantarian, Radio city's executive vp of Marketing and Special Events, said, "The show is based on a simple concept—12 minutes of 'must see' entertainment by the world's greatest superstar during the world's biggest television event."

NARAS Foundation Board Expands; Berk Named Executive Director

By M.R. Martinez

THE NATIONAL ACADEMY OF RECORDING ARTS & SCIENCES (NARAS) has expanded its NARAS Foundation board and named former Hamilton High School Complex principal James Berk the Foundation's executive director. The Foundation is the NARAS conduit for educational, music preservation and human services functions. Berk came to the attention of NARAS through the "Grammys in the Schools" programs and the Coalition for Music Education. Hamilton High was frequently the site of NARAS Music Career Day activities. NARAS president Michael Greene, who has actively promoted ongoing music education and preservation of the art as art, says Berk "brings a very high level of management skills, educational background and dedication to the music arts."

"Jim's talents, combined with a dynamic new foundation board, will be incredible assets to the NARAS Foundation mission to serve as the heart and oftentimes conscience of our creative and technical music community," Greene says. Berk is credited with managing the largest prep school music magnet program in the western U.S. "Education, archiving and preservation, human services and the establishment of the NARAS museum are just a few of the exciting initiatives which continue to underline the Academy's commitment and service to music people," Greene says.

While Berk's strengths would seem to be in the areas of education, he will be coordinating efforts to advance the foundation's goals on diverse fronts. The foundation's MusiCares program is attempting to confront the rising costs of health insurance by working with Pac Fed and Maxi Care, among others, to create a self-paid health insurance program for individuals and groups in the music industry. The program is especially aimed at musicians, songwriters, roadies, sound operators and others in the music community who provide ancillary services to the creative process.

The recording academy has taken on an active role in fighting music censorship. Recently at the New Music Seminar in New York City, NARAS chief Greene, during his keynote speech said, "Music is the primary means of communications between our children and parents, Black America and White America and the status quo and the socially forgotten.... while [former LAPD chief] Daryl Gates and Rodney King's assailants enjoy lucrative publishing contracts, the musicians who deal most directly with contemporary America's injustice and inhumanity run the risk of being silenced."

The new board consists of a who's who in entertainment, ranging from creative shakers to executive movers. The newly-expanded board includes entertainment lawyer Royal Blakeman; Jules Chaikan, president/CEO, Auspex Music; Pierre Cossette, CEO, Pierre Cossette Prods.; NARAS president Greene; Bill Ivey, director of the Country Music Foundation and NARAS Foundation vp; Quincy Jones, president of Quincy Jones Prods.; Mike Melvojn, president of Rush Prods.; Frances Preston, president/CEO of BMI; Al Schlesinger, music business attorney and NARAS Foundation secy./treasurer; Joe Smith, president/CEO, Capitol-EMI Music Inc.; and Jonathan Tisch, president/CEO, Loews Hotels.

SINGLES

■ RONNIE WOOD: "Show Me" (Continuum 12210-2)

This is the first rockin' single from the first solo lp by the Stones guitarist in 10 years, Slide On This. "Show Me" features the slide technique on guitar that inspired the album's title and also contains, on the CD single, an acoustic ballad, "Breath On Me." Both the album and single are filled with Ronnie's original artwork on the clever eco-packaging. Wood produces with Bernard Fowler.

■ THE B-52'S: "Tell It Like It T-I-Is" (Reprise PRO-CD-5663)

The follow-up single to the new album's title track, "Good Stuff," is right in line with the good-time, thought-provoking and eclectic moods and party tunes the group is notorious for. Although they copped the title from a La-Wanda Page comedy album, the song is sure to hit across their usual formats. In spite of the 25% reduction of the band, there is no noticeable difference in the full-blown B-52 sound. Nile Rogers produces.

■ TREY LORENZ: "Someone To Hold" (Epic ESK 74482)

If you don't recognize the name, you at least have already heard Trey's voice as the featured vocalist on the recent #1 single from Mariah Carey, "I'll Be There." Already in the hands of Urban radio, and headed to CHR this week, this soulful R&B ballad has definite crossover possibilities and shows all the potential of a career in the making. And why wouldn't it be?... Trey co-wrote this single with producers Mariah Carey and hitmaker Walter Afanasieff.

■ BLAINE JOHN CHANEY: "Reckless Heart" (JRS JPS1 008-2)

Out of the same mold that produced acts like the Talking Heads or even Iggy Pop, Blaine John Chaney's latest release is an advance single for his upcoming album of the same name. Although the music is rock, with a pop flair, Blaine's voice is more of a characterization, sort of gimmicky and dated, almost more reminiscent of Bobby "Boris" Pickett on "The Monster Mash." Producer is Jim Nipar.

■ ZAMP NICALL: "Whose Country Is It" (Neophonic NEO-CD 7/4/1776)

This folksy, jingle-jangle ditty is the first released single from Zamp's politically inspired album of the same name. Nicall's Elvis Costello/Bob Dylan-inspired style on this cut raises good questions. Unfortunately, without the sensitivity or poetry of either of the two, despite the song's timely message in an election year, this track probably won't get much further than the college market. Nicall also helps promote voter registration as well as co-produces with Robert Feist.

■ RISE ROBOTS RISE: "If I Only Knew" (TVT 3213-2)

It's not that the music of Rise Robots Rise is as difficult to categorize as they would like to believe, it just takes longer. There's some energetic hip-hop mixed in with percussive, industrial-flavored funk, a little rock, a vocally diverse blend of rap with a trace of melodic pop and a dose of socially conscious lyrical smatterings. Now get up and dance, y'all. This ethnically diverse act from the Big Apple produced themselves.

ALBUMS

■ 2 LOST SONS: 2 Lost Sons (Savage 74785-50205-2)

This English-based, emerging-from-the-underground group's debut album on Savage represents the Western invasion of brothers, Pete and Philip Downing's danceable, alternative-pop songmanship ranging in influence from the best of earlier British invasionists, including the Beatles psychedelic era, to the Clash, Duran Duran, Elvis Costello and even U2. First released single, "I Can't Wait," is already enjoying college radio success. Produced by Pat Collier.

Canadian-raised, Sofia's voice is a bit sweet-sounding for 25, and her debut lp features 10 equally tame, self-penned, dance-oriented pop songs leaning more toward teen-club activity and the '80s disco sound than one would expect from an artist in the '90s. First single, "The Message," is a light, youth-targeted attempt at an early Madonna sound, who is the clearcut influential source for most of the material here. Various producers don't even break the mold.

■ TOM COSTER: Gotcha!! (JVC 2015-2)

After logging eight years as keyboardist and co-producer for Carlos Santana, Tom has been putting his solo fusion efforts into not only four previous albums, but also recording and touring with other jazz instrumentalists, like Steve Smith's Vital Information. The mix of Coster's programming wizardry and expression on the keys fill the 11 self-composed and produced tracks with varied aspect and fusion, an ear-pleasing blend of colors, textures and moods.

■ RHYTHM SYNDICATE: Sex, Life & Love (Impact IPTD-10656)

This group boasts of playing live instruments and more maturity on this their 11-cut sophomore lp. There is still a heavy dose of Color Me Badd-ish and funky/dance material here, with a serious slant toward sexual content (if you think that's mature enough). Songs include first single, "I Wanna Make Love To You," "Just For The Sex," "Can I Get Naked With You," and "Sextivity." Oh, and the issue comes up again on "Little Pussycat." Group founders, Rogers and Sturken write and produce.

■ LUCINDA WILLIAMS: Sweet Old World (Chameleon 61351-2)

Lucinda's second album of 12 self-written, Southern folk stories are filled with her deeply heartfelt and straight-ahead, acoustic country rock/blues and personal charm derived from her years of playing folk clubs in New Orleans, Houston and Austin, despite the fact she lives in Los Angeles. Her songs have been covered by Patty Loveless and Mary-Chapin Carpenter. Williams produces herself along with Gurf Morlix and Dusty Wakeman.

■ TERMINAL POWER COMPANY: Run Silent, Run Deep (Beggars Banquet BEG 07863 66069-2)

Terminal Power Company are two blokes from England, John Rooome and Paul Aspel. These boys are pumping out techno-industrial, dance-thrash in megadoses. Disco/rap-grunge? Seattle hits the dance floor? Curious combination, you bet. The duo's first release in the U.K. "Wired" is included on the debut 10-cut lp they term themselves as "hard-edged, psychogenic, dance-influenced, film music." Curious, different stuff, to be sure. Rooome and Aspel write as well as produce.

■ BOB MARLEY: Songs Of Freedom (Tuff Gong 314-512 280-2)

This four-CD box is a must for any Marley fan for several reasons. First of all, it is the definitive compilation of the reggae master's entire 18-year career, containing 78 tracks spanning from 1962 to 1980 and an accompanying book. Second, only one million of the numbered sets will be manufactured. Third, the album is slated for simultaneous release of the critically acclaimed biographical film, Time Will Tell about Marley's life. Fourth, the set contains material that was only recently discovered. Fifth, the Bob Marley Foundation will donate part of the proceeds from the set to establish a school dedicated to the children left devastated by the civil war in Ethiopia.

CAETANO II: Continuing a conversation with Brazilian superstar Caetano Veloso:

Cash Box: Do you think that young pop musicians in Brazil have the same sense of musical history that you had? Some say that current Brazilian music is sounding less and less Brazilian, more and more "international."

Veloso: Ummm, I don't think so. Some of the youngest don't have the historical view that we have, but some do. And I don't think that the music is becoming less and less Brazilian, not at all. Even among those who are more interested in the Anglo-American rock and roll from the '60s on—some young people just grew up listening more to English and American music than to Brazilian music. Some of them. But they are Brazilians. And the way they listen to those things is a Brazilian way, and when they try to reproduce, they naturally make a different thing. I have never been really worried about national identity, because we are so helplessly Brazilians.

Cash Box: How do you feel about North America's response to Brazilian music, which kind of comes in waves?

Veloso: Well, when I play I feel good. I don't have any kind of problems, because I have never had any kind of project or plan to try the American market. So I'm not tense about it. I just realize that some people are just interested in Brazilian music in general, and some are interested in what I do myself personally.

It's a surprise in a way, because I would think that what I do would only be interesting for those who speak Portuguese, at least. But surprisingly some people who don't understand a word of Portuguese get involved, or are interested in what I do. It's a small number of people, but it's interesting for me.

The first time I sang in New York I thought, it's a shame, because the people who don't understand it must think it's a senseless, powerless kind of performance. I thought they would find it monstrous, or not readable in any way. But this didn't happen. In fact, I'm discovering why and what people who don't understand Portuguese find in my music. Because they find some kind of wholeness or unity or character and they respond in a way that surprises me.

But, anyway, I don't think that this means that Brazilian music has a place or a room of its own in the international or American markets. The least of all American market.

Cash Box: Why is that?

Veloso: First of all, because America is such a big and rich country. And American pop music has always been very rich and good. So I wouldn't say that you need anything from abroad. It's as simple as that.

I think Brazilian music is very good, very creative and original, and it's very genuine. It's true that what we make in music in Brazil, what we have always been doing, is real and interesting. And it's very important for our lives in Brazil. And it can be had by anyone in the world, it can please people in France, Germany, the United States or China. I know it can. But for me it's enough that a group of very, very good musicians in America like and respect Milton Nascimento's music. It's enough for me that bossa nova has been such an important kind of style in music, recognized and acknowledged all over the world. And that from a very poor country, such rich things can come out. For me it's enough, for me it's a sign that if we had to do anything for the history of mankind, or for the history of the world, it could be good. If we had to have a major role in the world's history, Brazil could bring a good note to it.

I think it's basically a good sign that we can produce from such a misery good music. Somehow. From such a poor country, such a rich music. So it's enough for me. I don't think it's a question of competing in the international market with the Americans, or even the English, who don't have that wonderful tradition that you Americans have; I think Brazil has a better tradition in a way, in pop music. So has Cuba.

Cash Box: One of the things that has always impressed me is the cooperation between the different musical generations. How you can record with Joao Gilberto and Paralamas do Sucesso, for instance. You wouldn't see, say, Paul Simon performing with Frank Sinatra and Ugly Kid Joe.

Veloso: For us it's natural. I think we love each other. And I think, maybe not consciously, we have the feeling that Brazil needs us so much, that Brazil doesn't have many other things going on well, as pop music does. Maybe that brings us all together.

IT'S A FAMILY AFFAIR: You don't see this kind of act popping up very often. Especially since they canceled the Ed Sullivan Show. But then ol' Ed would have been proud to have put this act onto his stage. Still, the music business in the '90s has a penchant for, or at least a fascination with, the exploitation of youth (New Kids, TLC, Kris Kross, etc...).

None of which comes as close in actual novelty as this family from Tucson, Arizona, in which Mark Babini and his four young sons pump out a rockin' set with more sophistication and flair than you could imagine, without seeing them live. Leave it to the wizards in the record business to jump in and put out an album right away (looking for a November release on Cry Baby Records, a custom label started by manager, Doc McGhee). Fine, they'll need it eventually. But just like any recorded act in the market, an album doesn't prove the act can play live, and the Babini boys making up the group, LiTL Willie, do play live, which is specifically wherein the novelty lies.

LiTL Willie plays the blues, not surprising considering the repetition of 12-bar, but what is surprising, is the feel of which these kids have developed in playing them. Most outstanding is eldest son and frontman Keno, whose dexterity on the guitar is what dropped the jaws of the industry crowd assembled at the Troubadour in West Hollywood last Tuesday night. Most of those in attendance had a basic idea going in of what they were about to see from the invitations, "Okay, another kid group... did you say these guys play blues?..." and most of those who weren't at the Sony relocation bash showed up. Sure there were smiles when the band hit the stage. Yeah, it's cute, but that wears off. Eventually, it does come down to brass tacks, and it was Keno's guitar work that kept the audience interested. He amazingly handles the double duty of singer and axeman almost effortlessly. Who knows?... When his voice changes, we may have another Eric Clapton on our hands... we'll see...

COMEDIANS FOR SAM KINISON gathered at the Celebrity Theater in Anaheim to perform in a tribute/fundraising event for the comedian whose untimely death at 38 in an automobile accident April 10, left his estate insolvent. Hosting the show (to be aired on FOX Television at a future date) was Rodney Dangerfield, whose "discovery" of Sam included having him make a guest appearance on an HBO comedy special, which ultimately launched Kinison's career. The show features clips of some of Sam's best work, as well as inspired performances from a host of comedy talent, who were close to Kinison.

Sam's brother and manager, Bill, who was at his side at his death, came to the rescue by organizing the laughfest, which included comedians Robin Williams, Richard Belzer, Jim Carrey, Judy Tenuta, Pauley Shore, Lenny Clark and others. Bill is also planning a book on the life of his late brother. Publisher and release date are to be announced. Sam has three comedy albums out, Louder Than Hell, Have You Seen Me Lately?, and Leader Of The Banned... Next week...

TALENT REVIEW

Oscar Brown Jr.

By Robert Adels

JAZZ BAKERY, LOS ANGELES, CA—There are two kinds of people in the world: those who have never seen Oscar Brown Jr., and those who worship him.

In a sold-out return engagement at L.A.'s comfortable Jazz Bakery, the sixty-something Oscar displayed all the reasons why to know him is to laud him, as he exhibited the onstage energy of three 20-year-olds. This African-American dynamo has been making his own brand of jazz/theater fusion music ever since the release of Sin & Soul—his 1960 debut Columbia album that provided three of the highlights of his Jazz Bakery set:

Both "Signifyin' Monkey" and "But I Was Cool" use humor and storytelling to shed light on the jealousy and frustration of everyday life. "Rags And Old Iron" is a somber snapshot of a ghetto back-alley that's both devastating and nostalgic. In each case, Brown takes the concept for a potential novelty or "preachy" song and transforms it into a full-fledged jazz musical in miniature.

It's no wonder that Brown's debut was greeted with multimedia raves. Jazz critic Nat Hentoff labeled him "authentically hip." Broadway's Dorothy Kilgallen called him a "new genius in theater." TV's Steve Allen raptured "no one has impressed me more..."

It's tough to live up to that kind of early hype. His Broadway shows have never set house records and his jazz records have rarely crossed over onto the pop charts. Yet the joyous integrity of the best of his work has long since granted Oscar Brown Jr. legendary status in the entertainment community.

Missing from this set were such Brown-penned classics as "Dat Dere" (co-written with Bobby Timmons) and "Work Song" (a collaboration with Nat Adderly). But magically taking their place were new songs from this composer's musical-in-progress, Journey Through Forever.

Two examples were strong enough to serve as set openers. Both "New Wrinkles" and "Memory Lane" deal with growing older in a world fixated on youth. But through refreshing and humorous insight, they let Brown play Janus for the entire Baby Boom generation—simultaneously looking forward and backward for us all.

Even the hearing-impaired can appreciate Brown's performance of "Hazel's Hips," wherein his expressive body language competes for your attention with his eternally clever rhyme schemes. His vibrant vocalese on Charlie Parker's "Billy's Bounce" is as riveting as any Manhattan Transfer showstopper. Young rappers could take some mature cues from his naughty-but-nice a cappella spoken word "Ladies' Man."

Brown encoored with a standing-ovation performance of his most famous copyright, "The Snake" (Al Wilson's first hit). But if there's any justice in the musical world, America will be just as charmed by Oscar's new material.

Considering he's sung everywhere from Harlem's Apollo to London's theater district, it's an international scandal that Oscar Brown Jr.'s catalog is presently out of print in the U.S. His fans have been screaming for CD versions of his Columbia, RCA, PolyGram and Atlantic albums for too long. Let's hope the major label archivists listen up while this great artist is still in his prime. (That should give these A&R guys 30 more years to wake up and smell the hot Brown coffee.)

Melissa Etheridge

By Hilarie Grey

UNIVERSAL AMPHITHEATRE, LOS ANGELES, CA—For someone who spends so much of her time singing about the searing pain of heartbreak, Melissa Etheridge (Island) certainly has a great time on stage. The singer-songwriter channeled that enthusiasm into a set of truly exuberant rock 'n' roll which touched on a variety of musical textures, captivating her hometown crowd.

It quickly became apparent that long blonde tresses weren't the only new development for Etheridge, as she delved into material from her latest album, Never Enough. Opening with the brassy, spirited "Ain't It Heavy," which resonated with vocal harmony, she displayed a new mastery of nuance. This was a set that succeeded by taking chances—the intimate quartet setting of "Place Your Hand" (featuring soaring cello accents by actor/musician Dermot Mulroney) made a beautiful contrast to Etheridge's raspy voice, and the hushed, understated opening of "The Boy Feels Strange" moved like a wandering thought, reinforcing its theme of concern for a friend who has grown distant.

Another surprise in Etheridge's two-hour-plus set was her incorporation of dance rhythms, used to great effect on a funky reworking of her ode to strength and independence, "Brave And Crazy." Heavy bass and eerie synthesizer textures also grounded the psychedelic "2001," and the atmospheric "Dance Without Sleeping," both of which meandered just a bit too long.

There was no shortage of all-out, straightforward rock either, with extended play-out versions of powerful tunes like "Chrome Plated Iheart" and "Let Me Go" giving the band a chance to flex its muscles (a spirited guitar/bass duet between Etheridge and Kevin McCormick worked particularly well), and Etheridge's voice the opportunity to soar. A string of blazing guitar numbers, including terrific versions of "Must Be Crazy For Me" and the hit "Bring Me Some Water" brought the regular set to a rousing conclusion. Etheridge, who worked her guitars so hard that the roadies appeared constantly to replace broken strings, joined the band in a circle around the drum kit for some charming group percussion, and raced around the stage, obviously energized by the appreciative audience.

Talented opener Jeffrey Gaines (Chrysalis) offered a thoughtful solo acoustic set, that bristled with highly personal commentary. Particularly moving were "Hero In Me," lamenting apathy and self-doubt, and "Choices," sung from a pregnant woman's perspective.

Wayne Newton

By Lamar Williams

Wayne Newton

Newton uses the "2001" theme to come on stage. But Wayne uses it to the hilt, "landing" in a huge spaceship, donned like an astronaut landing on the moon.

The Saturday night performance I attended was the most exciting live show I have ever experienced. Wayne's style of working the audience is unmatched by any other performer. After his opening number he received two standing ovations! Most other entertainers are lucky to get that in one night! Also, unlike anyone else I have ever seen, he started getting bombarded by requests from the audience, and then proceeded to sing every one of them! Newton also freely joked with the crowd, and some of his ad-lib remarks had the audience in an uproar, proving that he has a great comedic sense as well.

As it has been for the last several months, Newton was joined on stage by premier gospel entertainer Bobby Jones, with his group, New Life. Jones and the group provided terrific background vocals for Wayne on such standout numbers as "Higher And Higher" (which resulted in a five-minute standing ovation) and Newton's latest hit single, "The Letter" (his heartrending ballad about his late friend, Elvis). The "Help Me, Lord" chorus of the song took on a spiritual flavor with Jones and New Life backing Wayne.

This show was a marvelous experience for me. Wayne Newton is one entertainer that everyone needs to see. His talent and show transcend all demographical lines. There is no musical category in which he can be placed. He is truly a superstar in every sense of the word.

LAS VEGAS HILTON, LAS VEGAS, NV—After months of touring, superstar entertainer Wayne Newton recently returned to the town that has helped to crown him the new "King," Las Vegas. Just like the other "King,"

INDIE MUSIC

Still Stiff As Hell

By John Carmen

IT SEEMS ALMOST INCREDIBLE that only 17 years back, there were virtually no rock indies, given the unbelievable proliferation today. But those were different times, and the market was relatively centered, meaning that most folks shared enough of the same tastes that the majors could satisfy them all.

By 1976, this was more or less all over, even if the majors weren't ready to roll over and capitulate. The opening salvo in the U.K. was fired by Stiff Records, founded by Jake Riviera and Dave Robinson.

"Before Stiff, there was really nothing for the fringe acts, nowhere to go," says former Stiff publicist Glen Coulson. Coulson began in the music business as the drummer for Brit comic rockers the Bonzo Dog Band and is now managing Warner Bros. recording artist John Wesley Harding. "There were bigger indies then, like Island, Chrysalis or Charisma. But now, you'd call them small majors, and the only reason they were considered independent was that they were self-distributing. But their music was only slightly left of center."

Into the breach stepped the Stiff crew, unleashing profoundly wacky records (all of which are considered "classics" now, of course). "The first punk single, 'New Rose,' by the Damned came out on Stiff," informs Coulson. "No one else would put it out. That and Nick Lowe's first few singles and E.P. In fact, when Jake Riviera played me a tape of Elvis Costello's 'Less Than Zero,' and told me I had to check this guy out, I thought it was Nick under a pseudonym. How wrong I was!"

Stiff managed to rankle the feathers of the music business in England with little trouble. "All of our catchy slogans were written by Jake," says Coulson. "You know, like, 'If it ain't Stiff, it ain't worth a fk,' and all." But when the company splintered, and Riviera, Lowe and Costello went off to form Radar, it was all over. "We had some huge hits, but what happened then happens now, too," says Coulson. "As soon as our acts were proven hits, the majors snapped 'em all up."

The last "decent" act on Stiff, in Coulson's opinion, was Madness, in 1981. All of which saddens Coulson. "I don't know as we'll ever see anything like Stiff again," he laments. "I mean, there's just not too much adventurous music out there, just this horrible house and rap st, which I think has ruined the music. Of course, I'm old, and what the hell do I know anyway?"

The best of Stiff has recently been re-issued by Rhino in the U.S., and it's one of the finest box sets ever in terms of depth. From Nick Lowe's pub-rockin' "Heart of the City" to the latter-day synth-pop of the Belle Stars, as well as all of the lunacy in between (like Ian Dury's incredible early singles, Wreckless Eric's classic "Whole Wide World" and the how-did-we-miss-them-the-first-time-around genius of one-offs like Mick Farren's "Let's Loot The Supermarket Like We Did Last Summer"), for a label full of goof-offs and misfits, at the business and artistic end, Stiff's irreverence is a breath of fresh air today.

When this photo was taken these guys were called the Jazz Crusaders, but jazz wasn't a popular word in those days, so they soon became just the Crusaders. Many of their albums were for MCA and now GRP has packaged 31 tracks in a beefy three-CD set, The Golden Years. Fusion history?

FUSION HISTORY! In our weird disposable age, all you have to do is hang around for a couple of years to be considered a classic.

Antiques used to mean things that were 75 to 100 years old: Victorian armchairs, early American armoires, Civil War tools. Go to an antique store now. What do you see? Charley Weaver windup bar toys, Jerry Mahoney dolls, Peter Max posters, all sorts of not-very-old junk. Nick at Nite, which tells us it preserves our television heritage, has now moved from the black & white era to Mary Tyler Moore. Vintage cars now mean '72 caddies.

We used to only celebrate events on their 25th or 50th anniversary, but we have no time for that now—every week the 20th or 40th anniversary of something or other is trumpeted by somebody or other. Rhino Records, which used to package up the pop music of the '50s and early '60s, is happily assembling sets of '70s and '80s hits; there are historical boxed sets of punk rock bands. The cry of America is, "We want nostalgia! We want nostalgia! We want nostalgia!" Everybody's interest in yesterday (almost literally, yesterday) makes you think there must be something wrong with today.

Jazz marched steadily along until the '70s, and the march went something like this: A form of jazz (say New Orleans jazz) would be supplanted in popularity by a newer, more rebellious, youth-driven form (say swing). Fans of the former (including early jazz critics) would say fie on the latter. By the time another new, rebellious, youth-driven form came along (say bebop), the last wave would have been embraced and accepted. By the time free jazz got everybody's hackles up, bebop was old hat, was "mainstream" (although that term was coined by critic Stanley Dance to separate swing jazz from bebop, which he loathed then and loathes to this day). By the early '70s, John Coltrane was considered a jazz legend by one and all.

Et cetera. And then fusion came along. Nobody liked fusion except listeners. Jazz critics didn't like fusion when it arrived and never accepted it. Ever. And they had a point—fusion was made by jazz musicians who wanted to add elements of rock and pop, but a lot of it smelled funny, a lot of it had the whiff of commercialization, something no other jazz form had ever exhibited so blatantly. It was hard to believe at the time that jazz players like Joe Zawinul and Tony Williams and Chick Corea really wanted to play that stuff. The fans of fusion weren't jazz fans, they were rock fans whose record collection spectrum spread far enough to the left to embrace Weather Report or Return to Forever (although a number of them became real deal jazz fans, as they followed the musical thread backwards: Chick to Miles to Bird...). Few jazz fans' collections spread far enough to the right to embrace fusion. And jazz critics didn't know squat about rock and roll or funk, so they heard fusion in terms of bebop and swing and, maybe, John Coltrane. And they hated it. And most of the musicians who were trying a jazz-rock fusion weren't savvy enough to get rock musicians to meet them half way (although Jimi Hendrix, Carlos Santana and others were more than willing to try), so it wasn't a fusion, really, but just a change of instruments (electric pianos improvising in the same way acoustic pianos always did).

But that was 20 years ago, meaning we've come far enough along to look at fusion from a (yikes) historical perspective and (begorrah) a lot of it sounds okay. Why? Because a lot of those guys were really playing! Why else? Because the Jazz Lite crap that overtook it was coming from the other side—it was essentially made by pop musicians who didn't give a damn about improvisation—and it was made up of a lot of watery, soupy gruel. Listen to Weather Report and then listen to Najee. See?

is coming out from Rykodisc, a single 70-minute CD of heavy duty, early '70s Columbia Records fusion, and its eight songs make a case that some music was going on here (as does Columbia's reissuing of the original albums). Herbie Hancock's "Chameleon," Miles Davis' "Miles Runs the Voodoo Down" (from the seminal Bitches Brew), Tony Williams' "Snake Oil," and the Mahavishnu Orchestra's heartstopping "The Noonward Race" groove like there's no tomorrow. There wasn't: fusion died before it ever got going, before the interested greats of jazz could collaborate with the interested greats of rock, seeing if there really was a fusion in there somewhere. Jazz fans and critics never embraced it, so they never encouraged it to grow and it didn't.

One day some mad musical scientist will gather the forces of jazz and the forces of pop music and touch them together to create something wonderful (instead of, as in the case of that Miles Davis/Easy Mo Bee collaboration, Doo Bop, something miserable). In the meantime, the "classic" (gulp!) fusion of the early '70s turns out to be another form of jazz after all. If you can stomach the sound of the electric piano, there's plenty of music in there.

UK

By Chrissy Iley

JIM: The rain held off in this part of Staffordshire for most of the afternoon, until just before James came on stage. For a group used to career setbacks and known for its doggedness this was but a minor blip.

Among the crowd, plastic Alton Towers theme park and James rain covers abounded, but there were also the couldn't-care-less element who stuck to their short sleeves. There was another form of rain throughout the show—half-filled plastic beer bottles (for added velocity) were hurtling everywhere. Singer Tim Booth pleaded to little avail for it to stop. "Teddy bears and clothes only, please, before someone gets hurt." There were plenty of casualties at the front of this naturally sloping arena, pulled out of the crush sometimes without shoes or even trousers and taken to safety.

Whatever its merits as a theme park, Alton Towers does not look like it will ever add "legendary rock venue" to its masthead. But the difficulties only highlighted the fact that James possesses stalwart follow-you-anywhere fans. They seemed evenly split between the serious types who take Booth's lyrical intensity to heart and the fun boys and girls who like the choruses.

Though a handsome enough stage, one missing feature was a giant video screen. Maybe they are predictable, but with the elements against us it would have helped the 25,000 crowd warm to the concert a little.

A few hits, like "Born of Frustration," came early on and the show seemed to be overcoming the odds. But it dipped and rose like one of the theme rides, sustaining tension only to let it slip.

Booth looked frozen in a silky grey shirt, maybe that's why his bones seemed to shake as he rattled his frame. He was forced to put on a glittery red and grey patchwork jacket, presumably to avoid hypothermia.

After an hour, the anthems were joined: "Ring the Bells," "God Only Knows," topped by "How Was It For You?" I could literally feel the temperature rise via the body heat of the people dancing and clapping around me.

But then it was awkwardly over and the group went off stage. The crowd only wanted a good time, and with the band in the wings they started to sing "Sit Down" on their own. Two encores later they got their wish.

With the sun down the stage was in a brilliant glow of oranges and reds. The sense of identity "Sit Down" celebrates was manifest all around me. But for too much of the show it was as if James were afraid to harness the crowd's energy. However much they may talk about imminent superstardom, James' feet are still stuck in the mud of indieland.

THE RHYTHM

By M.R. Martinez

A BARRAGE OF ADVERTISING to promote the upcoming HBO/ Westwood One exclusive simulcast of Michael Jackson in Concert in Bucharest has been launched by both companies. Westwood One spokesman Steven Yampolsky said that the radio syndicators and HBO are sharing space in and affixing each other's logos to print ads in trade and consumer press, while both the cable television network and Westwood One will be promoting the Oct. 10, two-hour simulcast from Bucharest Romania. "We'll be doing 'drop in' spots on all of our CHR programming, including Casey's [Kasem] Top 40," Yampolsky said. This will be the first major entertainment event to be originated from Bucharest, where Jackson is scheduled to present a substantial gift from his Heal The World Foundation, an organization the singer created to disburse funds to charities worldwide that benefit children. The Jackson show could join successful HBO/Westwood One simulcast ventures featuring the likes of Madonna, Whitney Houston and Paul Simon. HBO will do on-air promotion as well as featuring spots much the same way they did with the promotion for the Madonna special.

LaFace/Arista recording act TLC, whose debut album Ooooooh...On The TLC Tip has gone platinum, recently visited the set of MTV's Fade to Black to promote their new home video, Ooooooh...On The Video Tip. Pictured are (l-r): Left Eye and T-Boz of TLC; Todd 1, host of Fade To Black; show producer/director Norman Champion; Chilli of TLC; and Traci Jordan, MTV vp of talent relations.

FIT FOR A KING: Blues Master B.B. King is sending out 1992 and bringing in next year with a solid bang. King is also going to be featured in a dramatic role and will play music in the Sonne Wortmann film Run Of Hearts. King's music will also be featured on the Sony Music soundtrack. The singer/guitarist's DCI Music Video three-volume instructional series on blues riffing continues to be a top seller and DCI plans to release a special instructional guitar companion book. THE RHYME

By M.R. Martinez

HE'S BAAAACK: Dallas-based rapper Ron C. is not slingin' crack anymore. But he's still got some fresh dope to push. It comes in the form of his Profile Records sophomore disc, Back On The Streets. As raw as his first hard-core street fable outing—"C" Ya—it reveals the underbelly of his decidedly unburnished youth. "I spent time in Statesville Prison on a narcotics beef—possession of narcotics with intentions to sell," Ron C. recently shared with Cash Box. "Yeah, I had weight (a large quantity of drugs); I did 24 months on a 20-year sentence.

"I got lucky because there wasn't a proper search warrant, so they couldn't make the whole thing stick," he continued. "Writing about my time in jail was something I had to do," explains Ron C. I had to tell people that jail isn't fun." No shit? Ron C. says he does all his lyric writing, but relies on the beats of mixers D Snake and Willie Tres. "I tell them what I want and they put in work on the beats," he explained. That work has resulted into some rap that's not for the wine, cheese and crackers set. "Mary Had A Pimp" and "Anotha Trick" leave little to the imagination and ya' know what I mean when I say, this is an adult collection of rhymes, not for radio. But Ron C. doesn't seem to mind, because, he says, "I'm gettin' paid legally."

Well on their way to platinum album sales, EastWest recording duo Das EFX was recently presented gold albums to commemorate sales of more than 500,000 copies of their debut disc, Dead Serious, which contains the gold single "They Want EFX." Pictured at the presentation are (l-r): Merlin Bobb, Sr. vp Atco EastWest; Manny Bella, vp urban promotion; Sylvia Rhone, chairman/CEO, Atco/EastWest; Kevin Carroll, vp of promotion; Krazy Drazy of the group; Alan Ross, vp of sales; Books of the group; and Val DeLong, Sr. director of national CHR promotion.

SOUND NIBBLE: Los Angeles-based rap group Boo-Yaa T.R.I.B.E. has dropped "Rumours of a Dead man," their debut single for Hollywood Basic. The single's bonus tracks include a cover of the George Clinton/P-Funk's "Knee Deep (All Up In That P-Funk)" featuring guest vocals by Rick James and the harmonic rap "We Used To Be Homies." Boo Yaa's album is due out in early 1993. The group recently performed a set at New York City's CBGB's as part of Lollapalooza '92.

VID BIZ

By John Goff

Nesmith Live

PACIFIC ARTS VIDEO'S GOT A BIG

week with three vid releases hitting the streets starting the 13th, two singles and a series. Nesmith Live was filmed in June of this year at the 30th Anniversary of the Britt Festivals in Jacksonville, Oregon and stars PAV founder Michael Nesmith who teamed up with Dolby labs to make this the first music video to be recorded and mixed in Dolby Surround Sound. Nesmith's country rock sound is showcased with some of his oldies ("Some of Shelly's Blues," "Papa Gene's Blues" and "Joanne") and some new from his upcoming Tropical Campfires album ("Yellow Butterfly," "Laugh Kills Lonesome"). Band members include Red Rhodes on pedal steel; Louis Conte, percussion; John Jorgensen, guitar; Joe Chemay, bass and John Hobbs on keyboard...The Seventeenth Annual Telluride Bluegrass Festival looks to be interesting on a couple levels, visually and musically. The Colorado Rockies' vistas and sky blue-forever skies are the easy viewing backdrops for music made by James Taylor, Mary Chapin Carpenter, Sam Bush, Shawn Colvin and The Left Handed String Band among others. It's a PAV release of a production of Telluride Bluegrass Festival, Inc./The Music Link Corp...So much for soaring sounds. You can come back to Earth with release of the PBS Home Video series Millennium: Tribal Wisdom and the Modern World, a 10-hour drama and documentary series housed in five VHS cassettes.

FIRST RUN FEATURES out of New York is being repped on the stands with a trio of vids...The Oscar-winning (Best Feature Length Documentary, 1992) In The Shadow Of The Stars, a top-notch doc look at chorus members of the San Francisco Opera Company, their dreams, aspirations and private lives backstage, onstage and at home. It's probably even more interesting on the home screen than it was in theatres since, at times, it brings an intimacy (when the performers speak of their private lives and personal dreams) which is more like a chat across chairs than something discussed over the back of a theatre seat. It also breaks down the proscenium of Opera and allows an audience who would view this genre as something they could never understand, would never put out the money for, to break that wall and find equal footing with an area of entertainment they might never have gotten acquainted with otherwise...The Mozart Brothers is a comedy out of Sweden about an opera director with a bizarre, erotic, vision for a production of Don Giovanni not compatible with that of the orchestra and performers. Subtitled, it also puts opera on a humanistic footing and makes it fun and enjoyable...A Jumpin' Night In The Garden Of Eden ain't what you think, pally. It's a look at Klezmer music, Jewish music which dates back to the Middle Ages. Jewish Jazz, it features some old timers; Leon Schwartz and Dave Tarras who themselves date back to the turn of the century remembering their early days of making Klezmer music before radio and amplification, passing tunes down from ear to ear. Highly interesting.

ALSO HITTING THE STALLS are a Paul Glabicki animation tape from Facets which features four hand-drawn films by the artist: Diagram Film, Five Improvisations, Film-Wipe-Film and Object Conversation. 54 minutes. Not rated...The Alarm: Blaze Of Glory, Academy Broadcasting Production out of Strand Home Video, 13 tunes from the rockers in concert at The Brixton Academy. A straightforward—no pyrotechnics, no SFX, no constant cuts to the beat—look at the band making music. Refreshing...Another October Octave in the video vallies to look for is The Return Of Spinal Tap, feature-length video of the Albert Hall concert which climaxed their '92 Break Like The Wind tour. From MPI Home Video features members David St. Hubbins, Nigel Tufnel, Derek Smalls, Rick Shrimpton and C.J. Vansion.

Singles Sells Seattle

By Milt Petty

"WE TOLD THE BANDS THAT WE WANTED THEIR BEST SONGS EVER," says music supervisor Danny Bramson of his latest project, the Epic Soundtrax soundtrack for the film Singles. "And after much cajoling, that's exactly what we got. What is unusual, almost unheard of, is that 11 of the 13 tracks were written expressly for the film."

The acts Bramson got the best from include Paul Westerberg, who scored the film and whose "Dyslexic Heart" is at the musical heart of the Warner Bros. release, which is set to open September 18. It is also Westerberg's "Waiting For Somebody" that plays over the main title.

Also included on the Singles soundtrack are nine other tracks by the creme of the Seattle rock scene, artists lighting up the pop and alternative charts these days. Singles includes original songs by Pearl Jam, Alice In Chains and Soundgarden; solo acoustic work from Soundgarden's Chris Cornell, The Screaming Trees, Mudhoney and the now defunct Mother Love Bone; the Lovemongers (a side project of Heart principles Ann and Nancy Wilson) doing Led Zep's "Battle of Evermore"; and a track by one-time Seattle resident Jimi Hendrix, "May This Be Love." One track by Chicago's Smashing Pumpkins only sounds like it should have been written in Seattle.

Yes, as I'm sure you noticed, Nirvana is not represented and is conspicuous in its absence.

"We had spoken with Nirvana management about a pre-Geffen song we liked, but we chose to go with all-original music," says Bramson. "Ultimately, it seemed their tune was out of character for the film. This is not a Seattle sampler, anyway. We weren't trying to make this the best of Seattle. And we were sensitive to the issue of being accused of trying to capitalize on Nirvana's success."

Even so, Soundgarden and Alice In Chains perform in the film, and members of Pearl Jam have small roles as actors. Because Singles was a couple of years in the making, most of the bands included on the soundtrack album were chosen for inclusion prior to their current commercial success.

All told, there are 34 different songs in Singles, 21 that are not on the hot-selling soundtrack album, including tunes by The Cult, Sly and the Family Stone, Muddy Waters, Jane's Addiction, The Pixies, John Coltrane and R.E.M.

Bramson had taken time off to regroup from his twentysomething music business experiences when he was contacted during a New York City stay by Howard Koch Jr. and Ray Stark to produce the music for director Garry Marshall's Nothing In Common. He jumped at the chance, finding the opportunity to immerse himself in the creative process without the attendant business concerns very attractive.

As founder and president of Backstreet/MCA Records—earlier he had been a veep for MCA Concerts—Bramson had overseen the label's soundtrack recordings for Cat People, The Border, Where The Buffalo Roam, Dr. Detroit and Nighthawks. With Nothing In Common a new career was born.

"When I get involved with a movie, I like to be associated with everything concerning the music for the film other than writing the music and playing the instruments," Bramson suggests. "It is perhaps a little more than some other people with the title of music supervisor attempt to do."

Set in and around Seattle's burgeoning music scene, Singles director/writer and rainy city resident Cameron Crowe tracks the restless hearts of six twentysomething friends who all live in the same apartment house and share a common courtyard.

The physical backdrop of the Seattle Sound (a trite, but increasingly accurate designation for the phenomenon), the clubs and concert halls, is the setting for much of the story. Character Cliff (Matt Dillon) is a musician, and several of the other characters are big music fans. Their lives and personalities are defined by their favorite bands. Music is used as a dramatic theme and figures prominently. As such, the movie plays almost like an album. The dozen key characters are like 10 or 12 tracks that fit together like a whole, a concept album on celluloid. Singles also stars Bridget Fonda, Kyra Sedgwick (Born On The Fourth Of July), Campbell Scott (Dying Young), comedic actress Sheila Kelly and newcomer Jim True.

Bramson had previously worked with Crowe on Say Anything. He also served as music supervisor for Sean Penn's recent directorial debut, Indian Runner, as well as for Tequila Sunrise and Bull Durham. "The luxury with Singles," Bramson remarks, "is that I have a close relationship with Cameron, whom I've known since his days as a young music journalist. We think similarly about the role music should have in a film."

Judging from the track record on their two projects together, look for the pair to work on a third where they share offices on the Sony lot in Culver City.

Bramson is about to set sail as supervisor for Mike Myers' new project, I Married An Axe Murderer, which he is doing with Don Jenner and Columbia. The film will feature performances by Chris Whitley and Sun Sixty.

"Shaping the music for film allows me to work with many talented people in both the film and music business," summarizes Bramson. "It allows me to utilize the things I've learned as both a fan/consumer and as someone with experience in music as a business."

Clark Sisters Headline Choir Competition

By Tim A. Smith

WORLD RENOWNED RECORDING ARTISTS, The Clark Sisters, served as hostesses, spokespersons and special guest performers at the 3rd Annual Thorn Apple Valley Premium Meats "Something To Sing About" Gospel Choir Competition.

ARTIST SPOTLIGHT

The event was held at Detroit's prestigious Orchestra Hall, home to the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Thorn Apple Valley, a large corporation joining the ranks of other large firms in involving themselves with gospel music, donated all proceeds from the celebration to the Detroit area Agency on Aging's Meals On Wheels program. The "Queen of Soul," Aretha Franklin, who was spotted among the many gospel enthusiasts and participant supporters present, was also in the spirit of giving, donating $1,000 to the agency.

Regarding the competition, eight church and community choirs were granted the opportunity to perform before a panel of judges, with the chance to claim their share of more than $15,000 in cash and prizes.

The judges, who were representatives from the gospel music industry, included Armen Boladian, president, Sound Of Gospel Records; Brenda Wilson, executive director of GIM Production and the daughter of the late R&B star, Jackie Wilson; Tim A. Smith, Cash Box Magazine; Michael Brooks, songwriter/producer; and Rev. James P. Garrett, TV-48.

Taking home the grand prize of $5,000 in cash and $1,000 in Thorn Apple Valley premium meats was the Eastlake Baptist Church Choir of Detroit.

"We are excited to see more of the talent that thrives within the Detroit gospel community," explained an exuberant Joel Dorfman, president of Thorn Apple Valley, Inc. "Thorn Apple Valley's objective is to structure the celebration to meet the growing needs of the gospel community." He concludes, "Thorn Apple Valley is firmly committed to the enrichment of the gospel community. We are proud to be a part of an event that celebrates the rich tradition of gospel music."

PETRA PERFORMS IN MEXICO—Grammy Award-winning Petra recently performed at the prestigious Auditorio Nacional, one of the largest theatres in the world, which is located in Mexico City, Mexico. The concert was a benefit for Love Ministries, an organization designed to feed, shelter and educate homeless children in Mexico. Throughout the concert fans raised their fists in exclamation and excitement and sang along to the music of these Christian music veterans. Fans joined in on the song "Ready, Willing And Able," and continued to sing the choruses to the songs as Petra played hit after hit from their storied career. Petra also received a plaque commemorating their commitment to the children of Mexico City through their donation of time and talent to benefit Love Ministries. In addition, Petra debuted the song "I Love The Lord" in Spanish from their Petra En Alabanza recording to be released this fall. Petra continues to reach thousands of hearts as their ministry touches audiences around the world.

Songs of Praise

■ URBAN HOPE: The Right Message...The Right Time (Integrity Music)

What do you get when you join together a group of hip pastors from various inner cities, who can also sing? You get Urban Hope. This unique group has taken the idiom of praise and worship music to a higher dimension. They've done this by taking this music genre, normally associated suburbia, to the streets of the inner city by adding some hard-hitting urban grooves that won't quit. Helping them out on this endeavor are such talents as Kirk Whalum, Abraham Laboriel, Justo Almarino, Rose Stone and Howard McCrary, among others.

■ ROB FRAZIER: Retrospect (Urgent)

Rob Frazier

This compilation disc combines eight previously released cuts with three new ones to give fans a package of musical direction and style. Retrospect features Christian soft-rock at its finest, combining Frazier's clear, melodic vocals with a message that communicates through the elements of music. "Heartland," "Train Up A Child" and "Doesn't Anybody Pray In This Town Anymore," are just a few of the many hits featured on this project. Frazier, a former Petra member, has undoubtedly found his niche in the Christian music arena.

■ REV. ERNEST DAVIS, JR.'S WILMINGTON-CHESTER MASS CHOIR: Stand Still Until His Will Is Clear (AIR)

This is this aggregation's first recording since the death of their founder and leader, Rev. Ernest Davis, Jr. He would be doubly proud to hear the recording his choir has delivered. Along with their patented mixture of high-powered, up-tempoed material and soul-stirring songs at a slower pace, is a sterling performance from noted guest vocalist Leatrice Campbell on the project's opening cut, "Stand Still Until His Will Is Clear."

Dayspring/Epic recording artists Rachel Rachel recently completed their second album project due out in February. The group will be kicking off a 50-city tour across the country this month. Pictured in the studio are (l-r): (Back) band member Heli Sterner; senior director of A&R/Epic Records, Kenny Komisar; band members Brynn Beltran and Jennifer Sparks; (front) producer Billy Smiley and lead singer Cheryl Jewel.

The Chosen Few

By Gregory S. Cooper

NINE OF THE MOST TALENTED YOUNG CHRISTIAN MEN, hail from the Deep South. Under the direction of God, the group's name comes from St. Matthew: 20:16, "So the last shall be first, and the first last; for many shall be called, but 'Few Chosen'."

Vocalists George Allen Hicks, Emmett Moffett, Keith Springfield, Marcus Harris, drummer Tommy Bookings, bassist Lee Powells, and keyboardist Kenneth Kelly are all based in the Dallas/Ft. Worth Metroplex area. Mitchell Fielder and Kenneth Mitchell both serve as sound engineers for the group.

While the group has enjoyed limited travel and celebrity status around the Dallas/Ft. Worth Metroplex areas, they have also toured and traveled to other states including Mississippi, Kansas, Oklahoma, Alabama, California, Tennessee, and even Louisiana. Since having been formed in January 1989, they have also had the privilege of appearing with such stars as The Winans, The Clark Sisters, Fred Hammond and Sandra Crouch. Their style has been compared to that of Commissioned. The group is currently in the studio working on a demo that will in some way catapult their career into the national arena.

The Chosen Few appear at conventions, on benefit shows, in musicals, graduation ceremonies, weddings, recreational events, as well as special events. I first had the good fortune to hear this group at the Bobby Jones Youth Gospel Explosion during one of the day sessions. Those boys literally turned the show out! It took quite some time to restore the house to order. Let me go just a step further to say that "turning the house out" is not to be taken for granted when everybody in the house is a singer. Everybody in the building had come with the anticipation of being seen by Dr. Jones' 30 million viewers. You can be sure that we will definitely be hearing from this new group in the future!

LAWRENCE & OTHERS AID HURRICANE VICTIMS—Atlantic recording artist Tracy Lawrence organized a Music City relief drive for Florida and Louisiana victims of Hurricane Andrew. After securing two semi-truck trailers full of donations made by Nashville residents, Tracy sent one to Florida and personally presented the second to Red Cross officials in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. In addition, Lawrence will shoot a video for the song "Give The Fans A Hand" which he wrote with Hank Cochran and Kenny Beard. Appearing on the video, with production donated by Jim Owens Productions, are Marty Stuart, Billy Ray Cyrus, Ralph Emery, Katie Haus, and others. Proceeds from the song and video will go to the Red Cross for Hurricane Andrew victims.

Also, The Marshall Tucker Band has incorporated already scheduled dates in the Louisiana and Florida areas with hurricane relief efforts as part of a "Whirlwind Hurricane Relief Tour." They are asking fans to donate to a relief fund established in their name with AmeriCares to help fund transportation expenses in airlifting disaster relief aid to South Florida. Donations should be sent to The Marshall Tucker Band Hurricane Relief Fund, c/o AmeriCares, 161 Cherry St., New Canaan, Connecticut 06840, or pledge donations by calling 1-800-486-HELP.

RECORDINGS & RELEASES—With the release of his latest single, "We Shall Be Free," Garth Brooks dispelled some unfounded rumors floating around about his being prejudiced. The single, penned by Brooks and songwriter Stephanie Davis, was inspired by the recent L.A. riots. As for retirement, a recent press release stated "Brooks has no plans to cancel the existing 1992 dates on the books, and plans for a European tour are in the works for 1993..."

Liberty/SBK recording artist Billy Dean and longtime songwriting partner Verlon Thompson have written the theme song "Up On The Mesa" for the forthcoming animated adventure series Wild West C.O.W.—Boys Of Moo Mesa, with Dean performing the theme...

Karen Brooks & Randy Sharp, a new duo on the Mercury label, will debut their "Baby I'm The One" single via a dance club contest. Sound familiar? The one catch is the song contains a rap segment which contestants will perform improvisationally for the grand prize of a trip for two to attend the Mercury Nashville CMA Awards party. Aristo-Media is coordinating the promotion at the club level, supplying 31 major markets with the video. Clubs are also competing for prizes based on the creativity of their promotion...

Sammy Kershaw is turning his "Cadillac Style" into video style with the release of a his first-ever home video profile. The real treat of the 25-minute, behind-the-scenes footage is the story behind the mysterious saddlebags which have become a constant accessory to his western wardrobe. The video has also compiled his former video releases for the singles "Cadillac Style," "Don't Go Near The Water," and "Yard Sale."

Vince Gill: I Still Believe In You Already Producing Hits

By Brad Hogue

VINCE GILL has become accustomed to success in the field of country music. His first two MCA albums have achieved platinum sales status, and he has been awarded two Grammys, four CMAs, and three TNN/Music City News awards, honoring not only his smooth tenor vocals, but also his musicianship and songwriting skills including best instrumentalist, best song, best single, and best male vocalist.

An Oklahoma native, Gill grew up playing bluegrass music. In high school, he played with the Mountain Smoke Band, where he opened for the pop group Pure Prairie League, best known for their hit single "Amie." He later joined the band after stints with the Bluegrass Alliance, a progressive bluegrass group whose members included Sam Bush and Dan Crary, and Sundance, another bluegrass group led by fiddler Byron Berline. Gill recorded three albums with Pure Prairie League and helped put them back on the charts with his lead vocal on "Let Me Love You Tonight." He left Pure Prairie League in 1984 to join Rodney Crowell's band, the Cherry Bombs. Soon after, he was signed to RCA Records by former Cherry Bomb piano player, Tony Brown. Gill moved to Nashville, but before he could make any records, Brown moved to MCA. At RCA, Gill's efforts were produced by another member of Crowell's band, bassist Emory Gordon, Jr. Three albums on RCA yielded several Top 10 singles but no career breakers. In 1989 he moved to MCA Records, where he was finally able to make a record with Tony Brown.

When I Call Your Name gave Gill the opportunity to explore the full range of his talents from dance hall swing to contemporary pop. "Never Alone" was the first single release from the album, and it climbed to the Top 20. Next came "Oklahoma Swing" with Reba McEntire, which made it to the Top 10. Another duet,

"When I Call Your Name," which featured labelmate Patty Loveless on harmonies climbed all the way to #1 in the summer of 1990 and won a CMA award for "Single Of The Year" and "Song Of The Year." In 1991 it won a Grammy for Best Country Vocal Performance. Also in 1991, Gill was inducted into the Grand Ole Opry, and the CMA tapped him to co-host the 1992 awards show with Reba McEntire. With so much territory covered, Gill's next MCA album, Pocket Full Of Gold catered to a more clearly defined style of country and reached platinum sales status. It also yielded four hit singles including the #1 smash, "Take Your Memory With You."

Gill's latest MCA album, I Still Believe In You is already hot on the trail of his last two efforts as the single "I Still Believe In You" has just hit #1 on the Cash Box Top 100 Country Singles Chart. Gill explains that many of the songs on his current project represent a break in traditional country in that they were not inspired by his own personal life.

He says, "I find the songs get too one-dimensional and personal. People don't want to hear just about me when I write songs. They want to have lyrics that pertain to how they feel and what goes on in their life."

In an earlier interview with Cash Box, he explained another break in tradition concerning the new sound of country music. "What I did with Pure Prairie League was considered rock and roll then, but country music has changed a lot since then. I think what we have now is a whole new age bracket of listeners that have really tried to find a place to go on the radio dial. That's kind of a natural progression in that the kids that were 20 when I was 20 are now 35 years old or so and settled down a bit. It's a natural progression that a lot of the music of that era had a lot more country influence than a lot of people wanted to give it credit for."

OUT OF THE BOX

■ CLINTON GREGORY "Who Needs It" (Step One SOR-444)

Producer: Ray Pennington

Writers: B. Mason/J. Mehaffey

Album: Freeborn Man

A truly beautiful song, "Who Needs It" pumps some fine vocals through the player. But even better, Gregory puts a hunk of heart in each note leaving you to wonder if there was any music in it anyway.

FEATURE PICKS

■ SAMMY KERSHAW "Anywhere But Here" (Mercury 749)

Producers: Buddy Cannon/Norro Wilson

Writers: Buddy Cannon/John Scott Sherrill/Bob DiPeiro

Album: Don't Go Near The Water

Dubbed country music's live-wire, Kershaw shows off plenty of that styling in this upbeat ditty. A simple song yes, but Kershaw adds an appealing country flavor.

■ MARK CHESNUTT "Bubba Shot The Jukebox" (MCA 54471)

Producer: Mark Wright

Writer: Dennis Lunde

Album: Longnecks And Short Stories

It ain't "The Night The Lights Went Out In Georgia," but this murder-mystery is a likable story flanked by pulsing beats and striking fiddle. The story is short, catchy, and luckily sung by a great, and often overlooked vocalist. After a couple of listens, it actually gets addictive.

ALBUMS

■ Alabama American Pride (RCA 66044-4)

There is little to expect from Alabama besides the obvious...great music. American Pride, the band's 15th album, showcases nothing less. American Pride continues the tradition of homespun love stories, as in the tender "Between The Two Of Them," and places a special emphasis on nostalgia for country, a good woman and great music. The boys have even crafted a song entitled "Richard Petty Fans" which details the life of the car racer. Fort Payne-isms remain strong in cuts such as "You Can't Take The Country Out Of Me," "Hometown Honeymoon," and the title cut. As for the characteristic harmonies "I'm In A Hurry (And I Don't Know Why)" packs a mouthful.

New For '92 Gaining Recognition

By Brad Hogue

ON MAY 2, CASH BOX presented a look at some of the up and coming acts of 1992. In this issue, we'd like to put the spotlight on a select four of those acts who are quickly making a home for themselves in the field of country music. They are: Confederate Railroad, Dixiana, Matthews Wright & King, and Martina McBride.

Confederate Railroad

Confederate Railroad took the dues-paying route to country music success, touring for 10 years on the Southern rock/outlaw-country scene, with various members of the band stinting with the likes of David Allen Coe, Johnny Paycheck, Jackson Browne, The Doobie Brothers, Johnny Rodriguez, and Lynyrd Skynyrd before being signed by Atlantic Records' Rick Blackburn. The band's current single, "Jesus And Mama" holds a bulleted #18 on the Cash Box Top 100 Country Singles Chart. They are currently on a nationwide club tour with Matthews, Wright, and King.

Texas providing the backdrop for most recent dates. Closer to home, Memphis is the site for the video of their next single release, "Queen Of Memphis." For the guys traveling the rails of the Confederate Railroad, the destination has been worth the ride.

Dixiana is another group with which we are becoming more familiar. After pushing demo tapes for over six years, the four-man band saw a new opportunity when they invited female vocalist Cindy Murphy to join them for an appearance on Nashville Now, which eventually led to the current line-up and a record deal. Their debut single, "Waitin' For The Deal To Go Down," climbed all the way to #12, with their current single, "That's What I'm Working On Tonight" peaking at #30 on the Cash Box Top 100 Country Singles Chart. They are following-up with the next single, "I Know Where There's One," from their self-titled Epic debut. Adding to their current biography, Dixiana can now include tour work with Billy Ray Cyrus. They are currently on tour in the Northeast.

Matthews Wright & King is a trio situation showcasing triple-part harmonies strengthened by over 15 years of active participation in traditional country, bluegrass and gospel music. Individually, MWK can list work with Holly Dunn, Ricky Van Shelton, Vince Gill, and The Judds to their credit before coming together as a trio. Their current single, "Mother's Eyes" holds a bulleted #34 position on this week's Top 100 Country Singles Chart. They are presently touring with country superstar Reba McEntire, and will make their New York city concert debut at Radio City Music Hall in October.

Martina McBride is a familiar face to country music fans everywhere, as she is currently on tour with Garth Brooks, performing in front of sellout crowds everywhere. Hailing from the Kansas heartland, this 25-year-old beauty caught RCA's attention by sending them a demo tape with "Requested Material" written across the top. Since then she has done tapings for both Nashville Now and Talk Of The Town, and her current single, "That's Me" stands at #38 on the Top 100. On October 3 & 4, she will perform at KFAN Radio's "Country In The City" at Golden Gate Park in San Francisco beside the likes of Billy Ray Cyrus, Hal Ketchum, Tracy Lawrence, and other country music stars.

INDIE INSIGHT

INDIE CHART ACTION—Jerry Lee Lewis leads the independent chart movers this week with a six-point gain. "Forever Forgiving," a straight country single from the Memphis boy's collaboration with Eddie Bond on American Image Records. At #48, Lewis edges out last week's top indie candidate, Daryle Singletary.

As for the most moves this week on the Top 100, Mel McQuain jumped 11 notches to #75 with last week's debut, "You'll Do But You Won't Do Right." A 10-point conversion positioned Frank James at #78 with another week-old song entitled "Meanwhile Back At The Ranch," and Keith Bradford scored a nine-slot move to #62 with "A Tribute To Kitty Wells."

INDIE FEATURE PICKS

■ KEVIN CHARLES with Debra Dugger "Eleven Roses" (Stargem)
Producers: Steve Chandler/Kevin Charles Fuhs
Writers: D. McCall/L. Morris
Album: Tracks

A song dripping with romance, "Eleven Roses" is complemented by the vocal pairing of Kevin Charles and Debra Dugger. For other songs by this name, Charles has just released the Stargem album, Tracks.

■ WOOD BROTHERS "Alcohol Of Fame" (K-Tel)
Producer: Glen Duncan
Writers: Fagen/Williams
Album: Wood Brothers

If the Wood Brothers were looking for a song to fit their happy-go-lucky personality, then "Alcohol Of Fame" does the trick. Call it fun and a good ice-breaker for the ex-Opryland regulars. Nashville may have already known them, now radio will get a good look at them as well.

COIN MACHINE

AROUND THE ROUTE

By Camille Compasio

LETHAL ENFORCERS, the new 2-player video game from Konami, has been the talk of the trade since those terrific test reports began circulating. Official unveiling of this new piece will take place at AMOA Expo '92 in Nashville.

THE BIG 50! Next year, Chicago-based World Wide Distributors will celebrate its 50th anniversary in coinbiz! Prexy Fred Skor, meanwhile, has chalked up 43 years in this industry! Double felicitations! What is it they say about coinbiz getting into your blood!?

GETTIN' WITH "SMART"! This past June, former Jaleco exec (and coinbiz vet) Larry Berke joined Smart Industries of Des Moines, Iowa, in the position of vice president-marketing. Larry is based in the Chicago area, with offices at 820 Davis St., Evanston, IL 60204. The phone number is 708-864-3018. Smart's product line includes shoot to win basketball games for adults and youngsters; along with skill ball; cranes of all sizes and the rotary jackpot 4-player. When I spoke with Larry, he concentrated mainly on the factory's current selling Big Bertha and Buddy Bear redemption pieces but did not reveal what might be in store for AMOA Expo '92! We'll just have to wait and see.

ATTENTION JUKEBOX OPS. Sky Records of Norcross, Georgia has a new single out that is geared for jukebox programming. Title is "Red"; artist is Jarboe (lead singer with Swans). To secure promo copies or additional info contact Sky Records, 6400 Atlantic Blvd., Suite 220, Norcross, GA 30071 or phone 404-263-7888.

IT'S ALMOST READY! We've all been hearing about the CD juke designed by Atlas Dist.'s Ed Pellegrini; and we are all familiar with his track record. So, this latest creation is something to look forward to. It will be called The Regatta; it will be marketed under the Chicago-based Kim-Britt logo; and is targeted for production by January of 1993. Watch for it!

ALSO BE ON THE LOOKOUT for a couple of new titles for the SNK "NEO-GEO" system; namely, World Hero and The Art Of Fighting, which distribs viewed recently at a factory showing.

LEGEND AWARD WINNERS. A couple of weeks back Cash Box printed the list of nominees for this year's AMOA Jukebox, Games and Cigarette Vending Promotion awards. Winners will be announced at the annual Awards Banquet during Expo in Nashville. However, AMOA did release the winners of the Jukebox Legend Awards—and they are Bob Seger (living award) and Hank Williams, Sr. (deceased award).

Atari Hosts Nat'l. Distrib Mtg. In Chicago

CHICAGO—Atari Games, celebrating its 20th year of producing some of the industry's most successful video games, presented two more outstanding machines on Wednesday, September 2, at the Westin Hotel O'Hare in suburban Chicago. Occasion was the factory's first pre-AMOA national distributor gathering and the network was very well represented from throughout the U.S. and Canada. The products revealed were Space Lords, an interactive space warfare game housed in a commanding two-screen cabinet for one to four players; and the revised Moto Frenzy mini deluxe machine which was initially introduced at the Atari meeting in France. Both were enthusiastically received by attending distribs. Among Atari team members on hand were: Mike Taylor, vice president-sales; Mary Fujihara, director of marketing; Jerry Momoda, product manager; Jim Newlander, regional sales manager and Cris Drobny, from the engineering staff.

IFPA Standardizes Guides & Scoresheets

CHICAGO—The AMOA-International Flipper Pinball Association, under the direction of IFPA Rules Committee chairman Mike Jensen (Jim Stansfield Vending-LaCrosse, WI), has developed a system for association-wide standardization, which presents complete rules and scoring procedures for members to follow. The new system also allows the IFPA to evaluate and classify its league players. The new guides and scoresheets are now being supplied to the association's 50-plus charter operator members.

"This kind of standardization is the key to putting IFPA on the fast track to success," according to Jensen. He stressed that the program is easy to follow and represents a giant step forward for the association.

The IFPA 1992 fall league season will be centered in Minnesota and Wisconsin, but will include programs in Pennsylvania, North Carolina, South Carolina, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Texas, Arizona, California, Washington, Alaska, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado. In addition, such countries as England, Canada, Spain and Australia will also actively participate.

Association president Sharon Harris (Stan Harris & Co.-Philadelphia) is excited about the momentum IFPA has been gaining. "With the ongoing support of AMOA, the manufacturer sponsors and some really dedicated board and association volunteers, we expect to accomplish great things for pinball," she said. "We've made a lot of progress; now it's up to the operators to take advantage of it."

The AMOA-IFPA promotes league play for pinball in a fashion similar to that of darts, pool or bowling. Pinball league teams are made up of two players each, who compete once a week for approximately nine to twelve weeks, depending on the size of the league. Matches consist of participants playing six games, four with partners and two as singles. Game wins, individual wins, match wins, match high scores and beating a machine's replay level are all tracked and used to determine league standings. Individual composite pinball averages, or CPA's, which are personal skill ratings, are also generated from this information.

Further information regarding leagues and other specifics may be obtained by contacting AMOA-IFPA headquarters at 141 W. Vine St., Milwaukee, WI 53212 or phoning 414-263-0233.
